I. Introduction

1. The budget for the maintenance of the United Nations Organization Mission in the Democratic Republic of the Congo (MONUC) for the period from 1 July 2007 to 30 June 2008, set out in the report of the Secretary-General of 28 February 2007 (A/61/767 and Corr.1), amounted to $1,117,492,700 gross ($1,096,452,800 net). It provided for 760 military observers, 17,031 military contingents, 1,141 police personnel, including 750 in formed units, 1,121 international staff, 2,190 national staff and 604 United Nations Volunteers, including temporary positions.

2. On the basis of the recommendation of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions, in paragraph 40 of its related report (A/61/852/Add.11), the General Assembly, by its resolution 61/281, appropriated an amount of $1,112,739,500 gross ($1,091,750,400 net) for the maintenance of the Mission for 2007/08. The total amount has been assessed on Member States.

II. Mandate performance

A. Overall

3. The mandate of MONUC was established by the Security Council in its resolution 1291 (2000) and extended by the Council in subsequent resolutions. The mandate for the performance period was provided by the Council in its resolutions 1756 (2007) and 1794 (2007).

4. By its resolution 1756 (2007), the Security Council authorized the continuation of the deployment of MONUC of up to 17,030 military personnel, 760 military observers, 391 police trainers and 750 personnel of formed police units. By the same resolution, the Council decided that MONUC would have the mandate, within the limits of its capabilities and in its areas of deployment, to assist the Government of the Democratic Republic of the Congo in establishing a stable security environment in the country, in connection with the protection of civilians, humanitarian personnel and United Nations personnel and facilities, the territorial security of the Democratic Republic of the Congo, the disarmament and demobilization of foreign and Congolese armed groups, and security sector reform. In addition, by the same resolution, the Council decided that MONUC would also have the mandate, in close cooperation with the Congolese authorities, the United Nations country team and donors, to support the strengthening of democratic institutions and the rule of law in the Democratic Republic of the Congo.

5. The Mission is mandated to help the Security Council achieve an overall objective, namely, to maintain peace and security in the Democratic Republic of the Congo.

6. Within this overall objective, the Mission has, during the reporting period, contributed to a number of accomplishments by delivering related key outputs, shown in the frameworks below, for the peace and security, post-transitional political process, civil society and human rights, and support components.

7. The present report assesses actual performance against the planned results-based-budgeting frameworks set out in the 2007/08 budget. In particular, the report compares the actual indicators of achievement, that is, the extent to which actual progress has been made during the period against the expected accomplishments, with the planned indicators of achievement, and the actually completed outputs with the planned outputs.

B. Budget implementation

8. Following the conduct of national and provincial elections in 2006, the focus of the Mission during the 2007/08 period was placed on tasks related to the consolidation of transition processes nationwide. Conflict in North and South Kivu, however, remained a key challenge during this period of transition. Nevertheless, the joint Nairobi communiqué, which was signed in November 2007, and the subsequent Goma Conference, brought about a ceasefire agreement and an increase in political activity in the two provinces. Consequently, the Mission focused on advancing the peace process and stabilizing the eastern areas of the country. Those steps entailed an additional set of responsibilities for MONUC related to the implementation of the actes d'engagement and the Nairobi communiqué. At the operational level, there was the need for surge capacity of military personnel to put gradual pressure on armed groups in order to deter any challenges to the peace process; the need to create buffer zones for disengagement; the requirement to support operations led by the Armed Forces of the Democratic Republic of the Congo (FARDC) to disarm foreign combatants; and the need to respond to an increased demand for training and mentoring requirements of the national army. At the strategic level, it was necessary to streamline efforts, as well as available financial and operational resources, in order to ensure the implementation of the agreements. As part of the strategy to contribute to a stable environment in the east, the Mission led the launch in the early part of 2008 of the Security and Stabilization Support Strategy for the eastern provinces. This strategy reflects the Mission's attempts to capitalize on the gains achieved from the implementation of the peace processes by ensuring the convergence of integrated efforts by MONUC and other United Nations entities. These attempts included the orientation of the Mission's sections and activities and resources of United Nations agencies towards a common goal. The stabilization strategy required the establishment of additional coordination and implementation mechanisms, both internally and with national and provincial authorities, for which additional expertise was and will continue to be required.

9. In addition to the efforts to consolidate the peace agreement and extend security to the eastern provinces, the Mission intensified its efforts to ensure the protection of civilians under imminent threat of physical violence through improved coordination mechanisms and exchanges with humanitarian, national and other relevant actors on the ground.

10. Furthermore, the Mission was mandated to concentrate its efforts in supporting the post-transitional government in implementing reform initiatives, monitoring and advocacy for the drafting and adoption of essential legislation, promoting human rights and international humanitarian law, and assisting in the establishment of a State based on the rule of law. During the reporting period, progress was made with regard to the adoption of financial, political and decentralization laws ahead of local elections, although the organic law on the independent status of the National Independent Electoral Commission had not been finalized.

11. The Mission continued to monitor serious human rights violations. The continued high levels of impunity reflect challenges to the judicial and penal institutions. Lack of donor funding led to the sensitization of fewer Police nationale congolaise trainers and officers in the areas of human rights, gender awareness and child protection issues, and to the training of Police nationale congolaise trainers and officers in investigation, intelligence and judiciary techniques.

C. Regional mission cooperation

12. The Entebbe logistics hub continued to provide logistical support, including the use of its facilities, to the United Nations Mission in the Sudan (UNMIS) and the United Nations Integrated Office in Burundi (BINUB) as part of its designated function of serving other United Nations operations in the region. During the reporting period, the provision of support covered the conduct of regional meetings and training activities as well as urgent security-related operations and ongoing logistical support to the Office of the Special Envoy of the Secretary-General for the Lord's Resistance Army-affected areas.

D. Partnerships, country team coordination and mission integration

13. A major theme of integration during the reporting period related to coordination efforts between MONUC and United Nations agencies, funds and programmes to protect civilians. A protection cluster, co-chaired by MONUC and the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR), and with the participation of United Nations agencies, funds and programmes and international non-governmental organizations (NGOs), coordinated civilian protection activities, such as the establishment of safe corridors for the return of displaced populations and refugees, particularly in Katanga, and of secure areas for camps for internally displaced persons in North Kivu.

14. Strong donor coordination and the provision of support for peace, security sector reform and the consolidation of democratic processes were also some of the key strategies during the reporting period. The United Nations response is represented by the implementation of the country assistance framework, an innovative example of the forward integration between the United Nations system and virtually the entire multilateral and bilateral donor community. The aim of the country assistance framework is to help the Government shift from peacekeeping to peacebuilding and to deliver a peace dividend for its population. The Priority Action Plan, which was derived from the country assistance framework, outlines the main reforms the Government would need to undertake until the end of 2008 and those programmes and services which would need support from donors. With its benchmarks aligned with the Priority Action Plan, MONUC was able to ensure financing from external sources and full Government ownership and support for the Mission's top peacebuilding priorities.

E. Mission support initiatives

15. The support component continued to provide logistical, administrative and security support to the Mission, including the provision of transport, communications and information technology services, to military and civilian personnel in various locations of the Mission area. The increased support to operations in the eastern Democratic Republic of the Congo from air-based to surface- and water-based transportation modes continued to yield efficiencies in transport operations. Progress in providing efficient and effective support to the Mission was achieved through service improvements in the areas of vehicle fleet management and asset management.

F. Results-based-budgeting frameworks

Component 1: peace and security

16. The signing of the Actes d'engagement in January 2008 and their implementation changed the scope of the Mission's operations in the eastern Democratic Republic of the Congo, owing mainly to increased participation in joint operations with FARDC and increased patrolling in order to instil confidence in the local communities. However, the non-participation of the Congrès national pour la défense du peuple (CNDP) (North Kivu) and, at times, the Forces républicaines et fédéralistes (South Kivu), were constraints to the implementation of the Amani programme. Moreover, the actions of CNDP in and around Goma in October and November 2007 jeopardized the implementation of the agreement and threatened the stability of the country. Efforts on the diplomatic, political and military fronts were pursued by the Mission to ensure a return to a more stable situation. The planned increase in voluntary repatriations of foreign armed combatants was not achieved owing to the increased instability in the eastern Democratic Republic of the Congo. However, over 1,000 foreign combatants, mostly elements of the Forces démocratiques de libération du Rwanda (FDLR), were repatriated during the reporting period. In addition, limited progress was made in the national disarmament, demobilization and repatriation programme owing to the lack of donor funding.

Component 2: post-transitional political process

17. During the reporting period, the organic law on the independent status of the National Independent Electoral Commission was not adopted by the Parliament. Owing to the postponement of the local elections, municipal and community counsellors were not elected and installed as planned. Consequently, indicators related to monitoring human rights abuses during local elections and to the participation of women were not measured. However, the Government achieved progress with regard to the adoption of financial laws, political laws and decentralization laws ahead of the local elections. Further progress was made towards the adoption of the organic law on the reorganization and reform of the Police nationale congolaise, and towards the normalization of relations between the Democratic Republic of the Congo and neighbouring States. In addition, the adoption of laws on the status of the political opposition and the financing of political parties, as well as of several laws pertaining to the decentralization process and the judicial architecture, have strengthened the credibility of the Parliament as a viable democratic institution. Although the President and the Government participated in the Goma and Nairobi processes, progress in the implementation of the processes had been slow, and sporadic incidents of hostilities in the Kivus remained a source of concern.

Component 3: civil society and human rights

18. During the reporting period, the Mission achieved increased international access to insecure/inaccessible areas through verification missions. Targets were also achieved for the number of joint (Government, United Nations agencies, NGOs) protection committees supporting the protection of vulnerable populations, including victims of sexual violence, internally displaced persons, refugees and returnees. However, the fragile security condition in the eastern Democratic Republic of the Congo resulted in delays in the return of Congolese refugees and an increase in the number of internally displaced persons. With regard to respect for human rights in the Democratic Republic of the Congo, the joint OHCHR/MONUC Human Rights Office continued to monitor serious human rights violations and to exert efforts to facilitate a positive change in the human rights situation. The continued high levels of impunity reflected weaknesses in the judicial and penal institutions. A number of prosecutions of soldiers and low-level officials were completed during the reporting period. While progress on the structural changes required to improve the human rights situations was limited, some progress was made in the adoption of human rights legislation, including the laws on the Superior Council of the Judiciary (Conseil Supérieur de la Magistrature) and legislation on the protection of people with HIV/AIDS, while the law on the establishment of the National Human Rights Commission was passed by the Senate but was pending adoption by the National Assembly at its next parliamentary session.

Component 4: support

19. During the reporting period, the primary focus under the support component was placed on the optimization of the management of available resources. Support was provided to an average strength of 719 military observers, 16,650 military contingent personnel, 283 United Nations police officers and 747 police personnel in formed units, particularly their movement for security assignments in various locations in the Mission area, the transport and supply of rations and the provision of medical services. In addition, administrative, logistical and security support was provided to an average civilian establishment of 929 international staff, 2,083 national staff and 562 United Nations Volunteers, including temporary staff. The increased support to operations in the eastern Democratic Republic of the Congo through the expanded use of ground- and water-based transport modes, in lieu of air transport, contributed to the provision of more effective and efficient logistical support to the substantive operations of the Mission. The support component provided the full range of support services, including HIV/AIDS awareness training to 539 military observers, 2,066 military contingents, 300 United Nations police personnel, 51 international staff, 19 national staff and 25 individual contractors.

^a Relates to $4,153,400 from Fondation Hironnelle, comprising provisions for travel, facilities and infrastructure, ground transportation, communications and miscellaneous supplies and services, in support of MONUC radio broadcasting services.

B. Monthly expenditure pattern

20. Higher expenditures in July 2007 and February 2008 were attributable primarily to obligations raised for reimbursements to troop-contributing countries for costs related to troops/formed police, contingent-owned equipment and self-sustainment.

IV. Analysis of variances¹

| | Variance | |
|---------------------------|-----------------|------|
| Military observers | $1 291.9 | 2.9% |

21. The unutilized balance was attributable primarily to the lower average deployment of 719 military observers, compared with the budgeted deployment of 737 military observers, and to the lower average rotation cost of $4,397 per person, compared with the budgeted cost of $4,820 per person.

| | Variance | |
|-----------------------------|-----------------|------|
| Military contingents | $503.0 | 0.1% |

22. The unspent balance resulted primarily from reduced requirements under: (a) contingent-owned equipment, owing to the higher levels of unserviceability of contingent-owned equipment and variances between the provisions of signed memorandums of understanding and actual equipment deployed in the Mission area; (b) travel on emplacement, rotation and repatriation, owing to the postponement of the rotation of one contingent, the use of long-term, instead of short-term, charter contracts and the combination of rotation flights, whenever feasible; and (c) death and disability compensation, owing to fewer such claims. The unutilized balance was offset in part by additional requirements under: (a) rations, resulting from the increase in the cost of rations from the budgeted ceiling man rate of $5.70 to $7.80 per person-day and from the budgeted transportation man rate of $1.75 to $2.28, from increased freight costs and from the less favourable exchange rate between the United States dollar and the euro; and (b) standard troop cost reimbursements, owing to the higher average deployment of 16,650 military contingent personnel compared with the budgeted deployment of 16,520 personnel.

| | Variance | |
|------------------------------|-----------------|-------|
| United Nations police | $3 999.6 | 19.2% |

23. The unutilized balance was attributable primarily to reduced requirements for mission subsistence allowances, resulting from the lower average deployment of 283 United Nations police officers, compared with the budgeted deployment of 352 police officers, as well as the extension of the tour of duty of 155 police officers, for which the payment of the after 30-day rate of the allowance was applicable.

| | Variance | |
|----------------------------|-----------------|------|
| International staff | $2 240.8 | 1.5% |

24. The unspent balance was attributable primarily to reduced requirements for salaries and mission subsistence allowances, owing to the average vacancy rate of 18 per cent, compared with the budgeted vacancy factor of 17 per cent, and the high turnover of staff, owing to the departure of 78 staff during the reporting period. The unutilized balance was offset in part by additional requirements under common staff costs, resulting from the higher costs of airfare for travel on appointment, family visits, home leave and repatriation and additional requirements for hazardous duty station allowances, resulting from the increase in the monthly rate from $1,000 to $1,300 per person-month effective 1 January 2007 and the inclusion of the provinces of Bas-Congo and Equateur as hazardous duty stations with effect from 16 May 2007.

| | Variance | |
|-----------------------|-----------------|---------|
| National staff | ($6 712.7) | (20.5%) |

25. The variance was attributable primarily to additional requirements for national salaries and common staff costs, resulting from: (a) a comprehensive grade-level review of a total of 2,110 national posts (48 National Officer and 2,062 national General Service posts) to align the grade level of posts with their corresponding functions; (b) the conversion of 249 national staff from 300-series to 100-series appointments; (c) the lower vacancy rate of 4 per cent, compared with the budgeted rate of 10 per cent, for national General Service staff; and (d) the recording of salaries under this heading for national staff on posts funded under general temporary assistance. In addition, the variance resulted from additional requirements for hazardous duty station allowances, owing to: (a) the increase in the rate from $8.33 to $10.44 per person-day effective 1 October 2006 (after the finalization of the 2007/08 budget), for which payments were based on actual work requirements; (b) the lower vacancy rate of 4 per cent, compared with the budgeted rate of 10 per cent, for national General Service staff; and (c) the recording under this heading of hazardous duty station allowances related to national staff on posts funded under general temporary assistance.

| | Variance | |
|----------------------------------|-----------------|---------|
| United Nations Volunteers | ($4 461.7) | (20.8%) |

26. The additional requirements were attributable to: (a) the increase in the hazard pay rate from $400 to $520 per person-month; (b) changes in conditions of service, including the payment of accumulated leave upon the end of an assignment, the increase in the resettlement allowance from $100 to $150 per person-month and the reduced interval (from 36 to 24 months) for eligibility of volunteers without dependents for lump-sum entitlement for home leave; (c) the continued deployment of 28 temporary volunteers for the period from May to June 2008 in connection with preparations for the local elections; and (d) the lower average vacancy rate of 6 per cent, compared with the budgeted vacancy factor of 10 per cent.

| | Variance | |
|-------------------------------------|-----------------|---------|
| General temporary assistance | ($599.7) | (32.4%) |

27. The additional requirements were attributable mainly to the continued deployment of 7 temporary international staff and the conversion of 13 international contractual personnel to temporary positions for the period from January to 30 June 2008, in connection with the organization of and preparations for the conduct of local elections.

| | Variance | |
|--------------------|-----------------|----------|
| Consultants | ($536.5) | (169.1%) |

28. The variance resulted from additional requirements for: (a) 13 consultants to support the Congolese authorities in the planning and implementation of operations for the local elections; (b) a consultant to support MONUC in all aspects of the procurement process on fuel; and (c) a consultant for the grade-level review of national posts. The additional requirements were partly offset by reduced requirements for training consultants, owing to the cancellation of some planned training activities.

| | Variance | |
|------------------------|-----------------|---------|
| Official travel | ($3 867.7) | (93.1%) |

29. The variance resulted primarily from additional requirements for within-Mission travel for logistical, substantive and administrative support, in connection with the relocation of over 1,500 troops within the mission area, particularly within the Kivus.

| | Variance | |
|--------------------------------------|-----------------|------|
| Facilities and infrastructure | $4 884.3 | 5.3% |

30. The unutilized balance was attributable primarily to reduced requirements for: (a) reimbursements to contributing Governments for self-sustainment, owing to the lower actual levels of self-sustainment compared with the provisions of signed memorandums of understanding; (b) alteration and renovation services, resulting from the unavailability of external contractors for the rehabilitation of the airfields in Bunia and Bukavu; and (c) petrol, oil and lubricants, resulting from reduced reliance on generators in areas where the provision of public electricity was increased. The unspent balance was offset in part by: (a) additional requirements related to unplanned acquisitions of prefabricated facilities, owing to the redeployment of one battalion to the eastern region; and (b) additional requirements for security services, for which no provisions were made, resulting from higher costs of services in Kigoma and additional security guards in Bandudu, Bukavu, Lubumbashi and Kamina; and (c) reimbursements to military observers, United Nations police officers and United Nations Volunteers for residential security guards in connection with compliance with minimum operating residential security standards.

| | Variance | |
|------------------------------|-----------------|---------|
| Ground transportation | ($6 856.5) | (31.5%) |

31. The variance was attributable primarily to: (a) additional requirements for petrol, oil and lubricants, resulting from increased fuel usage (actual consumption of 11.5 million litres compared with the budgeted provision of 11.1 million litres) related to the higher number of patrols in the eastern part of the country, the increased reliance on ground transportation for the movement of cargo to the eastern region and the increase in the cost of fuel (from the budgeted rate of $1.02 per litre to the average cost of $1.30 per litre); and (b) additional requirements for the acquisition of vehicles, resulting from less favourable exchange rates between the United States dollar and the Japanese yen and the euro, the increase in freight charges and the settlement of outstanding charges related to the transfer of two heavy buses from the strategic deployment stocks from the 2005/06 period.

| | Variance | |
|---------------------------|-----------------|-------|
| Air transportation | $46 010.9 | 20.0% |

32. The unutilized balance was attributable primarily to reduced requirements for petrol, oil and lubricants, resulting from the lower number of hours flown by rotary and fixed-wing aircraft (actual 32,958 hours compared with 41,544 hours planned) and the decrease in the number of regional and interregional flights for the movement of cargo by air, owing to the increased reliance on surface transportation for the movement of cargo, which were offset in part by the increase in the cost of aviation fuel from the budgeted cost of $0.928 to the actual average cost of $1.004 per litre. In addition, the unspent balance resulted from reduced requirements for the rental and operation of helicopters, owing to the lower number of hours flown (actual of 16,480 hours compared with 20,104 hours planned), which was attributable to delays in the procurement process related to search-and-rescue helicopters and the unavailability of a police helicopter from contributing countries, for which no commercial alternative could be identified. Moreover, the unutilized balance resulted from the non-implementation of airfield services in Kindu, Bunia and Bukavu, owing to operational and technical constraints related to the fragile security situation in the eastern region of the country.

| | Variance | |
|-----------------------------|-----------------|-------|
| Naval transportation | $800.9 | 40.8% |

33. The unutilized balance was attributable to reduced requirements for petrol, oil and lubricants, resulting from: (a) the lower number of pushers/barges and speedboats for the period from August to November 2007, owing to the termination of contracts and to delays in contractual negotiations for replacement vessels; (b) the reduction in patrolling activities, resulting from an improvement in the security situation along the river and the deployment of troops to security and quick response tasks in Kinshasa; and (c) reduced reliance on the movement of cargo through inland waterways, resulting from the increased utilization of surface transportation. In addition, the unspent balance resulted from reduced requirements for rental and operation, owing to lower rental costs under the new contracts, and the reduced number of patrolling activities in Lake Kivu.

| | Variance | |
|-----------------------|-----------------|------|
| Communications | $718.2 | 2.2% |

34. The unutilized balance was attributable primarily to reduced requirements for public information services, resulting from: (a) the temporary suspension by the Government of services in six local television stations in Kinshasa; (b) the more stringent monitoring of the airing of television programmes, for which payments were made on the basis of actual time and duration of the programmes; and (c) the reduced level of outreach activities, owing to the outbreak of the Ebola virus, the fragile security situation in the Kivus and delays in the conduct of the local elections. In addition, the unspent balance was attributable to reduced requirements for communications support services, owing to the extension of the services of existing personnel, resulting in the longer duration of payment of the after 30-day rate of the mission subsistence allowance, the non-payment of mission subsistence allowances during the absence of personnel on leave and lower demobilization costs, owing to the extension of contracts of existing personnel.

| | Variance | |
|-------------------------------|-----------------|------|
| Information technology | $169.1 | 2.1% |

35. The unutilized balance was attributable primarily to reduced requirements for information technology support services, owing to the extension of the services of existing personnel, resulting in the longer duration of payment of the after 30-day rate of the mission subsistence allowance, the non-payment of mission subsistence allowance during the absence of personnel on leave and lower demobilization costs owing to the extension of contracts of existing personnel. The unspent amount was offset in part by additional requirements for the acquisition of equipment, resulting from the urgent requirement to replace CISCO switches, which were damaged beyond repair due to direct lightning strikes.

| | Variance | |
|----------------|-----------------|-------|
| Medical | $2 929.6 | 16.6% |

36. The unutilized balance was attributable primarily to: (a) the reduced usage of local medical facilities, owing to the increased reliance of military and civilian personnel on the higher number of MONUC medical facilities throughout the Mission area; (b) the non-completion of the contract for the level-IV clinic in Nairobi, owing to pending issues under discussion with the host Government; and (c) the non-receipt of invoices for medical services rendered by a military hospital in South Africa.

| | Variance | |
|--------------------------|-----------------|-------|
| Special equipment | $1 927.7 | 29.9% |

37. The unutilized balance resulted from reduced requirements for reimbursements to contributing countries for self-sustainment, resulting from the variance between the provisions in the signed memorandums of understanding and the actual levels of self-sustainment.

| | Variance | |
|-----------------------------------------------|-----------------|---------|
| Other supplies, services and equipment | ($1 305.2) | (10.7%) |

38. The variance was attributable mainly to additional requirements for other services, resulting from the employment of 466 individual contractors for functions of a continuing nature and pending the approval of their proposed conversion to national staff posts, and loss on exchange. The additional requirements were offset in part by reduced requirements for printing and reproduction services, owing to delays in the finalization of the contract for the printing of the MONUC magazine, which commenced in January 2008, the change in the frequency of the publication of the MONUC magazine from 12 to 6 issues, and the use of in-house printing services for some publications.

| | Variance | |
|------------------------------|-----------------|-------------|
| Quick-impact projects | $59.7 | 6.0% |

39. The unutilized balance was attributable to the non-utilization of funds, owing to the pending submission of requisite supporting documentation at the time of the closing of the accounts for the 2007/08 period.

V. Actions to be taken by the General Assembly

40. The actions to be taken by the General Assembly in connection with the financing of MONUC are:

(a) To decide on the treatment of the unencumbered balance of $41,250,700 with respect to the period from 1 July 2007 to 30 June 2008;

(b) To decide on the treatment of other income for the period ended 30 June 2008 amounting to $28,723,800 from interest income ($8,752,100), other/miscellaneous income ($1,181,100) and cancellation of prior-period obligations ($18,794,700), offset by prior-period adjustments ($4,100).
