Table of replies of Guinea to the 194 recommendations of the universal periodic review

No.	Position of Guinea
118.1	Accepted Guinea intends to continue strengthening human rights, including by signing and ratifying additional instruments for the protection of fundamental rights. In this connection, it plans very soon to ratify the Optional Protocol to the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights, the Optional Protocol to the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women and the Agreement on the Privileges and Immunities of the International Criminal Court.
118.2	Accepted See 118.1
118.3	Accepted See 118.1
118.4	Noted Guinea has observed a de facto moratorium on the death penalty since 2004, even though it remains permissible under current law. The observance of the moratorium demonstrates the Government's commitment to working towards the abolition of the death penalty. It should be noted that a proposal to repeal the death penalty has already been tabled as part of the ongoing reform of the Criminal Code.

118.13	Accepted See 118.1
118.14	Accepted See 118.1
118.15	Accepted See 118.1
118.16	Accepted See 118.1
118.17	Accepted See 118.1
118.18	Accepted The Ministry of Human Rights and Public Liberties is already in the process of establishing a national observatory on torture to be led by civil society. The recent dialogue between Guinea and the Committee against Torture, following a 25-year absence, is evidence of the Government's determination to continue combating these unacceptable and unjustifiable practices.
118.19	Accepted See 118.18
118.20	Accepted See 118.1
118.21	Accepted See 118.1
118.22	Accepted The Government is aware that the current law contains no mention of the concept of torture. However, the review of the Criminal Code addresses this concern by explicitly establishing all forms of torture as criminal offences, in keeping with the provisions of the Convention against Torture.

118.26	Accepted See 118.1
118.27	Accepted See 118.1
118.28	Accepted See 118.1
118.29	Accepted See 118.1 The Government intends to continue with the ratification process for the Optional Protocol to the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women. It should be noted that there are a number of forums for dialogue between the State and civil society organizations with a view to ensuring better coordination among the actors involved in protecting women's rights.
118.30	Accepted See 118.29
118.31	Accepted Guinea intends to sign the International Convention for the Protection of All Persons from Enforced Disappearance. Some provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, namely those on conditions of arrest and relevant safeguards, are already in line with the Convention.
118.32	Accepted See 118.31
118.33	Accepted Guinea ratified the Optional Protocol to the Convention on the Rights of the Child on the involvement of children in armed conflict on 10 December 2001. The ratification procedure will be completed in the coming months with the submission to the United Nations of the Government's binding declaration.

No.	Position of Guinea
118.36	Accepted Guinea ratified the Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court on 14 July 2003. The general obligation to cooperate, enshrined in Part 9 of the Rome Statute, has been met, as demonstrated by the many working trips made to Guinea by the Office of the Prosecutor of the International Criminal Court as part of the investigation into the events of 28 September 2009. The Government remains committed to doing everything in its power to shed light on the heinous crimes committed on that date.

118.45	Accepted The National Independent Human Rights Institution was established in the first quarter of 2015. The Government and its various technical and financial partners will provide it with all the support it needs to operate effectively. The Government will do its utmost to ensure that the Institution actually complies with the Paris Principles.

118.57	Accepted Guinea is aware of the need to strengthen its institutions in order to truly drive the promotion and protection of human rights through a viable and functional democratic system.
118.58	Accepted Guinea undertakes to revise and strengthen the national action plan on children's rights.
118.59	Accepted Promoting equality in education, health and employment for women and girls is one of the Government's priorities. In that connection, many programmes and projects have been launched by the Government, in cooperation with its technical and financial partners, to promote the school enrolment and retention of girls. The Government is nonetheless aware of the many challenges that remain to be tackled regarding the promotion of equality.

No.	Position of Guinea
118.60	Accepted Guinea acknowledges that it is experiencing difficulties in protecting and supporting victims and witnesses. However, it remains committed to setting up an effective and consistent mechanism to this end.
118.61	Accepted Guinea undertakes to continue designing programmes to strengthen the national human rights apparatus.
118.62	Accepted Guinea acknowledges that there are serious difficulties in launching the national reconciliation process. However, consultations on how to proceed have begun nationwide. The Government is committed to pursuing its efforts to ensure that the process comes to a successful conclusion.
118.63	Accepted See 118.58
118.64	Accepted The Government, with the support of its technical and financial partners, continues to work for the socioeconomic development of the country, with a particular focus on implementing its regional and international commitments regarding the promotion and protection of human rights.
118.65	Accepted Guinea is aware that it has fallen behind in its submission of reports to the treaty bodies. In order to address the issue, the Government set up an interministerial committee in April 2014 whose mandate is to draft the reports.

118.75	Accepted Since the emergence of Ebola haemorrhagic fever, Guinea has received the unconditional support of the international community. Guinea intends to pursue this collaboration in order to eradicate the disease in the subregion.
118.76	Accepted See 118.75
118.77	Accepted The emergence of Ebola haemorrhagic fever has slowed down efforts to foster growth. In response, the Government has adopted a post-Ebola economic recovery plan.
118.78	Accepted Guinea has, with the support of the United Nations Children’s Fund, launched a process to modernize the civil registry in order to facilitate and centralize free birth registration.

118.87	Accepted See 118.39
118.88	Noted Although it is an offence under the Criminal Code, this provision has never been applied. The rights of these individuals are therefore tacitly recognized. The Government should nonetheless ensure that they enjoy their rights and freedoms. Given the population's current attitude, the Government believes that opening a debate on this issue would make the situation much more hazardous for these persons. It is understood that it must do everything in its power to continue not only to protect them but also to decriminalize their life choices.
