1. Brothers of Charity***

(Special consultative status granted in 1995)

1. AIMS AND PURPOSES OF THE BROTHERS OF CHARITY

In the 1999-2002 term, the Brothers of Charity have reflected on their mission and its compatibility with the vision and purpose of the United Nations. During a three day think tank seminar in June 2000 with key members and associates of the Brothers of Charity, UN documents in the areas of health policy, poverty reduction, and the Millennium Declaration of UN Secretary General Kofi Annan were compared to documents of the Brothers of Charity's. The conclusion was that there is an important common ground in the vision and purpose of both the UN and the Brothers of Charity. From its foundation in 1807 and all through its tradition and the most actual mission statement of the Brothers of Charity, there has been an emphasis on elevating the poor and those who are rejected in society, providing education, (re)habilitation and employment, and improve mental health - all goals that are congruent and highly compatible with the UN Millennium Development Goals (MDG). The mission has taken a diversity of forms with a preference for those whose human capacity has work areas have never been exclusive. Today, the action broadly includes education and care and accompaniment of persons in difficulty, among them today drug addicts, refugees, HIV positive individuals, street children, and others.

During the 2000 special think tank session, the following updated statement of the Brothers' international mission as an NGO was proposed: "The Brothers of Charity organization promotes and realizes a culture of caritas in all the environments in which the Brothers and Co-Workers function, with a preference for those who are wounded in their human capacity.

Thus, the Brothers of Charity NGO will continue to engage in dialogue with the United Nations, and at the local level with our governments and organizational stakeholders (ourselves, our consumers, our donors and our partners in the community) to reduce inequality and marginalization.

In the past four years, the Brothers have extended their activities to new areas: Côte d'Ivoire, the Ukraine, and Viet Nam. This brings the total number of countries in which the Brothers are active up to twenty seven. The Brothers of Charity are increasingly intensifying their network and internal idea sharing, including awareness raising concerning perspectives provided by the United Nations.

2. PARTICIPATION IN ECOSOC AND SUBSIDIARY BODIES, CONFERENCES, AND MEETINGS

The main representative of the Brothers of Charity continues to attend most Thursday morning NGO sessions to network with other NGO's with similar objectives as ours. She reports internally to the Board of the Brothers of Charity, where the strategies for human aid intervention a.o. are set.

We have had several meetings with the UN Social Affairs Officer, NGO Focal Point about how the Brothers can increase, intensify and make their collaboration with the UN more effective. In November 2001, the UN Social Affairs Office came to Belgium to address the International Congress of the Brothers of Charity to lend support to the Brothers' internal policy of awareness raising concerning UN-related issues.

3. COOPERATION WITH UN BODIES AND SPECIALIZED AGENCIES

In 2002, the Brothers of Charity opened a house in Washington, DC. One of the purposes of this house is to facilitate the collaboration with the United Nations. Since November 2002, several exploratory meetings were held with the director and staff of the United Nations Information Center (UNIC) in Washington, DC.

4. OTHER RELEVANT ACTIVITIES

(i) ACTION IN IMPLEMENTATION OF UNITED NATIONS RESOLUTIONS

Throughout this four-year period, the Brothers of Charity have used many opportunities to raise awareness within the organization of the UN's objectives and encouraged to collaborate with UN initiatives at local levels.

(ii) International Institute Canon Triest

In 1999, the Brothers of Charity founded the International Institute Canon Triest, an international teaching and research institute that includes pre-academic, academic, and post-academic training of professionals from developing countries to prepare for administrative, clinical, paramedical, and educational functions in services for individuals with disabilities, individuals with severe mental health problems, and other individuals who are challenged through society rejection and lack of proper treatment. The courses in the training include multicultural awareness raising, international leadership, perspectives on Human Rights and Rights of individuals with disabilities, and the Study of UN documents and UN-related documents.

(iii) International perspectives on preventing drug use

On May 2nd, 2002, the Brothers of Charity held an international meeting on drug addiction policies by NGOs in Rome, Italy. The one day meeting was attended by representants from NGO's such as the Mentor Foundation, Ceis, FICT, Gruppo Abele but also a governmental institute as the Landschaftsverband Westfalen Lippe.

A crucial part of the reflection was spent to the position of harm-reduction programmes. The former polarization of drug-free versus tolerance oriented projects is no longer relevant. The debate on reintegration or harm-reduction approach is more actual. The participants expressed their wish to merge these approaches.

(iv) Think tank:

In June 2000, the Brothers of Charity organized an international Think Tank meeting in Gent, Belgium to study similarities and possible conflicts between the mission of the Brothers of Charity and the UN.

(v) International Congress

In November 2001, the Brothers of Charity organized an international congress for leaders within their organization about international perspectives and the mission of the organization.

One congress day was specifically focused on the needs of today's world, the approach that the United Nations takes, and how the Brothers' perspective and the UN's are congruent. One of the featured presenters at the conference was Dr. Yao NGoran, YChief, NGO Unit, Division for Social Policy and Development. One of the outcomes of the conference was a heightened awareness throughout the organization of the UN's objectives and goals (especially the Millennium Declaration) and the intention to continue to work together with UN representatives both at a central and a local level.

As one of the organizations instrumental in launching and supporting the Nobel Laureates Campaign which led to the creation of the UNESCO Year for a Culture of Peace and UN Decade for a Culture of Peace and Nonviolence for the Children of the World (2001-2010), the IFOR continued to work closely with UNESCO during the period in question.

In particular, IFOR cooperated with UNESCO in developing ‘Root Causes of War / Culture of Peace’ as one of the major themes of the Hague Appeal for Peace Conference in the Hague in May 1999.

During the UNESCO Year and since, IFOR has circulated the UNESCO Manifesto 2000 for a Culture of Peace both among international NGOs and within its own worldwide network. IFOR branches and affiliates supported the UNESCO Year by highlighting the Culture of Peace at national and regional gatherings, through publicity campaigns and through the development of educational materials and training modules.

IFOR is proud to acknowledge that one of its members, Bishop Nelson Onono-Onweng, the founder of JYAK, the IFOR branch in Uganda, was awarded the UNESCO Prize for Peace Education in 2001. David Adams, the former director of the Culture of Peace program at UNESCO in Paris, was a guest speaker at the IFOR Council in New York in 2000.

4. OTHER RELEVANT ACTIVITIES

(i) Action in implementation of UN Resolutions

Following the official endorsement of the UN Decade for a Culture of Peace and Nonviolence for the Children of the World (2001 -201 O) by the General Assembly in December 1998, the IFOR has actively promoted the Decade on regional and national levels.

Internationally, IFOR launched the Peace Laureates Appeal in response to the September 11, 2001 terrorist attacks in the USA, calling for the implementation of the UN Decade as a response to terrorism. The Appeal was signed by 8 Nobel Peace Prize Laureates and received worldwide media attention. It was delivered to UN General Secretary Kofi Annan by Nobel Peace Prize Laureates and IFOR Members Mairead Maguire and Adolfo Perez Esquivel in New York on October 8, 2001.

Regionally, IFOR branches were instrumental in building an international coalition of national and international NGOs supporting the UN Decade. The International Coalition for the Decade, which was constituted in 2003, maintains an international secretariat in Paris and works closely with the UNESCO Culture of Peace program. One of the main goals of the Coalition in connection with the UN Decade is the development of peace education programs in schools worldwide.

(ii) Consultations and Cooperation with Officials of the UN Secretariat

Representatives of the IFOR in Geneva provided information to the Special Rapporteur on Violence against Women, and to the Special Rapporteur on Systematic Rape, Sexual Slavery and Slavery-like Practices in Armed Conflict, which was reflected in the follow-up report (E/CN.4/Sub.2/2000/20) to the Sub-Commission in 2000 and in the final report (E/CN.4/2003/75Add.1) to the Commission on Human Rights in 2003. Furthermore information on human rights violations in Somalia was provided to the Independent Expert on Somalia.

IFOR is a member of several NGO committees based in New York and Geneva, which maintain working relations with different UN offices and officials. Mention may be made in particular of the NGO Working Groups on Israel/Palestine and on Iraq in New York and the NGO Committee on the Freedom of Religion or Belief in Geneva.

These committees have played an important role in gathering and expressing NGO support for UN-related initiatives in these specific areas and in the preparation of a number of conferences such as the DPI/NGO Annual Conference and the UN International Conference of Civil Society in Support of the Palestinian People in New York. Important collaboration with the Special Rapporteur on the Freedom of Religion or Belief has been carried out by the NGO committee in Geneva. IFOR representatives were present at the above conferences and consultations.

(iv) Other Examples of Consultative and Substantive Activities

With the support of the IFOR Women Peacemakers Program, Jonathan Sisson, IFOR representative at the UN in Geneva, and Andrew Ward, an award winning Scottish artist, created an art installation on the women survivors of military sexual slavery by Japan during World War II, entitled "Lines of Violation" (LOV). The installation was first exhibited at The Hague Appeal for Peace conference in The Hague in 1999 and since has been exhibited at different venues throughout the world, including the UN World Conference on Racism in Durban in 2001.

It contributed significantly to the Millennium Forum and its work is linked to the Millennium development goals.

Correspondents in more than 100 countries contribute to its "Permanent Forum on Extreme Poverty in the World" network.

Since the last report, ATD Fourth World has intensified its action in Africa and the Indian Ocean (Burkina Faso, Central African Republic, Côte d'Ivoire, Kenya, Madagascar, Mauritius, Senegal, United Republic of Tanzania) and in Asia and the Pacific (Australia, Philippines, Thailand); its work continues in the Americas (Bolivia, Canada, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Peru, United States of America) and Europe (Belgium, France, Germany, Ireland, Italy, Netherlands, Poland, Portugal, Spain, Switzerland and the United Kingdom). It was a live, phone-in radio program aimed at sensitizing and enlightening the civil populace in Nigeria about their Constitutional Rights as enshrined in the Nigeria 1999 Constitution, “African Charter of Human and Peoples Rights” and “Universal Declaration of Human Rights”. The memorandum of peoples’ views and opinion on areas needing amendment, alteration and cancellation in the Nigeria 1999 Constitution had since Dec. 20, 2001 been submitted for Lawmakers’ consideration. The same program was sponsored by the World Bank between July and Sept. 2002 in order to treat some of the aspects untouched when the program was first sponsored. As a by-product of the above named project, the organization was able to facilitate the coming together of the entire Justices of the Peace in Oyo State in June 2001 under a United, single association. This became imperative in recognition of their important role in maintaining peace and order at all times to promote a virile, indivisible nationhood. In consequence of this, a day seminar tagged “The role of Justices of Peace in sustaining Nigerian Nascent Democracy” was organized in November 20, 2001. ## 7. Shimin Gaikou Centre (Citizens' Diplomatic Centre for the Rights of Indigenous Peoples)***

1. Brief Introductory Statement Recalling the Aims and Purposes of the Organization

Shimin Galkou Centre (Citizens' Diplomatic Centre for the Rights of Indigenous Peoples) is a human rights NGO that has been involved in the movements of protection and promotion of the indigenous peoples' rights since the establishment in 1982, observing the spirit of the United Nations Charter's principles on international cooperation, peace and human rights. The Centre had the honor of being given the special consultative status with the ECOSOC in 1999. This is the first quadrennial report of the Centre to the United Nations. To begin with, the Centre was strongly encouraged by receiving the consultative status because it was able to strengthen the activities to protect and promote human rights in the global context. In the past four years, the Centre's structure on decision-making and finance was virtually unchanged. The executive committee is the final decision-making body and determines basic policies including appointment, action plans and budget.

Although the membership is open to everyone beyond borders, the executive committee members are composed of Japanese citizens. This is mainly because the Centre never had any branch or affiliate in foreign countries. Nonetheless, the Centre has developed cooperation with other international NGOs and Indigenous People's Organizations all over the world. As of December 2002, there are over 400 individual members and there is no organizational member. The Centre does not ask members of their nationality in the membership form, so we do not have statistics on nationality. However, judging from their names, most members are Japanese nationals, although there are a small number of Korean and American (United States of America) members. The source of funding greatly depends on income from membership fees. Of the total budget, the membership fees account for 79% in 1999, 88% in 2000, 67% in 2001, and 72% in 2002. The executive committee evaluates the budget every year and concludes that the Centre has a solid financial grounding.

(i) Action in implementation of United Nations resolutions

Shimin Gaikou Centre has a program to financially support translation and/or publication of international human rights instruments in indigenous peoples' languages by the Indigenous People's Organizations. In 1999, the Centre supported Pgakenyau (Karen) Network for Culture and Environment in Chiang Mai, Thailand for the publication of a booklet of the United Nations Draft Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Populations in Karen language. In 2000, under the support of the Centre, the booklet whose title was Los Pueblos Indigenas en la Conferencia Mundial contra Racismo (in Spanish) was published in Mexico. The booklet was the report of a satellite conference held in Chile by the Indigenous Initiative for Peace and the Foundation of Rigoberta Menchu Tum. Furthermore, in 2001, through the Centre's support program, the leaflet which introduced and translated the Declaration on the Rights of Persons Belonging to National, Ethnic, Religious or Linguistic Minorities was published in Nairobi, Kenya (in Masai language), by the Indigenous Information Network, a NGO of indigenous Masai women.

The Network has played a key role on implementation of the international human rights conventions and education of human rights mechanism in the United Nations. In particular, in 2001, Durban 2001 Japan, another network of human rights NGOs for the World Conference against Racism, was established, and the Centre played an important role in coordinating the NGOs for the success of the Durban Conference.
