Rule 15 of the rules of procedure of the functional commissions of the Economic and Social Council provides that, at the commencement of the first meeting of a regular session, the Commission shall elect, from among the representatives of its members, a Chairman and such other officers as may be required. In previous sessions, the Commission elected, in addition to a Chairman, four Vice-Chairmen, one of whom also served as Rapporteur.

In its resolution 1997/63, the Economic and Social Council decided on the following future arrangements for the election of the Bureau of the Commission in order to implement the provisions of paragraph 136 of the Programme for the Further Implementation of Agenda 21:

“(a) The Commission, immediately following the closure of a regular session, will hold the first meeting of its subsequent regular session for the sole purpose of electing the new chairman and other members of the bureau in accordance with rule 15 of the rules of procedure of the functional commissions of the Council;

“(c) The terms of office of the members of the Commission will begin immediately after the conclusion of work of the Commission’s regular session held after 1 January, following their election by the Council (at its resumed organizational session of the previous year) and will end at the conclusion of the regular session held after 1 January following the election of the States that are to succeed them as members of the Commission, unless they are re-elected.”

On 5 May 2000, the Commission elected, by acclamation, Bedrich Moldan (Czech Republic) as Chairman, and David Stuart (Australia), Alison Drayton (Guyana) and Matia Kiwanuka (Uganda) as Vice-Chairmen. It postponed to a later session the election of one Vice-Chairman and a Rapporteur.

At the beginning of the ninth session, the Commission may wish to elect the remaining Vice-Chairman from an Asian State, as well as a Rapporteur.

The membership of the Commission at its ninth session is contained in annex II.

2. Adoption of the agenda and other organizational matters

Rule 7 of the rules of procedure provides that the Commission shall, at the beginning of each session, adopt the agenda for the session on the basis of the provisional agenda.

5. Economic sector/major group: transport

In accordance with the multi-year programme of work for the Commission on Sustainable Development, 1998-2002, the General Assembly decided that the Commission, at its ninth session, in 2001, would consider the issue of transport.

In accordance with the Commission's multi-year programme of work for the period 2000-2002 and as reiterated by the Commission in its decision 8/8, an inter-sessional ad hoc working group convened from 6 to 9 March 2001 considered the theme "Transport" in conjunction with the theme "Atmosphere", prior to the Commission's consideration of the theme at its ninth session.

In connection with the above, the Bureau of the ninth session of the Commission, after consultations with delegations and major groups, decided to hold at that session a multi-stakeholder dialogue on sustainable energy and transport which would consider the following four topics:

- (a) Achieving equitable access to sustainable energy;
- (b) Sustainable choices for producing, distributing and consuming energy;
- (c) Public-private partnerships to achieve sustainable energy for transport;
- (d) Sustainable transport planning: choices and models for human settlement designs and vehicle alternatives.

The Bureau also agreed on the need to invite representatives from the five major groups to participate in the dialogue, namely: local authorities, scientific communities, non-governmental organizations, trade unions, and business and industry. Also attending the dialogue will be representatives of United Nations organizations, as well as other international institutions. The segment will be organized along the same lines as previous multi-stakeholder dialogue segments of the Commission. The Bureau further reiterated the importance of ensuring a geographical balance in major groups' delegations to the dialogue, in particular the need for effective participation of representatives from developing countries and countries with economies in transition.

The dialogue will be held on 16, 17 and 18 April 2001 (four meetings) (see annex I).

8. High-level meeting

In its resolution 47/191, the General Assembly recommended that the Commission adopt at its first session a multi-year thematic programme of work, including a high-level meeting, with ministerial participation, to have an integrated overview of the implementation of Agenda 21, to consider emerging policy issues and to provide necessary political impetus to the implementation of the decisions of the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development and the commitments contained therein.

At its first session, the Commission decided that, as a rule, its high-level meetings should last for a period of up to three days, and that they should be integral parts of the session of the Commission and of its decision-making process. The organization of work of the high-level meetings should provide, inter alia, for an open exchange of views among the participants and for holding informal meetings, as the need arose, to resolve outstanding issues relating to its work that required high-level consideration. The result of the meeting might be a concise document, should the participants deem that appropriate.

At its nineteenth special session, the General Assembly recommended that the Commission, based on the experience gained during the period 1993-1997 and under the guidance of the Economic and Social Council, make concerted efforts to attract the greater involvement in its work of ministers and high-level national policy makers responsible for specific economic and social sectors, who, in particular, were encouraged to participate in the annual high-level segment of the Commission, together with the ministers and policy makers responsible for environment and development; the high-level segments of the Commission should become more interactive, and should focus on the priority issues being considered at a particular session; and the Bureau of the Commission should conduct timely and open-ended consultations with a view to improving the organization of the work of the high-level segment (see Assembly resolution S-19/2, annex, para. 133 (a)).
