In addition ACWW offers scholarships and courses in home economics, welfare and citizenship for leaders in rural communities. The following are examples of development projects which relate to selected Millennium Development Goals:

Goal 1: Eradicate extreme poverty and hunger - Target 1: Halve between 1990 and 2015 the proportion of people whose income is less than one dollar a day:

Ghana, West Africa, May 2004-February 2005 - a women's farming co-operative was funded to clear and prepare land, purchase seeds, materials and equipment for the production of crops and vegetables. Seven hundred subsistence farmers benefited from an increase in food supply, and a proportion was sold at market. The proceeds enabled their children to attend school and helped to develop the project further. ACWW funded 19 other similar projects in countries throughout sub-Saharan Africa, East Asia, South America, and the South Pacific.

Goal 6: Combat HIV/AIDS, Malaria and other diseases -

ACWW funded 12 projects on HIV/AIDS awareness, malaria and tuberculosis throughout sub-Saharan Africa. One example is funding the first phase (1 April to 30 November 2006) of a 3-year project in the United Republic of Tanzania training 85 girls made orphans through HIV/AIDS. An HIV/AIDS awareness programme was held to educate the girls who will then learn how to teach others in their peer groups.

Goal 7: Ensure environmental sustainability - Target 10, Halve by 2015 the proportion of people without sustainable access to safe drinking-water and sanitation:

ACWW funded the installation of 20 water tanks serving seven villages on the island of Tongatapu, Tonga, South Pacific. It ran one year between November 2004 and November 2005. Twenty other safe drinking water and sanitation systems were supported by ACWW throughout sub-Saharan Africa, South Asia, and the South Pacific.

All the above activities, and other projects, together with news from UN agencies are included in ACWW's quarterly magazine The Countrywoman.

3. Bangladesh Nari Progati Sangha

(Special, 1999)

Part I: Introduction

Bangladesh Nari Progati Sangha (BNPS) is an activist women organization established in 1986 by a group of committed women with a vision of establishing a society with equal rights for women, from family to state. It considers its role as a facilitator in social transformation in order to attain social justice, peace and development, free from all forms of discrimination and oppression based on gender, class, ethnic identity and religion. Its mission is: ensuring "equality through empowerment".

Level of Interventions: BNPS is working through its regular programs at three levels: grassroots, national and regional. Advocacy lobbying for policy and legal reform, policy research, documentation and publication are under the national and regional level. On the other hand, raising awareness, organizing and mobilizing people (particularly women), building a positive opinion for changing traditional mindsets, and access to resources and information, are at the local level.

Change at Physical Areas: BNPS works in the Chittagong, Sandwip, Netrakona, Dhaka, Jessore, Khulna and Mymensingh districts of Bangladesh. Due to lack of resources, it has closed down one office from Khulna in 2003. On the other hand, it has had an office at Barhatta, under district Netrokona since 2005 due to demand raised by the people there. BNPS also shifted its central office from House 255, road 19 (old), Dhanmondi, Dhaka, to House 52, Road 8A, Dhanmondi, Dhaka.

Part II: Contribution of the organization to the work of the United Nations

i. Participation in the work of the Economic and Social Council and its subsidiary bodies and/or major conferences and other United Nations meetings.

The Executive Director of BNPS as a member (who had served 5 years) attended, actively participated, and contributed in the 7th External Gender Consultative Group (EGCG) at a World Bank meeting and Millennium Development Goals Workshop, Washington DC, 15-22 November 2003. The Executive Director of BNPS participated in the United Nations organised International Conference on "Sustainable Safety: Municipalities at the Crossroad", Durban, South Africa, 22-30 November 2003 and also participated in "Jubilee South Asia/Pacific Conference on the Privatisation of Water and Power Services" in Bangkok, Thailand, 8-12 December 2003. She also attended the 49th and 50th Session of the Commission on the Status of Women meeting in New York, New York, 28 February – 11 March 2005 and 27 February – 10 March 2006 where she contributed an alternative report for Bangladesh and also attended 8 other workshops and planned meetings on globalisation. As a founder and core committee member of South Asian Alliance for Poverty Eradication (SAAPE), the Executive Director of BNPS attended a series of meetings in Pakistan, Sri Lanka, Bangladesh, Nepal, and India for formulating policy document and advocacy, lobbying with SAARC and its member countries for increasing finance and policy reform, formulation to eradicate poverty and at least to achieve the target set by Millennium Development Goal 12 in March 2005 and from 27 Feb - 10 March 2006. She also participated in the Partner-Consultation on “Water and Democracy” hosted by Church Development Service (Evangelischer Entwicklungsdienst - EED) and Church World Service (CWS) in Hyderabad, India, 4-7 October 2006 and participated in the Steering Committee Meeting on Water and Democracy on 18 November 2006. In addition, she participated in consultation meeting of CWS on the Water and Democracy Network in Hyderabad, India, 28 December 2006. Moreover she attended and contributed to the Coalition of Asian Women (CAW) Forum on “Women Workers in Areas of Armed Conflict and Under Politically Suppressive Regimes” in Bangkok Thailand, 27-24 November 2006. Aside from these events, BNPS was also involved in the World Social Forum since its beginning. The Executive Director of BNPS attended and participated its preparatory meetings for the World Social Forum in Brazil from 27 June-4 July 2004, and actively participated in the next two forums in Mumbai, India, 15-23 January 2004, and in Porto Alegre, Brazil, 26-31 January 2005. The Executive Director of BNPS presented a paper at the Regional Conference on “Development Effectiveness through Gender Mainstreaming Lessons Learnt from South Asia” in New Delhi, India, 10-12 May 2005, which was organised by United Nations Development Fund for Women (UNIFEM), International Fund for Agricultural Development (IFAD), and the International Development Research Centre (IDRC). She also presented a paper at a symposium on “Gender and Trade Liberalisation” in Hong Kong Special Administrative Region of China, 22-23 August 2005.

ii. Cooperation with United Nations bodies and/or specialized agencies in the field and/or at Headquarters.

The involvement of BNPS within the country and regional level is more than in the international level. The organization gives priority to its efforts to grassroots level within the country. Hence the representative of the organization cannot participate in all events. Moreover, due to scarcity of funds, the representative of BNPS cannot participate in all of the events, though the organization receives invitations regularly from the United Nations Geneva office.

iii. Initiatives undertaken by the organization in support of internationally agreed development goals, in particular, the Millennium Development Goals during the reporting period.

BNPS has implemented some regular programmes in Bangladesh and in South Asia which have contributed to achieve the Millennium Development Goals. The organization played an important role as Bangladesh’s focal organization in the South Asia Association for Poverty Eradication (SAAPE) to eradicate poverty. In its role as advocator and lobbyist of countries and governments, on the behalf of SAARC, the BNPS has addressed Millennium Development Goal 1. The organization conducted several studies on the quality of primary education in Bangladesh. The studies mentioned some gender and human rights related problems along with learning systems to advocate in its curriculum (Millennium Development Goal 2). BNPS conducted studies (starting from the year 2000) on the national budget in order to analyze the poor allocation for women, particularly on maternal health, women's livelihood, and women's education and thus advocate for increasing this allocation. BNPS also provided microfinance support along with training on financial management, entrepreneurship development, and market linkage development to 30,000 women directly (Millennium Development Goals 1 and 5). BNPS is actively involved with the consultation on water and democracy on the South Asia level (Millennium Development Goal 7). BNPS is also very much active in working against racial discrimination, particularly discrimination towards ethnic and religious minorities and dalits (untouchables). BNPS published 10 booklets, posters, leaflets, bulletins, folders on all of the above areas as awareness and advocacy materials.

BNPS also works towards the political empowerment of women through involving them in local government, which also increases their access to public resources. It also provided training to 500 local government elected members, including female members, in order to make them gender sensitive in 10 districts. Also, 40 (watchdog) local committees have been formed and trained in the public auditing of local government activities; half of the members of these committees are women. Around 400,000 people throughout the country have been provided with information and awareness training on gender and environment, which helped increase space for women in political activities, parties, income generating activities, and education. Among these people are: students, lawyers, teachers, folk artists, writers, cultural groups, and ethnic and religious minority groups.

4. Human Rights Information and Documentation Systems International (Special, 2003)

PART I. Introduction

Human Rights Information and Documentation Systems International (HURIDOCS), established in 1982, is a global network of organisations concerned with human rights. HURIDOCS itself does not collect information; rather, it functions as a decentralised network in which organisations can handle and exchange information according to their own requirements.

HURIDOCS facilitates human rights documentation work by:

- developing tools and techniques for human rights monitoring and information handling (such as formats for the recording and exchange of information on documents and on human rights violations).
- organising training courses and workshops on human rights information handling in co-operation with organisations involved in the network.
- providing advice and support on the establishment and maintenance of documentation centres and information systems.

HURIDOCS is an open-ended network where organisations can participate in various ways: Task Forces, training courses etc. HURIDOCS does not have a formal membership structure, but it has contacts with organisations in more than 150 countries. The main focus of HURIDOCS is to strengthen the information handling capacities of organisations in developing countries.

The objectives of HURIDOCS are:

- 1: To develop tools and techniques for monitoring, information management and communication; and to provide them to human rights organisations*
- 2: To build the capacity of the human rights community to master and adapt these tools and techniques to their specific needs through training and other activities*
- 3: To support human rights organisations to set up and strengthen their information systems*
- 4: To improve human rights advocacy and reporting techniques*
- 5: To expand human rights outreach and network capacity*
- 6: To provide a centre of excellence on methods and techniques for human rights monitoring, documentation handling and information management*

PART II. Contribution of the organisation to the work of the United Nations

1. Collaboration in training activities

HURIDOCS regularly collaborated with United Nations agencies in organising training activities in the field of human rights documentation.

a. Training Workshop on Techniques and Tools for Human Rights Information Handling and Documentation: Accra, Ghana, 13 – 16 December 2005

HURIDOCS, together with the Africa Unit, Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights, organised this bilingual English/French regional training course. It was hosted by the Legon Centre for International Affairs. The aim of the workshop was to bring the participants together in order to assess ways of elaborating a general template for recording and exchanging information related to Human Rights violations for transmission to the OHCHR Geneva in the framework of the database which will be created by the new consultant on the matter.

Eighteen participants attended the workshop representing several OHCHR Headquarters, field presences, offices or Human Rights components of Peace-keeping missions: Human Rights office in Burundi, Sub-regional Centre for Human Rights and Democracy in Central Africa, United Nations Operation in Côte d'Ivoire (ONUCI), Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights in the Democratic Republic of the Congo, The Human Rights Adviser in Togo, Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights in Uganda, United Nations Mission in Sierra Leone (UNAMIL), as well as representatives of human rights institutions and civil society organisations from the Democratic Republic of the Congo, Liberia, Togo and Uganda.

b. Training Course for Iraqi Librarians: Geneva, Switzerland, 27 November to 8 December 2006

HURIDOCS, the Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR) and the United Nations Mission in Iraq (UNAMI) organised a training course for Iraqi librarians. Its overall purpose was to train librarians working in legal and human rights libraries in Iraq on modern library management techniques. The training course constituted part of a larger project aiming to support the development and strengthening of an Iraqi led and owned national human rights protection system.

The fifteen participants for the course were selected by UNAMI HRO and the OHCHR. The primary beneficiaries are the librarians working in the library of the Iraqi Ministry of Human Rights, from which there were four participants. There were two participants from the Council of Representatives, while other participants came from six different University libraries.

c. Training course in Haiti

As part of the plan following the training course held in 2002, a training course was held in Haiti in August 2003. The course was supported by the United Nations Development Programme and involved the teaching of tools for documenting human rights violations. The main resource person was Jean Baptise Azolin of Haiti Solidarité Internationale who had taken part in HURIDOCS' Francophone trainers' training course held in Senegal in December 2002. The HURIDOCS Secretariat gave support and advice for this training course which was attended by 16 participants from six Haitian NGOs.

d. Training Courses in Uzbekistan

At the request of the United Nations Development Programme in Tashkent, two trainings took place in Uzbekistan. They were held in the framework of a project to implement recommendations made by Theo van Boven, the United Nations Special Rapporteur on Torture. From 28 to 30 September 2004, a training course for human rights activists and lawyers was held, with 22 participants. A second training for staff from the Ministry of the Interior and police officers responsible for investigations was held on 5 and 6 December 2004, with 15 participants. The programmes of both courses included sessions on monitoring, documentation (including an introduction to the HURIDOCS software) and writing reports related to human rights events.

2. Participation in United Nations events

HURIDOCS participated in the World Summit on the Information Society in Geneva, 10-12 December, 2003. HURIDOCS organised a Workshop with the theme Information Technology for Human Rights. HURIDOCS also participated in some of the meetings of the Commission on Human Rights and the Human Rights Council. In collaboration with several other Geneva-based NGOs, HURIDOCS presented its tools during lunch break sessions at the Commission on Human Rights as well as the Sub-commission on the Promotion and Protection of Human Rights.

3. Contacts with Geneva-based Bodies of the United Nations

HURIDOCS also had regular contacts with staff at the Geneva office of the Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR), and in particular with the National Institutions Unit, with whom it held deliberations about a project concerning the Development of a human rights information management database. HURIDOCS also provided inputs to a consultancy on this topic, and provided demonstrations of its tools to OHCHR staff. HURIDOCS also hosted different interns at the request of the OHCHR. HURIDOCS also had regular contacts with the Library/Documentation Centre of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR).

4. Application of UNESCO software

The INDEP/SERIAL databases for bibliographic documentation contain the Bibliographic Standard Formats of HURIDOCS. These databases are programmed in the CDS/ISIS for Windows software, which is being developed and distributed by UNESCO.

During 2004, INDEP/SERIAL was updated and modified so as to facilitate installation. In 2005, new features were added to the INDEP/SERIAL database system based, in part, on new developments in UNESCO's CDS/ISIS. The system was translated into French in preparation for training courses in Rwanda. In 2006, the Arabic version of the CDS-ISIS for Windows software and the HURIDOCS Bibliographic Standard Formats were used at the training course for librarians from Iraq and made available to the participants.

5. National Women's Council of Catalonia

(Special, 1999)

Introduction

The National Women's Council of Catalonia (CNDC from now on) is the participative and consultative body of the Catalan Institute for Women, bringing together the different organisations, associations, groups and councils for women in Catalonia in order to operate comprehensively regarding issues related to the Action Plan of the Catalan government (the Generalitat de Catalunya) in the area of women's policies in the political, economic, social and cultural sphere.

On the 28 December 2004, amendments were made to the CNDC's by-laws, making it more functional and operative, with the publication of a decree in which the Territorial Assemblies of Women of Catalonia were also created. Without altering its basic aims, the CNDC was therefore broadened, made more participative and wide-ranging, ensuring the diversity of the women's association movement in Catalonia is represented as thoroughly as possible, as well as encouraging decentralisation.

The CNDC also promotes the participation and association of women and encourages networking. It responds to queries regarding the goals of the Catalan government's Action Plan in the area of women's policies, assesses their degree of implementation and participates in evaluating the actions taken. It makes new proposals to the Catalan Institute for Women on issues affecting women's groups. It proposes activities, seminars and campaigns to be carried out in order to raise awareness of women's contribution to society and to promote changes so that the specific nature of women's participation in the political, social, cultural and economic spheres is recognised, aiming to achieve social advances in any aspect, from the point of view of women. It also proposes suitable procedures for being actively involved in those forums and debates whose aim is women's policies or are of particular interest to women. It issues reports on areas of interest to women and helps to raise awareness in society. It also monitors the increased involvement of women in government bodies and decision-making processes, both in the public and private sphere.

To date, a total of 279 NGOs form part of the CNDC, working for equal opportunities among men and women in all areas and to appraise and increase women's involvement in society. 25 of these NGOs are key organisations in the association network, as they are made up of other women's associations and groups with the same aims.
