2617 (XXIV). Study of the nature of the increases in the level of expenditure in the United Nations regular budgetThe General Assembly,*

Noting the concern expressed by some Member States regarding the expansion in the level of the United Nations budget,

Mindful of the need for intensified efforts to bring about the most economic and efficient utilization of the resources of the United Nations in the light of the normal expansion in the activities of the Organization,

Convinced that it is inappropriate to control growth in programmes through limitations on budgetary levels, particularly at a time when new areas eminently suited for international co-operation and action continue to emerge,

Conscious of the need to have a clear and objective picture of the various factors that have contributed to the expansion of the United Nations budget in the past,

Requests the Secretary-General to submit to the General Assembly at its twenty-fifth session an economic and financial analysis of the nature of the increase in the activities, staff and budget of the United Nations, clearly distinguishing between the increase in money terms and that in real terms, taking into account, to the extent possible, inter alia, the following factors:

(a) The reduction in the purchasing power of the amounts contributed by Member States to the regular budget of the United Nations as a result of a general rise in the cost of goods and services and the rise in the cost of living at the locations of principal United Nations offices;

(b) The correlation between:

(i) The rise in the contributions to the regular budgets of the United Nations and the specialized agencies as well as to international programmes within the United Nations system for promoting the economic development of the developing countries, and

(ii) The rise in the level of national budgets with particular reference to the rate of expansion of the national administrative establishments and the level and growth of the gross national product of States contributing more than 1 per cent of the regular budget of the United Nations;

(c) The growth in the traditional and the new fields of activity of the United Nations in carrying out its responsibilities in promoting international co-operation in the areas of economic and social development;

(d) The extent of the increase in the United Nations regular budget as a result of:

(i) The increase in the membership of the Organization;

(ii) The increase in the number of working languages;

(iii) The wider experience and higher qualifications of personnel now required by the Organization, particularly for its development work, because of the growing complexity and interdisciplinary character that the developmental problems have come to acquire.

2618 (XXIV). New construction and major alterations to existing premises at United Nations HeadquartersThe General Assembly,*

Recalling its resolution 2487 (XXIII) of 21 December 1968 entitled "Proposed new construction and major alterations to existing premises at United Nations Headquarters", in which it authorized the Secretary-General to proceed, at an estimated cost to the United Nations of $250,000 in 1969, with the preparation of detailed plans and specifications on which reliable cost estimates could be based,

Noting the subsequent report of the Secretary-General<sup>50</sup> and the report of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions<sup>51</sup> on proposed new construction and major alteration to existing premises at United Nations Headquarters,

Recognizing that there is currently an acute space shortage at Headquarters, as well as at many other major United Nations locations, and that the existing circumstances preclude any immediate relief except through new construction,

Convinced that the assistance of the host country is urgently needed to help resolve the considerable difficulties which exist for delegations and staff in New York in acquiring and retaining suitable and moderately priced office and residential accommodation in convenient locations,

Aware that many factors must be considered in determining the optimum locations at which additional construction should be undertaken, including the interrelationships between the organizational units of the United Nations, inflationary pressures, including cost-of-living factors, and the like,

Convinced also that all the possibilities of relocating units of the United Nations now or in the near future, in the context of the existing need to build at all
