摘要

2012年夏天索马里过渡期结束,尽管脆弱而有缺陷,但是促成选举哈桑•谢赫•穆罕默德担任总统,并为该国出现新型领导人提供了机会。然而,真正结束过渡既需要领导个人的变化,也需要政府系统的变化。过去,他们曾侵吞公共物品,在安全部门划分领地,破坏了建国大业。过去几个主要当权者瓜分了资金流动和安全机构的控制权,而新总统继承的这个系统,他两者都不能控制。一方面竭力向摩加迪沙达政府乃至整个国家施加影响,另一方面他不得不建立应对机制,获得外部资金并安排政府内外的安全关系。这些处于联邦政府核心的限制,调整政府内部和周围乃至该国更广泛的影响网络,以及过去几个月发生的事件,特别是"朱巴兰"发生的事件,有可能破坏索马里联邦政府和该国当前的和平与和解进程。

在索马里更广大地区出现了一些破坏者网络。在索马里北部,随着海盗活动 普遍减少,一个由个人组成的网络,包括知名的海盗头目,正在为索马里水域未 经许可的渔船提供私营安保,并与武器走私和索马里东北部青年党网络有联系。 在贾穆杜格东部和中部地区,前摩加迪沙军阀Abdi Hassan Awale "Qeybdiid", 东山再起,窃取政治权力,煽动部落冲突,从而破坏索马里联邦政府,威胁"邦 特兰"北部地区的安全。在索马里南部,两个破坏者核心团体中一个与索马里联 邦政府对抗,一个支持政府。Sheikh Ahmed Mohamed Islam "Madobe"及其拉 斯坎博尼部队在肯尼亚的支持下已经在基斯马尤建立了自己的军事存在,对抗中 央政府,而一伙哈维耶族/哈巴尔吉迪尔艾尔部落军阀及其在 Barre Adan Shire "Hiiraale"达鲁德族/马雷汉网络的盟友则充当中央政府的代理人,但谋求自己的个人目的和部族意图。这两个破坏者组织都与青年党的利益相互交织。

随着海盗事件减少,有组织犯罪网络和个人正在使其经济利益多样化,进行 各种冒险活动,包括为参与区域贸易或捕捞活动的船只上船提供武装保护。尽管 海盗在海上也许受到遏制,但各种海盗网络仍然很活跃。由于长期缺乏严肃认真 的国家和国际努力,以对组织索马里海盗行为的负责者进行调查、起诉或惩罚, 其领导人、资助者、谈判者和协助者将继续逍遥法外。在这方面,特别令人关切 的是索马里联邦政府就拟订大赦政策而采取的步骤。

在索马里各地,冲突各方继续违反国际人道主义法和人权标准。全国各地军 事行动和游击战争给平民造成严重损害。2012年在摩加迪沙,约6680个平民因 武器而伤亡,许多伤亡是青年党设置的简易爆炸装置所致。人权和人道主义机构 收集的数据表明,亲政府部队的空袭以及海上和地面交战,也造成平民伤亡。同 时,性别暴力仍然是普遍现象。

到 2012 年 11 月,肯尼亚军队、谢赫•艾哈迈德•马多比及其拉斯坎博尼部 队单方面开始从基斯马尤出口木炭,公然违反安全理事会的禁令和索马里总统的 指示。此后,除了青年党控制的 Barawe 和其他较小港口的出口,每月从基斯马 尤大约出口 100 万袋木炭。总体而言,木炭出口与前几年相比增加了 140%。木炭 商业结构和贸易网络保持完好,青年党起了核心作用并继续从中大大获益。

由于进行调查,特别是影响索马里破坏者财路的调查,监察组的工作受到的 阻碍越来越多,包括对其指称来源的定点清除、威胁和恐吓。此外,随着索马里 在通往和平与和解的不稳固的道路前进,监察组查明的各种破坏者很可能破坏该 国的合法权力以及国际援助努力。为了更好地保护迄今取得的成果,监察组认为 应尽可能不拖延地指认这些违反安全理事会有关决议的个人,以采取定向措施。 为此,监察组对第 1844(2008)和第 1907(2009)号决议制定的制裁名单提出若干 新的补充项目。

一. 导言

A. 任务规定

1. 索马里和厄立特里亚问题监察组的任务规定载于 2012 年 7 月 25 日通过的安 全理事会第 2060 (2012) 号决议第 13 段。第 2093 (2013) 号决议为监察组指派了更 多的任务。

2. 根据第 2060 (2012) 号决议第 13 (1) 段,通过安全理事会关于索马里和厄立特 里亚的第 751 (1992) 号和第 1907 (2009) 号决议委员会,监察组于 2013 年 2 月 15 日向安全理事会提供一次中期通报。监察组还在整个任务期间向委员会提交每月 进度报告。

3. 进行调查期间,监察组成员访问了比利时、埃塞俄比亚、法国、希腊、意大利、荷兰、挪威、塞舌尔、索马里、南非、南苏丹、瑞士、瑞典、坦桑尼亚联合共和国、乌干达、阿拉伯联合酋长国、大不列颠及北爱尔兰联合王国、美利坚合众国、也门和赞比亚。在索马里、监察组成员能够多次访问摩加迪沙、加罗韦、博萨索、基斯马尤,但该国南部大部分地区仍然无法进入。

监察组设在内罗毕,由下列专家组成:吉拉特·乔普拉(协调员)、让尼娜·李·布鲁德奈尔(财务)、埃马纽埃尔·戴塞尔(武器)、奥雷利安·略尔卡(运输)、迪内希·马赫塔尼(财务)、约尔格·鲁夫托福特(海事)、巴巴通德·塔伊沃(武装团体)和克里斯特莱·优尼斯(人道主义)。

B. 方法

5. 监察组前几份报告中概述的证据标准和核查程序适用于本次审查的任务期间开展的工作。监察组根据其以前的报告(最近一份是 2012 年 7 月 13 日 S/2012/544 号文件)重申其方法。本报告采用的方法如下:

(a) 尽可能从多个来源收集关于事件和议题的信息;

(b) 尽可能从有关事件的第一手资料来源收集信息;

(c)确定信息模式是否一致,将已经了解的情况与新信息和新趋势进行比较;

(d) 在信息可信度和信息来源可靠性方面始终把监察组有关专家的专业知识和判断以及全组成员的集体评估意见考虑在内;

(e) 收集实物、照片、音像和(或)书面证据来证明收集到的信息。

6. 监察组做出审慎而系统的努力,接触参与违反行为者、直接了解或知道有谁 直接了解违反行为详情者。在某些情况下,监察组得以亲眼目睹违反行为。

7. 监察组约谈了掌握有关信息的各种提供消息者,包括政府官员及外交使团、 民间社会组织和援助机构的代表。监察组成员会晤了若干过渡联邦政府官员,包 括总统、总理、外交、财政和计划部长等官员,以及安全机构。监察组还与"邦 特兰"和"索马里兰"行政当局官员、其他政治和武装团体人员、叛逃者、工商 业界人士和索马里民间社会成员进行了会晤或沟通。

根据委员会的多次指导,监察组努力在最后报告中列入尽可能多的证词和证据。然而,根据关于文件管制和限制的大会决议,特别是第52/214号、第53/208号和第59/265号决议,不得不大量使用附件,使大量实质内容无法得到翻译。此外,规定还不准在主要报告中插入地图、照片和图表。

9. 依照 2007 年 2 月 12 日发布的题为"信息的敏感性、分类和处理"的秘书长 公报(ST/SGB/2007/6),监察组已随本报告向安全理事会索马里和厄立特里亚问 题委员会提交了几份绝密附件,其中的信息如披露,可能有损联合国的正常运作 或其工作人员或第三方的福祉和安全,或违反本组织的法律义务。这些附件将不 作为安全理事会的文件印发。

A. 青年圣战运动

10. 青年圣战运动(青年党)仍然是索马里和平与安全的主要威胁。在本报告所述 期间,该组织已声称对数百起暗杀和袭击负责。在这些暗杀和袭击中,使用了不 同类型的简易爆炸装置(人身携带、车载、自杀式车载、无线电控制的、以及受 害者操纵)、伏击、迫击炮射击和手榴弹,并采用打了就跑战术。青年党还持续 违反了对索马里的武器禁运和木炭出口禁令(见本报告附件 6 和 9)。

11. 青年党的行动所针对的目标是非索特派团部队、联合国工作人员和房舍、索 马里政府安全部门机构成员和索马里"邦特兰",也针对其他州实体,但程度较 小,同时还以索马里记者、长老、政治人物、法官、工商人士和民间社会活动分 子为打击对象。青年党的行动已造成数百名平民伤亡,其中包括妇女儿童以及外 国人。

12. 目前,青年党仍然控制着索马里南部和中部的大部分地区,其中包括整个中 朱巴州、希兰州大部分地区、拜州和巴科勒州、以及加尔古杜德面积相当大的地 区、下谢贝利州和中谢贝利州。多种因素可以解释青年党的韧性,包括一些主要 部族的长期支持,仍然能为工商业、畜牧业和农业生产提供一个稳定的环境,以 及成为向当地长老提出的可靠地替代仍被视为不稳定、暴力和腐败根源的地区军 阀或基于摩加迪沙机构的能力。

13. 监察组在对机密情报报告进行分析的基础上认为,青年党有大约 5 000 人的 部队,尽管据说受到财政限制以及失去了对索马里下朱巴州港口城市基斯马尤的控 制,但就其行动准备状态、指挥系统、纪律和通讯能力而言,其军事实力仍完好无 损。不过,尚不清楚其于 2012 年 2 月 9 日与基地组织合并对该组织来说是否只是 一种象征性影响,并未加强其专长和资源。虽然基地组织现领导人埃曼•扎瓦希里 在 2012 年 11 月 7 日的录音讲话和 2013 年 4 月 6 日的录像中,再一次表示支持青 年党在索马里的行动,该组织仍然基本上自给自足。特别是,监察组上一次报告所 述与阿拉伯半岛基地组织的联系更多是一种机构联系,而并非行动联系。<sup>2</sup>

14. 监察组还了解到,青年党已收集了大量武器弹药藏在武器库。这些武器弹药 按比例分布在整个索马里南部和中部,只等国际部队撤出后,就在多个阵线对索 马里联邦政府及与其结盟的民兵和州行政当局发动攻势。

15. 埃塞俄比亚国防军及其代理人从加尔古杜德州伯尔和巴科勒州的胡杜尔撤 出后,青年党分别于 2012 年 6 月 11 日和 2013 年 3 月 17 日占领了这两个镇。占 领表明,索马里联邦政府及其协同民兵在没有国际支持的情况下无力控制任何领 土,也说明青年党随时收复已丧失领土的能力。

16. 自 2010 年 8 月至 9 月 "斋月攻势"以来,青年党没有对非索特派团或索马 里政府军发动任何重大攻势,而且几乎系统地避免直接的军事对抗,即便是在基 斯马尤这样具有重要战略意义的城市。因此,青年党保护了其核心战斗力量和资 源,仅用其能力和人力的一部分来从事不对称战争。

17. 此外,内部的意见分歧并未影响到青年党在索马里开展行动的能力。分享权 力和资源方面的分歧总是会导致最高领导层的紧张关系,在最高级别的舒拉协商 会议加以处理。通过号召拿起武器,对非索特派团、联邦和州安全部队以及与其 结盟的民兵不断施加压力,并通过采用游击战式的技战术和程序,维持了该组织 内部广泛的统一意识。不过,仍不能排除青年党的军事结构溶入其部门派别这样 一种假设。

18. 在这一背景下,Ahmed Godane 对青年党的领导权大体上未受到挑战。据报告他已加强对被称为青年党"特工部门"的Amniyat 的直接控制。财政和技术资源越来越多地集中在Amniyat 手中,后者为 Godane 所重视,Godane 可能因在战略和目标上公开的意见分歧,似乎疏忽了军事机构及其领导人。Amniyat 大多通过自身的指挥系统、后勤网络和财政资源独立于青年党其他部分运作。因此,它有能力单独开展行动、收集情报并在索马里全境、特别是在非索特派团/索马里联邦政府控制区实施有效打击,甚至在青年党内都让人感到胆寒。

19. 不过, Godane在舒拉协商会议内正面临新一波的公开不满。2013年4月29日,在网上公布一项法特瓦决断,据称是由Mukhtar Robow、Hassan Dahir Aweys、

Ibrahim "Al-Afghani"、Zubair "Al-Muhajir"和Mo'alim Burhan煽动的,其 中谴责谋杀又称"Abu Mansour Al-Amriki"的Omar Hammami的企图,并宣布"如 果这是不服从真主的行为,就不会服从埃米尔"。<sup>3</sup>

20. 这些领导人中以 Robow 和 Aweys 为代表的一些领导人被视为青年党中民族主 义派系,但他们为维护"Al-Amriki"与 Godane 对抗,当今仍然是国际圣战运动 在索马里的主要公众人物。但是如果以二元法来解释青年党内的差异,就是分成 民族主义者和国际主义者,未免误导和过于简单化。青年党始终有一个主要的国 家侧重点,其内部情况相当复杂。

21. 监察组在其任务期限内,接触到有关青年党的广泛的一系列不同消息来源, 包括国际组织、非政府组织和私营部门行为体机密的每日情报报告、机密的分析 报告和机密的安保报告。特别是,监察组访谈了青年党叛逃者和在索马里的囚犯, 他们提供了关于该组织、其结构和运作方式的第一手证词。

22. 附件 1.1 载有两幅地图,介绍了 2012 年 8 月 30 日至 2013 年 5 月 6 日青年 党在索马里中部和南部的势力范围和控制区的演变,以及与青年党在索马里的活 动有关的安全事件细目。

23. 附件 1.2 概述了青年党结构的三个主要部分:第一是其政治机构、即舒拉协商会议;第二是其军事部分,该部分现处于守势,但仍值得注意;第三是其秘密的特工部门,即 Amniyat,该部分的行为越来越多地威胁到非索特派团和索马里政府安全部队、与其结盟的民兵和州行政当局控制区的和平、安全与稳定。

24. 附件 1.3 介绍了青年党的招募和训练能力。

25. 附件1.4评估了在青年党的外国战斗人员的现状以及青年党在各圣战组织中的公众形象与加入索马里青年党的外国战斗人员目前遭受孤立情况之间的矛盾。

26. 附件 1.5 载述了青年党的技战术和程序。

27. 附件 1.6 说明了青年党的宣传战略。

28. 附件 1.7 载列了青年党在"邦特兰"的存在和行动的案例研究,上述存在和行动构成对和平、安全与稳定的主要挑战。

B. 青年党作为区域和国际威胁

29. 自监察组 2012 年 7 月发表上一次报告 (S/2012/544), 以来, 以前称作穆斯林 青年中心的A1 Hi jra如同其盟友青年党一样, 也经历了重大挫折。A1 Hi jra的挫

30. 临近 2012 年年底, A1-Hi jra的困难变得更加明显, 而索马里青年党的派系 纷争状态以及作为A1-Hi jra已知的行动区的基斯马尤的丧失, 令问题更加严重。 不仅A1-Hi jra煽动和招募新战斗人员并将其派往索马里的能力遭到削弱, 在肯尼 亚境内代表和支持青年党推行已宣布的战争的行动能力也已下降。一名A1-Hi jra 战斗人员声称, 一些返回肯尼亚的战斗人员伙伴对青年党与A1 Hi jra驻索马里的 "埃米尔"艾哈迈德•伊曼•阿里之间缺乏有效的协调表示担忧。<sup>8</sup>

31. Al-Hi jra尽管遇到挫折,但像青年党一样正在努力成为无论是在索马里境内 和境外对和平与安全的可信的威胁。作为行动优先事项,它正加强其与坦桑尼亚 联合共和国的安萨尔穆斯林青年中心<sup>9</sup>的联系,这也是青年党更广泛的对外活动 的一部分。它还在与青年党的卢旺达和布隆迪附属组织建立强有力的后勤联系。<sup>10</sup>

32. 艾哈迈德·伊曼也是青年党的肯尼亚代表,其仍然存留的影响和领导作用在 肯尼亚全国各地激发了一波手榴弹和简易爆炸装置袭击活动,这些袭击主要针对

- <sup>6</sup> 对 Aboud Rogo 的参与程度一直不清楚,但此人似乎与被控于 2013 年 5 月 22 日砍杀一名英国 军人的联合王国国民 Michael Olumide Adebolajo 有联系。

35. 除了普姆瓦尼利雅得清真寺委员会作为传统的资金来源, Al-Hi jra似乎得益 于肯尼亚穆斯林中的"Makaburi"和其他主要捐助者越来越多的"善意的捐助", 以便代表青年党发动袭击。<sup>15</sup>此外, Al-Hi jra还从海外收到类似的财务援助。

36. 普姆瓦尼利雅得清真寺委员会尽管公开坚决否认为青年党供资或协助为其 招募,但继续将其通过Al-Hijra对青年党的支持视为一种宗教义务。<sup>16</sup> 2012 年 7 月 31 日,普姆瓦尼利雅得清真寺委员会的一名工作人员在从敦豪速递公司办公 室收取从中国发来的一个包裹后在内罗毕被捕。包裹里的物品是民用物品,包括 车钥匙警报器和激光测距仪,这些通常用作组装简易爆炸装置的部件。<sup>17</sup> 此类物

37. 此外,监察组了解到普姆瓦尼利雅得清真寺委员会与Al-Hijra驻内罗毕的 "埃米尔"Issa Mugai "Carragher"勾结起来,支持艾哈迈德•伊曼和青年党 从索马里派回肯尼亚从事暴力袭击的Al-Hijra战斗人员。"Carragher"是荷兰人 办的《非洲贫民窟报》在内罗毕的"记者",他向这些战斗人员提供物质支持, 由普姆瓦尼利雅得清真寺委员会提供财务援助。<sup>19</sup>

39. 对 Al-Hi jra 代表和支持青年党的活动的详细评估载于本报告附件 3.1(绝密)。

C. 索马里破坏者网络

40. 监察组查明了索马里北部、中部和南部的以及与索马里安全部门有联系的各破坏者网络。海盗、知名商人、军阀和政府官员之间的各种网络往往与青年党网络相互交织。这些破坏者的活动正在扰乱联邦政府领导人、州当局及其伙伴为使 索马里政府恢复运作和稳定所作的努力。

索马里北部

41. 随着海盗活动普遍减少,索马里北部的若干犯罪网络正在重新采用先前熟悉 的非法行为模式,包括渔业保护和非法捕捞、贩运武器、贩运人口,甚至是转运

毒品。正如监察组以前的报告多次指出,此类网络已渗入并扭曲了索马里北部的 政府机构,而且还作为自身的独特网络得到强化,而这继续受益于无政府状态和 战争经济,对索马里的和平与安全构成威胁。

42. 监察组已查明一个由个人组成的网络,包括已知的海盗头目,他们为在索马 里水域未经许可捕捞提供私人安保,并与武器走私和索马里东北部的青年党网络 有联系。这一整体网络主要是沿着两个单独、但相互关联的部族网络组织的,得 到在索马里"邦特兰"、"索马里兰"和一些海湾国家经营企业并与伊朗有联系的 知名商人网的协助。

43. 监察组所记录的案件表明,海盗业务网络回归到非法捕捞的犯罪活动,以便 为其他形式的违禁品、包括武器走私提供便利。对这一情况已经进行了报告。非 法捕捞网络与索马里东北部的青年党之间的部族联系为那里的青年党领导层提 供了机会,以便能源源不断地获得武器和爆炸物,特别是来自也门犯罪网络的武 器和爆炸物(见附件 3.1)。

索马里中部

44. 在恢复东中部州"贾穆杜格"的政治稳定与安全的借口下,摩加迪沙前军阀 Abdi Hassan Awale "Qeybdiid"又变得为人瞩目,他抢夺政治权力,煽动部落 冲突。此外,"贾穆杜格"越来越严重的动乱持续干扰摩加迪沙的索马里联邦政 府领导层,是对"邦特兰"和平与安全的潜在威胁。

45. "贾穆杜格"未能在两位竞争的主席之间达成一项政治解决办法,以及缺乏 有效的治理,导致部族民兵因非法检查站的征税等问题开战。在某些情况下,青 年党疑似成员利用了这些检查站,在索马里南部和北部转移期间经过这一地区 (见附件 3.2)。

索马里南部

46. 狭隘的部族和个人利益正干扰索马里联邦政府促成交战的派别和解、瓦解青 年党并在州行政当局中建立平衡的权力的计划。具体而言,索马里南部有两类核心 的破坏者,一类反对索马里联邦政府,另一类大体上与索马里联邦政府站在一边。 反对索马里联邦政府的主要破坏者是 Sheikh Ahmed Mohamed Islam "Madobe"。 与索马里联邦政府大体上站在一边的破坏者包括哈维耶人/Habar Gedir/Ayr 军 阀及其在 Barre Hiiraale 的达罗德人/马雷汉人网络中的盟友。这两组破坏者每 一组的利益都与青年党的利益交织在一起。

47. 自 2012 年 9 月下旬以来,索马里联邦政府在 Sheikh Ahmed Mohamed Islam "Madobe"的拉斯坎博尼部队那里遭遇到很大阻力,此人在肯尼亚的军事支持下协助将青年党从基斯马尤逐出,之后在该地区建立了自己的政治和军事存在。拉斯坎博尼拒绝编入索马里正式的安全部门,使索马里联邦政府正确地将拉斯坎博尼视为在国家宪法范围外开展行动的破坏者部落民兵,因此对和平与安全构成威胁。

48. 索马里南部的第二类破坏者正扰乱着索马里联邦政府领导层及其伙伴为扩 大政府的权力范围和稳定该国、尤其是在基斯马尤扩大权力范围和稳定局面而作 出的努力。这些破坏者包括前军阀和民兵领导人,他们得益于多年的无政府状态 和战争经济。为了个人或政治利益,一些人拉拢政府官员,或为政府官员所收买, 而其他人则似乎与青年党有联系。此外,这一破坏者网络成员还保留私人武器库 存,并对索马里联邦政府施加不正当的压力,以便在武器和后勤补给的分配方面 获得优惠待遇。该网络的其他成员还推行部族议程,反对在朱巴兰设立州行政当 局,并利用与青年党的联系支持在基斯马尤周围进行军事集结(见附件 3.3)。

49. 在索马里联邦政府与这些个人建立关系时,恰逢部分由卡塔尔主持的政府与 跟这一破坏者网络有关的伊斯兰党和青年党人员之间进行谈判。跟与伊斯兰党和 青年党等所列实体有关的行为体谈判,可能违反了安全理事会有关指认它们并禁 止向其提供支持的决定。此外,即便安全理事会广泛支持索马里联邦政府作为和 解方案的一部分拉拢和安抚前交战方,监察组仍然感到担心,这一前交战方特别 网络中的个别破坏者正利用与索马里联邦政府更为密切的关系平台来谋求狭隘 的个人利益,这似乎正导致对索马里南部地区的和平与安全造成威胁。

50. 另外,监察组已经获得了厄立特里亚支持这一破坏者网络的证据。厄立特里 亚已与主要的个人建立了直接关系,他们担任阿斯马拉的代理人,而不是支持索 马里联邦政府机构。厄立特里亚参与的最终影响是破坏政府的决策进程、扰乱凝 聚力、破坏索马里联邦政府的内外关系(见本报告附件 3.3 和监察组的厄立特里 亚报告(S/2013/ ))。

破坏者网络与索马里安全部队

51. 监察组从索马里政府及其安全部门的若干来源得到一致的情报,称政府官员 和前官员利用了青年党代理人。此外,监察组得到情报说,青年党网络已渗入索 马里国家情报和安全局(见附件 3.4)。

D. 海盗和绑架勒索

概览

52. 过去十年来,监察组广泛报告了索马里海盗行为。<sup>22</sup> 监察组概述了海盗行为 是如何从针对非法捕捞和倾倒有毒废物等活动勒索保护费的做法,发展成以谋财为 动力、以族系为基础的跨国有组织犯罪,从而对全球航运构成威胁。监察组描述了 使索马里成为海盗行为滋长的理想环境的各种因素,并指出索马里境内外利用这种

53. 今天看来,索马里海盗鼎盛时期可能已经过去。2012年,索马里海盗袭击得 逞的次数继续减少,登记在案的劫持事件有14起。<sup>25</sup> 这一趋势在2011年已很明 显,主要是因为商船上越来越多地使用私营海上保安公司,而且国际海军部队也 得以控制行动环境。<sup>26</sup> 另外,袭击未遂事件数目大大减少,从237 起减至75 起, 与记录最高的2011年相比,减少近70%。<sup>27</sup> 2013年第一季度继续呈现这一趋势, 登记在案的事件只有5 起,包括劫持一艘也门单桅三角帆船事件。<sup>28</sup>

54. 2012 年, 索马里海盗敲诈并获得估计 3 175 万美元的实付赎金。<sup>29</sup> 目前, 还有一艘商船、六艘渔船或单桅三角帆船以及至少 60 名个人仍被索马里海盗扣 押在陆地或海上。<sup>30</sup>

55. 海盗行动虽然次数减少、规模缩小,<sup>31</sup> 但并未完全停止。不时仍有关于袭击的报告,例如 2013 年 4 月 2 日,一只悬挂塞拉利昂国旗的杂货船 "Alpha Kirawira号"在巴拉维以南约 13 海里处遭到袭击。八名武装人员驾驶一艘由两

- 25 14 起劫持案涉及9艘单桅三角帆船/渔船。
- <sup>26</sup> 航运业在实行最佳管理做法方面有所改进,国际打击海盗海军行动提高了效力,包括截断海盗 在陆地的后勤,这些因素也大大有助于降低索马里海盗的成功率。

- <sup>28</sup> 也门单桅三角帆船"Nader 号"于 2013 年 3 月 8 日被劫持。船上的船员和索马里保安队已获释, 但船只仍被海盗扣押。另一艘单桅三角帆船"Saad 1 号"于 2013 年 3 月 28 日被短暂劫持,但被 土耳其海军舰艇"Gökova 号"营救。
- <sup>29</sup> 见 http://oceansbeyondpiracy.org/sites/default/files/ecop2012twopager 1.pdf。
- <sup>30</sup> 全部都被属于霍比奥-哈拉代雷海盗网络的海盗扣押。其中包括:被劫持船只"Prantalay 12 号"(4 人)、"Asphalt Venture 号"(7 人)、"Albedo 号"(15 人)和"Naham 3 号"(28 人)共 54 名剩余船员; 5 名援助人员(无国界医生组织 2 人、国际援助署 3 人); 1 名记者。
- 31 截至 2013 年 5 月初,索马里海岸 400 海里以外未发生登记在案的袭击。

56. 由于无法劫持商船,也无力维持长期作案、频频得手、过去八年来向船主敲 诈勒索了数百万美元的海盗生意模式,哈拉代雷海盗首领Mohamed Abdi Hassan "Afweyne"和Mohamed Osman Mohamed "Gafanje"放弃海盗生意,自称已洗手 退出。2013年1月9日,两人在自封的Himan和Heeb地区"总统"Mohamed Abdullahi Mohamed Aden "Tiiceey"在阿达多举办的一个新闻发布会上现身。<sup>33</sup>

57. 继上述新闻发布会之后,2013 年 1 月 19 日,据报由霍比奥-哈拉代雷海盗首领(包括Afweyne及其子和Gafan je)组成的一个小型代表团从阿达多飞往摩加迪沙会见索马里联邦政府高级官员。其目的是谈判并打探是否可能签订一项大赦和豁免协议,据传交换条件是立即释放所有人质以及其他好处。后来,以索马里联邦政府支付据称 200 万美元为条件释放人质的协议和努力未能成功。据报告,因海盗团伙之间侵吞资金和意见分歧,导致 2013 年 2 月 17 日前后在加尔卡约发生激烈战斗,一名海盗谈判人员被杀。<sup>34</sup>

58. 2013 年 2 月 28 日,索马里总统哈桑•谢赫•马哈茂德发出正式信函,表示 索马里联邦政府已通过"长老"与海盗进行"间接"谈判,并确认总统愿意对"年 轻"海盗予以大赦,但未提供更多详情。信中还提到,"谈判"还处于早期阶段, 但拟议的协议不会适用于海盗"首领"(见附件 4.2)。

59. 监察组感到关切的是,这些进行中的谈判缺乏透明度,总统的信函措辞含糊 简单。总统所述步骤可能会导致对索马里海盗采取一般大赦政策。将一种复杂的 跨国有组织犯罪限于"首领"与"年轻小伙",即使作为一种给究责、起诉和惩 罚制造困难的战略,也未免过于简单化。

60. 此外,监察组密切跟踪了"邦特兰"的事态发展情况,并注意到,邦特兰海 事警察部队越来越多地干预海上事件。<sup>35</sup> 这包括营救搁浅商船"Iceberg 1号" 上的 22 名船员,该船被海盗扣押已近三年。<sup>36</sup> 据船主称,营救行动是在也门政 府、"邦特兰"行政当局和扣押该船的海盗达成财务协议之后进行的,但船主没

&lt;sup>32</sup> 2013 年 6 月 5 日,海军部队还证实悬挂印度国旗的单桅三角帆船"Shahe Faize Noori 号"在博萨 索东北方向约 96 海里处被劫持。船只和船员于当日安全获释。

有证据证实这些指控。不过,目前仍不清楚,邦特兰海事警察部队的干预,特别 是在 2012 年 12 月干预这艘自 2011 年 11 月后一直在离岸不到一海里处搁浅的船 只,是出于何种动机;也不清楚该部队为什么没有干预其他劫持事件。<sup>37</sup>

61. "邦特兰"海盗网络分别于 2013 年 3 月 8 日和 10 日释放了油轮"Royal Grace 号"和 "Smyrni号",从而利用其扣押的最后一批船只获利。<sup>38</sup>

62. 同时,2011年9月因索马里海盗参与而绑架勒索增加的明显趋势也未持续, 没有频繁发生登记在案的事件。例如,继2012年1月6日美国记者 Michael Moore Scott 在"贾穆杜格"遭海盗绑架之后,有几名国际援助人员在两起事件中分别 被绑架。2012年6月29日,四名挪威难民理事会工作人员在肯尼亚达达布被绑 架,但四天后获救。2012年7月11日,三名国际援助署工作人员在加尔卡约被 绑架,目前仍被海盗拘押(另见附件7.1和8.1)。

海盗谋利多样化

63. 报告的事件数目减少,给人的印象是海盗生意枯竭,但实际上,曾在某个方面屡屡得逞的有组织犯罪网络和个人正在另辟蹊径,将其谋财之道多样化。如附件3.1 所述,这些网络正在转向其他机会,实际上可能包括海盗活动之前的某些活动。在这方面,在公海活动的海盗目前可能已被遏制,但控制海盗的网络或个人既容易收手而去,也容易卷土重来,以攫取可能出现的投资回报,而私人保安措施的放松和国际海军部队的撤离正有可能造成这种机会。

64. 因此,监察组跟踪了从事区域贸易和(或)渔业活动的船只上越来越多地使用 无管制和未经训练的索马里警卫人员提供武装保护的情况,这种保护做法可能违 反武器禁运。例如,在摩加迪沙,这类业务被诸如摩加迪沙港务局(港务主任办 公室)之类的地方当局和警方控制。它们提供警卫、武器和许可证。航运公司每 月为每名武装警卫交纳 500 美元,可获得一年的许可证(见附件 4.3)。在"邦特 兰",这类业务被私营商人控制并涉及非法海上活动,例如走私、非法捕捞和海 盗活动(见附件 3.1),对区域安保和安全造成潜在威胁。

司法挑战

65. 迄今,索马里政府、"邦特兰"行政当局或其他任何地方当局都没有认真起 诉和监禁任何高级海盗头目、资助者、谈判人员或协助者。主要海盗网络的头目 及其同伙继续逍遥法外,他们旅行畅通无阻,转移资金也毫无障碍。

&lt;sup>37</sup> 这些事件包括劫持油轮"Royal Grace 号"(2012 年 3 月 2 日)和"Smyrni 号"(2012 年 5 月 10 日)。

66. 索马里沿海海盗问题联络小组(海盗问题联络组)第5工作组一再呼吁协调国 际努力,查明并打破海盗头目及其投资者的金融网络。然而,调查和司法反应受 到太多限制或者根本不存在。财政资源有限、管辖权障碍、国家利益和议程彼此 各异、甚至国内选举动机等因素导致缺乏政治意愿。因此,调查一些索马里海盗 案件的国家执法机构仍然协调不力,不仅受到司法限制,而且受到不信任和竞争 的影响。

67. 广为关注的劫持事件数量持续减少,可能会削弱调查和起诉索马里境内外海 盗头目的决心,正如2013年2月索马里总统的信所表明(见上文第58段)。这一 点,再加上委员会长期搁置拟议的海盗头目列入名单工作,将不可避免地导致那 些从一种国际犯罪活动中大获其利、负有最大责任、现在又在从事其他有组织犯 罪活动的人不受惩罚。时间的流逝正在影响证词和证据的质量和获取,因此监察 组重申,亟需建立一个专职调查员小组,任务是收集与索马里海盗活动有关的信 息、证据并记录有关证词,特别包括查明海盗头目、金融代理人、谈判人员、协 助者、支持网络和受益人。

脸书上的海盗和协助者

68. 作为一种跨国有组织犯罪,索马里海盗行为所牵涉的不仅仅是一些武装年轻 人在海上驾驶小船袭击大船,或是在被劫持的船上提供武装保护。海盗生意依靠 索马里境内外社会各阶层协助者组成的广泛网络。实际上,海盗及其同伙可能是 银行业者、电信代理商、各种商人、政客、族系长老、翻译或援助人员,这些人 都在利用其正常职业或职位来协助某个网络。

69. 调查证实,这些各行各业的协助者通过各种通信渠道相互联系并利用社会网 络服务,例如脸书。<sup>39</sup> 附件4概述了六个案件,该附件规定为绝密,以保护可能 进行的起诉。

E. 公共部门财务管理不当和腐败

70. 尽管摩加迪沙领导人经过了更换,财政部长 Mohamud Hassan Suleiman 也做 出了真诚的努力,但公共资源管理不当的做法和模式一如既往。新政府在很多方 面无法控制其继承的体制,政治决策和任命则经常助长各种腐败条件。2012 年夏 季,在过渡进程结束之际,发生了争夺政府控制权的激烈竞争,为此采取的竞选 筹资办法导致筹资管理在公共体制外运作,或助长了公共体制内的不当管理(见 附件 5.1)。

71. 特别是,捐助方做出各种努力,以鼓励将政府收入存入中央银行,但这些努力的目标虽然在技术上正确,但证明是有缺陷的。平均而言,中央银行至少 80%

护照制作、腐败和欺诈

73. 此外,索马里护照的安全和准确性仍然是一个问题,特别是因为没有生物鉴别数据或可靠数据库说明何人已领取护照。个人可用假名获取多个护照。还有非 索马里公民获得签发护照。现行体系可被用来进行非法或犯罪活动(见附件 5.3)。

摩加迪沙港口

74. 除了其他国家政府提供的双边捐助之外,摩加迪沙港口产生的收入是中央政府最大的国内收入来源。然而,不论是海关费还是港口费,港口收入历来在源点就通过各种做法被转用,这些做法至今仍在盛行。多年来,对港口收入转用的管制采取过多种形式,但港口主管始终是关键人物。Sayid Ali Moalim Abdulle 曾于 2010 年 9 月至 2012 年 7 月期间担任港口主管,他现在继续通过港口副主管 Ahmed Abdi Kariye(又名 Ahmed Qorqor)发挥影响。监察组记录了至少一起相关 案件,在该案中, Sayid Ali 从 2011 年索马里饥荒期间运送的人道主义货物中转 用了至少 3 415 840 美元。

75. 根据对摩加迪沙港口活动的分析,仅进口海关的月收入潜力就超过 380 万美元。然而,2012 年 8 月至 2013 年 3 月期间,平均每月从港口存入央行的总数仅为 270 万美元。存入央行的港口收入总体上有所增加,但在比例上低于摩加迪沙

港口货运量的增加,这可能表明转用率上升。目前,至少 33%的港口月收入去向 不明(见附件 5.4)。

石油部门

76. 监察组收集了有关索马里石油和天然气部门日益吸引商业兴趣的信息,并查明了可能对和平与安全构成威胁并加剧腐败风险的一系列利益冲突。

77. 目前,索马里联邦政府与在政府外独立签署石油交易协定的各州行政当局之间日益发生敌对状况。联邦政府石油官员援引的 2008 年石油法与索马里《宪法》中的各种不一致加剧了这种敌对关系。监察组查明了自封政府的各州当局与地方武装力量之间的潜在爆发点,特别是在"索马里兰"、"邦特兰"和自称的"Khatumo邦"之间的索勒和萨纳格地区。此外,索马里"贾穆杜格"的石油工业活动是在政治不稳定和穆杜格州各族系激烈争夺自然资源的环境下进行的。由于索马里与肯尼亚在"朱巴兰"的权力分配问题上已有冲突,两国之间的领土争端也有可能对和平与安全造成威胁。

78. 此外,挪威既关切石油问题,又支持建立专属经济区,二者之间的潜在利益 冲突几乎肯定会导致索马里海上分界线发生有利于肯尼亚的改变。索马里石油公 司和索马里石油管理局在管理上存在严重局限,亟需发展能力,以保障其诚信度 和透明度,并减轻它们被滥用于私人利益的风险。

79. 在联邦政府与各州政府之间没有明确的宪政协定,也没有对未来石油生产的 签字费、权益费和税收管理实行最佳做法透明度机制的情况下,石油公司应该停 止并不再继续与索马里当局谈判,否则可能会引发非透明做法和政治分歧,进而 加剧族系冲突并对和平和安全构成威胁(见附件 5.5 和下文第 176 段)。

三. 违反武器禁运 🕫

A. 向索马里运送武器

80. 在跟踪向索马里运送武器的监管链过程中,监察组从索马里和一些外国的政府和机关收集了大量证据,查明和记录了武器供应链的总体趋势、主要的违反武器禁运情况以及物流。

81. 2012 年 7 月至 2013 年 2 月期间,"邦特兰"安全部队缉获据说是运给青年党 的一些货物。尤其是在"邦特兰"巴里州缴获两批目前流行的武器。监察组已确 定也门是这些货物的主要来源,并对在"邦特兰"和"索马里兰"接收此类货物 的武器走私者网络作了进一步调查。

82. 青年党和相关武器走私网络可以将货物运到整个索马里北部海岸以及索马 里中部和南部的大部分海岸交货点。从西面的"索马里兰"Hiis 到"邦特兰"的 Qandala 和阿卢拉以及索马里中部的 El Der 港,特别是 Ego 和 Mareeg 的双子港, 以及(穆杜格州)Haradhere 港和(下谢贝利州)Barawe 港,监察组都多次获得关于 交货的可靠报告。

83. 在海上向这些沿海地点交货的往往是再补给高端技术设备,尤其是简易爆炸装置组件、导爆索、电子雷管、火箭筒,以及 7.62 毫米的 PKM 型通用机枪等轻武器。

84. 监察组视察并记录了 2012 年 7 月在阿卢拉和 2012 年 10 月在 Qandala 向索 马里北部运送武器两起具体案件。这种案件显示了青年党在进行战略调整期间通 过武器走私网络调动资源的能力。

85. 监察组还获得连贯一致的报告和证据,表明索马里向肯尼亚和乌干达出口制造自杀式背心和简易爆炸装置材料的技术知识。

86. 监察组已花费大量时间,解决非索特派团在摩加迪沙基地储存的武器和弹药问题,并追踪武器的不同来源,其中包括利比亚、伊朗伊斯兰共和国、苏丹和朝鲜民主主义人民共和国。监察组提出了对武器储存安全性的各种担忧,非索特派团和联合国正在解决并记录违反索马里武器禁运的情况。

87. 此外,监察组对索马里及其附近船只的可疑活动进行了调查,包括也门所扣 留的朝鲜民主主义人民共和国大山号轮船和 Jihan1 案件。

88. 这些个案研究详见附件 6.1。

B. 外国在索马里的军事行动

肯尼亚

89. 尽管肯尼亚"解放"2区关键城镇(基斯马尤)<sup>41</sup>的"Linda Nchi"行动取得 成功,监察组在目前任务期内,继续争取澄清肯尼亚国防军在非索特派团中的地 位。2012年6月2日,肯尼亚政府与非洲联盟签署了一项谅解备忘录,正式将肯 尼亚国防军纳入非索特派团的指挥和控制结构。<sup>42</sup>

90. 然而,监察组遇到了肯尼亚国防军在一定程度上不愿澄清地位的问题,<sup>43</sup> 尽管根据安理会第 1772(2007)号决议其加入非索特派团在索马里派驻人员可以豁

92. 此外,监察组指出,到 2013 年 5 月,塞拉利昂尚未在基斯马尤部署预期的 850 人的特遣队。非索特派团官员已证实在摩加迪沙的塞拉利昂军队 400 人的先 遣队<sup>48</sup> 正等待部署到 2 区。<sup>49</sup>

93. 除 3 架攻击直升机和 9 架通用直升机,安全理事会并未授权组建非索特派团 空中部分。然而,肯尼亚政府在加入非索特派团之前和之后,一直在索马里启用肯 尼亚空军,尽管第 2093 (2103)号决议第 36 段的规定,这可能违反武器禁运。<sup>50</sup>

埃塞俄比亚

96. 在 2012 年 1 月,非洲联盟和平与安全理事会决定,由非索特派团部队在埃 塞俄比亚国防军部队从青年党手中解放的地区取而代之。在 2012 年期间,完成 了从埃塞俄比亚国防军到非索特派团的过渡,在拜多阿与布隆迪特遣队交接,在 贝里特温与吉布提特遣队交接。

97. 2013 年 3 月 17 日,埃塞俄比亚部队从巴科勒州的胡杜尔镇撤出,看来埃塞 俄比亚国防军正在全面撤出索马里。索马里政府军及其下属民兵也在撤离,而且 青年党立即占领了该镇,令人在质疑埃塞俄比亚国防军驻扎的合法性的同时又为 其撤离后造成的安全真空感到担心。

98. 埃塞俄比亚国防军从主要是在拜州和巴科勒州的城镇中心撤离和重新部署到农村地区新设的难民营,不仅是索马里和埃塞俄比亚两国政府之间紧张关系的结果, 在基斯马尤的情况尤为如此,而且是埃塞俄比亚国防军应对在城市地区叛乱攻击日 益增长的一项策略。另外,索马里政府用埃塞俄比亚不大喜欢之人取代了拜州和希 兰州的州长,而且埃塞俄比亚国防军只得到当地主管部门在安全问题上的有限合作。

99. 一方面,埃塞俄比亚宁愿独立于非索特派团,保持对其索马里境内部队的指 挥和控制,因此并不享有安全理事会第1772(2007)号决议规定的武器禁运豁免。 另一方面,埃塞俄比亚正在为打击青年党努力争取捐助者的承认和财务支持,这 种支持目前都要通过非索特派团。

C. 违规行为

100. 在本报告所述期间,监察组看到在遵守对索马里武器禁运规定方面情况已 大大改善。越来越多的会员国及国际和区域组织要求委员会事先批准对索马里安 全部门机构的援助计划,或向索马里出口非致命军事装备。

101. 然而,向参与打击叛乱和反恐行动的索马里安全部队在联邦和州层面提供的援助很大一部分并没有报告。据多个外交和军事人士表示,美国和联合王国政府正在越来越多地参与对"索马里兰"、"邦特兰"和摩加迪沙等地情报部门的直接援助,不时违反第733(1992)号和第1425(2002)号决议。

103. 相比之下,2012 年 8 月至 2013 年 3 月,监察组记录显示,有 29 个航班以 联合国八个会员国的名义前往索马里,其中有 4 个航班是前往"索马里兰"的柏 培拉机场,而在前一个监察组任期的同一时期则有 79 个航班。这些航班,无论 是军事性质或是支持索马里安全部队都有可能违反武器禁运。<sup>55</sup>

104. 安全理事会 2013 年 3 月 6 日通过第 2093 (2013) 号决议,修改了对索马里 的制裁制度,特别是遵守规定的框架方面。按照新制度的规定,索马里联邦政府 得到授权,在 12 个月期间,提前 5 天通知可直接向委员会通报其安全部队所获 得的支持和援助,该决议附件中列出的项目除外。

105. 尽管建立了新制度,委员会在编写本报告时尚未收到索马里联邦政府有关 索马里联邦安全部队所获支持和援助的任何通知,并于 2013 年 6 月 4 日致函索 马里常驻联合国代表,回顾"索马里联邦政府担负的首要责任是至少提前 5 天, 就任何有关交付事务通知委员会"。

106. 监察组目前正在调查于 2013 年 3 月 6 日以后交付,或正在运往摩加迪沙 机场和海港途中,并要交付给索马里国家军队、索马里警察部队和在摩加迪沙运 营的私营保安公司的武器、弹药、军事装备和车辆(包括装甲运兵车)的可靠报告。 如果不向委员会提出正式通知,这些交付将就违反了对索马里的武器禁运,并令 人质疑索马里联邦当局关于遵守新制裁制度的承诺,有可能损害对制裁制度修改 的可行性和可持续性。

107. 违规事件的介绍载于附件 6.2。

D. 私营保安公司

108. 索马里私营安全部门的持续发展仍然是索马里武器禁运方面令人担忧的问题。监察组查明了私营保安公司和承包商在摩加迪沙、"索马里兰"、"邦特兰"、 "贾穆杜格"以及可能在基斯马尤的一些违规行为。

109. 2010年以来,监察组指出索马里没有在安全业务方面建立一个强有力的监管框架。<sup>56</sup>尽管过渡期已经结束,在索马里联邦政府内政部和国家安全部仍有多个部门重叠主管私营保安事务。此外,有明显迹象显示,索马里高级安全官员之间在安全业务上有利益冲突。

&lt;sup>54</sup> 见 S/2011/433 号文件,附件 5.5,第 12 至 15 段和 S/2012/544,附件 5.5,第 53 至 56 段。

110. 此外,根据安全理事会第 2093 (2013)号决议所修改的武器禁运,索马里联 邦政府能够通知委员会对公安部门的支持,这样就改变了以前关于私营保安公司 须获得其东道国政府向委员会作出的担保的要求。<sup>57</sup>

111. 然而,总部位于迪拜的 Tacforce International 公司于 2013 年 2 月在摩加迪沙海港进口了一部 B6 型装甲车,违反了武器禁运。该公司这样做时十分清 楚违反了索马里制裁制度,而且外交部和国家情报和安全局的高级官员参与此事(见附件 6.2)。

112. 监察组在"索马里兰"看到一个新的角色——橄榄集团,在州当局与 Genel Energy 及其合作伙伴签署石油生产分成协议后,协助"索马里兰"警方部署工作 人员和设备(见附件 5.5)。

113. 在"邦特兰",两家公司已经离开而没有接替公司。这两家公司就是斯特林企业服务公司和开拓者保安公司。前者原为萨拉森国际保安公司,这家公司两年来违反索马里制裁制度,为"邦特兰"海事警察部队提供技术和财政援助与支持。监察组先前曾注意到后者在遵守制裁制度的运作中的透明度和努力(见 S/2012/544,第65至67段)。

114. 在索马里"贾穆杜格",一家称为海事专家服务有限公司的私营公司在向 "贾穆杜格"武装力量提供培训和军事装备。该公司雇佣了5名外籍人士在加尔 卡尤提供"基本军事训练",并发放了600套制服、通讯设备和防弹衣,违反了 对索马里的武器禁运。

115. 在基斯马尤,总部设在美国的亚特兰蒂斯全球公司向监察组表示它是一家 "维持生命"公司。与此同时,该公司向石油和天然气公司宣传自己是设在索马 里的一家风险管理公司,而且对内罗毕的几个外交官则将自己描绘为"基斯马尤 的 Bancroft"。

116. 这些私营保安公司的活动详情列于附件 6.3。

四. 阻碍人道主义援助 ™

117. 2012年,人道主义机构继续努力应对 2011年饥荒的后果,并应对整个索马里的危机或接近危机的状况。尽管该国某些地区的进出条件有所改善(主要是因为青年党从主要城市撤出),人道主义机构要接触到弱势平民仍然是一个挑战, 而索马里各方继续在阻挠提供人道主义援助。青年党在其所控制地区,维持和扩

大了对大多数援助机构的禁令,而索马里所有武装团体都对人道主义组织设置税 收、非法路障,并进行恐吓与勒索。此外,正如监察组以往所述(S/2012/544), 由于人道主义行动的远程管理和"守门人"文化这两方面原因,人道主义援助被 第三方以及援助组织员工和合作伙伴所转用,对国际努力继续造成损害。联合国 和非政府组织已经建立有限机制,以实现更大程度的问责,但这些机制仍然在发 展过程中。

A. 拒绝进入和对援助人员的攻击

118. 人道主义机构在索马里大部分地区仍必须通过交涉才能接触到弱势平民, 而交涉的成败程度则取决于地区和主管当局。在过去的两年中,青年党在其控制 区域仍禁止大多数国际机构的活动。青年党在 2011 年 11 月和 2012 年 1 月驱逐 了一些非政府组织、联合国机构和红十字国际委员会人员之后,于 2012 年 8 月 禁止了伊斯兰救济组织的活动。此外,青年党对在其领域获准运作的为数不多的 人道主义机构及其工作人员继续征税。虽然大多数国际机构及其合作伙伴拒绝直 接向青年党交税,已提出有创意的方式满足青年党的要求,例如提高本国工作人 员的薪水以支付费用。

119. 政府部队和下属民兵还采取各种手法对援助机构和工作人员进行勒索,包括设立非法检查站或抢夺提供给弱势平民的援助。由于全国各地的敌对行动和军事行动,不安全气氛弥漫,以致冲突各方总是对整个城镇和村庄实施宵禁,因而人道主义援助准入受到进一步阻碍。

120. 对援助组织而言,索马里一直是世界上最危险的国家之一。2012年的安全分析和监控查明涉及援助人员的150多宗案件,包括大量对机构大院的手榴弹袭击、劫车和抢劫。在很多情况下,青年党专门攻击或暗杀援助人员,如2012年8月在马尔卡杀害一名粮农组织工作人员。就其自身而言,索马里政府并没有为在其控制地区活动的机构提供足够的安全和保障。一个突出的例子是,2011年12月,一名索马里当地雇员杀害了无国界医生组织的两名国际工作人员。罪犯虽然被判处30年徒刑,但在数周内便获得当时的总统谢赫•谢里夫•谢赫•艾哈迈德的赦免。

121. 阻碍事件和攻击援助人员的详细清单见附件 7.1(绝密)。

B. 人道主义援助资源的转用和挪用

122. 向索马里弱势民众运送的援助被转用的情况远远超出了货物或资源遭窃问题。事实上,造成最恶劣影响的转用形式依然是监察组以前所记录的情况 (S/2012/544,附件 6.2)。通过有组织网络运作的个人和团体对包括境内流离失 所者在内的弱势群体进行偷窃和剥削,并继续充当"守门人",确保在所提供援助中有一组成部分成为与当地"分享的大饼"。因此,有很大一部分资源没有送交 到预定的受益者手中。此外,一些守门人应当对严重侵犯人权行为,包括对弱势 平民的性暴力和虐待行为负责。由于援助组织别无选择,只能与守门人打交道,因而国际援助常常会助长一轮又一轮的权利滥用。根据联合国一名高级别人道主义事务官员的说法,"索马里的情况紧急,到处需要保护,而平民则成为我们所有人的人质。"<sup>59</sup>

123. 守门人仅仅是问题的一部分。随着最近几个月人们进一步了解到索马里不同地区的情况,通过实地考察和第三方监测透露出的实际情况常常令人震惊,一些项目没有实施,或执行情况很差。各个组织都存在工作人员、合作伙伴和承包商转用资金的问题,包括针对 2011 年饥荒而大张旗鼓提出资金充足的现金援助 方案。这种情况导致联合国将一个索马里长期非政府组织合作伙伴——非洲援救委员会列入欺诈黑名单。

124. 现金援助方案的个案研究详细情况载于附件 7.2.a(绝密)。

125. 尽管一些援助机构为实现更大透明度和问责制作出努力,目前依然存在着 拒绝面对现实和保密的习惯,使人道主义工作者无法分享失败的经验,汲取惨痛 教训,并制定共同工具。许多捐助方也促成这一沉默文化,因为对转用援助问题 如果不能采取一致的立场,就无法推动透明度和公开性。援助组织对于所受到不 公正待遇提出抱怨,他们要承担众所周知而捐助者默认的风险,这样便导致关于 方案执行情况的报告不够透明的问题(见附件 7.2)。

C. 最佳做法

126. 目前,设立索马里风险管理股是联合国国家工作队为减轻运送援助风险 所作出的最大努力。为向联合国发展机构和人道主义机构、其伙伴、捐助者和 其他利益攸关方提供支助,2011 年成立了风险管理股,通过加强风险管理的 工具,履行其各项关键职能。风险管理股根据各个联合国机构的请求在索马里 开展风险监测。此外,风险管理股可自己主动或应要求,为联合国合作伙伴和 承包商进行风险分析,以协助各机构就签订合同作出知情决定。该股还为联合 国工作人员、伙伴和捐助者提供风险管理培训。值得一提的是,风险管理股设 立了承包商信息管理系统,这是一个在索马里促进信息交流、加强尽责和改进 承包者管理的数据库。

127. 但是,参与承包商信息管理系统并不是强制性的,一些较小的联合国机构 尚未分享其承包商的信息。承包商信息管理系统的成效还取决于由联合国机构所 提供资料的质量以及数据库是否经常更新,有些机构做得会其他机构好一些。此 外,由于各机构的合同条款相互差别很大,许多承包者无须提供其合作伙伴或分 包商的资料,从而造成风险管理系统中的重大漏洞,损害了其监测供应链实施情 况的能力,这一敏感问题正是最初建立承包商信息管理系统的主要考虑。此外,

<sup>59</sup> 对联合国高级官员的访谈, 2013 年 1 月 22 日, 摩加迪沙。

联合国各机构没有义务接受承包商信息管理系统提供的咨询意见,尽管多数时间 都在根据咨询意见行事。

128. 由于风险管理股是仅供联合国国家工作队使用的机制,非政府组织并不在 其职权范围之内,除非它们与一个联合国机构签订合同。因此,非政府组织没有 进行独立评估风险、交流信息和采取缓解措施的相应机制。风险管理股向非政府 组织提供风险评估服务和咨询意见,但由于资源和授权局限,迄今这种帮助都是 临时性的。最终,非政府组织必须制定自己的全行业尽职办法。

五. 违反国际人道主义法的行为 °

129. 在索马里全国各地,冲突各方都继续违反国际人道主义法和人权准则。在 监察组目前的任务期间,全国各地的军事行动和游击战给平民百姓带来巨大伤 害。2012年,世界卫生组织在摩加迪沙四所医院内记录了6680起因武器致伤造 成的平民伤亡案件,其中多起是青年党使用简易爆炸装置导致的。人权和人道主 义机构收集的数据表明,支持政府的力量也因空袭和地面作战造成平民伤亡。同 时,性别暴力依然是普遍现象。

130. 联合国试图收集和分析人权方面数据的努力由于缺乏接触机会和资源,以 及联合国索马里政治事务处未能安排人权事项的轻重缓急而受到严重阻碍。但 是,监察组得到证据表明,索马里冲突各方惯常地违反安全理事会第 2060 (2012) 号决议。

A. 对平民的袭击

131. 很难确定敌对行动中支持政府人员过度使用或不分青红皂白地使用武力 对平民造成多大伤害。除了交火的危险之外,由于索马里国家安全部队都是松散 聚集起来的部队和民兵,内部缺乏连贯的结构和有效的指挥及控制,使保护平民 更为困难。事实上,政府部队和附属的民兵对平民犯下了一系列暴行,包括在平 民区抢掠,以及任意逮捕和拘留,目的经常是勒索。

132. 非索特派团与站在政府一边的民兵密切合作,告诉他们何时、何处报告军 事行动的开展,但都是在正式的组织结构之外。因此,非索特派团有责任确保直 接与索马里政府共同作战或代表后者作战的所有武装力量都遵守国际人道主义 法。但是非索特派团继续协调已知对侵害平民负责的民兵所开展的军事行动。而 对联合国而言,除了 2011 年 7 月在整个组织范围内通过了一项人权尽职政策之 外,也有责任确保本身所支持的实体,包括非索特派团,尊重人权和国际人道主 义法。

133. 青年党继续滥用武器而对平民造成严重伤害。根据所掌握的 2012 年资料, 青年党比以前更多地使用了受害者引爆的压力板简易爆炸装置,而报告在索马里 由于自杀袭击导致的平民伤亡人数也大幅增加。此外,青年党持续定点谋杀被指 称从事间谍活动的平民,或作为对明显立场的惩罚,还通过限制行动,征收税务 和严格实行伊斯兰教法对当地居民实行系统的恫吓。

134. 在监察组目前任务期间,索马里所有武装行动者都袭击了学校和医院,有时作为直接目标,有时则为开展军事行动所用,违反了国际人道主义法。

135. 伤害平民的具体事件详细清单见附件 8.1。

136. 此外,2012年,在索马里这个仅次于阿拉伯叙利亚共和国的对新闻和信息 工作者而言全世界第二危险的国家,有 18 名记者被杀害。记者和媒体在该国各 地都受到主要行动者的暗杀、恫吓和查禁。

137. 袭击记者和媒体事件详细清单见附件 8.1.a。

B. 性别暴力

138. 尽管人权监测系统很薄弱,但存在大量证据表明性暴力在索马里依然很普遍。 境内流离失所妇女总体上是最受侵害的群体。这是由于摩加迪沙 500 多个境内流离 失所者营地内部和周围有大量的武装团体和民兵存在,而营地内主要是妇女和儿童。

139. 中央当局对武装团体和民兵缺乏指挥和控制依然是境内流离失所妇女遭 受暴力的主要起因。监察组曾经记录的情景(见 S/2012/544,附件 7.2)依然是摩 加迪沙的惯常现象,性侵犯的受害者无法辨认袭击者所穿的制服,不知道这些人 属于索马里警察、军队还是民兵。警察无法、也不愿调查性暴力案件,司法系统 无法而且不愿意处理这些案件,使妇女更加身陷困厄。

140. 尽管索马里总统和总理都公开承诺要处理性暴力问题,但中央政府迄今没 有表现出什么政治意愿来取得进展。2013 年 1 月普遍报道了逮捕一名据称的强奸 受害者、她的丈夫、一名采访该妇女的记者等人的事件,对索马里全国性暴力受 害者、服务提供者和活动分子发出了错误的信息。尽管上级法院撤消了判决,但 是当局对事件的不当处理以及警察未能对安全部队成员最初提出的指控进行调 查,使妇女更加不愿意报告性暴力事件和寻求补救(见本报告附件 8.2)。

141. 继续出现针对非索特派团部队人员提出的性剥削和性虐待指控。但特派团仍然没有建立透明和及时地彻底调查错失行为指控的制度。

C. 儿童兵

142. 2012 年 7 月 3 日,过渡联邦政府签署了一项行动计划,承诺结束在武装冲突中招募和使用儿童。行动计划概述了索马里当局为确保国家军队中"无儿童"而要采取的具体步骤。2012 年 8 月 6 日,过渡联邦政府签署了另一项行动计划,杜绝在

武装冲突中杀害和残害儿童。这一行动计划是根据安全理事会第1882(2009)号决议 提出的,安全理事会在决议中呼吁制定有时限的具体行动计划,制止和防止秘书长 关于儿童与武装冲突问题的年度报告提到的各方对儿童的杀害和残害。

D. 强迫流离失所或拘禁

144. 索马里是继阿富汗和伊拉克之后世界上第三个流离失所人口最多的国家。 截至2013年4月,该地区共有1037544名索马里难民,接受国主要是肯尼亚、也 门、埃及、埃塞俄比亚、厄立特里亚、吉布提、坦桑尼亚联合共和国和乌干达,此 外还有接近110万境内流离失所的索马里人,主要集中在该国的中部和南部。<sup>62</sup>绝 大多数新近发生的流离失所情况也出现在索马里中部和南部。尽管有些人是因为 干旱或生计方面原因离家的,但多数是为了逃离不安全和持续不断的军事行动。

145. 2012 年 6 月至 9 月,由于索马里南部非索特派团中肯尼亚国防军的挺进, 3 500 多人逃离了港城基斯马尤。流离失所者多数逃往邻近的阿夫马道地区,而 很多人到了摩加迪沙。这些流离失所者多数是长期逗留在基斯马尤市的原已流离 失所很长时间的人。另有 1 500 人在过渡联邦政府与非索特派团对马尔卡的攻势 中流离失所。同一时期,在中朱巴州雅马恩—吉利布通道有 700 名流离失所者, 在基斯马尤周围的村庄里有 200 多名流离失所者。总体而言,同索马里以前的军 事攻势相比,逃离基斯马尤的人数较少,这是因为青年党试图用平民作为人肉盾 牌,所以阻止当地居民离开,他们在马尔卡也采用了这一战术。<sup>63</sup>

146. 2012 年 9 月 1 日至 26 日期间,联合国难民事务高级专员报告说,有 12 000 多人离开了基斯马尤。9 月中,当肯尼亚国防军和索马里国民军接近该城之时, 人口大规模迁移。2012 年 9 月 17 日,青年党在其设在基斯马尤的电台Al-Andalus 广播了要求拿起武器对肯尼亚国防军/非索特派团和索马里国民军作战的号召。 这项公告导致大规模离开该城的平民突然增加。难民署指出,那些逃离的人中很

147. 2013 年 4 月 8 日, 难民署报告了埃塞俄比亚国防军从巴科勒州首府胡杜尔 撤离后的影响。当青年党快速控制该镇时,估计有 2 500 人流离失所。这些人跟 随埃塞俄比亚国防军来到边界城镇El Barde,在当地居民中间住下来。当地当局 估计,大约 250 人跨越国境进入埃塞俄比亚的Muhidle村,寻求援助。<sup>65</sup>

六. 违反禁运木炭的命令 "

148. 肯尼亚国防军/非索特派团部队人员以及马多贝的拉斯坎博尼部队于 2012 年9月28日进入基斯马尤之后,发现大量木炭库存,十分令人关注。基斯马尤 的库存估计大约为400万袋木炭,在国际市场上的价值至少为6000万美元。此 外还发现在 Burgabo、Kuday、Anole和青年党控制的 Barawe 也发现类似规模的 库存。2012年整个10月,得到肯尼亚国防军和非洲联盟支持的当地木炭交易商 呼吁安全理事会暂时解除对木炭的禁令,以便清除库存。但是,木炭交易商的目 标并非一次性出口木炭来收回投资。相反,把重点转移木炭库存是企图无限期维 持木炭生意的一种策略。的确,随后几个月,生产木炭的速度大幅提高。木炭的 出口超出了库存的规模,而库存并没有减少。因此,要处理的最关键问题并非木 炭库存,而是由于木炭供应链为追逐利益而出口新近生产的木炭。

149. 尽管安全理事会第 2072 (2012) 号和第 2073 (2012) 号决议获得通过,均没 有解除禁令,但肯尼亚国防军、Madobe 和他的拉斯坎博尼部队单方面决定,2012 年 11 月 4 日起从基斯马尤开始出口木炭,公然违反禁令。同时,2012 年 11 月 2 日,哈桑•谢赫总统建立了一个工作队,处理木炭库存问题。但是,2012 年 11 月 7 日,肯尼亚国防军、Madobe 和他的拉斯坎博尼部队阻止工作队代表团离开基 斯马尤机场,工作队实际上夭折了。

150. 这些事件的综述见附件 9.1。

151. 2012 年 11 月以来,索马里的木炭有组织地从肯尼亚国防军/非索特派团/ 拉斯坎博尼控制的基斯马尤港和青年党控制的 Barawe 港出口。此外还从基斯马 尤南部存有木炭的小港 Buur Gaabo、Anole、Koday 和 Koyaama 出口木炭。

152. 监测组以前估算,2011年,从索马里出口了大约900万至1100万袋木炭, 为青年党赚取了2500万美元以上的年收益(见S/2012/544,附件2.1)。监察组 估计出口现在增加到每年约2400万袋,在国际市场上的总价值为3.6至3.84 亿美元,利润随着木炭贸易供应链分配,包括青年党的利润。也就是说,索马里 木炭出口的规模增加了140%。如果目前的生产速度持续下去,2012-2013年的木 炭出口将需要用去1050万棵树,砍伐森林的面积将达1750平方公里,大于美 国得克萨斯州的休斯敦市。

153. 监察组根据大多数证据作保守估算,在基斯马尤港,每月大约出口 100 万 袋木炭,国际市场价值为 1 500 万至 1 600 万美元。尽管青年党控制的 Barawe 比较偏远,难以估计,但是监察组估算每月运载出口 60 万至 100 万袋。

154. 在监察组认定的基斯马尤 39 个木炭出口商中,与青年党有联系的两个出口商占据了 2012 年 11 月以来木炭托运出口交易的 32%。除了在基斯马尤的这一商业份额,青年党还对向基斯马尤运输木炭的卡车征税。尤其是青年党控制的肯尼亚边境 Badade 区,2013 年 2 月木炭生产大幅增加以来,青年党在 Buulo Xaaji 过境点每月赚取大约 67.5 万至 150 万美元。

155. 此外,监察组还在阿拉伯联合酋长国的迪拜发现六个最大的木炭商,其中 包括青年党所属的 Saleh Da'ud Abdulla。他们向一些海湾合作委员会成员国进 口木炭,尤其是阿拉伯联合酋长国和沙特阿拉伯。

156. 总体上说,尽管肯尼亚国防军/非索特派团/拉斯坎博尼部队的接管,原先的木炭生意结构不仅保存完好,而且有了很大增长。特别是,青年党、其商业伙伴和网络仍然是当地和国际上这一贸易的核心。主要情况是,在基斯马尤的商业份额由青年党、拉斯坎博尼和肯尼亚商业利益瓜分,但这一商业活动已经扩大。 青年党从基斯马尤的商业份额、Barawe 的收益和对地面运输的收税所得收入,可能超过先前对其控制基斯马尤时所得估算的2500万美元。这样,青年党得以利用木炭交易的利益多样化,从中得到好处。

157. 索马里出口木炭的规模评估以及木炭交易供应链情况见附件 9.2。

七. 对监察组的调查和工作进行的阻碍 §7

158. 安全理事会禁止阻碍监察组的调查和工作的指示是在监察组成员受到一系列 人身威胁之后发出的。委员会在一项公开声明中谴责了对监察组的恫吓及对其工作 的干涉。<sup>68</sup>威胁源于对参与提供粮食援助的索马里商人的调查(S/2010/91,第238

至 261 段)。安全理事会发出禁令的下一个机会是 2009 年 12 月 23 日在提出对厄立 特里亚的制裁制度的第 1907 (2009) 号决议中发出的,不过监察组知道,相关规定适 用于索马里和厄立特里亚两国的活动。

160. 对此,监察组了解到至少有两个人因为据称向监察组提供关于过渡联邦政府腐败的资料而被谋杀。2012 年 7 月 19 日,身份不详的凶手射杀了财政部副司长 Mohamed Ali Hussein。同样,2012 年 8 月 4 日,身份不明的凶手射杀了摩加 迪沙机场总经理 Ibrahim Iman Halane。青年党被指控对凶杀负有责任。但是, 调查这些案件及其他谋杀案的索马里安全部门认为负有责任的是 Artan Abdi Ibrahim "Biar"及其同伙 Fathi Sheikh Muhudin,据认为这两人经营职业凶手 行当(见本报告附件 3.4)。

161. 监察组在前次报告(见 S/2012/544,附件 1.2)中调查了制作索马里国民护 照方面的腐败和欺诈,对过渡联邦政府移民和归化局长 Abdullahi Gaafow 少将 点了名。监察组报告发表之后,2012 年 8 月中旬,Gaafow 少将组织逮捕了前移 民副局长、美国公民 Abdi Barre Jibriil,原因是据称他协助了监察组的调查。 监禁期间,一些士兵在 Gaafow 的指示下殴打了 Jibriil 先生。Gaafow 并威胁说, 如果 Jibriil 先生不签署文件否认给监察组的证词就枪毙他。由于国际媒体的报 道、"邦特兰"长老的压力以及外交干预,Jibriil 最终于 2012 年 9 月 1 日获释。 尽管 Jibriil 被选为议会议员,但依然担心人身安全(见附件 5.3)。

162. Gaafow 少将还对威胁和恫吓在同一调查中的一名消息来源负有责任,此 人是过渡联邦政府签约制作护照的 Just Solution Limited 公司老板 Sanjivan Mukherjee。除了遭到 Gaafow 少将的直接谩骂以外, Mukherjee 和妻子在半夜接 到威胁电话。有一次,四名索马里男子在 Mukherjee 的内罗毕办公室停车场围住 他,威胁说,如果他不因为跟监察组谈话而向索马里政府道歉,就要杀死他。 Mukherjee 和他的家人目前整天担心自己的安全。

八. 制裁名单

163. 2012 年 8 月 23 日,委员会批准了受到安全理事会第 1844 (2008) 号决议第 1、3 和 7 段提出的禁止旅行、冻结财产和定向武器禁运的个人和实体名单。这一 名单上现有 13 名个人和 1 个实体。

164. 在 2012 年 7 月 25 日,委员会批准将 Aboud Rogo Mohammed 列入制裁名单。 Rogo 先生是设在肯尼亚的 A1 Hijira(原称穆斯林青年中心)的思想理论领袖,他向 委员会列入名单的实体青年党提供经济、物质、后勤及技术帮助,威胁到索马里的 和平、安全和稳定。但是,2012 年 8 月 27 日,Rogo 先生在肯尼亚蒙巴萨被杀,案 情不详。监察组建议委员会将 Rogo 先生保留在制裁名单上,因为他的资产情况还未 澄清,而且对 A1 Hijira 以及 Rogo 先生以前同伙的活动还在调查之中。

165. 2012 年 8 月 23 日,委员会批准将 Abubaker Shariff Ahmed 列入名单。 Abubaker Shariff Ahmed 是 Rogo 先生的密切同伙,他是帮助和招募年轻的肯尼 亚穆斯林在索马里进行暴力军事活动的主要人物,并且向肯尼亚和东非其他地方 的极端团体、包括青年党提供物质帮助。他目前对 Al Hijira 发挥主导性影响, 并正在加紧活动。

166. 根据第 2060 (2012) 号决议第 13 (g) 段,监察组继续调整和更新关于从事第 2060 (2012) 号决议第 1 段所述行为的个人和实体名单草稿的信息。

九. 国家和非国家与监察组的合作

167. 在安全理事会通过第 2093 (2013) 号决议前,监察组注意到,在向委员会发 出通知方面遵守武器禁运情况有所改善。同时,监察组在执行目前任务期间从会 员国方面获得的合作显著减少,只有半数会员国对监察组的询问作出答复。安全 理事会的一些成员要么没有对正式信函作出答复,要么没有提供所需的资料。

168. 阿拉伯联合酋长国政府在监察组以往的报告中被称作"不合作会员国", 但该国政府首次向委员会发出通知,并对关于遵守禁运问题的某些要求作出回 复。另一方面,该国仍然没有答复关于监察组就某些个人和实体、特别是对迪拜 酋长国境内个人和实体进行调查的其他具体请求。

169. 相比之下,监察组收到了私营实体的大量积极答复,但设在美国的"脸书"公司除外。尽管监察组多次发出信函,该公司没有提供任何索取的资料。此外,监察 组得到了普华永道会计师事务所非洲有限公司等一些私营实体的积极和全面支持。

170. 同时,尽管安全理事会第2060(2012)号决议第9段请监察组和人道主义组织加强相互之间的合作、协调和信息交流,国际人道主义界给予的合作充其量仍然是脆弱的。关于转用人道主义援助的问题,联合国各机构和非政府组织感到关切的是,与监察组的合作可能对方案拟订产生影响,包括削减资金和地方当局的威胁。因此,只有少数机构已主动提供资料,但又往往要求不要透露机构名称。监察组在接触其他机构时表达了具体关切并提出了重要证据,但这些机构明确表示,如果认为承包人正在令人满意地履行合同,而且安全理事会没有将其指认为定向措施的对象,那么这些机构不能而且也不会终止合同协议。不同于尽职调查,即使已有证据显示承包人与武装团体或有组织犯罪集团存在牵连,情况也是如此。

171. 监察组承担着调查有关违反国际人道主义法行为的任务,必须得到联合国 机构和民间社会团体的合作,其原因是,索马里境内可资利用的机会非常有限, 因此往往通过在发生违规行为地区长期派驻人员的实体获得敏感信息。例如,儿 基会负责管理涵盖索马里全境的监察和报告机制,该机制包括一个国际和当地非 政府组织网络,负责收集关于监察组直接关切的问题的资料,包括关于严重侵犯 儿童权利行为。监察组一再提出要求,仍然无法从儿基会获得监察和报告机制有 关犯罪者的数据,而这些数据有助于监察组开展调查。由于对提供消息者和受害 人的安全存在关切,而且不了解该机制的数据内容和现状,因此,在证明对涉及 国际人道主义法的违反制裁制度行为承担责任方面,监察组的能力受到限制。

172. 另一方面,监察组对索马里联邦政府总统、总理、财政和规划部部长给予的一贯支持表示感谢。尽管领导人真诚作出努力,而行政当局较低级别并非总是给予坦诚合作。例如,总统办公厅主任卡迈勒•哈桑•古塔勒经常而且毫无必要地给监察组与索马里联邦政府之间的关系设置障碍。此外,在更新受定向制裁的个人和实体的资料、确定根据第2060(2012)号决议向委员会提交新的个人或实体清单等问题上,国家情报和安全局拒绝与监察组合作。

173. 此外,"邦特兰"当局向派往加罗韦和博沙索的视察团提供协助,不仅允 许接触在安保行动期间查获的武器、弹药和简易爆炸装置部件,而且共享了关于 参与违反对索马里制裁制度的个人和实体的资料。监察组对此表示感谢。

174. 监察组特别是对肯尼亚政府表示最诚挚的感谢。该国政府不仅在联合国内 罗毕办事处接待了监察组,而且为监察组的工作和调查提供便利。然而,如能任 命一位监察组协调人,与该国政府当局的协调就会大大加强。

175. 最后,监察组感谢驻纽约、肯尼亚、索马里和坦桑尼亚联合共和国的秘书 处安全和安保部工作人员,他们在执行目前任务期间提供了大力支持。

十. 建议

C. 违反武器禁运情况

178. 监察组建议:

Annex 1.1.: Al-Shabaab areas of control and influence, and security incidents related to Al-Shabaab

Al-Shabaab areas of control and influence

1. At present, Al-Shabaab remains in control of most of southern and central Somalia, including the entire region of Middle Juba, most of Hiran, Bay and Bakol regions, and sizeable parts of Galgadud, and Lower and Middle Shabelle regions.

Areas of control and influence in southern and central Somalia on 30 August 2012 (left) and on 6 May 2013 (right); the uncoloured areas are under the control of Al-Shabaab, while stripped areas are under partial influence<sup>1</sup>

2. The main differences in terms of areas of control and influence between the map dated 30 August 2012 on the left and the one dated 6 May 2013 on the right, are the capture by AMISOM of Kismayo (Lower Juba), Jowhar (Middle Shabelle), and the former Air Force base of Baledogley (Lower Shabelle), and the take-over by Al-Shabaab of Hudur, the capital of the Bakol region of Somalia, after the withdrawal of Ethiopian troops to El Barde (Bakol) and Ethiopia on 17 March 2013.

Security incidents related to Al-Shabaab

3. The monthly average of security incidents attributed to Al-Shabaab in southern and central Somalia has increased between the end of 2012 and early 2013, as indicated in the table below.<sup>2</sup>

Period	Abduction	Ambush/	IED	Assassination	Grenade	Total	Average
		Combat/			attack		of
		Hit and run					security
		attack/					incidents
		Indirect fire					per month

January-March	2	78	34	52	26	192	64
2013

4. According to these figures, the number of military attacks (ambushes, combat, hit-and-run and artillery/mortar attacks), IED incidents and assassinations has increased, respectively, by 11.42 %, 54.5 % and 20.9 % between October-December 2012 and January-March 2013.

Annex 1.2.: Al-Shabaab structure

1. The structure of Al-Shabaab is characterized by its idiosyncratic complexity, which is one of its main strengths and perhaps explains in part the durability of Ahmed Godane's leadership. The structure includes several key elements:

- A strong centralized command combined with decentralised operational capacities;
- An official structure, with senior commanders well known to the public holding figurehead positions, and a military operational structure that is more flexible, clan-oriented and less visible;
- An underlying structure, the Amniyat, which integrates the functions of a secret police, responsible for counter-intelligence and political control, and a clandestine special operations unit conducting assassinations and suicide attacks; and
- An ability to pursue both local and national agendas, while still being part of an international jihadist organization with regional objectives.

2. This complexity, however, obscures the actual nature of the decision-making process within Al-Shabaab. On the one hand, for security reasons, Godane has a limited ability to participate in meetings, move freely and communicate by telephone and radio; on the other hand, there are public disagreements at the level of the Shura between Godane and the principal military and spiritual leaders of Al-Shabaab, namely Hassan Dahir Aweys, Mukhtar Robow, Ibrahim 'Al-Afghani' and Fu'ad 'Shongole'.

The Shura

3. The Shura constitutes Al-Shabaab's council of ministers. It is likely the only political arena in which some form of opposition to Godane can to a certain extent be expressed. The most important figures of the Somali jihadist movement, and the main leaders of the Islamic Court Unions who rejected the Djibouti agreement in December 2008, including former Hizbul Islam leaders, belong to the Shura. However, its composition is not fixed and fluctuates. Information about its members varies by date and different sources.

Potential composition of the Shura of Al-Shabaab

4. The Monitoring Group has received conflicting reports about the role in the past couple of years of the Shura as Al-Shabaab's decision-making body. According to the testimony of an Al-Shabab defector interviewed by the Monitoring Group, the last meeting of the Shura in which decisions were taken by 16 of its members was in December 2010, in Bulo Mareer, Lower Shabelle region of Somalia.<sup>1</sup> Thereafter, a combination of mistrust amongst the top leadership, and fear that disagreements over strategy could lead to targeted strikes, may have prevented physical meetings of its members from being convened.<sup>2</sup>

5. During the months of April and May 2013, three key members of the Shura have publicly expressed their disagreement with Godane, and called for the reestablishment of the Shura as a decision-making body for Al-Shabaab.

6. First, an "Open Letter to Our Amir Sheikh Ayman Al-Zawahiri", attributed to Ibrahim 'Al-Afghani' "on behalf of the silent majority" of Al-Shabaab fighters, dismisses the Shura and criticizes the autocratic leadership style of Godane:

7. Furthermore, 'Al-Afghani' calls for more "justice" within Al-Shabaab, and appeals to Godane to resolve internal conflicts through the Sharia court of the organisation, to stop "spilling the blood of the mujahideen", and "not to take revenge with unjust arrests, but instead to release those who were unjustly arrested" and currently jailed in "several types of secret prisons that are for the Emir". If the letter is genuine, it indicates perhaps that Godane may have centralized most of Al-Shabaab's executive powers to the detriment of the Shura and its members.

8. Second, the introduction to an audio recording released by a jihadist forum on 11 May 2013 and credited to the main figure of the international mujahidin in Somalia, Omar Hammami 'Abu Mansur Al-Amriki', also refers to attempts to revive the Shura and resolve internal issues:

Allah is the Witness that we tried to end these disagreements secretly and then publicly for many years. I was a member in the Shura Council of the Al-Shabaab movement since its inception with Saleh al-Nabhan<sup>4</sup> and other emigrants and local supporters, and then they put on me the responsibility of the position of the Deputy Shura Emir and the position of the Emir of the Shura Committee, and in spite of that we didn't find any use in the reform attempts.<sup>5</sup>

9. Lastly, on 17 May 2013, another audio file was posted on a jihadist forum by the Islamic World Issues Study Center (IWISC), and described as the recording of a press conference of Hassan Dahir Aweys about the current situation in Somalia, in which he declares that:

The result of abandoning the Shura is despotism and dictatorship. Allah had vilified Pharaoh for such a despotic mentality in His words: "I show you only that which I see, and I guide you only to the path of right policy!" [From Ghafir 40:29]

The abandonment of the Shura also resulted in the suspension of the administrative structures and the marginalizing of the Ummah, its scholars and its elites, and that resulted also in weakening the domestic lines and making people go away from it. [...].

Thus, the mujahideen and the Muslim Somali people must bear their responsibility and do their duty that is made incumbent on them by Allah, while strengthening these important elements: Shariah, Shura and then organized administration.

10. Aweys also quotes a hadith recalling its audience that "Allah ordered His Prophet to use Shura to endear the hearts of his Companions and for them to follow his example in matters where there is no clear revelation".<sup>6</sup>

11. In addition, Aweys condemns the "pressure, slander, assassination" of foreign mujahidin, and "launching raids against them", in a clear reference to recent events targeting 'Al-Amriki'. He also denounces, echoing the text attributed to 'Al-Afghani', the "law of the jungle" ruling Al-Shabaab, a consequence according to him of the decline of its unconditional obedience to the Sharia.

12. Internal dissensions amongst Al-Shabaab's top leadership have had no impact so far on its ability to conduct operations in Somalia. Nevertheless, a scenario in which Al-Shabaab's military structure dissolves into its component factions is still possible, which could subsequently result in the creation of a new type of clan-based fiefdoms in Somalia, controlled then by Islamist warlords.

Military structure

13. The military apparatus of Al-Shabaab appears to be under the strong influence of Fu'ad 'Shongole' and Mukhtar Robow, generally, and Abdirahman 'Filow' in Lower Juba and Sheikh Yusuf Sheikh Isse (a.k.a. 'Kabakutukade') in Middle Shabelle. These commanders reportedly hold key positions in the military structure, despite apparent tensions at the political level. On a daily basis, they are involved in recruitment, movements of fighters, as well as providing instructions for military ground operations throughout southern and central Somalia.

Reportedly the structure of Al-Shabaab's military apparatus

14. The basic military unit of Shabaab is an extremely mobile platoon-size group of between 20 and 30 fighters, each armed with Kalashnikov-pattern assault rifles and hand grenades. An average of a dozen fighters also carry mid-range weaponry, including PKM-type machineguns and rocket-propelled grenade systems (RPGs). In some propaganda videos, Al-Shabaab displays some fighters carrying Dragonov-type sniper rifles, although reports of sniper attacks are not frequent, except in the Juba region.<sup>7</sup>

15. Al-Shabaab platoon-sized units conduct primarily Kamiinah (guerrilla) type operations and Jukta Culus (hit-and-run) type attacks. In a message posted on 22 February 2012, the administrator of @saud_khalifaa, one of the Twitter accounts which used to promote Al-Shabaab on the internet,<sup>8</sup> summarized the current military strategy of the organisation:

The enemy advances, we retreat; the enemy camps, we harass; the enemy tires, we attack; He retreats, we pursue.

16. Therefore this strategy is not intended to recapture lost positions. Rather, Al-Shabaab aims at "fixing" AMISOM and government troops, and their allied militias, on multiple fronts. This disperses their resources and manpower and multiplies the number of necessary supply routes, which are amongst Al-Shabaab's preferred targets. Such a military strategy has an important psychological impact, and gives the impression that Al-Shabaab is more pervasive than it is, seeming to be able to operate anywhere at anytime.

17. Al-Shabaab tactics, techniques and procedures are further detailed in annex 1.5.

Case study: Al-Shabaab in Jowhar, Middle Shabelle region of Somalia

The Monitoring Group was given access by a military intelligence source to contact records of interviews conducted in November 2012 with a group of ten Al-Shabaab defectors from Middle Shabelle. They were part of a larger group of 249 men who defected to AMISOM on 22 September 2012 in Garsaale neighbourhood, with 74 AK47-type assault rifles, 4 G3-type assault rifles, magazines, one pistol and one handgrenade. Al-Shabaab vacated Jowhar on 7 December 2012, a couple of days after AMISOM and Somali Armed Forces took control of the town.<sup>9</sup>

Presumed Al-Shabaab fighters surrendering to AMISOM in Garsaale, Middle Shabelle, on 22 September 2012<sup>10</sup>

The defectors were mainly youth recruited among the Bantu community, also known as Jareer Weyne, composed of farmers settled for centuries along the banks of the Shabelle River. Most of the fighters allegedly joined the movement in order to protect their families from possible attacks, since they belong to a minority clan. They said they feared that the Al-Shabaab members from the more powerful Abgal and Gaaljeel clans, prominent within Al-Shabaab in this region, would take their land. Somali media reported on hundreds of youth from the Bantu communities being forcibly paraded in Jowhar on 16 March 2012, after being recruited by Al-Shabaab.<sup>11</sup>

According to their testimonies, in September 2012, Al-Shabaab forces in Jowhar and its surrounding areas, headquartered at Jowhar Police Station, totalled 280 fighters divided into three different components:

- Hisbah unit (a.k.a. al-Hisbah, or aysh al-Hisbah) of 150 fighters, responsible for implementing the Shari'a, community policing, and manning checkpoints;
- Zakawat unit (a.k.a. the "extortion unit") of 33 fighters, responsible for the collection of local taxes, considered by Al-Shabaab propaganda to be a religious obligation, in reference to compulsory zakat to support the jihad; and
- Jabhad forces (a.k.a. the "revolutionary front"), a 100-strong mobile military unit, equipped with three pick-up trucks mounted with 12.7 millimetre "Dushka" anti-aircraft machine-guns.

The Al-Shabaab forces were under the command of the governor of Middle Shabelle, Sheikh Yusuf Isse 'Kabakutukade' (Hawiye / Abgaal). The wage paid by Al-Shabaab to its fighters was a minimum of 100 USD and a maximum of 500 USD, depending upon clan affiliation and seniority. Furthermore, at a ratio of 1 Hisbah fighter per 400 inhabitants, Al-Shabaab policing of Jowhar corresponded to an international standard for securing public places and buildings.

According to the defectors, the Zakawat units were collecting from checkpoints and businesses an average of 25,000 USD per day, or 750,000 USD per month. The town of Jowhar, the regional capital with an estimated population of 60,000 inhabitants, is ideally located in a fertile area known for its sugarcane plantations, on the main road connecting Mogadishu to the North of the country. If accurate, these figures would indicate that Al-Shabaab has drastically increased its level of taxation in areas under its control as compared to data collected and presented by the Monitoring Group in its 2011 report, even accounting for the growth of the Somali economy.

Amniyat

18. The Amniyat is the special clandestine division of Al-Shabaab, under the direct leadership of Ahmed Godane and operational command of Mahad Mohamed Ali, a.k.a. 'Karate'.<sup>14</sup> Indicating the significance of the Amniyat inside the organisation to the detriment of its military apparatus, Karate is also considered by to be the Amir's deputy.<sup>15</sup> Amniyat combines a wide range of responsibilities, ranging from intelligence gathering and counter-intelligence to clandestine and special operations.

19. The structure of the Amniyat is understood to be organized as follows:

- Central command;
- Regional commanders;
- Finance and logistics support units;
- Intelligence collection units;
- Grenade attacks/assassination squads; and
- Suicide operations squads.

20. Each Amniyat unit is autonomous, designated by a codename (e.g. Arqaladen or Madah Jebis units in Mogadishu), and in principle unaware of other groups, for security reasons in case of arrest and interrogation. Intelligence is collected by smaller units, or even lone operatives, and transmitted to the unit commander, who then transmits necessary information to assassination or suicide squads to prepare operations. The Monitoring Group has obtained clear indications that the Amniyat is responsible for most of the person- and vehicle-borne suicide attacks, in spite of Al-Shabaab attributing them to the "martyrdom brigade".<sup>16</sup>

21. On 5 May 2013, in the vicinity of K4 in Mogadishu, a suicide vehicle-borne IED attack targeted a government convoy transporting high-level officials from the Qatari security services, in spite of precise intelligence reports anticipating the immanent attack and reinforcement of security measures, including total disruption of road traffic for three days to mitigate the threat. This demonstrates Al-Shabaab's ability to plan and execute a targeted attack in the middle of the national capital, even under such circumstances.<sup>17</sup>

22. The Monitoring Group was able to interview three ex Amniyat operatives.<sup>18</sup> One of these, a former member of an assassination squad, detailed the Amniyat modus operandi, from transmission of orders, to deployment of the operative, the designation of the target and execution of the mission. Notably, he described:

We are tasked on the phone to go to some place, sit in a teashop, and then on the phone we are told that the target is the guy passing right now in front of you.<sup>19</sup>

23. The Amniyat operatives interviewed by the Monitoring Group were young men, around 20 years old, with certain intellectual and operational capabilities or language skills (like Arabic), and with family and clan connections to high-level Al-Shabaab commanders. Initially, new operatives are assigned to intelligence collection units and tasked as drivers for foreign fighters (reporting on unusual events such as unauthorized meetings or suspicious telephone calls) or receptionists at guesthouses for foreign fighters (recording visitors names, including women, and date and time of arrival and departure)—all indicating the Al-Shabaab leadership's mistrust in jihadists. Members of Amniyat receive higher salaries than others in Al-Shabaab, with a junior operative paid 300 to 400 USD per month, and have their expenses covered by the organization or a dedicated Amniyat logistics officer.

24. Occasionally, without prior notice or knowledge of the nature of the assignment, operatives are instructed to reinforce Godane's security details. They also at times support units conducting hit-and-run attacks against AMISOM or SNA positions.

25. Amniyat operations are concentrated mainly in Mogadishu, where grenade attacks and assassinations occur weekly. Some incidents are not related to Al-Shabaab, but to business disputes, clan revenge or political conflicts. Nevertheless, at the time of writing, some 200 Amniyat operatives, commanders and support officers are deployed in Mogadishu.

Probable Amniyat structure in Mogadishu as of December 2012 (names are purposely not readable, to protect ongoing investigations and sources)

26. The Monitoring Group was also provided with confidential information regarding the preparation at the end of 2012 and the partial execution of a large-scale assassination operation by an Amniyat cell in Mogadishu. The objective was to mobilize a team of 25 Amniyat operatives to conduct a wave of assassinations of national intelligence officers and members of the Federal parliament. To that end, money was collected amongst supporters of Al-Shabaab within the Somali business community in Qatar and sent via Dahabshil, a money remittance company, to Mogadishu, where it was received by the Amniyat Finance Officer in Mogadishu, Ali Mohammed Ali 'Abdullahi', and delivered to the Amniyat commander in charge of the operation.

27. The Monitoring Group had further access to three additional cases in which cash U.S. dollars were collected from the Somali business communities in Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates, and transferred by remittance companies to Mogadishu, with the knowledge and aim of financing terrorist activity in Somalia, and specifically to support Amniyat operations in Mogadishu. In the period October to December 2012, the aggregate amount transferred for the four operations was approximately 100,000 USD.<sup>21</sup> In addition to spreading fear amongst the population and government officials, Somali businessmen in the diaspora supporting Amniyat assassinations may serve to achieve ulterior goals, whether clan revenge or elimination of business competitors or political opponents.

28. In a press communiqué dated 18 April 2013, the so-called Press Office of Harakat Al-Shabaab Al-Mujahideen claimed responsibility for the killing of "127 Somali intelligence agents, officials and spies in Mogadishu", and for the subsequent resignation of the head of the National Intelligence and Security Agency (NISA) of Somalia, Ahmad Mo'alim Fiqi. It further stated that the assassination campaign was conducted by the "Mujahideen counter-intelligence teams" in Mogadishu, and led by the "Muhammad Ibn Maslamah Brigade".<sup>22</sup> The phrase "counter-intelligence teams" is in reference to Amniyat. However, the high casualty figure appears to be propaganda, since, according to UN statistics, only 22 individuals were assassinated by Al-Shabaab in Mogadishu between January and March 2013.<sup>23</sup>

29. Overall, Amniyat, as an organization within an organization, was most likely intended by Godane to survive Al-Shabaab, in the event that the movement was deprived of any territorial control or clan and political support in Somalia, or if it split into its constituent factions. Amniyat is structured like a clandestine terrorist organisation, able to function underground and subsist in areas under Government/AMISOM control, while Al-Shabaab's military apparatus operates more as a conventional armed opposition group. Even if the main body of Al-Shabaab's forces were demobilized as the result of a combined military and political approach of the FGS and the international community at regional and local levels, Amniyat could remain operational.

Annex 1.2.d: Al-Shabaab press communiqué about "Campaign of attacks against the Apostate Intelligence Agency"

HSMPress @HSMPRESS1 18th April 2013 from TwitLonger

PRESS RELEASE: Campaign of attacks against the Apostate Intelligence Agency.

Mogadishu (18/04/2013). In the Name of Allah, the Most Beneficent, the Most Merciful.

As the Jihad against the Crusaders and their apostate allies continues in Somalia, the Mujahideen have been conducting a series of coordinated attacks against the coalition of disbelievers who are bent on desecrating the noble faith of Islam and contaminating it with the evil of democracy.

In a campaign of attacks, carried out by the 'Muhammad Ibn Maslamah Brigade' and launched in January 2013/Safar 1434, the Mujahideen have been specifically targeting the security apparatus of the apostate regime in Mogadishu, namely the intelligence agency and the police force. The intelligence agency is made up hundreds of apostate agents who are trained, funded and work under the auspices of several Western intelligence agencies so as to persecute Muslims in Somalia and secure the interests of the Crusaders in this Muslim land.

Mujahideen counter-intelligence teams have carried out a string of high-profile assassinations targeting senior apostate intelligence officials as well as coordinated attacks against the different sections of these agencies. And by the permission of Allah alone, the Mujahideen have succeeded in eliminating more than 127 apostate intelligence officials and mid-level operatives and spies since the launch of the campaign.

The large number of deaths has resulted in the implosion of the apostate intelligence agency and the resignation of the apostate heads of intelligence, giving a fresh impetus to the campaign of the Mujahideen. Most recently, the apostate head of the intelligence, Ahmad Mo'alim Fiqi, was sacked last month for failing to prevent the Mujahideen from carrying out the deadly attacks that rocked the capital and killed many of their senior operatives, and until now no one has been formally appointed to be in charge of the agency.

The campaign goes hand in hand with the military operations against the African Crusaders in all the regions of South/Central Somalia and the Mujahideen vow to strengthen and double their efforts in the coming months, insha-Allah, until not a single apostate spy raises his head above ground. And Allah has full power and control over His Affairs, but most of mankind know it not.

Annex 1.3: Al-Shabaab recruitment and training

1. The Monitoring Group has had access to classified information regarding the presence in Somalia of 20 training camps, particularly in the Lower Shabelle region, including a "suicide training school" in the vicinity of Barawe, as well as in the Bay, Hiran, and Galgadud regions. According to photographs seen by the Monitoring Group, Al-Shabaab training camps generally consist of basic tents and huts hidden in areas covered by forest, and do not comprise fixed structures, with the exception of some specialised training that is or was taking place in former government or military compounds. Additionally, these camps are constantly relocated, generally after one or two training sessions, for security reasons but also for logistical purposes, since Al-Shabaab tends to set up new camps in areas where large numbers of youth are being recruited.

2. Charismatic members of the Shura, namely Fu'ad 'Shongole', 'Ali Dhere' and Mukhtar Robow, play an important role in the recruitment process of new Al-Shabaab fighters, not least because they represent the three main clans in Somalia, respectively the Darod, Hawiye, and Rahanweyn. They regularly meet regional and local Al-Shabaab commanders, as well as clan elders, reportedly offering them financial incentives to mobilize youth and young boys. According to an intelligence report, on one occasion Shongole offered 1800 USD to a senior clan leader of Lower Shabelle in exchange for 150 young boys.<sup>1</sup> However, UN reports indicate that Al-Shabaab also forcibly abducts children and young boys in communities resisting 'voluntary' recruitment (see section V.C on child soldiers of the main Somalia report).

3. New Al-Shabaab recruits initially receive three months of basic military training, which can be reduced to a month if there are pressures at the frontline for more troops. Thereafter, some trainees continue to take specialized courses in assembling IEDs, sniping, or guerrilla warfare. According to a former Amniyat operative interviewed by the Monitoring Group, for those selected to join Amniyat, these courses include intelligence collection or assassination, though Amniyat mostly conducts its own recruitment process separately.<sup>2</sup>

4. The same former Amniyat operative referred to a 50-year old Sudanese national called 'Hassan', who was serving as a senior training instructor for Al-Shabaab and who claimed to be formerly with the Sudanese military. According to this source, 'Hassan' is also known as 'Jimale', 'Yusuf' or 'Abdi Madobe', and was specifically tasked by Ayman Al-Zawahiri, the Amir of Al-Qaida, to train in Somalia African jihadists who are unable to travel to Afghanistan and Pakistan. 'Hassan' is reportedly in contact with Al-Qaida operatives as well as Godane, in order to plan training strategies and programmes for Al-Shabaab and other Al-Qaida affiliates in Africa.<sup>3</sup>

5. Furthermore, the former Amniyat operative claimed he had been 'Hassan's personal translator during his time at Wabxo training camp, in the Galgadud region of Somalia. He stated that he witnessed the presence of one Nigerian in Somalia, killed on 2 May 2011 near the former Defence Ministry in Mogadishu, as well as several Yemenis, Kenyans and Ethiopians, who were acquainted with 'Hassan'. 'Hassan' was also reportedly supervising a training camp in South Sudan, at the border with Kenya, and left Somalia for Nigeria with a group of Boko Haram fighters after the completion of their training in March 2011.<sup>4</sup>

6. In addition to the existence of 20 training camps in Al-Shabaab-controlled areas of southern and central Somalia, the Monitoring Group obtained details regarding 12 training sessions organised between August and December 2012. These included 6 basic military training courses attended by 925 new recruits.

Geographical distribution of Al-Shabaab training camps in southern and central Somalia, operational between August and December 2012

- 7. During the same period, several specialised training programmes were conducted, as follows:
  - two Amniyat training sessions attended by 50 recruits;
  - three specialised courses in IEDs attended by 115 fighters; and
  - two specialised artillery courses on indirect fire with 60 and 80 millimetre mortar tubes, B-10 recoilless guns and rocket-propelled grenade launchers, attended by 46 fighters.

8. Overall, Al-Shabaab strives to maintain its military operational readiness, combining both recruitment campaigns and training programmes. However, ground observation following attacks conducted by Al-Shabaab "artillery units" appears to indicate that specialized training, notably in terms of indirect fire, are yet to have an impact on Al-Shabaab's military effectiveness (see also annex 1.5).

Annex 1.4: Foreign fighters with Al-Shabaab

1. According to a confidential report made available by a military intelligence service to the Monitoring Group, about 300 foreigners are presently fighting alongside Al-Shabaab in Somalia. In addition to participation in military operations, their role includes technical assistance with weapons systems, operational planning, training, manufacturing of IEDs, IT support, medical assistance and media and public relations. However, there is no report yet indicating the participation of a foreign fighter in a suicide attack.

Unidentified Al-Shabaab "white-skin" foreign fighter (first on the left) wearing a Western-style desert military uniform during a parade, which took place according to Shabaab-related media in Barawe on 29 April 2013<sup>1</sup>

2. The Monitoring Group excludes from its definition of a foreign fighter those individuals of Somali descent or holding dual citizenship. The nationalities most frequently represented among the foreign fighters are Yemeni, Sudanese, and Kenyan. The larger numbers of foreign fighters are in the region of Barawe, Lower Shabelle. Foreign fighters are regularly invited by Al-Shabaab propaganda to "migrate" to Somalia - the hijrah - and join Al-Shabaab to conduct jihad against the "apostate regime" and its "foreign crusaders".

3. Foreign fighters have actively participated in various capacities in the Somali conflict since the 1990s. They fought alongside Al-Ittihad al-Islamiya (AIAI) in response to the Ethiopian invasion of 2006 and in support of the Mu'askar Ras Kamboni forces (MRK) defence of the Jubalands. They subsequently joined Al-Shabaab following the defeat of the Union of Islamic Courts (UIC). However, since the successful launch of "Operation Linda Nchi" by the Kenya Defence Forces and their deployment in AMISOM's Sector 2 (Kismayo), there has been an increasing exodus from Somalia of

Al-Shabaab foreign fighters, including those from Al Hijra in Kenya and others affiliated with Al-Qaida.<sup>2</sup>

4. The departure of foreign fighters from Somalia has been explained, in part, by the military reverses suffered by Al-Shabaab coupled with its loss of revenue, in addition to internal dissension in the organization. However, a number of foreign fighters have left Somalia with the intention of supporting jihad in the region, offering direct support to known extremists, in addition to an attempt to revive Al-Qaida East in Africa (AQEA) by aligning with its associated members. While such an attempt may be aspirational, there is some evidence to warrant its careful consideration.

Foreign fighters' discontent

5. The Monitoring Group has received testimonies indicating that a significant number of foreign fighters, including East African and overseas nationals, have deserted Al-Shabaab for a combination of reasons, including hardships involving at times financial constraints, mistreatment, discrimination and detention on suspicion of being a spy by Al-Shabaab.<sup>3</sup>

6. On 31 December 2011, Kenya police issued an alert that an Al-Shabaab cell of 15 members, mainly composed of Somalia-based Al Hijra fighters, had entered the country from Kismayo.<sup>4</sup> According to the Kenyan police press conference held on the same day, a Somalia-based Al Hijra fighter "X", who is known to the Monitoring Group and has been mentioned in its previous reports, had also arrived in the country with the others to carry out attacks.<sup>5</sup> This cell had in fact entered Kenya through Hamey in Fafi district, Northeastern Province.<sup>6</sup> However, during "X's" debriefing with the Directorate of Military Intelligence (DMI) in December 2011, it transpired that "X" had not entered Kenya to carry out an attack but had joined the cell as a means of deserting Al-Shabaab.<sup>7</sup>

7. According to a series of email communications with another Al Hijra member between 11 and 13 March 2012, "X" explained that his reasons for deserting Al-Shabaab in Somalia were a combination of "racism" by his Somali-Al-Shabaab associates, internal "wrangles" and disputes within the Al-Shabaab leadership.

 $<sup>^2</sup>$  Throughout the Somali conflict and in its various stages, fighters with peripheral and direct links to Al-Qaida have had a continuous presence in Somalia. Due to the contentious nature of describing fighters in Somalia as "Al-Qaida", the Monitoring Group has referred to Somalia-based foreign fighters as "Al-Qaida affiliated".

8. 'Al-Amriki' has also publicly exposed the discontent among Al-Shabaab's foreign fighters via the Twitter account @abuamerican, corroborating "X's" account that foreign fighters have exited Somalia for similar reasons.<sup>9</sup>

9. In February 2013, the Monitoring Group received further testimony from a former East African fighter in Somalia and close associate of the Al Hijra 'Amir' Ahmad Iman Ali 'Abu Zanirah', Al-Shabaab's representative for Kenyan affairs. Accordingly, a number of East African fighters affiliated with Al Hijra under Ahmad Iman's command have been increasingly demoralized and unable to continue fighting alongside Al-Shabaab. Deserters have claimed that they left Al-Shabaab not only because of "racism" by their fellow Somali fighters but also due to financial difficulties.<sup>10</sup> While groups like Al Hijra receive funds from Kenya through the Pumwani Riyadha Mosque Committee (see annex 2) and elsewhere, such funds are distributed inequitably<sup>11</sup> and many fighters have to seek assistance from family members, associates in Kenya and at times contacts in the diaspora.

10. International fighters more affiliated with Al-Qaida have endured similar hardships while fighting alongside Al-Shabaab. An alleged member of the Shura, Zubeir al-Muhajir, addressed a letter to Godane entitled "Yes, there is a problem" and published on jihadist online forums on 24 April 2013, stating:

There is a problem, because you detained a number of emigrants with the charge that they were joining the apostates. Despite the judgment of the secret court that proved their innocence, you continue to treat them like criminals and you sent some of them away to countries of disbelief and you pursue the others!

A while ago, you made a secret decision that states not to receive the emigrants coming from outside, whether individuals or families, but you didn't announce that decision. I'm afraid that the emigrant will travel and bear the difficulties of the emigration and then end up either not participating in jihad or being imprisoned by the disbelievers.

Isn't this a problem?!<sup>13</sup>

11. How Al-Shabaab markets itself amongst the jihadist community (see annex 1.6), welcoming jihadist from all over the world and promoting the hijrah to Somalia, contradicts these testimonies of foreign fighters denouncing living conditions and the perpetual suspicion that they are 'spies'.

On 11 May 2012, Jordanian national Najjar Majd was arrested by Kenyan security services on suspicion of planning a terrorist attack in Kenya with other unknown members of Al-Shabaab, though evidence was lacking at his court trial.<sup>2</sup> Born in Amman Jordan, 'Abu Sa'ad' had apparently moved to Switzerland with his parents as a young boy but not as a refugee.<sup>3</sup>

Al-Qaida affiliate Najjar Majd Abu Sa'ad al-Urduni

'Abu Sa'ad' had travelled to Somalia to fight alongside Al-Shabaab and arrived in Kenya on 23 February 2011. Uncorroborated reports suggest 'Abu Sa'ad' was assisted by two unknown Somalis, one who had facilitated his travel from Nairobi through to Garissa and another escorting him from Garissa to Hagadera refugee camp in Dadaab. From Garissa, 'Abu Sa'ad' was transported to Dobely inside Somalia to join Al-Shabaab.<sup>4</sup>

According to information attributed to 'Abu Sa'ad' and corroborated by former East African fighters who had met him in Somalia, following his military training, he spent time in Mogadishu and Baidoa, two Al-Shabaab strongholds at the time. According to his own account, 'Abu Sa'ad' was detained by Al-Shabaab on suspicion of being a spy at a time when there were growing internal tensions between some Al-Qaida-affiliated fighters, including Emrah Erdogan 'Salahuddin al-Kurdi', and the leadership of Al-Shabaab. Other foreign fighters corroborated the fact that a number of Al-Qaida-affiliated fighters were in conflict with Al-Shabaab, including a Somali-based member of Al Hijra associated with 'Salahuddin al-Kurdi'.

A number of foreign fighters, including 'Abu Sa'ad', have justified in part their departure from Somalia on the unexplained circumstances of the death of Fazul Abdullah Mohammed in June 2011.<sup>5</sup> In fact, 'Abu Sa'ad' claimed that some Al-Qaida-affiliated fighters in Somalia believed that Al-Shabaab played a crucial role in Fazul's death.

As a result of death threats from Al-Shabaab, according to 'Abu Sa'ad', he and another Al-Qaida-affiliated fighter known to the Monitoring Group left Somalia between April and May 2012 and entered Kenya through Hagadera refugee camp. They proceeded to Garissa where they sought the assistance of senior Kenyan police officer, Felix Jay Munyambu, in securing safe passage to Nairobi with a police escort. Munyambu did not act out of religious conviction or for financial gain, but thought he was assisting two stranded NGO workers.<sup>6</sup>

On arriving in Nairobi, 'Abu Sa'ad' and his associate parted ways. The Al-Qaida affiliated fighter claimed he would travel to Yemen, while 'Abu Sa'ad' went to the Orchid Hotel in Nairobi where he was later arrested. Although 'Abu Sa'ad's account appears to be accurate in part, his associate in leaving Somalia maintained contact with other known Al-Qaida and Al Hijra-affiliated fighters in Kenya and Tanzania, his ultimate destination.<sup>7</sup>

Annex 1.5: Al-Shabaab tactics, techniques and procedures

Weaponry developments

1. Al-Shabaab has repeatedly chosen to trade the loss of ground against the preservation of its military capability. Its withdrawal from Mogadishu and other cities in 2011, 2012 and 2013 demonstrated that it avoided set-battles with AMISOM and the SNA if confronted with larger weapons systems. It altered its posture from the conventional holding of urban centres to asymmetrical approaches to warfare. It has reverted to guerrilla tactics aimed at maintaining its mobility and engaging in combat on its own terms. In doing so, it has buried arms caches at abandoned locations<sup>1</sup> and used portable weapons systems for shifting between positions. It has further developed its IED methods and resorted more to targeted killings by various means. Consequently, Al-Shabaab proved capable of responding quickly and effectively to sudden political and security changes, such as its rapid reoccupation of Hudur town, the capital of the Bakol region, following the withdrawal of Ehthiopian forces on 17 March 2013.

2. Meanwhile, Al-Shabaab has continued to develop its weapons resources and capabilities. For instance, the seizure by Puntland authorities of a suitcase transported by an Al-Shabaab operative in Galkayo South indicated a high level specialist knowledge among Al-Shabaab suppliers and bomb makers. The suitcase contained a complete and professionally assembled "bomb manufacturer kit"<sup>2</sup> consisting of a fully-rigged suicide vest, anti-armour IEDs, TNT explosives, hand grenades, IED components, together with bomb-making tools and equipment. The kit also contained medical gloves, suggesting awareness about leaving human markers on IEDs that may be subjected to forensic investigation.

3. In March 2013, seizures from Al-Shabaab IED transport operations revealed another significant development in anti-armour IEDs modified by the addition of adjustable stands to orient and aim the charge to better penetrate armoured vehicles. Distinguishable from explosively formed penetrators (EFP) by their sand-casted manufacturing process, these IEDs project small missiles on detonation.<sup>3</sup>

4. A number of press reports refer to Al-Shabaab's possession of artillery pieces and SA-7 surface-to-air missiles. Al-Shabaab has displayed several of its fighters with such missiles and at least two 122mm tracked canons, probably inherited from the Soviet arms legacy in Somalia (see annex 6.1). However, Al-Shabaab has never used such weapons on the battlefield, suggesting technical limitations, and instead exploit them for propaganda purposes. Nevertheless, on 25 October 2012, the Monitoring Group inspected one SA-7, recovered from Al-Shabaab without the launcher, stored at Mogadishu International Airport for future disposal, and was able to confirm that it was part of the same batch of missiles documented by the Monitoring Group two years ago (S/2011/433).

5. Al-Shabaab continues to use mostly 81mm and 82mm calibre mortars in attacks in AMISOM Sectors 1 (Mogadishu) and 2 (Kismayo), but with limited accuracy and effect. Al-Shabaab has sought external training in mortar usage and senior commanders of Al-Shabaab announced their intentions to establish mortar training camps in Lower Juba and Galgudud. However, there has been no discernible improvement in fire control in Al-Shabaab's mortar attacks. Al-Shabaab mortared AMISOM positions near Kismayo port for weeks in late 2012 without causing damage. It seems, therefore, that Al-Shabaab is yet to access the relevant training.<sup>4</sup>

6. In January 2013, the 1st Brigade of the SNA discovered two improvised surface-to-surface rockets in an Al-Shabaab arms cache near Jowhar. These homemade missiles are a new weapons system appearing for the first time and are somewhat similar to those used in the Gaza Strip and Syria. Given their crude manufacture and probably inaccuracy, it is not clear if they were intended to be used on the battlefield or for propaganda purposes. Al-Shabaab has in the past spent resources on the fabrication of improvised weapons systems for no real operational benefit (see also annex 6.1).

7. Since the KDF advance on Afmadow in June 2012, there have been reports of Al-Shabaab's effective use of snipers. Such a capability resides with the foreign fighters that have joined Al-Shabaab. At present, these elements are believed to be based mainly in the areas of Jilib and Jamame.<sup>5</sup>

Al-Shabaab fighters, two of them carrying sniper rifles, during a parade which took place according to Shabaab-related media in Barawe, on 29 April 2013<sup>6</sup>

8. Al-Shabaab is often able to access arms by rapidly integrating into the SNA as defectors and subsequently deserting back to Al-Shabaab with their individual weapons.<sup>7</sup> At the same time, most of the major seizures of weapons belonging to or destined for Al-Shabaab were the result of collaboration by the civilian population or defections of key Al-Shabaab officers, especially from Amniyat units.<sup>8</sup>

Proliferation and diversification of IED attacks

9. Key to maintaining a flexible capability to adapt to new circumstances and launching asymmetrical attacks is the use of IEDs in various forms, whether vehicle-borne IEDs (VBIED), person-borne IEDs (PBIED) (mostly in Mogadishu), and roadside IEDs aimed at AMISOM's lines of supply and communication. Roadside IEDs are at times combined with prolonged attacks on AMISOM defensive positions or convoys along the Mogadishu-Afgoye-Marka road. AMISOM has tended to use this narrow road with several known vulnerable points that explains the high rate of Al-Shabaab attacks on it. In addition, single IED attacks are common and used in the manner of periodic small arms fire or sniping.

10. When Al-Shabaab arranges more complex ambushes against convoys, it tends to use a combination of large-blast IEDs or anti-tank weapons such as RPGs followed by small arms fire. When attacking fixed AMISOM and SNA positions, Al-Shabaab combines indirect mortar and small arms fire. Multiple PBIED attacks are mostly used against Somali targets in Mogadishu.<sup>9</sup>

Screenshot of a video released on 19 April 2013 showing an Al-Shabaab fighter planting an anti-armor mine in preparation for an ambush of an AMISOM/KDF convoy in the region of Bibi, Lower Juba<sup>10</sup>

11. The use of IEDs as part of Al-Shabaab's tactics aim at fixing AMISOM forces on all their fronts as they expand the area and scope of their military operations. This has both a physical and psychological effect. Al-Shabaab attacks AMISOM at its vulnerable points while projecting the image that Al-Shabaab has a more pervasive presence in Somalia than it does.

12. Al-Shabaab's tactics, techniques and procedures have evolved in part depending upon how a particular context affects the effective use of IEDs. In areas where Al-Shabaab continues to benefit from some measure of popular support, such as Marka, IEDs tend to be used more systematically. In tactical terms, this indicates that Al-Shabaab IED specialist individuals or teams have probably remained in the area for an extended period and are able to learn from experiences and enhance their skills. In places like Marka, IED attacks are better planned, prepared and executed. By contrast, in places where Al-Shabaab does not benefit from any measure of popular support, its pattern of IED attacks reflects a more ad hoc approach to less effect.<sup>11</sup>

13. In the countryside, roadside IED attacks have been combined with small arms fire and RPGs, and incorporate more elaborate ambush tactics, such as an escalating sequence of actions. The attack on an AMISOM convoy in Leego, Bay region, on 15 January 2013 was the first example of a complex ambush, which included use of a large explosive charge.<sup>12</sup> More commonly, IED attacks targeting vehicles are placed in the centre of track marks.

14. In April 2013, there was a sharp increase in multiple IED attacks in Mogadishu, including PBIEDs, targeted killings at close quarter, as well as roadside IEDs. Such attacks are motivated both by Al-Shabaab's objectives, but also dissension amongst Somali political and business actors, and often are political rather than military in nature. For example, in an attack on a convoy carrying a delegation from Qatar on 5 May 2013, a reserve of pre-prepared VBIEDs and PBIEDs were deployed at the busy and well-controlled K4 area of Mogadishu on short notice.<sup>13</sup>

IED statistics

15. For many years, data on IEDs has lacked proper categorization and a systematic approach to information-gathering, leading to poor quality statistics. Since 2012, IED data categorized and processed has improved leading to a higher number of reported incidents.<sup>14</sup> With experience and over time, there has been a more systematic approach to reporting with more accurate data, but also a better understanding of tactical trends through analysis of the individual incidents dynamics. Over the years, the following numbers of incidents have been recorded: 2007 - 22; 2008 - 6; 2009 - 55; 2010 - 35; 2011 - 116; and 2012 - 181.

16. IEDs are now categorized as: explosions, time command, victim-operated, finds, hoaxes and fakes. As of 2013, hoaxes are included as a specific type of IED incident. Hoaxes are mechanisms resembling an IED but lacking an explosive, and designed as a deception or to assess the tactical response of opposing forces. In some cases, hoaxes are used to fix the opposing force at a location and then engage it by other means, hence their importance in the IED typology. IED hoaxes are treated as real IEDs until their true nature is confirmed by an IED specialist.

17. The latest statistics for January to April 2013 for Somalia are as follows:<sup>16</sup>

Weapons supply routes

18. To maintain a flow of arms, corresponding to a renewed IED campaign, Al-Shabaab exploits a complex network of supply routes throughout Somalia. A long logistical chain begins in northern Somalia, extending southwards. At Galkayo South, the route splits into several different ones through which ready-made IEDs are delivered at various Al-Shabaab hubs for onward passage to final destinations in central and southern Somalia. By the end of 2012, several intelligence reports noted that Middle Shabelle was quickly becoming a staging point for the final assembly of IEDs and a launching point for attacks.

19. In Puntland, Al-Shabaab's supply networks are using small ports and natural harbours in remote areas adjacent to Bosaso and east of it.<sup>18</sup> The Bari region offers key advantages for illicit and clandestine operations, including a lack of Government presence, its proximity to southeast Yemen, and an absence of infrastructure in a rugged terrain. Also, the terrain of the Bari coast with elevations above narrow beaches is conducive for smuggling operations. High coastal cliffs provide vantage points for oncoming threats, and the beaches have a controlled access with many natural caves to hide cargo and arms caches.<sup>19</sup>

20. Additionally, the area west of Bosaso, including Erigavo and Las Anod, offer many options for weapons smugglers to discreetly move illicit cargo between Somaliland, Puntland, eastern Ethiopia and central Somalia, as well as alternative ports such as Xiis and Maydt between Berbera and Las Qoray.

21. During the monsoon seasons, from approximately December to February and June to August, weather conditions in the Gulf of Aden affect shipping between Yemen and northeast Somalia. High winds and rough seas force smugglers to shift their arms shipping activities towards the western part of the Gulf of Aden and the shortest crossing point at the Bab-el-Mandeb strait.<sup>20</sup>

22. Overall, Al-Shabaab's supply networks in Somalia exploit remote areas that are not controlled by either Al-Shabaab or Government forces. Despite significant seizures of arms supplies reportedly destined to Al-Shabaab in Puntland, IED capabilities further south have not been disrupted, indicating weapons reserves sufficient to sustain Al-Shabaab's current asymmetrical military strategy.

Annex 1.6: Al-Shabaab media strategy

1. Al-Shabaab maintains a strong presence across Somalia's media through two radio stations, six news websites, one Twitter account and one producer of multimedia content. This active network of outlets spreads Al-Shabaab's propaganda, advertising the release of new audio recordings and video footages. However, it is not clear how these media channels can operate independently of the Amir of Al-Shabaab and who supervise and coordinate their activity, since Godane lacks the capacity to practically supervise the external public relations of Al-Shabaab without exposing himself and his physical location.

Al-Shabaab's international media strategy

2. The main vehicles for Al-Shabaab's international media strategy remain the Al-Kataib media foundation, also known as the Al-Kataib news channel, which develops on regular basis multimedia productions for Al-Shabaab, and a Twitter account (@HSMPress1) established on 3 February 2013. According to intelligence sources,<sup>1</sup> a United Kingdom national, who speaks on behalf of the "HSM Press Office", administers this account. Messages are posted in English and include reports of some of Al-Shabaab's operations, translations of Al-Shabaab "press releases" and Godane's statements, and announcements Al-Shabaab video releases produced by Al-Kataib.

3. On 28 January 2013, Twitter closed down the previous account (@HSMPress) of the HSM Press Office. It had had 21,000 followers who received an average of three messages per day since 7 December 2011. At the time of writing, the new account has almost 3,800 followers and continues to post an average of three messages per day.

4. The current administrator of the @HSMPress1 also uses the account to express his personal opinions on subjects unrelated to Al-Shabaab and debates with other users on Twitter, including an online argument on 6 February 2013 with the administrator of the official Twitter account of the English Defence League.<sup>2</sup> In this regard, the spokesman of the HSM Press Office has a different profile to other Al-Shabaab counterparts, such as 'Ali Dhere', the official spokesperson, or Abdulaziz 'Abu Mus'ab', the military spokesman.

5. Another Twitter account user (@saud_khalifaa) claims to be an editor for the Al-Kataib media foundations and writes as a native English speaker. As of 27 February 2013, @saud_khalifaa stopped posting tweets following a heated argument between him and @HSMPress1 on one side, and 'Al-Amriki's @abuamerican on the other <sup>3</sup> In early February 2012, a previous account of

@saud_khalifaa called @khalifaa_saud was allegedly hacked. Notably, on 22 February 2012, @saud_khalifaa sent a response to @MajorEChirchir, an account belonging to the spokesman of the KDF, mentioning that his "brother @HSMPress is busy in the battlefield", indicating that the two users might be acquainted.

6. Both HSM Press Office and Al-Kataib maintain a line close to that of Amir 'Abu Zubeyr', but are nevertheless somehow disconnected from the military apparatus of Al-Shabaab and the battlefield. They do not cover the insurgency as other jihadist media outlets do in Syria, Afghanistan or Iraq, where films, pictures and reports of attacks on Government and international forces are more frequently recorded on cellphones and circulated on jihadist online forums. However, they both replicate patterns established by jihadist international propaganda, in terms of format and design.<sup>4</sup>

7. Notably, @HSMPress has not posted any recent responses to messages from the @abuamerican account of 'Al-Amriki' regarding his attempted assassination by Godane or his letter addressed to Ayman Al-Zawahiry. At the time of writing, the account @abuamerican has been inactive since 3 May 2013.

8. According to an Amniyat defector interviewed by the Monitoring Group, in 2010/2011, a US national of Somali origin, based in Kismayo and reporting directly to 'Al-Afghani', was drafting speeches and press communiqués for 'Ali Dhere', and taking photographs on the ground for Al-Shabaab media outlets.<sup>6</sup> He spoke English fluently, as do the other individuals involved in the production and diffusion of Al-Shabaab internet propaganda.

9. Since last year, Al-Shabaab communication has been increasingly focusing on Kenya, including videos in Swahili, featuring Kenyan mujahidin,<sup>7</sup> audio messages addressed to the Kenyan Ummah, and press communiqués. For example, on 3 March 2013, an audio message from Godane addressed to the Kenyan public, and specifically "the Muslims of Kenya", was released on jihadist

10. Al-Shabaab propaganda continues attempting to incite foreigners, particularly East Africans, to travel to Somalia and join Al-Shabaab. On 25 February 2013, it dedicated its last video, released by Al-Kataib on jihadist online forums, "to the millions of Muslims in East Africa and beyond...".<sup>10</sup> The Monitoring Group could also observe an increase in the number of videos released by Al-Kataib during the past months.<sup>11</sup> However, the assassination attempt on 'Al-Amriki' broadcasted live on his Twitter account represents a set-back for Al-Shabaab's image among the international jihad community, <sup>12</sup> in addition to the general discontent expressed by fighters (see above annex 1.3).

Al-Shabaab local media strategy

11. For the Somali public, Al-Shaabab propagates information mainly through its radio stations, Al-Andalus and Alfurqaan, and their respective websites, <sup>13</sup> in addition to three other websites, Amiirnuur, Somalimidnimo, and Somalimemo, as well as the Shahada News Agency. These media outlets produce information mostly in Somali but also in English, and often feature well-known Al-Shabaab commanders holding senior positions promoting the group's actions. They regularly quote statements from Abu Mus'ab or Ali Dhere claiming responsibility on behalf of Al-Shabaab for the latest operations destabilizing Somalia.

Sheikh Abdulaziz 'Abu Mus'ab' holding a press conference on 24 March 2013, according to Al-Shabaab website Somalimidnimo<sup>14</sup>

12. According to a poll conducted in Mogadishu in December 2012 by the African Union/Information Support Team (AU/IST), 56 per cent of the respondents reportedly listen "daily" or "several times a week" to radio Al-Andalus.<sup>15</sup>

13. Most of the time, Al-Shabaab radio stations are the sole media agencies able to report in Al-Shabaab controlled areas, where journalists from other outlets are not authorized to travel, creating therefore a captive audience. Nevertheless, the fact that the majority of radio listeners in Mogadishu is still listening to radio Al-Andalus, may indicate continuing support to Al-Shabaab in areas controlled by the Somali Government.

Annex 1.7: Case study: Al-Shabaab in "Puntland"

14. During the reporting period, Al-Shabaab and the "Mujahidiin of the Golis Mountains", or Al Shabaab North East (ASNE), have conducted numerous operations in the Puntland region of Somalia, including hit-and-run raids on defensive positions and checkpoints, ambushes, assassinations and IED attacks.

15. The following list of incidents attributed to Al-Shabaab captures the range of operations threatening peace and security in Puntland:<sup>1</sup>

- On 3 October 2012, in Bosaso, three Al-Shabaab suspects were arrested in a house located 500 metres from the UNHCR compound, with two pistols, two hand grenades, five telephones, three remote control devices and additional materials to assemble IEDs. The suspects reportedly admitted to planning to conduct IED attacks and assassinations in Bosaso.
- On 17 November 2012, two Amniyat commanders were arrested in Galkayo with a suicide vest, grenades and IED components, including explosives. Mohamud Nuh Aden, a.k.a. 'Abu Hafsa', was reportedly the head of assassinations for Amniyat, and Abdirizak Hussein Tahlil, a.k.a. 'Ilka'ase', was a logistics officer.

Photograph of the suicide vest recovered in Galkayo following the arrest of 'Abu Hafsa' by Puntland security forces on 17 November 2012<sup>2</sup>

- On 4 December 2012 at 21:20 hours local time, several groups of Al-Shabaab fighters conducted coordinated attacks with mortars and firearms, from multiple directions, against Puntland forces' positions in Laag, located 27 kilometres south of Bosaso on the road to Garowe, and Sugure, a village with an advance post of Puntland security forces 5 kilometres west of the main road and 12 kilometres east of Galgala town. Two Puntland soldiers were killed. ASNE also planted several radio-controlled IEDs on the road, targeting reinforcements rushing to the scene from Bosaso, killing an additional 10 Darawish soldiers.
- On 7 and 12 December 2012, follow-up attacks were conducted by ASNE in the same areas.

- On 4 January 2013 at 22:30 hours local time, ASNE fighters attacked simultaneously checkpoints at the southern entrance of Bosaso and Laag, killing one Puntland soldier.
- On 17 January 2013, a large number of Al-Shabaab fighters besieged again the Puntland security compound in Sugure, engaging Darawish soldiers with mortars and heavy machineguns.
- On 10 February 2013, a suicide vehicle-borne IED detonated in front of the police station in Galkayo, killing two bystanders and injuring the Puntland Police Force Deputy Commissioner, General Muhiyadin Ahmed Muse.
- On 15 February 2013, an Amniyat operative shot and killed the Mufti of Puntland, Sheikh Abdulqadir Nur Farah, at the Beder Mosque in Garowe. The surrounding crowd arrested on site the shooter and his accomplice (see below for more details).

16. In response, Puntland security forces conducted several operations, including incursions by foot in the environs of Galgala town, sometimes supported by the air assets of the PMPF (see annex 6.2), and arrested dozens of suspected members of Al-Shabaab. At the time of writing, Puntland jails held around 150 Al-Shabaab members, either already convicted or awaiting judgement. On 15 January 2013, a crewmember of the PMPF helicopter was wounded during a security operation and medically evacuated to Djibouti.

17. It is the assessment of the Monitoring Group that Al-Shabaab suffered severe setbacks as a result of Puntland security services increased pressure on the ground, in addition to the defection of several key ASNE commanders, which may have degraded significantly Al-Shabaab's operational capacity in Puntland.

Al-Shabaab North East structure and leadership

18. Based on interviews with Al-Shabaab defectors and prisoners, and meetings with Puntland security officials,<sup>4</sup> Al-Shabaab is currently estimated to comprise about 200 fighters in its Region 5, which covers the area east of the Sanag and Bari regions of Somalia (while Galkayo is included in region 2, as indicated in the Al-Shabaab military structure in annex 1.2.). At present, ASNE is divided into two groups:

- Between 120 and 150 fighters are deployed in the area around Galgala town, referred to as the Al-Madow region, which includes eastern Sanag and the Golis mountain range; and
- Between 50 and 80 fighters are deployed in the district of Qandala, referred to as the Al-Bari region.

19. Since 2010, the regional leader of the "Mujahidiin of the Golis Mountains" has been Yassin Khalid Osman, a.k.a. 'Yassin Kilwe', 'Kilwe' or 'Yabo'. As previously reported by the Monitoring Group,<sup>5</sup> 'Kilwe', a member of the Warsengeli / Dubays / Hanif sub-clan and a close relation of Godane, was sent to the Galgala region of Puntland by the Amir in early 2010 with 40 fighters to assume the leadership of Mohamed Sa'id 'Atom's' militia group, which he had effectively done by mid-2010. In early 2011, Atom left Puntland and apparently did not return.

Copy of Kilwe's professional identity card as a school teacher

20. The purpose of the mission assigned to 'Kilwe' by Godane was to align the insurgency in Puntland with Al-Shabaab, effectively excluding any possibility of negotiating with Puntland authorities, expand recruitment and local support beyond its existing clan constituencies, and reorganize the smuggling routes from Yemen to reduce costs, since 'Atom' had a reputation for overcharging Al-Shabaab, and gain overall effectiveness.

21. According to a registry seized during the raid on 'Atom's camp in Dindigle, near Galgala town, conducted from July to September 2010 by Puntland security forces, the composition of his militia was clearly dominated by members from the Warsengeli, Dhulbahante and Dishishe sub-clans of the Darod clan.<sup>6</sup> In fact, they represented 49 of the 67 fighters listed in 'Atom's registry, which also indicated information such as year and place of birth, numbers of wives, and military specialties. The geographic origin of 37 fighters was either Maraje, 'Atom's hometown located 12 kilometres southwest of Galgala town, or Galgala town itself (see annex 1.7.c for an excerpt of this registry).

22. According to a close relative of Sheikh 'Atom', the Al-Shabaab flag seized in Galgala by Puntland forces in September 2010 and displayed by Puntland soldiers in a picture previously published by the Monitoring Group,<sup>7</sup> was the one brought by 'Kilwe' from the south and planted at the camp in spite of strong opposition from 'Atom' and his closest commanders, including Abdiraham Faaris (a.k.a. 'Gadafhi'), who has since joined 'Kilwe's group.<sup>8</sup>

23. 'Kilwe' officially took control of 'Atom's group following his return to the Galgala area in January 2012, after a six months absence in southern Somalia, during which period Ali Ahmed Hussein, a.k.a. 'Ali Ga'amey', served as the acting force commander. In February 2012, in his capacity as the "Amir of the Mujahidiin of the Golis Mountains", 'Kilwe' released two separate statements through Al-Shabaab media outlets.

24. First, on 25 February 2012, in an audio message to radio Al-Andalus, he stated:

I want to praise God for the unity of our Shabaab brothers with al-Qaida fighters. I want to declare today that we are joined with our al-Shabaab brothers who are devoted to the jihad in Somalia.

25. Second, on 27 February 2012, in a written communiqué in English published by the Al-Kataib foundation, he stated:

We the mujahidin in the Golis mountains declare on 3 Rabi Al-Akhir 1433 A.H. our joining to Harakat Al-Shabaab Al-Mujahideen, I Yassin Khalid Othman AKA Yassin Kilwe Amir of the mujahidin in the Golis mountains give Bayaa to Amir Harakat Al-Shabaab Al-Mujahideen sheikh Mukhtar Abu Al-Zubair.

26. According to an ASNE defector interviewed by the Monitoring Group, 'Kilwe's' leadership has changed the configuration of the force and the way it operates. For example, the mujahidin do not rely anymore on the local population, since 'Kilwe' considers that "they can be informant for the Puntland government". <sup>9</sup> Therefore, the group has developed its own logistic networks to be self-sufficient and not dependant on its environment. In addition, strategic and operational decisions are not taken by consulting the group. Rather, instructions are given in face-to-face meetings with individual members, and only partial information is provided.

27. The recent expansion of ASNE activities to areas dominated by the Darod / Majerteen / Ali Saleebaan clan, mainly in the districts of Qandala and Iskushuban of the Bari region of Somalia, may be due to two other individuals. 'Ali Ga'amey', a 45 year-old school teacher from the Harti / Tiinle clan, was appointed the deputy leader of the "Mujahidiin of the Golis Mountains" and placed in charge of finance and administration. In April 2012, Sheikh Abdulqaadir Muumin, a 55-year old charismatic preacher from the Ali Saleebaan sub-clan and an important ideologue for Al-Shabaab, formerly resident in Sweden and the United Kingdom, became the group's ideological leader. Furthermore, according to Puntland security officials, the Omar Ali sub clan of the Ali Saleebaan has been by contrast specifically targeted by Al-Shabaab, with six of their elders assassinated over the past years, accused of supporting to the Puntland Government.<sup>10</sup>

Structure of ASNE according to information provided during interviews with ASNE defectors and prisoners and by Puntland security officials

28. For a couple of years, a group of between 50 to 80 fighters, commanded by Abdirahkim Dhuqub, a 38 year-old school teacher from the Ali Saleebaan / Ismael Ali sub-clan of the Majerteen clan, has been operating in the Al-Bari region of Puntland. According to Puntland intelligence sources, Dhuqub is Muumin's cousin and took part in the 2004 formation, with 'Ali Ga'amey' and 'Atom', of the first Al-Itihaad cell in Bosaso on the occasion of a visit of Aden Hashi Farah 'Ayrow', the former Amir of Al-Shabaab killed in 2007.<sup>11</sup>

29. This group, based in the area of Balidhidin, a small village located 65 kilometres northeast of Iskushuban, has close ties to a pirate group headed by Mohammed Mussa Saeed 'Aargoosto', a pirate commander from the Ali Saleebaan / Ismael Ali sub-clan. He is associated with pirate kingpin Isse Mohamoud Yusuf 'Yullux' (a.k.a. 'Isse Yulux') from the Ali Saleebaan / Bicidyahan Ali sub-clan related by family to Muumin (see also annex 3.1.c). According to the same intelligence source, 'Aargoosto' and 'Isse Yulux' provided financial, logistical and military support to Dhuqub's group.<sup>12</sup>

30. More specifically, detailed information was provided to the Monitoring Group concerning an agreement concluded in March 2013 between 'Isse Yulux' and two associates of Dhuqub, namely Abdikarim Ahmed Ibrahim and Ahmed Mohamed Omar, both from the Ismael Ali sub-clan. The arrangement specified the 'Isse Yuluz' would provide 30 per cent of ransom payments to ASNE. For example, considering the 15 million USD payment for the release of the MT Smyrni and MV Royal Grace, respectively on 9 and 11 March 2013, Dhuqub's group should have received a share of about 4.5 million USD.<sup>13</sup>

Amniyat activities in Puntland

31. According to an Amniyat operative who confessed to the assassination of Sheikh Abdiqadir Nur Farah in Garowe on 15 February 2013, a prominent Somali Islamic scholar known for preaching against Al-Shabaab, the "Mujahidiin of the Golis Mountains" were not directly involved.<sup>14</sup> This fact was also confirmed by an ASNE defector, who stated that "Kilwe [was] aware, but he [was] not the one planning the operation",<sup>15</sup> which further confirms that Amniyat operates independently of the rest of Al-Shabaab, even in Puntland.

32. In the sequence of events, the Amniyat assassin first reached Galkayo in November 2012, where he was operating alone and financed through Sahal, a money remittance company, by one 'Mulid Gasham' as the Amniyat finance and logistics officer for Galkayo and Las Anod. The assassin then received instructions by telephone from 'Daud', who he knew to be the head of Amniyat in Somalia, to relocate to Garowe on 11 January 2013 for "another job".<sup>16</sup> In Garowe, he was told to

contact 'Mohamed', another Amniyat operative based in Garowe. The rest of the operation was narrated to the Monitoring Group as follows:

The day before the assassination, I went to the Sheikh's house with Mohamed without knowing that he was the target. Then we saw the Sheikh and Mohamed told me that he was the target.

On Friday at noon, Mohamed came to my place with a plastic bag containing two Makarov pistols with two extra magazines, each containing eight bullets. There was also three grenades.

Around 15:00 hours, we went to the mosque, which was 150 metres away of the Sheik's house.

Initially we planned to wait for him outside and kill him in the street, and started waiting. But the loudspeaker of the mosque was off, so I had to check inside if the Sheikh was in. I saw him praying inside the mosque and at a distance of ten meters, shot at him once and run away.<sup>17</sup>

33. This assassination took place five days after a suicide vehicle-borne IED attack targeted the Deputy Police Commissioner in Galkayo, for which Al-Shabaab military spokesman, Sheikh Abdulaziz 'Abu Mus'ab', claimed responsibility. According to the Amniyat operative, the two attacks were supposed to occur simultaneously, indicating that Amniyat's top commanders or Godane himself had ordered both operations, without the participation or perhaps prior knowledge of the ASNE leadership that would have been informed after the decision was taken.<sup>18</sup>

34. Furthermore, these two operations took place in spite of the arrest of two Amniyat commanders on 17 November 2012 and a substantial seizure of IED components, including one suicide vest and explosives, as described above. This indicates the resilience of Al-Shabaab and its capacity, even in Puntland where it has a less significant presence than in Mogadishu.

Analysis and conclusions

35. The knowledge of the Monitoring Group regarding the current activities, structure and status of Al-Shabaab in northern Somalia was extensively facilitated through the cooperation of Puntland authorities, which provided access on the ground to evidences and prisoners.

36. Consequently, the Monitoring Group has found that its concerns about Al-Shabaab significantly expanding its presence and conducting large-scale military operations in northern Somalia, as expressed in its previous report (S/2012/544), have not yet materialized. Since Al-Shabaab still controls most of southern Somalia, it does not seem to have sufficient resources to relocate more fighters and equipment to the Golis mountain range without overstretching its means.

37. However, Al-Shabaab has clearly reinforced its presence and its logistic capacities in both the Almadow and Albari regions of the north of Puntland, as well as in Galkayo. Therefore ASNE represents currently the main threat to peace and security in Puntland.

38. Consequently, the Monitoring Group recommends to the Committee that it proceeds without delay to designate the leadership of ASNE for targeted measures.

Spoiler networks in Somalia

Annex 3.1: Spoiler networks in northern Somalia

Illegal fishing, private security operations and weapons smuggling

1. Following the decline in pirate hijackings of merchant vessels since 2012, pirate leaders have turned towards unlicensed fishing operations in Somali waters as a source of revenue.

2. Puntland officials estimate that tens of thousands of tonnes of illegal catch has been fished from Puntland's coastline between 2012 and 2013 by hundreds of illegal fishing vessels. The vessels are predominantly Iranian and Yemeni owned and all use Somali armed security.<sup>1</sup> The Monitoring Group has inspected at least four forged fishing licenses registered between May and October 2012 that have been confiscated from unlicensed Iranian vessels by international naval forces (see annex 3.1.a). Local fishermen from different communities along the Puntland coast between Las Qoray and Hafun have confirmed that the private security teams on board such vessels are normally provided from pools of demobilized Somali pirates and coordinated by a ring of pirate leaders and associated businessmen operating in Puntland, Somaliland, the United Arab Emirates (UAE), Oman, Yemen and Iran. The security teams assist the vessels to cast nets several kilometres long and often open fire on unprotected fishermen in order to drive out competition. The prize is often lucrative and includes large reef and open water catch, notably tuna.<sup>2</sup>

3. The Monitoring Group has received several unconfirmed reports that some of the illegal fishing vessels are also being used as cover for weapons smuggling. While the Monitoring Group has been unable to verify any particular vessel that has been used for both illegal fishing and weapons smuggling, it has nonetheless established other connections between the illegal fishing networks and networks involved in the arms trade and connected to Al-Shabaab in northeastern Somalia.

4. The Monitoring Group has received several reports of the traffic of narcotics and humans aboard vessels being used for illegal fishing, but has not received any specific evidence or firsthand testimony to that effect.

 $<sup>^2</sup>$  Interviews with 6 separate fishing community leaders, 8 December 2012. Local fishermen reported up to 30 incidents of private security teams firing on unprotected fishermen, crushing their nets and ramming their skiffs between September and December 2012.

The Qandala — Hafun network

5. This network operates between the coastal towns of Qandala and Hafun in northeast Puntland, an area that is a known hub for piracy and arms smuggling (see annex 3.1.b for map).

6. The two principal ringleaders of the illicit fishing and security operations in this area are pirate leaders Isse Mohamoud Yusuf 'Yullux' and Mohammed Mussa Saeed 'Aargoosto' (see annex 3.1.c for profiles). Both men are from the Darod / Majerteen / Ali Saleebaan clan of Sheikh Abdulqaadir Muumin, who is the ideological leader of Al-Shabaab Northeast<sup>3</sup>, and both men originally come from Qandala in the province of Bari, where Puntland authorities seized a major weapons cache in October 2012 (see annex 6.1 for more specific details on this case).

7. Aargoosto recruits unemployed youth, including former pirates, for the private security operations, sourcing manpower from his strongholds of Qandala, Alula and Hafun at $50 a head per voyage.<sup>4</sup> Yullux acts as an investor and broker in the illegal fishing enterprises, which are coordinated by Shahdon Ali Yare, a former fisheries and ports Minister from Puntland acting as a principal broker for Iranian businessmen and issuing fraudulent Puntland fishing licenses. Yullux also uses his offshore piracy network to interdict fishing vessels that are not protected by private security operations and has released a vessel on Yare's orders on at least one occasion.<sup>5</sup>

8. Telephone records of Yullux and Aargoosto indicate that they have both been in contact with the same telephone numbers in Oman, Yemen and Kenya, and both are in contact with several numbers in the UAE that are also in direct contact with Yare. In turn, Yare has been in direct telephone communication with at least three Iranian numbers and a satellite telephone used on board an Iranian vessel, the 'Arshia', which has been fishing illegally in Puntland's waters.<sup>6</sup>

9. In addition, a known collaborator of Yare's network, Musa Mirre Ali, is a signatory on a fraudulent fishing license inspected by the Monitoring Group (see photo 2 in annex 3.1.a). The Monitoring Group has also identified a Dubai-based businessman, Abdirizak Barre, acting as a broker

between Yare and Iranian businessmen and has obtained evidence of telephone communications between Barre and Yare, as well as separate communications between Barre and Aargoosto.<sup>7</sup>

10. The operations of Aargoosto and Yullux appear to intersect with Al-Shabaab networks. Puntland authorities allege that Yullux donates funds to Abdulqaadir Muumin<sup>8</sup>, and that he invests in weapons smuggling operations coordinated by Abdirahkim Dhuqub (also Majerteen / Ali Saleebaan), a known weapons trafficker for Al-Shabaab who is based in Qandala (see annex 3.1.c for Dhuqub's profile). The Puntland authorities also allege that Yullux signed an agreement in March 2013 with a Majerteen / Ali Saleebaan Al-Shabaab leader, Abdikarim Ahmed Ibrahim, to share piracy ransom fees for a vessel hidden in Aargoosto's stronghold of Alula. Ibrahim was also allegedly responsible for the October 2012 weapons delivery to Qandala mentioned above.

11. International naval sources have reported to the Monitoring Group that Aargoosto and Dhuqub are co-investors in a number of commercial enterprises and factories in Puntland. The close relationship between Aargoosto and Dhuqub is also substantiated by Puntland authorities who report that Aargoosto and Dhuqub collaborated in the ambush of Puntland armed forces in March 2011, near Hul Anod, where several Puntland soldiers were killed.

12. A link analysis chart of the Qandala – Hafun network appears at Annex 3.1.d.

The Las Qoray network

13. Illegal fishing networks are also operating in the Las Qoray area of northwestern Puntland (see annex 3.1.b for map), and are coordinated by a number of businessmen operating in Puntland, Somaliland and Dubai, and who have connections to Oman and Yemen. The Las Qoray network has ties to the Qandala-Hafun network and also appears to have connections to an arms smuggling ring with connections to Al-Shabaab in northeastern Somalia.

14. The Monitoring Group has identified one of the key individuals involved in coordinating the security details provided to illegal Iranian fishing vessels off the coast of Las Qoray as Yusuf Aalim Osman, a Bosaso-based businessman from the same Darod / Warsengeli / Dubeys sub-clan as Yassiin Khalid Osman (a.k.a. Yasiin 'Kilwe'), the military commander of Al-Shabaab in northeastern Somalia.<sup>9</sup>

15. Yusuf Aalim Osman personally supervises the security for at least 40 Iranian fishing vessels operating in the Las Qoray area.<sup>10</sup> He travels frequently to Salalah in Oman where he is known to coordinate activities with Ali Saleebaan clan businessmen connected to the Qandala-Hafun network, and to Aden, Yemen, where he is part of a soap exporting business controlled by Warsengeli / Dubeys

businessmen.<sup>11</sup> Aalim's business partner in Dubai is Abdullahi Ahmed Mohamed, the manager of Najmat Alkhair General Trading L.L.C, a company that acts as a cover for private security operations and the supply of fishing vessels from Oman (see annex 3.1.e).<sup>12</sup>

16. Close connections exist between the Qandala-Hafun network and the Las Qoray network. Telephone records indicate that Yusuf Aalim Osman is in direct contact with telephone numbers in Oman, which in turn are directly in contact with pirate leaders Yullux and Aargoosto. The Monitoring Group dialled one of the Omani numbers in the Dubai office of Abdullahi Ahmed Mohamed, who then admitted the number's owner is an "agent broker" for himself and Yusuf Aalim Osman.<sup>13</sup>

17. Aalim has also been in direct telephone contact with at least three Omani numbers and a Yemeni number, which in turn are in direct contact with Abdi Khayre Mohamed, another Warsengeli / Dubeys businessman, who has been named in a previous Monitoring Group report for his role in smuggling weapons for Al-Shabaab in northeastern Somalia.<sup>14</sup> Since 2010, Abdi Khayre Mohamed has relocated much of his business activities to Berbera, in Somaliland.<sup>15</sup> In addition, Aalim's business partner, Abdullahi Ahmed Mohamed, is in direct telephone contact with Musa Jama Delef, a Warsengeli / Dubeys militia commander of Sanag province who has doubled as an official for the Somaliland security services<sup>16</sup> and who has close connections to Al-Shabaab networks in the Golis mountains, as explained below.

18. Abdi Khayre Mohamed has cultivated relations with Iranian businessmen involved in the illegal fishing trade. One eyewitness present at the Juba Hotel in Bosaso during the course of 2011 reported the presence of an Iranian businessman, known as "Mohammad", who had arrived in Bosaso on a maritime vessel in mid 2011.<sup>17</sup> Puntland authorities questioned the man, whose name according to his identity documents was Gol Mohammad Nosratzehi (see annex 3.1.f).

19. On the same occasion, another eyewitness confirmed that Nosratzehi introduced himself as an associate of both Abdi Khayre Mohamed and Shahdon Ali Yare. Nosratzehi explained that he was in Bosaso to coordinate commercial fishing activities. The eyewitness at the Juba Hotel also confirmed he saw Nosratzehi meeting Mohamed Aydiid Jaama, the Deputy Chairman of the Bosaso Chamber of Commerce, who has already been identified by the Monitoring Group as an arms broker for Mohamed Sa'iid 'Atom', the former commander of Al-Shabaab in northeastern Somalia, as well as for the Ogaden National Liberation Front (ONLF).<sup>18</sup>

20. The Monitoring Group has received reports of the involvement of Mohamed Aydiid Jaama in at least one recent weapons delivery through to Erigavo, in the Sanag province of northern Somalia. According to eyewitness testimony, a skiff operated by Yemeni and Eritrean crewmembers landed in early January 2013 in the beach port of Hiis and offloaded large amounts of ammunition and PKM machine guns. This information has been independently corroborated by a confidential source in Somaliland.<sup>19</sup> According to one of the loaders, on the instructions of Mohamed Aydiid Jaama, the cargo was transferred to Erigavo, where Musa Jama Delef received it at a safe house. According to Al-Shabaab defectors' testimonies, Erigavo is a key weapons trading hub from where Al-Shabaab in northeastern Somalia sources its weapons.<sup>20</sup> In addition, a close confidant of Mohamed Sa'iid 'Atom' has confirmed that Delef used to be close to Atom during the armed struggle in the Golis mountain range.<sup>21</sup> A Somali weapons dealer who has traded in northeastern Somalia has also confirmed that Abdi Khayre Mohamed is still involved in weapons trading, and smuggles weapons cargoes to northern Somalia on dhows carrying soap exported from Yemen.<sup>22</sup>

Annex 3.1.c: Profiles of Mohammed Mussa Saeed 'Aargoosto', Isse Mohamoud Yusuf 'Yullux' and Abdirahkim Dhuqub.

Mohammed Mussa Saeed 'Aargoosto'

Profile: Born in Qandala and from the Darod / Majerteen / Ali Saleebaan clan, Aargoosto is believed to be between the age of 35 and 40 years old. He is one of Puntland's major pirate investors. A former businessman trading lobster between Hafun and Garad, he turned to piracy in 2007 and was part of pirate attack teams before becoming an investor. Aargoosto is building a house in the South C neighbourhood of Nairobi, Kenya. Naval intelligence sources believe him to be involved in drug trafficking, using fishing vessels for which he is responsible for providing protection. Some sources have informed the Monitoring Group that he is involved in smuggling of migrants and foreign fighters between Somalia and Yemen, as well as weapons.

Involvement in Piracy: Aargoosto has been involved in the successful hijacking of the 'Golden Blessing' (28 June 2012), 'Marida Marguerite' (8 May 2010), 'Samho Dream' (4 April 2010) and 'Golden Nori' (28 October 2007).

Isse Mohamoud Yusuf 'Yullux'

Profile: Isse Mohamoud Yusuf 'Yullux', born in 1963 and raised in Qandala, is from the Darod / Majerteen / Ali Saleebaan clan. He owned a small restaurant at the Isse Village, an area near to Hafun District where his clan lives. With revenues from the restaurant he started to trade in khat. He then joined pirate rings as a hijacker and as an investor in 2008. He is now a major pirate leader, possesses six 'technicals' and commands 50 men. He travels to Mogadishu on a regular basis and operates between Alula and Hul Anod.

Involvement in piracy: On 24 May 2008, Yullux and other investors are believed to have financed the capture of the Dutch/Danish vessel 'Amiya Scan', which was hijacked off the coast of Somalia and held at the coastal town of Eyl. The vessel was released with all of its crew on 24 June 2008, after a ransom 2,800,000 USD was paid. Isse Yullux received 30 per cent of the total amount. On 20 July 2008, he and other investors financed the capture off the Somali coast of the Panama bulk carrier vessel 'Stella Maris' and held the ship with 21 crewmembers at Eyl. The vessel was released along with the crew on 26 September 2008 after a ransom of 2,000,000 USD was paid. Again, he received 30 per cent of the total amount. On 2 June 2009, he and other investors financed the capture of the Egyptian cargo ship 'Blue Star' and held the vessel with 28 crewmembers at the coastal town of Hafun. The vessel was released along with the crewmembers on board on 5 March 2009, after a ransom of 1,780,000 USD was paid. On this occasion, he received 50 per cent of the total amount. On 3 March 2010, he and other investors financed the capture of the Saudi oil tanker 'Al-Nisr Al Saudi' off the coast of Somalia with 13 crewmembers on board. The vessel was held at the coastal town of Bargal and released on 7 December 2010, after a ransom of 7,000,000 USD was paid. Again, he received 50 per cent of the total amount. As of the middle of 2012, Isse Yullux and his team hijacked the 'Royal Grace' and 'Smyrni' tankers, which have been anchored between Bargal and Hafun.

Abdirahkim Dhuqub

Profile: Dhuqub is widely known to be a military operator for Al-Shabaab and involved in infiltrating weapons stocks into northeastern Somalia. He took part in the 2008 fighting against Ethiopia during the battle of Mogadishu. His is based in Qandala coastal town, around which would be also located training facilities for the security section (Amniyat) of Al-Shabaab North East. Dhuqub travels regularly from Qandala to Hul Anod.

Annex 3.1.h: Connections between Qandala — Hafun and Las Qoray networks

Annex 3.2: Spoiler networks in central Somalia

1. The east-central region of Somalia is fraught with attempts to subvert the fragile leadership of the Federal Government of Somalia (FGS) in a manner consistent with a broader trend across the 'liberated' parts of the country. Key to this subversive tendency is the entity of Galmudug and its warlord-turned-president Colonel Abdi Hassan Awale 'Qeybdiid'. As Galmudug is becoming increasingly unstable, conditions of insecurity now seem to extend into the regional state of Puntland. Qeybdiid appropriated political power through alleged intimidation, clan manipulation and force, presided over a yearlong political crisis, and is attempting to consolidate his power base through allies in the new government in Mogadishu.

'Qeybdiid'

2. Abdi Hassan Awale 'Qeybdiid' (Hawiye / Habar Gedir / Sa'ad) is often described as a "former" warlord who fought against the United Nations peacekeeping operation and U.S. forces in Somalia during the early 1990s.<sup>1</sup> In October 2005, the Swedish newspaper Svenska Dagbladet linked Qeybdiid to an incriminating video showing executions of young boys in the Lower Juba town of Kismayo while he was the chief of police.<sup>2</sup> Qeybdiid as a "former" warlord still retains close ties to other "former" warlords and current spoilers, including the Eritrean agent of influence Abdi Nur Siad 'Abdi Wal', a fellow Hawiye / Habar Gedir / Ayr clansman who is reported to have a close relationship with a senior Al-Shabaab commander (see annex 3.3 for more on Abdi Wal).<sup>3</sup>

3. Qeybdiid, while politically and militarily more active in the east-central region, continues to have an exploitive relationship with the government in Mogadishu and is therefore viewed by the Monitoring Group as a potential threat to peace and security. Recently in May 2013, uncorroborated reports from African Union Mission in Somalia (AMISOM) security officials indicated Qeybdiid had threatened to redeploy his 300 militiamen from Mogadishu if the FGS failed to meet his political demands.<sup>4</sup> However, due to Qeybdiid's new power base and the pressure of competing militias in the east-central region, the Monitoring Group assesses that Qeybdiid's militiamen in Mogadishu are likely to be no more than 100 in number but still able to undermine the FGS in the capital city.

Political instability

4. Qeybdiid has begun focusing more on Galmudug from 2011 to 2012 on the pretext of resolving the political and security crisis that was plaguing the administration of the former President,

Mohamed Ahmed Alin. More likely, the shift in his attention was a reaction to his waning influence in Mogadishu.<sup>5</sup>

5. In spite of the Mogadishu Government's effective recognition of Galmudug as a political entity,<sup>6</sup> the 'single clan project' fails to meet the constitutional requirement for two or more states to form a regional authority and it continues to face calls for disbandment.<sup>7</sup> Galmudug was formed in August 2006 as a pragmatic solution to the Mogadishu-centric era of warlords. Paradoxically, however, Galmudug is based on a fundamentally Habar Gedir / Sa'ad clan settlement, and in August 2012, experienced the return to prominence of a Sa'ad / Hilowe warlord, Qeybdiid, who, at the time, was unable to exert full and effective control over Galgadud and Mudug.

6. In July 2012, a political crisis engulfed Galmudug following a disagreement over the Presidential term of then President Mohamed Ahmed Alin, also a member of the Habar Gedir / Sa'ad clan. Ahmed Alin and his supporters claimed his term was due to end in February 2013. In opposition, a faction led by then Vice-President Abdisamad Nur Guled (Habar Gedir / Sa'ad), backed by Qeybdiid, maintained that Ahmed Alin's term should expire on 31 July 2012, necessitating new presidential elections in August 2012. In essence, the dispute was over the interpretation of the constitution and legal authority of the nine-member electoral commission to call new elections.<sup>8</sup> However, the crisis appears to have been influenced by Qeybdiid in his bid to offset his loss of influence in Mogadishu, where he still retained an armed presence.<sup>9</sup>

7. On 1 August 2012, under unclear circumstances, and while the incumbent president Ahmed Alin was out of the country, Qeybdiid was elected president of Galmudug.<sup>10</sup> Almost immediately, a former Ahlu Sunna wal Jama'a (ASWJ) official, Mohamud Abdi Elmi, was declared president by a "new" electoral commission apparently endorsed by Ahmed Alin as the outgoing president.<sup>11</sup> Elmi was also from the Habar Gedir / Sa'ad / Sinole clan and his power base drawn from the clan militias that formed ASWJ in the Galgadud and Gedo regions.

8. Since the 'election' of Galmudug's two contending presidents, the sub-clans of Qeybdiid and Mohamud Elmi, the Sa'ad / Hilowe and Sa'ad / Sinole respectively, as well as other clans supporting one or the other group, have been embroiled in periodic clashes. In most cases these outbreaks were instigated by the larger militias affiliated with Qeybdiid.<sup>12</sup> According to testimony from a member of the Sa'ad / Sinole sub-clan, clashes have erupted over issues such as competing claims to the right of 'taxation' at illegal checkpoints effectively manned by militias under the control of Qeybdiid.<sup>13</sup> Such illegal checkpoints can levy up to 500 USD under the guise of 'taxation'.<sup>14</sup>

9. More troubling still are reports that members of Al-Shabaab may have exploited at various times checkpoints manned by Qeybdiid's and other militias. In 2012, as Al-Shabaab began to suffer military reverses throughout southern Somalia, it pushed northwards, including passing through Galmudug.<sup>15</sup> On 20 November 2012, the Dagaari checkpoint in Galmudug, manned by militia loyal to Qeybdiid, had routinely provided individuals believed to be members of Al-Shabaab with safe passage.<sup>16</sup>

Extending instability into Puntland

10. Despite the ongoing dispute between Qeybdiid and Mohamud Elmi over control of Galmudug, the FGS ostensibly recognizes Qeybdiid, as do the regional authorities of Puntland.<sup>17</sup> However, the Monitoring Group continues to receive numerous reports of criminality and a destabilizing influence that Qeybdiid's 'leadership' in Galmudug is having on Puntland to the north. In the last eleven months, the lack of formal structures, public accountability and effective governance has enabled Qeybdiid's Galmudug to pose a potentially increasing security threat to its neighbour. Examples corroborated by independent sources have included the following:

- December 2012: On 7 December 2012, unknown elements from Galmudug carried out a 3-mortar attack against the Garsoor and Israa neighbourhoods in Puntland. According to the Puntland Deputy Police Commissioner, General Muhiyadin Ahmed Mussa, the attacks were: "on homes, on travellers and civilians."<sup>18</sup>
- April 2013: On 21 April 2013, during a serious security breach, armed residents of Galmudug were stopped and one was shot and killed after attempting to enter Galkayo airport by force. The following day, unknown elements from Galmudug fired with anti-aircraft weapons targeting a descending plane at Galkayo airport. Following the incident, 3 mortars were again launched from Galmudug towards north Galkayo hitting, according to sources, residential homes.<sup>19</sup>

Relations with Mogadishu

11. At the time of writing, Qeybdiid's relations with Mogadishu are further deteriorating in spite of the support from his FGS allies, including Foreign Affairs Minister Fawzia Yusuf Haji Adan and Interior and National Security Minister Abdikarim Hussien Guled.<sup>20</sup> Qeybdiid's estranged relations with Mogadishu were also apparent following an official visit of Somali Prime Minister Abdi Farah Shirdon Saaid to Puntland and Galmudug on 14 March 2013. The next day, Qeybdiid's administration issued a statement accusing the FGS of undermining Galmudug's right to development.<sup>21</sup> Qeybdiid's actions as a warlord-spoiler if not addressed politically will continue to undermine the ability of the FGS to extend its control across liberated areas in south central Somalia.

Annex 3.3: Spoiler networks in southern Somalia

Co-option efforts by the Federal Government of Somalia

1. In order to extend its limited authority the FGS has engaged in co-opting a number of Al-Shabaab leaders, clan warlords and political agents once allied with Hassan Dahir Aweys (Hawiye / Habar Gedir / Ayr), the former leader of the now defunct Alliance for the Re-Liberation of Somalia-Eritrea (ARS-Asmara). Aweys became chairman of Hizbul Islam, of which ARS-Asmara was a constituent part, and which was eventually absorbed by Al-Shabaab in December 2010. At present, he is still part of Al-Shabaab's military infrastructure and has already been sanctioned by the UN Security Council.<sup>1</sup>

2. The Government of Qatar has facilitated FGS co-option efforts. Qatar played an important role in funding the election campaign of President Hassan Sheikh Mohamud (see annex 5.1) and continues to be a key financial and political partner of the FGS. In particular, Qatar has facilitated negotiations between the FGS and Aweys. Doha also hosted President Hassan Sheikh on 3 and 5 March 2013, when FGS representatives met Al-Shabaab delegates for talks brokered by Sheikh Omar Iman Abubakar, the first chairman of Hizbul Islam. The attendees included representatives of Al-Shabaab commander Mukhtar Robow.<sup>2</sup>

3. These negotiations have broadly coincided with the return to Mogadishu of a number of high profile former ARS-Asmara officials, including Zakaria Mohamed Haji Abdi (former deputy chairman of ARS-Asmara) and General Jama Mohamed Ghalib (formerly Hizbul Islam liaison officer in Eritrea and from the Isaaq clan). The Monitoring Group has also observed a strengthening of links between the FGS and a number of disaffected Hawiye / Habar Gedir / Ayr warlords and political figures involved in acts that constitute a threat to peace and security. The Ayr sub-clan was at one point the backbone of the Islamic Courts Union that governed much of southern Somalia until it was routed by Ethiopian forces in December 2006.

4. In addition, the FGS has begun a process of co-opting former clan warlords who have demonstrated growing hostility to the formation of a regional government in Jubaland and who were part of the former Juba Valley Alliance (JVA) that controlled Kismayo between 1999 and 2006. The core leadership of the JVA had been drawn from the Darod / Marehan and Hawiye / Habar Gedir / Ayr clans.

Political and clan tensions

5. Since late September 2012, the FGS has encountered considerable resistance from the Ras Kamboni forces of Sheikh Ahmed Mohamed Islam 'Madobe' (Darod / Ogaden clan), who helped oust Al-Shabaab from Kismayo and then, with Kenyan military support, established his own political and armed presence in the area. In particular, since October 2012, the explicit instructions of President Hassan Sheikh to AMISOM to keep the port of Kismayo closed and prevent the export of charcoal have been consistently flouted and FGS officials have not been granted full access to the port or the city generally (see annex 9 on violations of the UN Security Council charcoal ban).<sup>3</sup> Indeed, successive FGS delegations to Kismayo have been prevented from leaving the airport by the Kenya Defence Forces (KDF) contingent of AMISOM and Madobe's Ras Kamboni. The refusal of Ras Kamboni to integrate into official Somali security institutions has led the FGS to view Ras Kamboni as a spoiler clan militia operating outside the purview of the national constitution and constituting, therefore, a threat to peace and security.<sup>4</sup>

6. Clan tensions in Kismayo have been particularly acute between Darod / Ogaden fighters of Ras Kamboni and Darod / Marehan soldiers within the official ranks of the Somali National Army (SNA). On 20 December 2012, growing animosity culminated in a fire fight between both sides over the control of a checkpoint, which killed eight people.<sup>5</sup> On 23 February 2013, clan motivated fighting broke out again in Kismayo when Darod / Marehan forces attempted to break free an inmate at Kismayo's central police station who had been arrested by Darod / Ogaden Ras Kamboni forces and AMISOM for allegedly harbouring an illegal arms cache and for having ties to Al-Shabaab. At least 11 individuals were reported killed.<sup>6</sup>

8. The FGS and local clan leaders have also been unable to agree on a constitutional process that would satisfy all political factions in Jubaland and which could lead to the establishment of a functional regional government with political agreements in place for revenue and power sharing between the FGS and local authorities.<sup>8</sup> Amid a breakdown in political talks, and in the context of escalating clan tensions, Madobe proclaimed himself president of Jubaland on 15 May 2013. The same day Barre Adan Shire 'Hiiraale', a Darod / Marehan warlord and former leader of the JVA, also proclaimed himself president of Jubaland, setting the stage for a potential conflict.<sup>9</sup> Since then, at least three other politicians have since declared themselves rightful president of Jubaland. Hiiraale has stationed himself in Kismayo since late April 2013, having arrived from Mogadishu with a detachment of his personal militia.

Individual spoilers and threats to peace and security

9. The Monitoring Group is concerned that narrow clan and individual interests may override FGS attempts to reconcile warring factions, break up Al-Shabaab and extend a balanced authority over regional administrations. In particular, there are two core groups of spoilers, one aligned against the FGS and one largely aligned in favour of the FGS. The key spoiler in opposition to the FGS is Sheikh Ahmed Mohamed Islam 'Madobe' (Darod / Ogaden). Spoilers broadly aligned with the FGS include Hawiye / Habar Gedir / Ayr warlords and their allies in the Darod / Marehan network of Barre Hiiraale. Each of these spoiler groups has interests that intersect with Al-Shabaab. Individual spoilers and actions constituting threats to peace and security are identified below and in a link analysis chart that appears at Annex 3.3.a.

Sheikh Ahmed Mohamed Islam 'Madobe'

10. Sheikh Ahmed Madobe has been a pivotal figure amid several years of inter-clan fighting for control of Kismayo. As a member of the now defunct Islamic Courts Union, he ousted Hiiraale's JVA from Kismayo in 2006 and established military control of the city until the Islamic Courts Union were routed by the Ethiopian National Defence Forces (ENDF) and he fled Kismayo in January 2007.

11. Madobe's forces returned to Kismayo in August 2008, when Al-Shabaab and Hizbul Islam recaptured the city following the withdrawal of Ethiopian troops from Somalia. In 2009, Madobe's Ras Kamboni brigade split in two. Fighters loyal to Hassan Abdullah Hersi 'Al-Turki' joined Al-Shabaab to defeat Madobe's residual force and expel him from Kismayo.

12. While Sheikh Ahmed Madobe has been a key ally in AMISOM's military campaign to expel Al-Shabaab from Kismayo in 2012, his refusal to integrate his troops into the SNA, and his explicit policy of exporting charcoal sourced from Al-Shabaab-controlled territory through Kismayo, has undermined his claim of being a stabilizing force in southern Somalia. FGS officials assert that revenues generated from the charcoal trade have enabled Madobe to expand his private arsenal allowing him to effectively exert, with KDF support, military control over Kismayo and embezzle public sector revenues, notably from the port.<sup>10</sup>

Yusuf Mohamed Siyaad 'Indha'adde'

13. A key spoiler amongst disaffected Hawiye / Habar Gedir / Ayr warlords is Yusuf Mohamed Siyaad 'Indha'adde', formerly the Eritrean-backed chief of defence for ARS-Asmara before joining the armed forces of the Transitional Federal Government (TFG).<sup>11</sup> Indha'adde is no longer part of the official military structure of the SNA but controls at least 300 militiamen, many of whom are integrated within the SNA 3rd Brigade that occupies territory outside Mogadishu and Merka and along the Afgoye corridor.<sup>12</sup>

14. The 3rd Brigade is principally drawn from the Hawiye / Habar Gedir / Ayr clan. It consists of approximately 840 men and is between 30 and 50 per cent smaller than the other five brigades that secure the Banadir region. General Mohamed Roble Jimale 'Gobale' (Hawiye / Habar Gedir / Ayr), a close associate of Indha'adde, officially controls the 3rd Brigade.<sup>13</sup>

15. According to military intelligence reports, and sources with access to its chain of command, territory under the control of the  $3^{rd}$  Brigade, particularly in the Afgoye corridor, has been heavily infiltrated by Al-Shabaab. Also,  $3^{rd}$  Brigade elements have repeatedly been involved in setting up illegal checkpoints and harassing civilians, including raping women. During the course of 2012, the  $3^{rd}$  Brigade has engaged in skirmishes with at least one other SNA brigade (6th Brigade).

16. Furthermore, the Monitoring Group has obtained information detailing the complicity of 3rd Brigade elements in the assassination of SNA commander General Mohamed Ibrahim Farah 'Gordon', who was shot in the head during an ambush of his convoy that was heading from Merka towards Afgoye on 28 October 2012.<sup>14</sup> Two eyewitness sources testified to the Monitoring Group that Gordon was assassinated by 3rd Brigade elements and not Al-Shabaab.<sup>15</sup> In addition, two sources told the Monitoring Group that Gobale had disagreements with Gordon three days before his death when Gordon proposed an operation to attack the position of Hassan Dahir Aweys.<sup>16</sup>

17. While the Monitoring Group has been unable to obtain corroborating evidence of these allegations, it has obtained an official account of a raid by AMISOM on a farm on the road between Merka and Afgoye on 29 October 2012. During the raid, AMISOM troops recovered an illegal arms cache, including a rocket launcher and a sniper telescope. The farm manager was interrogated by

AMISOM troops and admitted that the cache belonged to Indha'adde. On 3 November 2012, Indha'adde arrived at the farm with 30 troops and demanded the return of the arms cache.<sup>17</sup>

18. The Monitoring Group has obtained direct eyewitness testimony documenting a meeting between Indha'adde and Kamal Hassan Gutale (Hawiye/Habar Gedir/Suleiman), the Chief of Staff of President Hassan Sheikh, in the Presidency in January 2013.<sup>18</sup> The meeting was brokered by Sheikh Abdulkadir Ali Omar (Hawiye/Habar Gedir/Suleiman), the former TFG interior minister cited by numerous diplomats and associates as having a role in the kidnapping of two French security officials in 2009.<sup>19</sup> During the course of the meeting, Gutale and Indha'adde discussed options for FGS support to clan fighters loyal to Indha'adde,<sup>20</sup> indicative of close relations between certain officials in the FGS and the 3rd Brigade, notwithstanding the reported security incidents above.

Abdi Nur Siad 'Abdi Wal'

19. Abdi Nur Siad 'Abdi Wal' is a Hawiye / Habar Gedir / Ayr warlord who co-founded the Alliance for the Restoration of Peace and Counter-Terrorism, a group of warlords that fought and was defeated by the Islamic Courts Union in 2006. However, Abdi Wal is now a close ally of former ARS-Asmara leader Zakaria Mohamed Haji Abdi, for whom he provides security in Mogadishu.<sup>21</sup> He is known to command the allegiance of about 100 fighters in Mogadishu, and is involved in contract killings.<sup>22</sup> In addition, he commands the allegiance of an unknown number of Ayr fighters amongst the ranks of ASWJ.<sup>23</sup>

20. The Monitoring Group has received credible testimony that Abdi Wal is connected to piracy and Al-Shabaab networks and has corroborated this through analysis of his telephone records.<sup>24</sup> The Monitoring Group has also received credible reports of Abdi Wal's involvement in an attack on

Mogadishu International Airport on 1 November 2012, in which an RPG was fired on AMISOM containers.<sup>25</sup>

21. Abdi Wal claims in closed-door meetings that he is a close ally of Mahad Mohamed Ali "Karate", a senior Al-Shabaab intelligence officer from the Hawiye / Habar Gedir / Ayr clan.<sup>26</sup> In two separate closed-door meetings, Abdi Wal stated that he was part of a plan to win back political power for former members of the Islamic Courts Union and to create instability in Mogadishu until more Ayr are appointed to positions in the FGS.<sup>27</sup>

22. Both Abdi Wal and his political godfather, another former warlord, Mohamud Afrah Qanyare<sup>28</sup> (Hawiye / Habar Gedir / Murosade), have regular contacts with officials in the Somali Presidency and have demanded a greater share of weapons for Hawiye / Habar Gedir clan fighters, warning the Government not to give favourable treatment to Hawiye / Abgaal armed units.<sup>29</sup>

23. This account coincides with separate reports that Abdi Wal and other Ayr figures may be important allies of FGS-aligned Darod / Marehan leaders who have been involved in building up the Darod / Marehan armed presence around Kismayo.

Barre Adan Shire 'Hiiraale' and Hassan Galad

24. Former leaders of the now defunct JVA, notably Barre Adan Shire 'Hiiraale' (Darod / Marehan) and Hassan Galad (Hawiye / Habar Gedir / Ayr), have been instrumental in the Government's planning of the March 2013 deployment of Darod / Marehan forces to a position 40 kilometers from Kismayo.<sup>30</sup> Approximately 200 forces were dispatched from the town of El Waak and were funded by officials in the office of Prime Minister Abdi Farah Shirdon (Darod / Marehan).<sup>31</sup>

25. From El Waak the force passed through roughly a dozen Al-Shabaab checkpoints on its way towards Kismayo without any resistance.<sup>32</sup> A key broker between these forces and Al-Shabaab was Abdurahman Filow<sup>33</sup> (Darod / Marehan), a former commander under Hiiraale's JVA and who was a senior Al-Shabaab commander in Kismayo before being expelled by KDF and Ras Kamboni forces in September 2012. Moreover, the Al-Shabaab ally, Mohamed Wali Sheikh Ahmed Nuur (Darod / Marehan) (profiled in S/2011/433, paragraphs 320 and 321), guaranteed unopposed passage for the El Waak force through Al-Shabaab-controlled territory.<sup>34</sup>

26. While Filow has recently allied with officials in the FGS, he has continued to operate as an Al-Shabaab commander, leading recruitment drives in Jamaame in March 2013, and organising an Al-Shabaab attack on Kismayo on 4 April 2013, in which militants fired four explosive projectiles between the old airport and the city university.<sup>35</sup> Hiiraale, meanwhile, relocated in late April 2013 from Mogadishu to Kismayo with a detachment of personal militia and has proclaimed himself as the president of a new regional government of Jubaland.

27. According to a source in direct contact with Ahmed Nuur and Abdi Wal, both men consider themselves to be part of the same alliance, and have worked with Hiiraale to pressure FGS officials to

integrate more Marehan and Ayr elements into Somali security forces.<sup>36</sup> In addition, Hassan Galad appears to be merging his forces with militias loyal to Gobale and Indha'adde in the Merka-Afgoye axis.<sup>37</sup> These are clear indications that Hiiraale and Galad, who once spearheaded the JVA, are connecting with spoiler networks from the Ayr clan, as described above.

Support from Eritrea

28. The Monitoring Group has received numerous reports about the warming of relations between Asmara and Mogadishu, and has obtained evidence of Asmara's control of political agents close to the Somali Presidency and some of the individual spoilers referred to above.

29. A key foreign policy advisor to President Hassan Sheikh is Ahmed Abdi Hashi 'Hashara', a former leader within ARS-Asmara who is known to have received financial support from Asmara at least as late as 2012.<sup>38</sup> In 2012, Hashara described General Jama Mohamed Ghalib, referred to above, as his political ally and announced his intent to create a new accord between the FGS and former members of ARS-Asmara.<sup>39</sup>

30. The Monitoring Group has obtained direct testimonies and concrete evidence of Eritrean support to Abdi Wal and Mohamed Wali Sheikh Ahmed Nuur. A source on the Eritrean payroll in direct contact with Abdi Wal has confirmed that Abdi Wal has admitted in closed-door meetings and that he is acting as an agent for the Eritrean government.<sup>40</sup> General Ghalib has referred to Ahmed Nuur as a key ally of his.<sup>41</sup>

31. In addition to these testimonies, the Monitoring Group has confirmed meetings in Khartoum in late December 2012 between Ahmed Nuur and Mohamed Mantai, the Eritrean Ambassador to Sudan. During these meetings, options for Eritrean financial support to Ahmed Nuur were discussed.<sup>42</sup> Telephone records of Ahmed Nuur's Somali telephone number also show direct contact with a landline in Eritrea.

32. Mantai, a former military intelligence officer, has a history of operating in Somalia and was expelled from Kenya in 2009 after he returned from Somalia following meetings with Al-Shabaab agents (see S/2011/433, annex 8.5). Additional information about Mantai, and Eritrean support to Somali spoiler networks appears in the separate Eritrea report of the Monitoring Group report on Somalia and Eritrea.

Annex 3.3.a: Spoiler network in southern Somalia

Annex 3.4: Spoiler networks and the Somali security services

1. A key asset for both Al-Shabaab and former officials within the TFG is Artan Abdi Ibrahim 'Bidar' (Hawiye / Murosade / Sebdi / Abubakar), a known security consultant in Mogadishu who has provided private security protection for Government officials but who has been also identified by senior security officials as an agent for Al-Shabaab.

2. A senior ranking security official, TFG Minister and FGS official have all identified the role of Artan Bidar, a cousin and close confidant of Sheikh 'Ali Dheere', the spokesman of Al-Shabaab with whom he works closely.<sup>1</sup> These and other sources have also identified Artan Bidar as a private security contractor who has worked for TFG former President Sheikh Sharif Sheikh Ahmed, TFG former Speaker of Parliament Sheikh Sharif Hassan Aden, former TFG Prime Minister Mohamed Abdullahi Mohamed 'Farmajo'<sup>2</sup>, and General Abdullahi Gaafow Mohamud, the Director of Immigration and Naturalization at Mogadishu International Airport. Artan Bidar is also the cousin and intimate associate of Mohamed Moalim Hassan, the former Director of the TFG Presidency (Chief of Cabinet), who helped facilitate his activities.

3. Since mid-2012, Artan Bidar has been under investigation by a number of security officials in Somalia for the alleged assassination of at least several individuals in Mogadishu. In addition to a journalist writing about corruption in the TFG and a comedian who talked about wealthy politicians giving their money to the poor, these include the following two cases, amongst others.<sup>3</sup>

4. First, on 19 July 2012, unknown assailants gunned down Mohamed Ali Hussein, the Deputy Director-General of the Ministry of Finance. While Al-Shabaab was blamed for the attack, press reports suggested that the motive for the killing was the victim's cooperation with the Monitoring Group in providing sensitive information about TFG corruption.<sup>4</sup> Investigators subsequently confirmed to the Monitoring Group that the motive was related to the perception that the victim, previously an official at the Central Bank, had denied to the Monitoring Group Sharif Hassan's claim that he had deposited a 10 million USD payment into the Central Bank.

5. Second, in the evening of 4 August 2012, with a similar modus operandi, unknown assailants armed with pistols gunned down Ibrahim Iman Halane, the general manager of Mogadishu airport. While Al-Shabaab again was blamed for the attack, investigators subsequently confirmed to the Monitoring Group that the motive for the killing was the allegation that Halane had provided information to the Monitoring Group about Sharif Hassan diverting taxation revenue from the airport.

http://somalianewsroom.com/2012/07/19/somalia-deputy-minister-of-finance-assassinated-in-mogadishu/.

6. According to Somali security officials investigating these cases, Artan Bidar has 25 to 30 armed men working for him. These include a trusted lieutenant, Fathi Sheikh Muhudin (Hawiye / Karanle), who is also a close associate of both Sheikh Sharif and Sharif Hassan. Muhudin is responsible for running a team of 10 hit men. Reportedly, one of these men, "Ahmed" (Hawiye / Habar Gedir / Suleiman), led the assassination of the airport manager, Halane. The arrested hit men say they are paid 200 USD after successfully killing someone, 20 USD for surveillance and 5 USD in telephone credits. In addition to independently providing assassing for contract killings, Artan Bidar coordinates with Al-Shabaab hit squads through family connections with Ali Dheere.<sup>5</sup>

7. The Monitoring Group has not obtained irrefutable evidence of the involvement of Artan Badar in any specific murder, but has received consistent testimony that he remains a 'gun-for-hire' and an agent involved in infiltrating Al-Shabaab agents into the National Intelligence and Security Agency (NISA), under the cover of acting as informants against Al-Shabaab.

8. In addition, more than 200 Al-Shabaab prisoners seem to have been released on the instructions of former TFG President Sheikh Sharif and former TFG Interior and Security Minister Abdisamad Moalim Mohamud in late August 2012.<sup>6</sup> Two senior Somali security officials have told the Monitoring Group that two of the suicide bombers involved in the attack on the Jazira Hotel in Mogadishu on 12 September 2012, when President Hassan Sheikh was addressing his first press conference as President, were former prisoners who had been released in August.<sup>7</sup>

9. While the Monitoring Group could not verify the veracity of these claims, it has nonetheless obtained first hand eyewitness testimony from a Somali speaking individual present at the Jazira hotel on 12 September 2012. This individual overheard Somali police deployed inside the hotel discussing the entry plan of the second suicide bomber, who was eventually shot dead by a ministerial security officer that was not part of the police deployment.<sup>8</sup>

10. Furthermore, and according to reports from Somali security officials, Ahmed Moallim Fiqi, who stepped down as director of NISA on 25 March 2013, and Al-Shabaab enjoy a close relationship. Senior TFG officials have voiced concerns that Fiqi used Al-Shabaab agents to target political opponents within the government.<sup>9</sup> One senior security official that worked with Fiqi informed the Monitoring Group that several Al-Shabaab suspects he arrested claimed to be working as agents for Fiqi.<sup>10</sup>

11. While Al-Shabaab defectors are used regularly to gather information by intelligence agencies in Somalia, there are grounds for concern that Al-Shabaab and other spoiler networks may have leveraged entry points into NISA, where they have succeeded in gathering intelligence on NISA operations or positioning themselves to exploit political disputes at the heart of Government in Somalia.

12. As such, the Monitoring Group notes with concern the attempted theft of a number of mortar rounds from an arms and ammunition storage facility operated by NISA in Mogadishu on 15 March 2013. Two sources confirmed that security guards on duty at Villa Somalia arrested an individual attempting to smuggle out a number of mortar rounds from the NISA armoury on that day. One media report estimated as many as eleven mortar rounds were captured by the security guards, and suggested that subsequent Government investigations revealed a significant leak in NISA's armoury.<sup>11</sup>

Annex 4.1: Fleeing pirates after a failed attack (2 April 2013)

1. While pirate operations have reduced in number and become smaller in scale, they have not ceased entirely. Attacks are still occasionally reported, such as on 2 April 2013 when the Sierra Leone-flagged general cargo vessel 'Alpha Kirawira' was attacked some 13 nautical miles south of Barawe. Eight armed men in a white-coloured skiff powered by two Yamaha Enduro outboard engines, chased and fired at the merchant ship. The security team on board responded by firing several warning shots. The pirates subsequently aborted the attack.

Misappropriation of public financial resources

Annex 5.1: Corruption during the 2012 end of transition process

1. The Monitoring Group has obtained eyewitness testimonies and documentation of wide spread manipulation, financial bribes and threats occurring before and during the September 2012 Parliamentarian and Presidential elections.<sup>1</sup> Such manipulation of the elections resulted in individuals linked to the previous regime, and a number of warlords, being returned to positions of power, and in special interest groups capturing the political environment. The Monitoring Group has also obtained information of large-scale financial contributions from Gulf States that were used by principal candidates to buy political support during various stages of the elections (see below).

2. Outgoing officials of the Transitional Federal Government (TFG), from the majority clans, were able to steer the electoral process from its inception in order to reinforce their own power bases.<sup>2</sup> In particular, former TFG President, Sheikh Sharif Sheikh Ahmed (Hawiye clan), former TFG Prime Minister Abdiweli Mohamed Ali Gaas (Darod clan) and former TFG Speaker of Parliament Sharif Hassan Sheikh Aden (Rahanwein / Ashraf but related to the Digil-Mirifle clan) manipulated the registration of traditional elders who would select Members of Parliament (MPs), and who in turn would select the Speaker of Parliament and President of Somalia. Key figures in this process also included former Minister of Interior, Abdisamad Mo'allin Mohamud, who controlled the distribution of identification cards to registered elders, and Khadija Diriye Mohamed, who was on the Electoral Commission<sup>3</sup> and bribed a number of elders to influence the MP selection process.

3. The Monitoring Group has also obtained first hand accounts of threats issued against members of the Technical Selection Committee (TSC), the UN-backed<sup>4</sup> vetting committee tasked with assessing eligibility of electoral candidates,<sup>5</sup> as well as eyewitness testimonies of candidates engaged in bribing and threatening MPs during the selection of the President. In addition, presidential candidates used financial contributions from the United Arab Emirates (UAE) and Qatar to buy MP votes during the presidential election.

Manipulation of elders' registration

4. The corruption began with the exclusion of the majority of genuine elders in advance of the MP selection process.<sup>6</sup> Sharif Sheikh Ahmed, Sharif Hassan Sheikh Aden and Abdiweli Mohamed Ali tasked cabinet members in the TFG to register elders. However, only 135 of the traditional elders were registered by the outgoing TFG.<sup>7</sup> The Monitoring Group has received testimonies that TFG officials in charge of selecting elders routinely made deals with such elders to pick MPs who would be amenable to the interests of the outgoing TFG principals. In many cases, the elders chosen were considered imposters by their local communities.<sup>8</sup>

5. The Monitoring Group has obtained eyewitness testimony of the manipulation of the elders process by senior officials in the TFG. In particular, the former Interior Minister Abdi'samad Mohamud Ali exercised the final decision over the nomination of elders through his control of the production of identification documents for elders.<sup>9</sup> The Monitoring Group has obtained first hand testimony detailing the selection by Abdisamad Mohamed Ali of an Al-Shabaab-aligned elder who in turn used his position as an elder of the Hawiye / Habar Gidr / Ayr clan to select Abdi'samad Mohamed Ali as an MP. The elder chosen by Abdisamad Mohamed Ali was Ugas Abdi Dahir, a former ARS-Asmara official and agent of Eritrea who has been named in a previous Monitoring Group report.<sup>10</sup>

6. The Monitoring Group has also gathered evidence of the role of some of the principal TFG leaders in bribing elders. Prime Minister Abdiweli Mohamed Ali organized the appointment of a false elder to the Gadabursi / Haber Afan clan, Sultan Abeeb Aw Muhumed. He received 8000 USD from loyal MPs in return for their names being submitted to the TSC.<sup>11</sup> The Monitoring Group has also received information that Sheikh Sharif Sheikh Ahmed gave 50,000 USD to a Darod / Warsangeli elder for his support.<sup>12</sup>

7. Furthermore, on 9 August 2012, the elder, Suldan Said Abdisalam, submitted a list of five MPs to the TSC. However, of this list only one name, Dahir Haji Gele Farah, was appointed as an MP (see annex 5.1.a). According to sources, the other four names were replaced by individuals who, like Dahir Haji Gele, paid Suldan Said Abdisalam for their MP seats. Additionally, he selected them on condition that they would vote for Abdiweli, who had also paid him.<sup>13</sup>

Threats to elders

8. Since the 2012 election, five elders who participated in the selection of Parliamentarians have been murdered. The family of one elder stated that he had received several death threats from unknown individuals.<sup>14</sup> Al-Shabaab had previously threatened to assassinate any elder found to have participated in the election process.<sup>15</sup>

9. According to TSC members, one elder who did not support Sheikh Sharif was kidnapped and forced at gunpoint to fill out a list of MPs in favour of Sheikh Sharif to be submitted to the TSC.<sup>16</sup>

Manipulation of Members of Parliament selection

Threats and obstruction of the Technical Selection Committee

10. Once the traditional elders were identified, a 27 member TSC was appointed in June 2012 to evaluate the individuals put forward by those elders for MP seats.<sup>17</sup> The registered elders were required to submit two individuals for each seat.<sup>18</sup>

11. TSC members, who had the right to reject the nomination of MPs by elders on the grounds of their prior history, were routinely harassed and threatened during the process of vetting candidates submitted by the committees of elders. TSC members have reported to the Monitoring Group that they received threats following their decision to veto the election of 27 MPs by elders on the grounds that many of these candidates had been warlords with histories of having committed grave human rights violations. Notwithstanding TSC objections, at least 17 of these 27 candidates were returned as MPs following a decision by Chief Justice Aideed Abdullahi Ilko Hanaff to veto the objections of the TSC (see annex 5.1.b).<sup>19</sup> According to several sources each warlord paid 20,000 USD to the Chief Justice to rule in their favour.<sup>20</sup> TSC members report that Sharif Hassan Sheikh Aden supported the return of these candidates.<sup>21</sup>

Threats to Members of Parliament

12. Members of Parliament resided in secure hotels near Kilometre 4 in Mogadishu due to threats to government officials from Al-Shabaab. The hotel bill for each MP was covered by the TFG and guaranteed by a letter. As such, security became a tool to leverage compliance from MPs. A source told the Monitoring Group that one MP who was at odds with Sharif Hassan Sheikh Aden was evicted from his hotel.<sup>22</sup>

13. When all else failed, obstruction and the use of physical force was employed to prevent uncooperative MPs who had been approved by the TSC from attending the MP swearing in ceremony. One MP was forcibly taken out of line as she attempted to enter a bus bound for the swearing in ceremony. She walked to the airport, where she was physically prevented from entering to be sworn in as an MP.<sup>23</sup>

Joint Parliamentarian complaint

14. On 10 August 2012, a joint complaint letter was drafted by Parliamentarians, clan elders and intellectuals from mainly Dir and marginalized minority clans condemning the election process as corrupt, and highlighting several examples of bribery and corruption (see annex 5.1.c). Many of the individuals who came forward with this complaint were threatened and had to go into hiding.<sup>24</sup> The Parliamentarians attempted to take their complaint to court in late August 2012, but were denied a hearing by Chief Justice Aideed Abdullahi Ilko Hanaff. ### Speaker of Parliament election

15. The Monitoring Group has obtained testimony detailing threats issued by former TFG Speaker Sharif Hassan Sheikh Aden during the election of the new speaker of parliament. In particular, during a clan meeting in Mogadishu in June 2012, Sharif Hassan Sheikh Aden stated that he would kill anyone from the Digl-Mirifle clan who would contest the election of the Speaker of Parliament.<sup>26</sup>

Presidential election

16. Sources identified Khadija Diriye Mohamed as a key player involved in facilitating corruption in the election of the President. She was appointed to the Electoral Commission which received applications for the position of President and created the final ballot. Potential candidates were required to submit their curriculum vitae, the application and a 10,000 USD entry fee.<sup>27</sup>

Four days before the election, she resigned from the Commission, citing conflict of interest due to her desire to support Sheikh Sharif<sup>28</sup> and is accused of stealing the final presidential ballot to use as a means of bribing MPs.<sup>29</sup> She has also been accused of active involvement in the bribery of elders to manipulate the MP selection process.<sup>30</sup>

17. Just before the election, Sheikh Sharif Sheikh Ahmed and Sharif Hassan Sheikh Aden hosted an event for MPs at the Palace Hotel in Mogadishu. During this event, numerous MPs were taken aside and offered bribes for their votes.<sup>31</sup> Sources witnessed money being handed out in exchange for votes, and observed Sharif Hassan personally bringing a suitcase of money to this event to pay off MPs.<sup>32</sup>

Financial contributions from abroad

18. The Monitoring Group has obtained evidence that Sheikh Sharif Sheikh Ahmed and Sharif Hassan Sheikh Aden both sourced considerable funds from the United Arab Emirates.<sup>33</sup>

19. The Monitoring Group has also obtained evidence that President Hassan Sheikh's entourage were also complicit in bribery. Sources indicate that the President received several million dollars from Qatar which was used to buy off political support.<sup>34</sup> Important carriers of cash donations from Qatar include Fahad Yasin and Abdi Aynte, two former journalists from the Doha based news organisation Al-Jazeera. They are now senior figures at the Heritage Institute for Policy Studies (HIPS), an FGS-aligned think tank in Mogadishu established with financing from Qatar. Aynte, the director of HIPS, is a prominent member of the Ala Sheikh political and business association of former TFG President Sheikh Sharif Sheikh Ahmed. Yasin, an associate of HIPS, is the nephew of Farah Abdulqadir, the current Minister of State for the Presidency and part of the Damul Jadid political association close to President Hassan Sheikh. Both Aynte and Yasin are important figures in consolidating cooperation between Ala Sheikh and Damul Jadid.

During the election, another eyewitness and former MP overheard a telephone conversation an elder was having where the caller stated that he had 40,000 USD for him. The elder instructed payment to be made through Dahabshiil.

20. Yasin has been involved in carrying cash donations from Qatar on behalf of President Hassan Sheikh, according to emails dated 4 March 2012 between Hassan Sheikh and Abdulkadir Barnamij.<sup>35</sup> Two FGS officials confirm that during the election process, Yasin carried substantial funds from Qatar to Mogadishu for the campaign of Hassan Sheikh.<sup>36</sup> One source told the Monitoring Group that he was offered 10,000 USD to vote for Hassan Sheikh, and he was instructed to get into a vehicle with the current Minister of State for the Presidency Farah Abdulqadir to be paid.<sup>37</sup>

21. Overall, given the stakes, corruption in the 2012 elections was unprecedented in scale of funds and numbers of individuals paid for their support.<sup>38</sup> In many ways, the process of ending the transitional period in Somalia and the use of public and private resources to obtain power helped recycle the patterns and practices of mismanaging funds of past administrations into the new Government (see annex 5.2).

Annex 5.2: Public financial mismanagement and corruption

1. Since the collapse of the Somali State in 1991, there have been some seventeen transitional processes driven by power-sharing arrangements based on representation of the major clans, the so-called '4.5 formula'. Throughout these political configurations, there has been no complementary process regarding reconciliation over resources, with a definition of clear ownership of public goods. Without this clarity, following the collapse of the Government, Somalis did not consider looting national assets in customary law terms as stealing. Such attitudes became institutionalised as a sense of entitlement in successive transitional authorities with public and private officials seeking personal profit from public resources. The pursuit of power and profit became indistinguishable.

2. By 2012, the World Bank described the complete absence of a system of public financial management (PFM) in the Transitional Federal Government (TFG) of Somalia and reported 131 million USD of Government revenues unaccounted for in 2009-2010, equivalent to a 68 per cent diversion rate for the two years. The World Bank concluded that the Government had sufficient funds from internal revenues to pay all civil servants, parliamentarians and security forces.<sup>1</sup> The Monitoring Group assessed that these patterns continued in 2011 (S/2012/544).

3. During the 2011-2012 Roadmap process, a series of meetings were convened to formulate the modalities for the end of the transition. Between 15 and 17 February 2012, at Garowe II, the issue of resources was briefly on the agenda, but overwhelmed by other pending issues. Without clarity about management of public goods, either within the central Government or with regional administrations, the same sense of entitlement to resources would continue in the post-transition regime, recycling many of the patterns of corruption of the past. In particular, a genuine end of transition process entailed both a change of individuals and a change of system. While elections in summer 2012 ultimately led to a new President, Hassan Sheikh Mohamud, his Government inherited the legacy of the TFG. In this regard, the new regime cannot necessarily be faulted with continuing patterns of corruption per se, but can be held responsible for appointment of individuals involved in past or present corruption. Notably, when Hassan Sheikh came to office, he was not in a position to fully control internal revenue streams and therefore address existing or new forms of diversion.

The Central Bank of Somalia and the fadlan system

4. The Monitoring Group previously reported that "the systematic misappropriation, embezzlement and outright theft of public resources have essentially become a system of governance."<sup>2</sup> At the heart of this system is the Central Bank of Somalia (CBS). Donor concern has focused on diversion at sources of internal and external revenue and considered deposits in the CBS as the legitimate use of funds by the Government and a key step in establishing a functioning system of public financial management. However, careful analysis of the actual accounts of the CBS in its current state clearly demonstrates that deposited funds are not used for the running of the institutions of Government and the CBS does not serve as an address for this purpose.

5. Endemic in past and current administrations is the system of fadlan (please). According to this practice, private individuals, whether inside Government or outside, make requests to members of the leadership for private payments that cannot be resisted for personal or other reasons. The senior politician signs a note authorising payment that is honoured at the Ministry of Finance or the Central Bank directly. This custom is also called the "khaki envelope" procedure on account of the colour of the envelopes seen carried to the Ministry of Finance. Since banks in Somalia, including the CBS, cannot make electronic transfers internally or externally, all transactions are made in cash. While the current Minister of Finance, Mohamud Hassan Suleiman, has made every good faith effort to reduce the scale of fadlan, it is so pervasive as to be beyond his control without a fundamental restructuring of the system.<sup>3</sup> In fact, the CBS accounts are effectively a snapshot of a patronage network and social relations that defy the institutionalisation of the State. They are, in effect, a definition of what the Government is and what it is not.

6. The sources of deposits into the CBS are sometimes indicated but often not. Deposits by the Ministry of Finance, in particular, do not indicate any origin. In addition, there are three types of withdrawals recorded. First, withdrawals are made in the name of a private individual. Second, withdrawals are made for an individual ostensibly associated with a ministry, but it is unclear if that individual is acting in a private capacity, on behalf of a minister privately, or if there is a legitimate operational cost for the ministry. Officially, only a cashier of a ministry is supposed to be able to withdraw funds from the CBS, though this is rarely the case.<sup>4</sup> Third, withdrawals are made on behalf of an institution of Government, which can be assumed in principle to be intended for an operational cost.<sup>5</sup>

7. According to CBS records, payments to private individuals constitute the bulk of withdrawals. In 2011, these amounted to 87 per cent and in 2012 to 76 per cent of all withdrawals. During the period of the current Government, between September 2012 and April 2013, 72 per cent of withdrawals were made for private individuals. According to one estimate, the annual average over 12 years of individual and purported Government withdrawals was

8. Figures drawn from the CBS records are at odds with the structure of national budgets and the order attributed to Government finances by the Office of the Accountant. Overall national budgets are invariably divided into what is stated to be available from internal revenue and what is needed from donors to meet Government needs, as follows:

- 2009 budget for the period July to December: overall 55 million USD; 11 million USD available from internal revenue and the remainder expected from donors.
- 2010 budget: overall 110 million USD; 20 million USD available from internal revenue and remainder expected from donors.
- 2011 budget: overall 98 million USD; 28 million USD available from internal revenue and remainder expected from donors.
- 2012 budget: overall 92 million USD; 43 million USD available from internal revenue and remainder expected from donors.
- 2013 budget: 84 million USD; 53 million USD available from internal revenue and remainder expected from donors.<sup>7</sup>

9. The overall amount of these budgets corresponds roughly to the actual internal revenue already generated in Mogadishu, combining funds diverted at source and funds deposited into the CBS.<sup>8</sup> While the amount stated to be available from internal revenue can be compared, depending upon the year, to the scale of funds passing through the CBS, which were

49.5 million USD in 2011 and 41.2 million USD in 2012. The annual breakdown of national revenue and expenditures provided by the Office of the Accountant General either artificially corresponds to figures stated in a national budget (2009 and 2010) or to CBS funds (2012).<sup>9</sup> However, the line items of income and expenditure attributed to the functioning of Government by the Auditor General bear no resemblance to the deposits and withdrawals at the CBS overwhelmingly for private individuals.

10. According to CBS accounts, one individual in particular has withdrawn the greatest percentage of funds. Between 2010 and 2013, Shir Axmed Jumcaale, a cashier at the Ministry of Finance, withdrew 20.5 million USD in his name. These funds were used for individual fadlan payments made directly by successive Ministers of Finance or officials at the Ministry of Finance, separately from direct individual payments from the Central Bank.<sup>10</sup> Such lump sum withdrawals obscure further accounting of private individual transactions between officials and the recipient.

11. Another individual made the second largest withdrawals. Between 2010 and 2013, Colonel Abdiqaadir Moalin Nuur withdrew 4.7 million USD in his name. There is no further explanation of the purpose of the withdrawals.

12. Sporadic and uneven payments to Members of Parliament are an indistinguishable combination of donor stipends and fadlan payments.<sup>11</sup>

13. Generally, given the lack of transparency of its funds and the manner in which they are distributed, the CBS does not function as an organ of Government subject to policy decisions or oversight from integrity institutions and Parliament. This is further exacerbated since members of the Board of the CBS are not currently in place and able to authorise decisions, which are left to the will of the present Governor, Abdusalam Omer, appointed on 13 January 2013.

The fiduciary agent model

14. By 2009, with growing donor concern about corruption in the TFG and reluctance to provide direct budget support, an alternative financing mechanism, the Financial Management Agency (FMA), was established in June 2009 through PricewaterhouseCoopers Associates Africa Limited (PWC) based in Nairobi. It was originally conceived as a fiduciary agent with a broad scope of responsibilities. The FMA was to provide a number of services on behalf of donors to the TFG:

- Financial management of development partner funds, included, inter alia controlling a financial flow between Nairobi and Mogadishu and verifying the "tracking of flow and usage of funds", as well as reviewing budgets for expenditures;
- Tracking and monitoring funds to "ensure disbursed funds are used effectively and efficiently for purposes for which they were intended";

- Procurement management that involved devising transparent, competitive and cost-effective procurement procedures in the TFG; and
- Developing and implementing a financial training plan for staff in core financial institutions.<sup>12</sup>

15. In addition, there was meant to be an Oversight Committee, including the Minister of Finance, then Sharif Hassan Sheikh Aden, as well as other relevant ministers. The beneficiaries were stated to be civil servants and soldiers who would receive salaries through the mechanism, and the TFG through contracted goods and services.<sup>13</sup>

16. On 29 June 2009, PWC signed a contract with the TFG incorporating the terms of reference as the "Description of Services" (see annex 5.2.a). For its services, PWC would charge a management fee of 4 per cent for the first 1 - 100 million USD in the FMA, which would go down as the funds increased to 3.5 per cent for 100-200 million USD and 3 per cent for funds over 200 million USD. Donor funds, however, never exceeded 100 million USD.

17. A Senior Advisor at the Ministry of Finance, Abdusalam Omer, was appointed as the authorized representative of the TFG to the PWC FMA. In a subsequent contract of

3 December 2009, he was to be funded by the African Development Bank (AFDB) at a rate of 120,000 USD per annum as part of a public financial management project (see below). As an associate of the Minister of Finance, Sharif Hassan had brought Abdusalam Omer into the Ministry to serve as the interface with the donor community. He had earlier served as the Chief of Staff in the Executive Office of the Mayor of the District of Columbia Government, Washington, D.C., but had been forced to resign following an investigation by the Inspector General into his role in fundraising activities in the Executive Office.<sup>14</sup>

18. Following the establishment of the FMA, Abdusalam Omer became the TFG counterpart and the responsible individual for fulfilling the TFG's obligations. One of these obligations was to provide reports to PWC that ensured the TFG would spend funds in accordance with donor instructions prior to disbursement. However, after two initial reports in 2010, Abdusalam refused to provide further reports.<sup>15</sup> In addition, in collaboration with Sharif Hassan, he began to renegotiate implementation of the terms of reference for PWC, excluding all activities except the sole function of transferring funds to the TFG. In this way, a fiduciary agent was reduced to a transfer agency. PWC thereafter either transferred funds based on instructions of the donor and Abdusalam Omer, or in some cases spent funds directly. While PWC retained a monitoring and evaluation function for its own operations, it did not account for TFG use of the funds.<sup>16</sup>

19. Between 2009 and 2012, a variety of donors channelled 56,835,354 USD through the PWC mechanism. This included 26,095,955 USD from the U.S. Government transferred from PWC through the agent Amal for the payment of stipends to the Somali security forces. In addition, several donors provided a total of 16.9 million USD for PWC to transfer directly to the CBS. An AFDB project of 1,967,950 USD was spent in part through the Horn Economic and Social Policy Institute (HESPI) in Addis Ababa. In addition, there were direct expenditures on behalf of the TFG and smaller projects with other financial arrangements.<sup>17</sup>

CBS transfers

20. Between 2010 and 2012, the Arab League, China, Germany and South Sudan committed 16.9 million USD for various purposes defined in varying degrees of detail in support of the TFG to be transferred by PWC to the CBS.

21. The procedure for transfer entailed, first, authorisation from the donor and Abdusalam Omer, who had the contractual responsibility on behalf of the Ministry of Finance to ensure the transmission of funds from PWC through to their deposit in the CBS. PWC from its bank accounts in Nairobi then electronically transferred the authorised amount to a money transfer agent, either Amal or Dahabshil, with instructions to deliver the designated funds to the CBS. The offices of either Amal or Dahabshil in Mogadishu, with the PWC monitoring agent, Eagle Associates, physically moved the cash funds to the CBS. At the CBS, in the presence of the Governor of the Central Bank, Abdillahi Hagi, and the Director General of the Ministry of Finance, Amina Sheikh Osman, the cash funds were counted. Upon verification, both Hagi and Osman signed a letter confirming receipt of the cash funds and issued deposit slips to be submitted to PWC (see annex 5.2.b).

22. By this procedure, between May 2011 and April 2012, twenty transfers were made amounting to 16,924,466 USD.<sup>18</sup>

23. In the accounts of the CBS, there are no deposits listed as coming from PWC. Rather, there are undefined deposits by the Ministry of Finance. By tracking the date and the amount of the PWC transfers, and checking receipts and slips provided by the CBS to PWC against CBS records, the Monitoring Group identified six deposits amounting to 4,852,235 USD. It was unable to trace 12,072,231 USD as having been deposited in the CBS (see annex 5.2.b.i-iv). While PWC received confirmation receipt letters signed by Hagi and Osman indicating the date and amount received, as well as deposit slips from the CBS for the other fourteen transfers, there are no corresponding deposits in the CBS.

24. One of the largest transfers missing was for 2.5 million USD from the Government of Algeria sent through the Arab League (see annex 5.2.c). On 6 May 2011, this transfer was prepared by PWC and it was authorised by Abdusalam Omer (see annex 5.2.d). On 11 May 2011, PWC sent an email notification to Al Amal Commercial Brokerage regarding the pending transaction. On 16 May 2011, CBS Governor Hagi and Ministry of Finance Director General Osman confirmed receipt in writing of 2,025,000 USD at the CBS (see annex 5.2.e) and a CBS deposit slip was forwarded to PWC for their records (see annex 5.2.f). However, in the accounts of the CBS there is no record of a deposit for this amount on this date, or any other date that month.<sup>19</sup> The Monitoring Group considered whether the deposit might have been made in smaller increments over time, but has been informed that this would have been impossible and the CBS would be obliged to generate individual deposit slips for each transaction.<sup>20</sup>

25. Regardless of whether these funds reached the CBS, the Monitoring Group can confirm that the withdrawals made from the CBS following the dates of transfers were subject to the fadlan system and mostly in the name of private individuals. There is no evidence of expenditures from the CBS in accordance with the purposes of the funds stated by the individual donors.<sup>21</sup>

Subsistence supplies to the Somali security services

26. Funds from Libya, Rwanda<sup>22</sup> and China were channelled through PWC for the purchase of subsistence supplies for the Somali security services.

27. On 22 September 2009, China provided 500,000 USD to the TFG for support to the running costs of the Government through PWC. In a letter dated 27 October 2009, Minister of Finance Sharif Hassan wrote to PWC authorising 50,000 USD administrative costs to be paid to Abdusalam Omer, 40,000 USD of which he would forward to the Prime Minister's office (see annex 5.2.g). On 28 October 2009, Abdusalam Omer authorised the payment of 50,000 USD (see annex 5.2.h), which was deposited into his personal account the same day (see annex 5.2.i). There are no receipts on file with PWC from the Prime Minister's Office.

28. The same day, Abdusalam Omer authorised 400,000 USD to be transferred to Daljir Trading & General Services for food and subsistence supplies to security forces (see Annex 5.2.j). Daljir Trading was named in the previous report of the Monitoring Group. The owner of Daljir Trading Yuusuf Sheikh Mohamed works closely with his brother Abbas Sheikh Mohamed 'Jamalo' (also spelt Jimale). Both are close clan relations of then TFG President Sheikh Sharif, and together managed "the president's money".<sup>23</sup> Another alleged shareholder of Daljir Trading is former Mogadishu port manager Sayid Ali Moallim Abdulle (see Annex 5.4).<sup>24</sup>

29. On 28 October 2009, Yuusuf Sheikh Mohamed of Daljir Trading authorised the payment of 400,000 USD to be sent to Abdirahman Yusuf Omar of Global Creative Agencies Ltd in Nairobi, Kenya (see annex 5.2.k). On 2 November 2009, Minister of Finance Sharif Hassan sent a letter to PWC authorising payment to Daljir Trading through Global Creative Agencies (see annex 5.2.l). On 5 November 2009, PWC authorised and sent the payment (see annex 5.2.m). The Monitoring Group was unable to trace any physical operations of Global Creative. According to sources in the Prime Minister's Office at the time, these funds were not used to purchase supplies for the security forces.<sup>25</sup>

30. On 16 December 2009, Sharif Hassan sent a letter to PWC concerning 300,000 USD owed to Daljir Trading (see annex 5.2.n). Two additional payments were made by PWC to Daljir to purchase food and subsistence supplies for the security forces. The first payment was made on 17 December 2009 for 140,847 USD (see annex 5.2.o) and the second one on 21 December 2009 for 159,160 USD (see annex 5.2.p). Both payments were made using Libyan and Rwandan funds designated for the salaries of MPs and running costs for ministries and the administration (see annex 5.2.q). The redirection of these funds to Daljir Trading had been permitted by PWC on reassurances from Abdusalam Omer that the remainder of Libyan and Rwandan funds already dispersed would be paid to MPs in a timely manner. Previously, in November 2009, two payments totalling 1.4 million USD had been transferred by PWC to a Dahabshil account in Deira Dubai to support the salaries of MPs (see annex 5.2.r.i-iii). However, by January 2010 the MP salaries had still not been paid (see annex 5.2.s). Again on

1 March 2010, PWC enquired about the status of MP salaries that still had not been paid (see annex 5.2.t). This email was addressed to Abdusalam Omer's junior advisor, Mohamed Abdinur (a.k.a. 'Madeer'), the brother of Finance Minister Sharif Hassan. According to the CBS accounts, these funds were not transferred to the CBS<sup>26</sup> and there is no documentation substantiating that MPs were paid from the Dubai account.

African Development Bank and HESPI

31. While the PWC mechanism was still in its initial stages of operations, the TFG began engaging with the African Development Bank (AFDB) regarding a public financial management project. Given Somalia's debt estimated at 3.3 billion USD, which was 81 per cent in arrears, Somalia was unable to obtain funding through commercial banks, and a briefing note was submitted to the AFDB for support to the famine, the internally displaced crisis and capacity building in the Government.<sup>27</sup> By 21 November 2009, Abdusalam Omer and Mohamed Abdinur prepared a speech for Sharif Hassan to present to the AFDB in order to obtain a 2 million USD grant for capacity building in public financial management. They sought to emphasise to the AFDB that UN consultants had undermined capacity-building in Somalia and that the grant should be organised around Somali consultants, and in particular the individuals seeking the grant. On 1 December 2009, Aues Scek, a Somali public financial management consultant, emailed the AFDB regarding the implementation of the grant with terms of reference for the PFM Senior Advisor, a curriculum vitae of Abdusalam Omer and a payment schedule (see annex 5.2.u).

32. Abdusalam Omer was duly appointed as the PFM Senior Advisor for the project at the rate of 120,000 USD per annum. Between mid-2010 and November 2012, he received payments for salaries and costs from the AFDB through PWC amounting to 364,000 USD.<sup>28</sup> This financed both his role in the project, as well as the Ministry of Finance counterpart to PWC and the donor community.<sup>29</sup>

33. In addition, payments amounting to 1,150,000 USD were provided to HESPI to undertake capacity-building, CBS support and the drafting of PFM legislation. In March 2011, Ernst & Young completed an audit of the funds dispersed to that date. It found no irregularities with the bookkeeping of HESPI, but provided no supporting documentation.<sup>30</sup> More significantly, the report was submitted to Abdusalam Omer as the Senior Advisor for the TFG Ministry of Finance. On 3 March 2011, Abdusalam Omer duly approved the audit, while he was being paid by the project as the PFM Senior Advisor, a clear conflict of interest.<sup>31</sup>

34. Of the 2 million USD grant, according to PWC records (see chart below), at least 81 per cent of the funds were spent on advisor consultancy fees, administration costs and management fees. At present, there has been no verification of the training and capacity-building component of the project.

35. The AFDB commissioned a second audit from Kisaka & Company in April 2013. While the final audit is pending, the auditors found missing documentation at the AFDB and PWC. In April 2012, the Kisaka & Company auditors informed the Monitoring Group that HESPI had refused to meet with them.<sup>32</sup>

36. On 7 December 2012, the new Minister of Finance, Mohamud Hassan Suleiman, replaced Abdusalam Omer as the representative for the PWC mechanism and appointed Ahmed Hagi Abdullahi and Abdirahman Sharif.<sup>33</sup> Sharif assumed Abudsalam Omer's contract with the AFDB, and his monthly salary of 10,000 USD would be paid from the remaining funds in the AFDB account of PWC.<sup>34</sup>

37. In May 2013, the Somalia Parliamentary Finance Committee completed its budget review of the last quarter of 2012. It determined that between October and December 2012, there was a total of 10.3 million USD spent by PWC on the FGS. Out of this amount, 2.3 million USD could not be accounted for.<sup>35</sup>

Capture of the PFM environment

38. The Monitoring Group has previously documented the phenomenon of the Somali contracting environment and the consequences of the international community transferring risk and responsibility for delivery in the humanitarian context (S/2010/91). The PWC mechanism and the AFDB project represented the development of this phenomenon in the context of PFM. The individuals involved abused development concepts of local ownership and capacity-building in order to access resources. It is paradoxical that efforts to achieve financial accountability became vehicles for corruption.

39. Following the announcement at the London Conference on Somalia of 23 February 2012 of a Joint Financial Management Board (JFMB) to be established, an intense period of negotiation between donors and the TFG produced a comprehensive terms of reference.<sup>36</sup> The JFMB had been conceived to finally address the mismanagement and misappropriation of public resources in the Somali Government. It was designed to overcome the patterns of corruption and networks of control over public resources. In light of its findings, the Monitoring Group recommended in its previous report an immediate establishment of the JFMB.<sup>37</sup> In paragraph 4 of resolution 2060, the Security Council welcomed the establishment of the JFMB. However, subsequently there was insufficient political will to launch it.

40. In particular, on the Somali side, the very individuals involved in capturing the PWC mechanism and AFDB project undermined Somali political support for the JFMB and instead proposed a Financial Integrity Authority. In a familiar pattern, it comprised, amongst others, three PFM consultants, the Minister of Finance and the Governor of the Central Bank, who would, in addition to other functions, coordinate donor funds. It argued:

As UN and private agencies have been used as a conduit and managers of most of the external assistance granted to Somalia in the past twenty tears, and the nascent country institutions have been completely by passed, these decisions have led to emasculation of the Somali Ministry of Finance and central Bank.<sup>38</sup>

41. The appointment on 13 January 2013 of Abdusalam Omer as the Governor of the CBS in the FGS coincided with the introduction of a new initiative from the Government of Norway. A Special Financing Facility (SFF) would be administered by Norway, which would contribute

30 million USD as the stated shortfall of the 2013 Somali budget. Donor funds would be pooled in an international account and lump sums would be transferred to a government account controlled by the Ministry of Finance to pay for recurrent and capital costs. In its conception, it was effectively the recreation of the PWC mechanism, not as the FMA but again as a transfer agent.<sup>39</sup>

42. In subsequent iterations of the SFF proposal, the CBS under the new Governor became its financial counterpart. In a second version of 13 February 2013 and a third version of 10 April 2013, the Central Bank was designated to control the government SFF account.<sup>40</sup> To reinforce the role of the CBS, the recently established President's Policy Unit prepared a proposal to the SFF, dated 9 April 2013, describing the IT, electronic transfer and reporting capabilities of the CBS, none of which exist.<sup>41</sup> Indeed, Abdusalam Omer's own proposal, dated 13 February 2013, which he circulated to donors, sought support to establish these capabilities.<sup>42</sup>

43. According to SFF Action Plans of 13 February and 10 April 2013, transfers from the SFF international account to the Central Bank-controlled Government account would be made through the hawala money transfer system, as in the case of the PWC mechanism.<sup>43</sup> In May 2013, with Norway's support the Ministry of Finance issued a tendering process for the SFF banking services, and awarded the bid to Salaam Africa. The Monitoring Group understands that Salaam Africa bank is an enterprise of Ali Ahmed Nur Jim'ale,<sup>44</sup> designated by the Security Council for targeted measures. By September 2012, Salaam bank had established investment branches in Mogadishu providing loans against collateral to the growing number of businesses in the city. It was subsequently licensed by Abdusalam Omer after he assumed the office of Governor of the CBS. However, the licensing of banks by the CBS can only be done by the Board of the CBS, which was not in place, and not by the Governor.

44. The modalities of the SFF have been developed on behalf of Norway's Minister of Development, Heikki Holmås, by a private entity, Nordic International Support Foundation (NISF), formerly headed by the current Special Envoy of Norway to Somalia, Jens Mjaugedal, a candidate supported by The Somali President for the position of Special Representative of the Secretary-General of the new UN Mission for Somalia (UNSOM). The image of Norway's efforts to support Somalia, however, have been affected by its oil interests in the area (see annex 5.5)

45. The capture of the PFM environment in the FGS by Abdusalam Omer and associates involved with him in the PWC mechanism and AFDB project are likely to undermine technical efforts of the donor community to establish the legitimate, transparent and effective management of public resources. In particular, the model of transferring funds without donor oversight over expenditures throughout the supply chain of procurement proved to have failed. Fiduciary management rather than the transfer of funds requires a different model, entailing at least an adaptation or selective implementation of the JFMB.

Annex 5.3: Passport production, corruption and fraud

1. Further to the previous report of the Monitoring Group (S/2102/544), the corruption of the Somali passport has continued according to the same patterns of the pat and is still controlled by the same individuals, namely the Director of Immigration, General Abdullahi Gaafow Mohamud and Ambassador Abdulkadir Sheikhey Al-Hatimi of the Dubai General Consulate.

2. Since this continues to undermine the legitimacy and reliability of Somalia's national identity and travel document, many Somalis rely on dual citizenship and multiple passports to travel internationally. Because of Somalia's porous border and its association with Al-Shabaab, organized crime and piracy, many Somalis obtain temporary Somali travel documents from the Embassy in Nairobi to travel to Somalia (see annex 5.3.a). They do this to conceal their travel into Somalia to avoid potential questioning from immigration and customs upon return to their home countries.<sup>1</sup> While most Somalis use such travel documents in good faith to facilitate their passage through Kenya and into Somalia, such documents could also be used for illicit purposes, by Al-Shabaab and its affiliates, pirates or other criminals to obscure their movements into and out of Somalia.

Mismanagement and insecurity

3. The two main production centres for the Somalia passport are in Dubai and Mogadishu. However, there is no central database or ability to crosscheck applicants.<sup>2</sup> It is possible for individuals to be approved for a passport in Nairobi after having already obtained one from Dubai. Also, the Monitoring Group was informed that, in October 2012, the database of Mondial Technology Information (MTI) in Dubai crashed and all stored data pertaining to the Somalia passport program was lost.<sup>3</sup>

4. Further to the findings of the previous Monitoring Group,<sup>4</sup> Somali passports continue to be issued in false names or with falsified data. Individuals have been able to obtain numerous Somali passports in different names or for others in their name (see annex 5.3.b). The Monitoring Group was informed that Gaafow approved one such passport and Siyad Mohamed Shire, the Consul of Somalia to Kenya, approved another one (see annex 5.3.c).<sup>5</sup>

5. There are no consequences for individuals who use falsified passports. The Italian Embassy in Nairobi identified a woman using a false Somalia passport who was attempting to obtain a visa. The Italian Embassy informed the Somali Embassy in Nairobi. Their response was to issue her a genuine passport and send her back to the Italian Embassy to obtain a visa to travel.<sup>6</sup>

6. The Monitoring Group has obtained evidence that a non-Somali, who is an Al-Shabaab affiliate, was able to obtain a Somalia passport under a false name at the beginning of 2013 and attempted to travel using it (see annex 5.3.d). <sup>7</sup> This previously reported problem<sup>8</sup> is even more troubling given the rise of Al-Shabaab affiliated groups in Kenya and violence attributed to them (see annex 2).

Continuing corruption of the ePassport

7. In the previous report of the Monitoring Group, Abdullahi Elmoge Hersi, the owner of Immigrant Resource Center (IRC) in Minneapolis, Minnesota, U.S.A. stated that he had been awarded the Somalia ePassport contract in the U.S., but at the end of 2010, Ambassador Sheikhey had terminated his contract on behalf of the TFG in favour of a U.S. company in Ohio.<sup>9</sup> However, IRC's website identifies it as the official issuer of Somalia passports in the U.S.<sup>10</sup> The Monitoring Group was unable to identify a company in Ohio that is performing the same service, and has learnt that many of IRC's employees are from Ohio.<sup>11</sup> According to official Somali immigration documents, the listed cost of a passport obtained at Somali embassies or centres outside Somalia is 100 USD, but eyewitnesses in the U.S.A. state that IRC is continuing to charge 350 USD per passport and requiring that all payments be made in cash (see annex 5.3.e).<sup>12</sup> IRC keeps 100 USD for itself and forwards 250 USD to the Somali Embassy in Dubai.<sup>13</sup>

8. The ePassport program is served by the Dubai General Consulate and controlled by Ambassador Sheikhy with the approval of General Gaafow (see annex 5.3.f). After receiving a passport application, IRC emails the applicant's details to Dubai for processing. IRC is responsible for vetting the applicant and determining eligibility for a Somalia passport. A U.S.A. permanent resident "Green Card" and the ability to speak Somali are deemed sufficient.<sup>14</sup>

9. Meanwhile, according to MTI's accounting statement for the Somali Embassy in Nairobi for the period of 1 January to 2 April 2013, MTI was paid 63,790 USD by the Somalia Government for issuing 1354 adult passports at 35 USD each, as well as 496 children's passports and 289 express passports at 20 USD each (see annex 5.3.g).<sup>15</sup> The potential revenue for the Somali Government from passports processed just through the Nairobi embassy from January to April 2013 is 103,710 USD. This does not account for passport applications from abroad sent directly to Dubai, providing an additional 150 USD per passport, passports issued from other Somalia embassies or for passports issued inside Somalia. According to MTI's statements for July 2010 to 31 December 2011, the Somali ePassport and National ID system serves 19 different Somali embassies and consulates and processes applications from inside of Somalia.

10. In addition, the Ministry of Immigration is responsible for the collection of visa fees at Aden Adde Airport, Mogadishu, which should also be deposited into the Central Bank. Since the beginning of 2013, an average of 3000 passengers arrived at Aden Adde International Airport each week.<sup>17</sup> Even if conservatively only half of the passengers paid a 50 USD visa fee upon entry, this could potentially amount to 975,000 USD in this time period for visas alone. Combining visa and passport fees, the Ministry of Immigration should have deposited over

1.1 million USD in total for the first three months of 2013, but only 300,000 USD was deposited into the Central Bank.<sup>18</sup> Considering that data for 18 other embassies and from inside Somalia is missing in this calculation, during the first three months of 2013 there is potentially 1 million USD unaccounted for.

11. Furthermore, on 4 November 2012, Abdullahi Elmoge Hersi was appointed as the new Minister of Information and Telecommunications.<sup>19</sup> Historically, this post has been considered a lucrative position with control over revenues that are easily diverted.<sup>20</sup> Hersi continues to own IRC and has delegated the running of the business to his wife, Fardousa Yussef.<sup>21</sup> IRC has two branches in Minneapolis, one located on the first floor of the Karmel Mall, 1 West Lake Street, and one on the second floor of The Village Market, 912 East 24th Street. There is also a branch in Eastleigh, 6th Street, Juba Hotel Building 1st Floor, Nairobi, Kenya. Sources have told the Monitoring Group that Hersi's appointment was a reward for his participation in the passport program, and an eyewitness observed General Gaafow thanking Hersi for his passport work in Minneapolis, saying he hoped that they would continue working together in the future.<sup>22</sup>

Threats and violence

12. Following the publication of the previous report of the Monitoring Group (S/2012/544), in mid-August 2012, the Director of Immigration, General Abdullahi Gaafow Mohamud, had the former Deputy Director of Immigration Abdi Barre Jibriil arrested in Mogadishu.<sup>23</sup> Anticipating this, Jibriil wrote a letter on 7 January 2012, addressed to several TFG offices, which stated that if anything were to happen to him, they should consider Gaafow as the suspect (see annex 5.3.h).<sup>24</sup> According to Jibriil, he was arrested because he allegedly spoke to the Monitoring Group, and on 31 July 2013, General Gaafow wrote an official letter confirming this accusation (see annex 5.3.i). Gaafow was also overheard saying that he knew that Jibriil had spoken to the Monitoring Group, and if he discovers anyone else having done so, they will receive the same treatment.<sup>25</sup>

13. Jibriil stated that General Gaafow called him to the courthouse in Mogadishu, where he was detained by Director of the Criminal Investigation Department (CID) Abdullahi Barise, Attorney General Abdullahi Abdi Weheliye and Minister of Interior Abdi'Samad Moallin. Jibriil was later informed that Gaafow had paid 75,000 USD to the others to participate in his arrest and detention. Weheliye and several soldiers proceeded to physically assault Jibriil under the direction of Gaafow. They attempted to force him to sign a document disavowing any statements made to the Monitoring Group. Gaafow then threatened to shoot him if he did not recant his statements.<sup>26</sup> Jibriil is an important figure in Somalia and Puntland and a U.S. citizen. Because of international press coverage, pressure from Puntland elders and diplomatic intervention, Jibriil was eventually released on 1 September 2012.<sup>27</sup> Since the incident, Jibriil has lived in fear for his safety and does not travel alone. Despite the dangers, Jibriil intends to remain in Mogadishu having been elected as a Member of Parliament in 2012.

14. General Gaafow has also been accused of directing threats toward Sanjivan Mukherjee, owner of Just Solution Limited (JSL), which had previously been contracted by the TFG for the production of Somali passports.<sup>28</sup> When Mukherjee closed the JSL Dubai office, he shipped his office equipment back to Kenya. Mukherjee stated that employees packing the office accidentally placed the remaining Somali passports and identification cards into boxes with his company's equipment. He intended to return these documents to the Somali Embassy in Nairobi instead of the Dubai General Consulate of Somalia.<sup>29</sup> However, on 15 November 2011, the Kenya Revenue Authority seized the shipment in Mombasa.<sup>30</sup> Ambassador Mohamed Ali Nur (Americo) stated publicly that the Somali Government had terminated its contract with JSL because it would not surrender its passport printing machine and claimed that it was illegal for JSL to possess it.<sup>31</sup> According to former TFG Prime Minister Omar

Abdirashid Sharmarke, the termination of the contract surrounded JSL's "failure to streamline operations, improve services and eliminate existing backlog."<sup>32</sup> The Somalia Government still owes JSL 1.5 million USD under its previous contract.<sup>33</sup> The Monitoring Group has learnt that the Nairobi Embassy is attempting to negotiate with Mukherjee to drop his demand for payment of the 1.5 million USD, and if he does so they will instruct Kenyan authorities to drop their case.<sup>34</sup> Mukherjee has denied being approached about this, and stated that he would not agree to it.

15. Mukherjee's first court appearance regarding his seized shipment was on 12 October 2012, which was attended by General Gaafow and Ambassador Americo. Gaafow approached Mukherjee and began to taunt him, saying, "Where are your UN Monitoring Group friends now?" On 16 October 2012, Mukherjee received several telephone calls in the middle of the night from a private number. When he did not answer his telephone, his wife's telephone began to ring. Mukherjee answered and heard a male voice say, "Sanjiv, we are coming to your house. We will kill you."<sup>35</sup> A few days later, four Somali males surrounded him in the parking lot of his office in Nairobi, Kenya. They told him to apologize to the Somalia Government for speaking to the Monitoring Group and he would be forgiven. Otherwise, they said that he would be killed. Mukherjee has had to increase security at his home and office, and is fearful for his safety and the safety of his family.

Annex 5.4: Mogadishu port revenue diversion

Port manager Sayid Ali Moalim Abdulle and the TFG legacy

1. In September 2010, Sayid Ali Moalim Abdulle, a close associate of Abukar Omar Adani and a member of the Eel Ma'an group (all named in a previous report of the Monitoring Group (S/2010/91)), was appointed manager of Mogadishu port. The port had a long history of corruption and diversion of the principal internal revenue stream of the Government.<sup>1</sup> According to one estimate, Sayid Ali, with then Finance Minister Hussein Halane, Prime Minister Mohamed Abdullahi Farmaajo and President Sharif Sheikh Ahmed, exercised a complete control of the port with the diversion rate reaching 100 per cent.<sup>2</sup> As a result, by 2012, a number of complaints were lodged against Sayid Ali (see below).

2. The Monitoring Group has documented that Sayid Ali diverted at least 3,415,840 USD from humanitarian shipments during the Somali famine (see annex 5.4.a). Revenue at the port is generated through two main sources, including customs duty on import and export of cargo, and port charges and handling fees.<sup>3</sup> Vessels chartered by humanitarian agencies and other ships transporting humanitarian aid were subjected to illegal taxation at a rate of 36 USD per tonne even though officially humanitarian aid is exempt from customs at the port. Seventeen vessels carrying humanitarian cargo were taxed, amounting to 3,415,840 USD (see annex 5.4.a).<sup>4</sup> This money was not deposited by Sayid Ali in any official account of the Government.<sup>5</sup>

3. In addition, aid agencies were overcharged warehouse fees (see annex 5.4.b).<sup>6</sup> On 29 February 2012, the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) was sent a bill in the amount of 75,520 USD for the storage of 1864 tonnes of rice and 2250 tonnes of beans for 77 days (see annex 5.4.c).

4. Sayid Ali was also able to divert funds by manipulating and retaining port charges. On 18 December 2011, the MV Amal that had been chartered by the World Food Programme for a humanitarian shipment, docked at Mogadishu port. On 25 December 2011, it was charged fees for docking, anchorage, mooring, tug service and security amounting to 10,331 USD (see annex 5.4.d).<sup>7</sup> On 27 December 2011, Abdulahi Abkow, the representative for Al-Noor Al-Mustaqeem General Trading in Mogadishu, deposited 19,575 USD into the Mogadishu Port Authority's Dahabshiil account #MUQD0008518 (see annex 5.4.e). This included additional stevedoring fees charged for off-loading the vessel.

5. On 2 January 2012, Al Mustaqeem received a bill from the Mogadishu Port Authority requesting that they remit an additional 47,292 USD for shore handling of the MV Amal (see annex 5.4.f). On 18 January 2012, Al Mustaqeem sent a letter to the Mogadishu Stevedoring Committee to clarify the tariffs listed on this bill (see annex 5.4.g). The chairman of the Stevedoring Committee, Mohamud Ali Ugas, responded on 19 January 2012, and clarified the tariffs (see annex 5.4.h). He indicated that the actual rate of the tariffs was 4 USD per tonne for all handling charges, while the Mogadishu Port Authority was requesting 8 USD per tonne. C/raxmaan C/laahi Aadan from the Somali Business Union in Banadir Region also sent a complaint letter regarding the 8 USD per tonne handling fee as inflated by Sayid Ali (see annex 5.4.i).

6. According to Ugas, there had not been any changes to the port charges since 2006, when the TFG took over Mogadishu port. In addition, a change to port fees would require the involvement of the stevedoring and commercial committees (see annex 5.4.h). Since Mogadishu port lacks cargo-handling equipment, it uses stevedores to manually load and offload ships, who have to pay 50 per cent of their earnings to the Mogadishu Port Authority.

7. During this same period, Dr. Cali Maxamed Yuusuf (a.k.a. 'Cali Yare') from the Attorney General's Office sent a letter to the Minister of Ports dated 21 December 2011 regarding further corruption by Sayid Ali (see annex 5.4.b). Allegations of money laundering and illegal collection of national revenues were levelled against Sayid Ali regarding 3,008,700 USD (4,317,500,000 Somali shillings) he collected from truck-owning businessmen at the port, which he claimed would be given to assist famine victims (see annex 5.4.b).

8. On 16 March 2012, port workers went on strike alleging corruption on the part of the port manager, Sayid Ali, which resulted in the workers not being paid (see annex 5.4.j). Because of Sayid Ali's close ties to then TFG President Sheikh Sharif, the workers feared assistance from the Government would not be forthcoming.<sup>8</sup> Around this time, Ahmed Abdi Hassan, (a.k.a. 'Watah') of the Mogadishu Port Labor Office sent a letter to the TFG Prime Minister, Abdiweli Mohamed Ali Gaas, and the international community regarding mismanagement of the port and corruption by Port Manager Sayid Ali (see annex 5.4.k). This was accompanied by a petition from the Stevedoring port employees (see annex 5.4.l). The Mogadishu Port Labor Office noted that the port fails to abide by international port regulations, and lacks rules, regulations and nationally regulated tariffs. They stressed the need for the port to be nationalised and placed under new stricter guidelines. The letter also noted that port revenue is derived from many different sources, some of which may not be accounted for in the Central Bank, but diverted illegally into private accounts. An analysis of deposits from Mogadishu port into the Central Bank during the period of Sayid Ali's management clearly indicates they are sporadic at best, and in some months absent altogether.<sup>9</sup>

9. In July 2012, Savid Ali was removed from the position of Mogadishu port manager. Maxamed Colaad Liibaan, the cashier for Mogadishu port, testified on 15 July 2012 that only 7775 USD remained in the port accounts after Sayid Ali left his post (see annex 5.4.m).

New port corruption practices

10. The current port manager, Abdullahi Ali, took office in mid-July 2012. However, Sayid Ali continued to exert influence at the port through the deputy port manager, Ahmed Abdi Kariye (a.k.a. 'Ahmed Qorqor') who remained in place. Numerous shippers describe Ahmed Qorqor's corruption at Mogadishu port.<sup>10</sup> He altered the modus operandi of diversion to diffuse opposition from traders and the Stevedoring Committee. Instead of overcharging handling fees, he underreported the volume of cargo being imported or exported for customs purposes and made agreements with shippers to split the difference in their savings.<sup>11</sup> He is also reported to share these profits with Kamal Hassan Gutale, the Chief of Staff of the President, from the same Habar Gedir / Suleiman clan.<sup>12</sup> tonnes.<sup>13</sup> On 27 May 2013, Deputy Port Manager Ahmed Qorqor claimed that 70 ships were docking every month.<sup>14</sup> If correct, this would mean up to 165,000 tonnes maybe off-loaded on a regular basis at the port.

11. Given the practices surrounding misreporting of cargo, it can be difficult to monitor the type and account for the actual volume of cargo passing through Mogadishu without checking port records against shipping manifests. In addition, often two manifests exist for ships docking at Mogadishu, a real one and one used for customs purposes with the involvement of port authorities. However, the Monitoring Group has learnt through port employees that there is currently an average of 53 vessels arriving each month at Mogadishu. Of these, 16 are large ships. The average scale of cargo off-loaded is 125,000 tonnes per month, though in February 2013, a busier month, this figure rose to 140,000

12. Prior to 2011, an average of 15 to 20 vessels was docking at the port every month, with 30 per cent of these being larger ships. The potential revenue from this shipping, accounting for 30 per cent non-taxable humanitarian cargo, would amount to average monthly revenues of 1.9 million USD.<sup>15</sup> While the average number of large ships docking at the port remains 30 per cent of the overall total, the total number of vessels docking per month has doubled if not tripled since the new management took over the port.<sup>16</sup> This indicates that the average monthly revenue from the port should be or exceed 3.8 million per month in import customs fees alone, not accounting for port fees, warehouse rentals or other charges. However, the average monthly deposit in the Central Bank from Mogadishu port between August 2012 and March 2013 totalled only 2.7 million USD. While there has been an increase in deposits of port revenues in the Central Bank, this is proportionally less than the growth in shipping, indicating a greater rate of diversion at the port. According to another estimate, at least 33 per cent of revenue generated at the port is currently unaccounted for.<sup>17</sup>

13. The Monitoring Group has been unable to obtain a current and official tariff sheet from the port, and different individuals provide varying descriptions of how customs tariffs are determined. On 17 October 2012, the Monitoring Group met with port manager Abdullahi Ali and requested information regarding the tariffs at the port which he refused to provide. He stated that the port was updating its website, and advised that the tariffs would be posted there.<sup>18</sup> To date nothing has been posted, and the website is not updated.<sup>19</sup> However, in 2011, the Ministry of Finance issued new tax guidelines for the port, indicating an export tax in addition to an import tax (see annex 5.4.n). Considering that most vessels load cargo for export to offset the cost of their voyage, this could increase the potential port revenue by another 950,000 USD to 1.9 million USD.<sup>20</sup>

14. Although there has been an increase in deposits in the Central Bank from Mogadishu port under President Hassan Sheikh's administration, the lack of transparency at the port has enabled continued diversion and corruption. Joint international and Somali management of the port with transparent accounting and regular auditing would assist the FGS in controlling its largest internal revenue stream.

	1-Breakdown:
	a) Laborers - 1- from hold to shoreUSD 1.7568

	B) Co-operative ManagementUSD 0.5014

Annex 5.4.j: Stevedoring Lost Income for One Month

To: TFG. Prime Minister CC: International Community Sub: Maladministration We hereby submit a general situation of Mogadishu Port in connection with maladministration for Labors, Revenue and reckless of management or job. It is well aware that Mogadishu Port is an International port that being in need of qualified Administrator whose international knowledge, sufficient experience with administration and skillful management. As a matter of fact, the Mogadishu port manager almost failed port management, really here in Mogadishu port, that any time, there are more quarrel, complaint and hindrance about port operation and it seems to close to fail accomplishment of the national task in the near future, if it is not taken immediate steps towards this maladministration. It is unfortunate that top national leaders always solve port problems in the meantime the Mogadishu port Manager is sitting at his desk. The mistreatments of the port manager are too much, but we submit some of them on the below detailed report. 1-Laxity on the port operation: The Mogadishu port Manager does not follow the smooth operation of different berths. His daily activity is only making visitor's reception that most of them are politicians. The Manager also does not follow the crises looming at the Mogadishu Port, which are being performed the services assigned to it and he does not repair different damages sustained to port. He only gives importance how to defraud port assets. The good managing of an Autonomous agency works recognized Rules and Regulations those guidelines the current job but Port manager's Rule and regulation are what he told from his tongue it's something sorrowful that Mogadishu port has no written rules, regulations and tariffs.

Annex 5.4.k: Mogadishu Port Labor Office Complaint Letter

2-Mistreatment of Labors

According to Somali Civil Service Law and Somali Port Authority' Regulation that all Agency workers should be employed and managed the above two Regulation Articles, but Mogadishu Port Manager has taken away duties from Head of Departments, Divisions and Sections who had good experience and in charged new workers he put them into the port without conformity with the regulations, the aim to this is to execute his wicked instructions.

All Circulars that he took away duties from above Head of Departments and placed new ones, he did not give any copy to the National leaders, this means there is no any top responsible man he takes order from him for changing and movement of

The Head of Departments, Divisions and Sections have been taken away duties were 29 people who were skillful and experienced workers in the port.

3-Port Assets:

Port warehouses are part of port assets belongs to it, where Mogadishu Port Manager handed over to Organizations, which possessing their own workers that have been employed from town, while port workers are outside the port. This event of this mistreatment is new to Mogadishu Port Assets and we urge the authorities to take action quietly.

4-Collection Revenue

There are International Port Regulations, and recognized Tariffs by different Government Departments, Regional and International Ports.

Government Departments, Regional and International Port that has no But it is unfortunate that Mogadishu Port is an International Port that has no special Rule, Regulation and Tariff which guidelines Port Management and Port

As we are aware that Mogadishu Port has no national tariff and its Financial Manager works an illegal tariff that does not cover with port Rules, this facilitated possibility of collecting different service charges, which are contradiction.

We would kindly request you to nationalize port Management, in the meantime to produce new law and effective tariff.

5-Port Income:

In December 2006, TFG Government retrieved port management. During this period, Mogadishu port earned too much income, which has not been managed as regulation and accounts system.

Really, the income from port service charges would not be passed through Government Audit and there is neither real account settlement (proper accountability) nor national sincerity (probity) or transparency.

As we all know, that port income derives from different resources, most of them would not be exposed on statement of accounts or saved in the national central bank, in return for, and it would be diverted to a private illegal A/C in order to defraud port income.

6- Placement of labors:

Recruiting of port labors does not pass on to labor organizers and do not take examination for knowing his/her level education. Port management employ them as family relationship and friendship forms etc. witnesses are found in individual personal files.

Mogadishu port manager has cancelled all morality, labor, rewarding and punishment committees, so not finding these committees permitted him to do labor and labors whatever he likes, and it does not conformity with regulation. Therefore, port labors are requesting to national leaders and international organizations to update port management and to nationalize port operation. Now Mogadishu port seems a place where belongs to a private person who can do whatever he intended.

Port labors are also requesting national leaders to bring port manager before nominated good judgment committee including port labors that always follow his accountants system and insiders of all income resources.

Walson

In considering to a great importance of the port, it is necessary to correct port administration and take a quick action in order to protect port interest.

We hope that you will take an action quietly

Mogadishu Port Labor Office Mr. Ahmed Abdi Hassan

Annex 5.5: Somalia's petroleum sector: threats to peace and security and corruption risks

Threats to Peace and Security

Divergence of the Somali Provisional Constitution and the Petroleum Law

1. Fundamental discrepancies exist between Somalia's Provisional Constitution, adopted by the National Constituent Assembly (NCA) on 1 August 2012, and the Transitional Federal Government (TFG) Petroleum Law of Somalia, gazetted on 7 August 2008.<sup>1</sup> The Somali Constitution gives considerable autonomy to regional Governments to enter into commercial agreements, independently from the central Government. However, the Petroleum Law, which has not been adopted by the FGS parliament but which is nonetheless currently being invoked by FGS officials in Mogadishu, states that the central Government enjoys the privilege to distribute natural resources (see annex 5.5.a for relevant sections of the Petroleum Law).<sup>2</sup> These inconsistencies, unless resolved, may lead to increased political conflict between Federal and regional Governments that risk exacerbating clan divisions and therefore threaten peace and security.

2. Article 44 of the Provisional Constitution states that "the allocation of the natural resources of the Federal Republic of Somalia shall be negotiated by, and agreed upon, by the Federal Government and the Federal Member States in accordance with this Constitution".

3. In addition, article 54 also states that "the allocation of powers and resources shall be negotiated and agreed upon by the Federal Government and the Federal Member States (pending the formation of the Federal Member States) except in matters concerning A) Foreign Affairs; B) National Defence; C) Citizenship and Immigration: D) Monetary Policy, which shall be the powers and responsibilities of the federal government".

4. Finally, article 142 states that "until such time that all the Federal Member States of Somalia are established and the adopted Federal Member State Constitutions are harmonized with the Somali Federal Constitution, the Federal Member States existing prior to the provisional adoption of this Provisional Constitution by a National Constituent Assembly shall retain and exercise powers endowed by their own State Constitution".

5. On the other hand, article 3 of the 2008 TFG Petroleum Law states that "petroleum belongs to the Somali nation and it will be protected and distributed by the central government and its agencies according to the law of the Republic of Somalia". Under Article 7, the law states that "all agreements pertaining to petroleum that were signed after 1991 with the entities purporting to be governments of all or any part of Somalia are considered non valid agreements".

6. While the Petroleum Law also states that revenues derived by petroleum resources would be divided between the Federal and regional Governments subject to further legislation, the Monitoring Group is not aware of any revenue sharing formula that has been adopted or meaningful discussions between the FGS and the regions on the issue of ownership and licensing of petroleum resources.

7. In the absence of clear agreements between Federal and regional Governments, continuing oil industry activity may therefore constitute a threat to peace and security until the FGS and its regional Governments can overcome such constitutional and statutory discrepancies.

Conflict between the Federal Government and regional authorities

8. The changeover from a Transitional to a Federal Government in Somalia has sent a strong signal to many oil companies who have waited since the collapse of the state of Somalia in 1991 to renew their prior licenses that were placed on hold on grounds of force majeure. Many oil companies are now considering resuming oil exploration across the country especially since technological advances in the oil industry since 1991 have made the discovery of oil reserves more probable. For a map and list of prior holders, see annex 5.5.b.

9. Negotiations to reactivate prior licenses are currently underway and are being led by a number of former TFG officials who purport to represent the Somali Petroleum Company (SPC) and who have been re-appointed by the FGS. According to official letters of appointment that were obtained with the Monitoring Group, the key officials in question are:

1) Dr Hussein Ahmed, the director of the SPC.

2) Dr Abdullahi Haider, Special Adviser to the TFG Minister of Petroleum Affairs, and unofficial Special Adviser of President Hassan Sheikh Mohamud on oil issues.<sup>3</sup>

3) Patrick Mollière, Adviser to the Somali Federal Government on Petroleum Affairs.<sup>4</sup>

10. Abdullahi Haider has publicly maintained that oil licenses awarded by regional governments are illegal and that prior license holders will be considered as privileged partners, over and above any licenses that have already been granted by regional governments, notably Puntland and Somaliland.<sup>5</sup>

11. Several prior license holders, who are supported by the petroleum team above, are in open conflict with regional governments who since 1991 have signed new deals with oil companies, some of which directly overlap with prior license holders. Examples of such conflict include the following cases:

1) The FGS considers the activities of the Africa Oil consortium in Puntland as illegal. US oil major ConocoPhillips continues to claim territory being exploited by Africa Oil as part of its prior license (see annex 5.5.c.).

2) BP is currently in conflict with South African oil firm Ophir Energy Limited, which has been licensed by the government of Somaliland to operate in blocks defined by the Somaliland authorities as SL9 and SL12.<sup>6</sup> Some of Ophir's claims clash with blocks 35 and M-10A, which are claimed by BP (see annex 5.5.d. for map and 5.5.e. for BP's claim).<sup>7</sup>

3) Norwegian oil company DNO entered into a Production Sharing Contract with the authorities of Somaliland in April 2013.<sup>8</sup> The area under contract clashes with a prior license held by ConocoPhillips.

4) The FGS also challenges the legality of recent agreements between the Somaliland authorities and Anglo-Turkish oil company Genel Energy, which in 2012 was awarded a 75 per cent interest in what is referred to as the Genel Block, and a 50 per cent interest in the Odewayne Production Sharing Agreement (PSA).<sup>9</sup>

5) US oil firm Liberty Petroleum, through its affiliate Petro Quest Africa, has signed a Production Sharing Agreement with the regional government of Galmudug, which has been upheld by a 19 March 2013 Somali Supreme Court ruling.<sup>10</sup> The area licensed by Galmudug to Petro Quest Africa, however, falls into a prior license claimed by Shell (see annex 5.5.f.).

Genel Energy CEO is Tony Hayward, who is on the board of London-listed commodities trader Glencore. Hayward's chairman at Glencore, Simon Murray, has announced in 2012 that he would be chairing a new private security operation, Typhon, to counter piracy in Somali waters, see: http://www.bbc.co.uk/news/world-africa-18209357;

Oil negotiations in Galmudug State

12. Apart from the Petro Quest Africa deal, the Monitoring Group has obtained information of engagement between Abdi Hasan Awale Qeybdiid (Hawiye / Habar Gedir / Sa'ad), the President of Galmudug state in central Somalia, and a number of other oil companies. The Monitoring Group has obtained email correspondence documenting negotiations between GTC Global, a Houston-based oil servicing company, and Abdi Hasan Awale 'Qeybdiid'. The correspondence details a request for 3.5 million USD made by the government of Galmudug as part of a PSA that was being negotiated with GTC Global at the time the correspondence was written on 18 August 2012 (see annex 5.5.g.).

13. The Monitoring Group has been in contact with a representative of GTC Global who said the company did not pay any money to the government of Galmudug, and who claimed that the government of Galmudug has instead entered into negotiations with several other oil companies.

14. On 11 October 2012, a delegation composed of Alain Madelin, former French Finance Minister, Philippe Bohn, former Africa Director and adviser to the Strategy Director for EADS, a French journalist from Le Figaro, Renaud Girard,<sup>11</sup> and Abshir Aden Ferro, a French-Somali businessman, travelled by road from Galkayo to Hobyo, escorted by Qeybdiid and his militia.<sup>12</sup>

President Qeybdiid, Abshir Aden Ferro and Alain Madelin, on the road back from Hobyo to Galkayo, on 11 October 2012 (see additional photographs in annex 5.5.h.)

15. According to a confidential source with extensive knowledge of oil negotiations in Galmudug, the French delegation of businessmen travelled to Galkayo and Hobyo on behalf of Total, a French oil company.<sup>13</sup> Nevertheless, during a meeting with the Monitoring Group, Abshir Aden Ferro denied Total's involvement in this project, and refuted the existence of a project aimed at establishing a counter-piracy programme in the Mudug region.<sup>14</sup>

16. It is indeed not clear what was the real aim of such a high-level, although unofficial, French delegation.<sup>15</sup> However, the Monitoring Group has received information confirming the association between the Galmudug authorities and a group led by Abshir Aden Ferro, with included also Chris Moore, former Drum-Cussac President for North-America, and a representative of the French consortium Sea Protection for Horn of Africa (SEAPHORA), Vincent Clouzeau.<sup>16</sup> The group promotes the creation of the "Galmudug Anti-Piracy Task Force" (GAPTF), and during the fall of 2012 was lobbying the international community for support and funding.<sup>17</sup>

17. The clashes between Suleiman and Sa'ad militias were directly related to the visit of Hobyo by the French businessmen. Following their visit to Hobyo, the President of the Himan and Heeb administration, based in Adado, released a public statement on 13 October 2012 condemning the President of Galmudug, Abdi Qeybdiid, for fuelling the conflict in Hobyo through his attempt to take full control of the town.<sup>18</sup>

18. The situation in the Mudug region is particularly tense, with long-standing disputes over grazing land, water points but also the port city of Hobyo, between two sub-clans of the Hawiye / Habar Gedir, the Suleiman, dominant in the Himan and Heeb administration, and the Sa'ad, who control the Galmudug State of Somalia. As also demonstrated in annex 3.2., intraclan rivalries remain high within the Sa'ad, in particular between the Hilowe sub-clan of President Qeybdiid and other sub clans. It is therefore the understanding of the Monitoring Group that, in this context, such activities of foreign companies in the Galmudug State of Somalia represent an additional threat to peace and security in the region.

Conflict between regional states, self-proclaimed administrations and local militias

19. Facts about the existing licences awarded by both Somaliland and Puntland demonstrate the potential flashpoints that exist over oil exploration in the disputed area of Sool and Sanag regions.

20. The two maps above, extracted from official websites of DNO International and Africa Oil, indicate the locations of the two blocks included in the PSAs signed respectively with Somaliland (SL 18) and Puntland (Nugaal Block). According to these maps, it seems evident that block SL 18 and the Nugaal block are overlapping.

21. Potentially, it means that exploration operations in these blocks, conducted by both DNO and Africa Oil under the protection of regional security forces, its allied militias or private forces, could generate a new conflict between Somaliland and Puntland, and affiliated proxies over the control of the Sool and Sanag regions. On 6 December 2012, Puntland has already issued a press release entitled "Puntland Cautions Oil Exploration Attempts in Sool Region May Trigger Conflict".<sup>21</sup>

22. During a 2012 meeting, the representatives of Africa Oil in Nairobi<sup>22</sup> strongly stated that the company will not conduct any activity in the Sool region of Somalia, despite the fact that "the company disputes the claims of the Republic of Somaliland" on the Nugaal block.<sup>23</sup>

23. However, in its response to the Monitoring Group's letter, DNO International failed to comment on the impact of oil exploration operations on peace and security in the Sool and Sanag regions.<sup>24</sup> Moreover, the letter states that "the Government of Somaliland will provide DNO with designated security forces to ensure the security of all personnel and property in connection with DNO's activities", adding that "DNO will engage a private security contractor to provide advice to DNO and coordinate day-to-day security activities".

24. In addition, the President of the self-declared State of Khatumo, Mohamed Yusuf Jaamac, denounced in a letter dated 28 April 2013 to the executive chairman of DNO International, Bijan Mossavar-Rahmani, the legality of the PSA, claiming also that "your deal with Somaliland [...] fuel [sic] the conflict in northern Somalia" (see annex 5.5.i.). The day after, the "forum for peace, unity and development" of the Khatumo State addressed a similar letter to the director of corporate communication and public affairs of DNO International. The document says:

In the case of our Khatumo State, [Somaliland militias] only occupy our regional capital Lascanod which is expected to be liberated in due course. Otherwise, the rest of our State, including this so called Block SL 18, is fully under our control (see annex 5.5.j.).

25. The Monitoring Group also understands that Africa Oil may start exploring in the Nugaal block in the event that a competitor begins with their own explorations in an area included in the PSA assigned by the Puntland Government to Africa Oil.

26. Therefore, the Monitoring Group is deeply concerned by the fact that protection of oil exploration operations may lead to a new armed conflict for the control of the disputed areas between Somaliland, Puntland and Khatumo militias. Moreover, it is alarming that regional security forces and armed groups may clash to protect and further western-based oil companies interests. In this case, the involvement of a Norwegian company on one side, and of a Swedish-owned/Canadian-based company on the other, is even more disturbing, considering the long-standing implication of Norway and Sweden in promoting peace and dialogue in Somalia.

Conflict between Somalia and Kenya over the maritime boundary

27. Somalia and Kenya have differing interpretations of their maritime boundary and associated offshore territorial rights. Currently, Somalia claims its maritime boundary with Kenya lies perpendicular to the coast, though this boundary is not enshrined in a mutually accepted agreement with Kenya, which envisages the maritime boundary as being defined by the line of latitude protruding from its boundary with Somalia.<sup>25</sup>

Map of disputed offshore zone between Somalia and Kenya, including positions of Kenyan issued oil licenses

28. The FGS has thus refused to recognise oil licenses granted to multinational companies by Kenya and which protrude into waters defined as Somali according to that perpendicular demarcation line. Oil multinational companies affected by the FGS opposition have included French oil company Total (Kenyan license L22), Italian major ENI (Kenyan licenses L21, L23 and L24), US oil firm Anadarko (Kenyan license L5) and Norway's majority state-funded Statoil<sup>26</sup> (Kenyan license L26) (see again annex 5.5.k for a more detailed map of disputed oil licenses).

http://lesleyannewarner.wordpress.com/2012/07/21/east-africas-oilgas-rush-highlights-kenya-somalia-m aritime-border-dispute/. On the 6 June 2013, the Office of the Prime Minister in Somalia issued a statement saying that the council of ministers had decided that The Federal Government of Somalia does not consider it appropriate to open new discussions on maritime demarcation or limitations on the continental shelf with any parties.

29. The FGS has persuaded Statoil, Anadarko and Total to withdraw their claims that partially infringe on Somalia's demarcation line. However, ENI, which has been allocated three licenses that fall within the Somalia's definition of Somali waters has yet to withdraw its claims at the time of submission of this report.<sup>27</sup> The remaining dispute between ENI and the FGS, and the persistence of a contested perpendicular line of demarcation, may serve to create further animosity between the Governments of Somalia and Kenya at a time when both are at loggerheads over the creation of a political administration in Jubaland.

30. This territorial dispute could exacerbate tensions between Somalia and Kenya that have already been sharpened by political disagreements over the control of Kismayo and the Jubaland territory (see annexes 3.3 and 9.1).

Corruption Risks

Conflicts of interest surrounding the adoption of an Exclusive Economic Zone for Somalia.

31. Since 1972, Somalia has claimed an extension of its territorial sea from 12 to 200 nautical miles. However, article 3 of the 1982 United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea (UNCLOS) limits coastal States to claim a maximum territorial sea of 12 nautical miles from the coast. Although Somalia signed UNCLOS in 1982, there has been considerable confusion over whether Somalia's national legislation has been harmonised to give recognition to the UNCLOS regime.<sup>28</sup> On 1 May 2013, however, President Hassan Sheikh issued a statement announcing that the FGS has identified a 1988 law which puts Somalia fully in compliance with UNCLOS, and which would allow Somalia to implement an Exclusive Economic Zone (EEZ), where territorial control would be limited to 12 nautical miles but where Somalia would continue to claim sovereign rights to explore, exploit, conserve and manage natural resources that exist within 200 nautical miles of its coast.

32. Once Somalia adopts the EEZ under the UNCLOS regime, Somalia and Kenya would be required to initiate a separate process to negotiate a mutually acceptable maritime boundary. This would open the possibility of an adjustment of the maritime boundary from its perpendicular position towards a position following the line of latitude.<sup>29</sup> Such a shift would effectively place some if not all of the disputed licenses mentioned above back into Kenyan waters. It is for this reason that on 8 October 2011 the Somali MPs voted down attempts to introduce an EEZ during the Roadmap process.<sup>30</sup>

33. The Monitoring Group understands that Kenya suspended Norwegian oil company Statoil from block L26 in late 2012, as the company was unwilling to meet financial obligations of developing exploration activities in the block while legal uncertainty prevailed over the Kenyan-Somali maritime boundary.<sup>31</sup> However, a Kenyan Government official has confirmed that Statoil has nevertheless expressed interest in returning to develop L26 should the maritime boundary dispute be resolved in favour of Kenya.<sup>32</sup>

34. The Monitoring Group has obtained information of attempts by the Norwegian Government to influence Somali parliamentarians and other FGS officials to adopt the EEZ for Somalia, which, as explained above, would lead to a separate process of redrawing of the maritime boundary towards a line of latitude.

35. Norway has been involved in attempts to introduce the EEZ onto the parliamentary agenda since at least 2008, when former UN SRSG for Somalia Ahmedou Ould Abdallah initiated the preparation of preliminary information indicative of the outer limits of the continental shelf on Somalia. At the time this was conducted, Statoil had no commercial interest in Somalia.<sup>33</sup> However, efforts by Norway to lobby Somali officials to adopt the EEZ now coincide with current Norwegian interest in the fate of L26 as well as with Norwegian involvement in the application of a Special Financing Facility (SFF) donor fund of $30 million which has been allocated under the management of FGS officials with a track record of corruption (see annex 5.2).

36. Indeed, between 6 and 13 April 2013, two non-governmental organisations, the Oslo Center and the National Democratic Institute, hosted several Somali MPs, including the FGS speaker of parliament and Norwegian national, Mohamed Osman Jawari, on a Study Tour for the Federal Parliament of Somalia, in Oslo. The week-long programme included a briefing on the SFF by Norway's Special Envoy to Somalia, Jens Mjuagedal, and Senior Advisor, Rina Kristmoen, as well as a briefing on Norwegian legal assistance to Somalia for the establishment of an internationally-recognized EEZ. Former Norwegian oil minister Einar Steensnaes also briefed on the issue of management of natural resources (see annex 5.5.1. for programme).

http://www.regjeringen.no/en/dep/ud/press/news/2009/shelf_assistance.html?id=555771. L26 was negotiated in 2012, see http://www.trademarksa.org/news/norwegian-firm-statoil-joins-search-oil-kenya.

37. In this way, Norway's development assistance to Somalia may therefore be used as a cover for its commercial interests there. Norway's Minister of International Development, Heikki Eidsvol Holmås has, however, publicly denied any link between Norway's assistance to Somalia in establishing its continental shelf rights and any commercial oil interest.<sup>34</sup>

Transparency and Capacity Issues within SPC and SPA

38. The Monitoring Group has identified shortcomings in transparency and capacity of Somalia's petroleum institutions, the SPC and the Somali Petroleum Authority (SPA). Such issues need addressing in order to mitigate potential risks of corruption.

39. The FGS has already begun negotiations with seismic companies<sup>35</sup> that have been invited to Somalia ahead of a planned oil-licensing auction. The FGS has also conducted negotiations with oil majors BP, Chevron, ConocoPhillips, ENI, Shell and Total, all of whom have been approached in relation to reactivating commercial activity. The SPC Director, Hussein Ahmed, has also been quoted confirming that a number of the above companies have committed to returning to Somalia.<sup>36</sup>

40. However, the SPC is not the de jure organisation to handle such agreements. The SPC is conceived primarily as a commercial enterprise with rights to participate in any PSA (see Article 20 of the Petroleum Law, annex 5.5.a) up to a maximum of 30 per cent (see Article 35 of the Petroleum Law, annex 5.5.a). Indeed, it is the SPA that should be a regulatory body primarily responsible for the grant of PSAs (see Article 19 of the Law, annex 5.5.a).

41. Given the nascent status of the Somali petroleum institutions, however, it is clear that there is already a blurring of responsibilities with the SPC director and his advisors already taking charge of regulatory matters and discussions with potential investors in the Somali oil sector. In particular, such a situation could cause conflicts of interest should the SPC award licenses to foreign oil companies while it negotiates its own commercial participation in such licenses.

42. In addition to this, SPC officials have been discussing theto registration of the SPC as a commercial entity in one of several offshore jurisdictions, notably the British Virgin Islands, Singapore or Abu Dhabi.<sup>37</sup> As explained by an FGS oil official this discussion took place because the SPC has failed to open a hard currency bank account due to concerns by various banks about the SPC being wholly Somali domiciled, and the reputational risks that would entail.<sup>38</sup>

43. The Monitoring Group therefore recommends urgent international support to the Somali Government to strengthen capacity within the SPA and to create an independently managed cadastre of oil licenses, which should be linked to a clear financial trail for any signature fees collected during any licensing and re-licensing of oil acreage. Both oil companies and the Somali Government should openly declare such signature fees, as per best practice advocated by the Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative (EITI). The SPA should have an independent sovereign bank account managed as part of a credible public financial management agreement between the Somali government and credible donors who support capacity building initiatives.

44. Should the SPC be registered in an offshore jurisdiction, the Monitoring Group believes this may create difficulties in creating a transparent environment for credible independent audits, as mandated by Article 44 of the 2008 Petroleum Law. An offshore registration may increase the risk of an SPC account with hidden beneficiaries, unless such an account is clearly marked as a sovereign account, and all receipts can be accounted for under the terms of published contracts between the SPC and its partners, which should also be subjected to a credible and independent audit on a regular basis.

45. Without such institutional safeguards in place, the Monitoring Group is of the view that oil licensing fees and future oil revenues will remain at risk of being diverted, thereby representing a corruption risk, but also straining relations between the FGS and regional governments.

ConocoPhillips Company 600 North Dairy-Ashford 77079-1175 P.O. Box 2197 Houston, Texas 77252-2197 phone (281) 293-3230 fax (281) 293-2270

Recent media reports advise that Red Emperor Resources NL has announced the signing of a farm-in Letter of Intent with Africa Oil Corporation for entry into production sharing contracts in Somalia and that there are possible plans for mineral and/or hydrocarbon operations within areas where ConocoPhillips has concession interests with the Somali Democratic Republic (the "Government").

The purpose of this letter is to provide you with notice of ConocoPhillips' interests in Somalia. ConocoPhillips' contractual rights in Blocks 25, 27, 28 29 and 33 are protected under the applicable concession agreements with the Government. The agreements grant ConocoPhillips the exclusive right to conduct petroleum operations, which includes exploration, development, extraction and production of hydrocarbons, within the identified Blocks. ConocoPhillips' interests have not been terminated by the Government and ConocoPhillips has not relinquished its interests in Somalia. The locations of these Blocks are shown on the attached plat.

Attached is a letter sent to Range Resources Ltd. and Africa Oil Corporation regarding seismic information obtained by ConocoPhillips that may be in your possession as well. Please note our concerns regarding possession and use of such data.

We trust that you will conduct your operations without interference with or injury to ConocoPhillips' interests in Somalia. However, ConocoPhillips reserves its rights in all respects.

Please be advised that a letter dated 16 November 2007 was sent to Africa Oil Corporation to the attention of Mr. (copy attached) advising of ConocoPhillips' rights.

If you have any questions regarding this matter, please direct those to Mr. at +1.

With reference to your letter of 10 November 2009, we are writing on behalf of Amoco Somalia Petroleum Company ("BP") to confirm that BP does not intend to proceed to negotiate a new Production Sharing Agreement with the Transitional Federal Government of the Republic of Somalia. BP hereby reserves its rights as to any claim including, without limitation, for breach of contract and/or expropriation.

Please note that this letter is sent by BP solely on behalf of itself and does not, and is not intended to, represent the views or position of any other company having an interest in the Concession Agreement.

Federal Member States. In fact, in response to a direct query posed by the President of Gulmudug State, the Somalia Supreme Court confirmed that this was the case in a recent decree (Decree 2, 2013 issued earlier this week). Therefore, we believe that the Production Sharing Contract recently signed between Petro Quest Africa and Gulmudug State is a valid grant of the right to explore for oil and gas by the governmental entity with authority to grant those rights.

I am not in a position to evaluate the rights that Shell had or may still have under its 1988 concession since I do not know anything about the concession, whether it was granted by the proper authority, whether Shell has complied with its terms or whether it was terminated. I do note, however, that under the 2007 Somalia Petroleum Law, the holders of pre-1990 concessions were given a year to re-enter the country and exchange their concessions for authorizations under that law.

Again, I have no idea whether Shell complied with the Petroleum Law, but further note that even if it did, compliance would not answer the question of whether the Transitional Federal Government or the States then had the power to grant or reconfirm oil and gas concessions.

My purpose in this letter is not to start a legal dispute that would inevitably take years to resolve and that would prevent both of our companies from moving forward to evaluate potentially exciting opportunities. Instead, it would be better for both of our companies-- and certainly for Somalia--if we worked together to pursue those opportunities for our mutual benefit, and not lose the opportunities because it will take years to determine which company has the paramount right, if that can ever be determined.

I have been approached by a host of companies including Reliant, Anadarko, Total, Dragon and dozens of others who are wanting to discuss potential farmin possibilities. TGS also desires to work with Petro Quest to assist in a large multi-client offshore seismic survey.

Out of sincere respect to Shell's claim of prior rights and the former investment of time and resources they have put into this region, we have held off on executing any contractual commitments with any of other company.

Before proceeding down that path, we felt it appropriate to invite one or more of your executives to our offices in the United States for an opportunity to discuss how our companies can work together at this historic time for Somalia.

Please let me know if you are interested in pursuing an approach of this kind. I would be happy to meet with you at your convenience." We would request that if there is an interest to consider a meeting that you indicate your mutual interest in the next ten days so that we can determine what our next steps should be.

Please be assured that we are a company of integrity and have a good relationship with many major companies over the years. Conoco, BHPB, Apache and many other companies can tell you that we always try to relate to them on a level of respect and goodwill.

Petro Quest Africa might consider a scenario of giving Shell the operatorship so that they could maintain their current relationships with Exxon and Kuwait energy. We know these companies and have great respect for Bob Gistri at Exxon. I also believe that Total would have a strong interest to participate. We are not a greedy company and would consider terms that would still allow such an outcome to make good commercial and political sense for Shell and Petro Quest Africa. I may be reached by phone in the United States at 602-995-7194 or on my cell at 480-381-9948. My email is Lane@LibertyPetroleumCorporation.com

As it is, the only place they occupy is not where this socalled "Block SL 18" is situated but our regional capital Lascanod which will be liberated in due course, sooner rather than later.

We would like to remind you that the international community, above all the United Nations, the EU, the African Union and the League of Arab States, among others, all recognise the unity and territorial integrity of Somalia. In this regard, they all consider what the secessionists call "Somaliland" as part and parcel of Somalia. This includes the Norwegian government. Indeed, the international community, under the leadership of the United Kingdom and Turkish governments, are now actively engaged in ending the secession and working for a united, peaceful and stable Somalia.

Your deal with "Somaliland", even if it is legally a dead duck, will, all the same, give false hopes to the secessionists, fuel the conflict in northern Somalia ("Somaliland") and hence work against the efforts of the international community including your own government. Such an action as you have taken is not only detrimental to peace and security in Somalia but is counterproductive to your own commercial interests. We hope you will withdraw from this illegal deal that does not serve your interest in any way.

Assuming you are interested in the oil exploitation in our Khatumo State of Somalia, you will be well advised to go through the proper channels and ours is the first door you should knock on. Any such request will be welcomed and considered on its merits.

Annex 5.5.j: Letter from the Chairman of the Khatumo Forum for Peace, Unity and Development to DNO International

Monday, April 29, 2013

Dear Mr. Bratlie, Director Corporate Communication and Public Affairs, DNO International ASA, Oslo, Norway.

I am writing to you, on behalf of the Khatumo Forum for the Peace, Unity and Development, about the reported oil deal that your Executive Chairman, Mr.Mossavar-Rahmani, has signed in Washington on 22 April with Mr. Ahmed Mohamed Siilaanyo, leader of the one-clan secessionist enclave in northern Somalia that calls itself "Somaliland". The deal is about an area in our Khatumo State of Somalia preposterously designated as "Block SL 18" by the secessionists as if it was part of their phantom State.

We are not surprised that the secessionists, chasing recognition and desperate for ill-gotten resources, would unscrupulously hawk to anyone willing to fall for their chicanery areas that are not in their own clan enclave and not even under their control. What amazes us though is that a well-known oil company should be party to what amounts to illicit territorial piracy against our Khatumo patrimony, a State member of Federal Somalia. As our president pointed out, in no unmistakable terms in his letter to your Chairman, the contract he signed with Somaliland's leader is not worth the paper it is written on for there is no way DNO can exploit our God-given resources over our heads and that of the federal government of Somalia.

For your information, only one clan among the five clans in northern Somalia (former British Somaliland) subscribes to the secessionists' so-called "Somaliland". The other four are unionists even if "Somaliland" militia have admittedly occupied some parts of their regions. In the case of our Khatumo State, they only occupy our regional capital Lascanod which is expected to be liberated in due course. Otherwise, the rest of our State, including this socalled Block SL 18, is fully under our control.

Furthermore, the international community, above all the UN, the African Union, the EU and even your own Norwegian government, all have repeatedly affirmed their support for Somalia's unity and territorial integrity in which our Khatumo State is an integral part of it. In engaging in an illicit shady business adventure with outlaws that goes against the grain of the common stand of the international community, DNO is only shooting itself on the foot and would have nothing to gain from it. Unless DNO rescinds this unlawful contract with Somaliland, Khatumo State would be forced not only to foil it on the ground but also take the matter to all our sisterly Muslim countries that DNO has commercial operations. Khatumo also reserve the right to take legal action and seek damages for aiding and abetting the secessionists.

Sincerely Osman Hassan Chairman, Khatumo Forum for Peace, Unity and Development Geneva Switzerland

Annex 6

Violations of the arms embargo

Annex 6.1: Arms shipments to Somalia

Arms embargo

1. With the passage of Security Council resolution 2093 (2013) on 6 March 2013, the Security Council amended the general and complete "embargo on all deliveries of weapons and military equipment to Somalia" imposed by resolution 733 (1992).<sup>1</sup> For one year, the Security Council modified, but it did not lift, the arms embargo. As such, the measures mentioned above do not apply to deliveries of weapons or military equipment or the provision of advice, assistance or training, intended solely for the development of the Security Forces of the Federal Government of Somalia.Moreover, in the Annex of the resolution, the Security Council provided a list of arms, ammunition and military equipment and materials which are not covered by this modification of the arms embargo.<sup>2</sup> In paragraphs 39 (a) and (b) and 41 of resolution 2093 (2013), the Security Council also requested the Monitoring Group to assess the situation concerning the safe management and storage of arms and ammunition in Somalia.

2. During the reporting period, the pattern of arms flow to Somalia remained consistent with those of previous years. The Monitoring Group was given unprecedented access to captured arms, ammunition, and essential items to manufacture specialised improvised explosive devices (IEDs). Since 2011 and particularly since August 2012, there has been a significant increase in IED incidents in Mogadishu and across areas controlled by AMISOM (see annex 1.4). Cases investigated by the Monitoring Group suggest a deliberate effort on the part of Al-Shabaab to obtain larger and possibly more frequent supplies of IED components, corresponding to the insurgency's return to an asymmetrical strategy.

3. In its investigation on arms trafficking to and within Somalia, the Monitoring Group received the cooperation of several foreign Governments, especially Bulgaria, India and Yemen, regarding important violations of the arms embargo on Somalia and the modus operandi used by Al-Shabaab in the procurement of arms and ammunition.

4. The assistance of the Puntland authorities was equally crucial in identifying and detailing the nature and purpose of two important seizures of arms and IED components. However, Puntland remains the main entry point for large-scale illicit commercial arms imports, indicating that the Puntland administration's enforcement of the arms embargo continues to be selective, focusing solely on shipments intended for Al-Shabaab.

5. The Monitoring Group also investigated suspicious shipments of arms in the Gulf of Aden and around the Horn of Africa, including several illicit cargoes of arms and explosives that were intercepted.

6. Conflicts in Somalia continue to be sustained by arms flows from within the region and more distant suppliers. As explained below, Yemen remains the primary market for arms and ammunition smuggled into Somalia.

The arms embargo and the rebuilding of Somalia's security sector

7. Since assuming office in September 2012, President Hassan Sheikh Mohamed and members of his cabinet and Government repeatedly requested the arms embargo on Somalia to be lifted. Somali authorities wanted, as a sovereign prerogative, to acquire weapons independently. The lift was also viewed as an exit strategy for foreign forces.<sup>3</sup>

8. During the last months of 2012, and at a series of high-level consultations held in January and February 2013, Somali and foreign Government officials asked for the Monitoring Group's position and advice on the issue of lifting of the arms embargo.<sup>4</sup> Initially, the Monitoring Group recommended the use of existing exemptions procedures, since they permitted direct support to the official Somali security sector and preserved the obligation of supplying states to notify the Security Council Committee pursuant to resolutions 751 (1992) and 1907 (2009) concerning Somalia and Eritrea (hereafter "the Committee") regarding the nature and range of security-related support.<sup>5</sup> In this context, the Monitoring Group recommended that the FGS be given the authority to notify the Committee and that a broad exemption for non-lethal equipment and material be introduced.<sup>6</sup>

9. The Monitoring Group was also concerned that an ease or partial lift of the embargo would increase inflows of arms and ammunition to Somalia and lower prices.<sup>7</sup> In addition, the Monitoring Group was aware that the official security forces had been infiltrated by

Al-Shabaab, even at the highest levels, and were vulnerable to clan conflicts and the interest of spoiler networks (see annex 3). In the easing of the arms embargo, it was incumbent on the Somali Government to maintain legitimate control over arms shipments from the point of entry in Somali to their effective management at safe storage locations, and effective command and control over those using the weapons in security operations.

10. Following the adoption of resolution 2093 (2013), on 27 March 2013, at his first Arab summit, the President of Somalia stated: "We take full responsibility. The world is looking at us and monitoring...We are not worried about getting supplies, we are concerned about the management of these supplies".<sup>8</sup>

11. Indeed, the management of weapons supplies to the FGS is an immediate requirement, a fundamental responsibility and should be a prerequisite for security sector donors.

Development of capabilities and infrastructure for weapons management

12. In the context of the arms embargo modification, the Somali authorities face many challenges including limited systems of management, a near total absence of infrastructure, such as armouries and safe storage facilities for arms and ammunition, as well as a lack of general technical capacity.

13. In order to identify priorities and specific obstacles, the FGS and concerned international parties have established a Weapons and Ammunition Management Technical Working Group that identified five critical "... elements for the control and management of arms and ammunition":

- Arms Control and Stockpile Management.
- Import [...] of small arms and light weapons.
- Tracking [...] of small arms and light weapons.
- Public Awareness and Education.
- Legislative Measures."9

23. Further to paragraph 39 (a) of resolution 2093 (2013), another critical step is to identify the actual structure of the Somali security forces and determining which militias will remain active parts of Government forces. Other clarifications required include defining which ports of entry are to be used, how arms and ammunition are to be securely and safely received at the port, accounted for, moved into secure storage, and registered. While immediate requirements call for the construction of armouries and magazines, general management, operating procedures in dealing with arms and ammunition, such as specific transport between secure locations and accounting for individual weapon systems, are equally crucial.<sup>TO</sup>

24. Prioritising these needs in order to request international assistance in the building of infrastructure, training of individual personnel and units dealing with arms and ammunition and the development of security procedures will be essential. Sequencing of these will be critical in order to comply with sanctions requirements and to develop the capacity of the Somali security sector.

25. As a first step, the FGS is identifying its armoury requirements for all elements of the security forces, including the Somali National Defence Forces, Somali National Police and National Intelligence and Security Agency.<sup>11</sup>

26. These requirements and how to address them are being discussed at the Technical Working Group co-hosted by Somali Government representatives and UNMAS, together with representatives from different Somali security forces, international donors and NGOs capable of delivering support in the construction of secure facilities and the training in arms-related activities. The Monitoring Group has been formally invited to participate in this Technical Working Group in June 2013.<sup>12</sup>

Violations of the arms embargo

27. In order to define the chain of custody for arms shipments to Somalia, the Monitoring Group gathered extensive evidence from several Governments and authorities, both Somali and foreign, identifying and documenting general trends, key arms embargo violations, and weapon supply logistics.

28. Between July 2012 and February 2013, security forces in Puntland seized several cargoes reportedly destined for Al-Shabaab.<sup>13</sup> Two cargoes of arms captured in the Bari region of Puntland are documented below. Such cases demonstrated the ability of weapons smuggling networks to mobilise resources in the context of a strategic shift by Al-Shabaab. Information received from Puntland and Yemeni authorities, as well as the Monitoring Group's own investigations,<sup>14</sup> has established Yemen as a principal source of these shipments. Additional evidence indicates the involvement of an individual entity based in Djibouti as part of a network that supplies arms and ammunition to Al-Shabaab in Somalia.<sup>15</sup>

29. Furthermore, the Monitoring Group investigated networks of weapons smugglers transporting cargoes within Somalia, notably in Puntland and Somaliland. Al-Shabaab and associated weapons smuggling networks have access to delivery points across the northern coast of Somalia, around the horn of Somalia governed by Puntland, and to a lesser extent down the coast of central and southern Somalia. The Monitoring Group has received consistent and credible reports of deliveries from as far west as Hiis, in Somaliland, to Qandala and Alula in Puntland, and to the central Somali ports of El Dhere, specifically its twin ports of Ego and Mareeg,<sup>16</sup> as well as the ports of Harardhere (Mudug) and Barawe (Lower Shabelle).<sup>17</sup>

30. Deliveries by sea to these coastal locations tend to be for the purpose of resupplying high-grade technical equipment, notably IED components, detonating cord, electric detonators, rocket propelled grenades systems (RPG-7), and light weaponry, such as 7.62mm PKM-type general purpose machine guns.

31. The Monitoring Group has also obtained consistent reports and evidence of the export from Somalia of technical know-how on the manufacture of suicide vests and IED materials to Kenya and Uganda.<sup>18</sup>

32. In a specific example, on 31 March 2013, Kenyan media reported that a bag containing an IED "ready for detonation" was seized from a commercial minibus in Kariobangi, near Nairobi.<sup>19</sup> The IED was a purpose made suicide vest, with pockets secured by Velcro strips, designed to contain sheets of explosives wrapped in plastic and several layers of stainless steel ball bearings to create a fragmentation effect.<sup>20</sup> The vest was fully rigged with red detonating cord, and was also wired with a home-made doubled electrical circuit connected to a Nokia cell-phone. The use of several different initiation circuits linked to the explosive charge was designed to guarantee sure command of detonation at the time of attack (see photographs in annex 6.1.a.).

33. The Monitoring Group has analysed photographic evidence concerning this case from a confidential source and the media; and compared them with suicide vests exploitation reports on suicide vests of similar design and construction captured in Somalia in 2012, which suggests a transfer of know-how between Al-Shabaab in Somalia and Al-Shabaab members or its sympathisers operating in Kenya.

34. Confidential reports indicate several that Al-Shabaab members, among whom two arrived in Kenya in 2012, and were arrested in April 2013 in relation to the manufacture of this suicide vest.

Arms seizures in Puntland

35. Although the Monitoring Group was not given access to information concerning the routine arms and ammunition deliveries to Puntland through commercial channels with the apparent consent of the Puntland authorities, it was granted unprecedented access to supplies seized by authorities that were reportedly destined for Al-Shabaab.

Seizure in Alula, Puntland, July 2012

36. On 11 November 2012, the Monitoring Group inspected a consignment of arms and explosives that had been captured by the Puntland authorities in the coastal town of Alula, in the Bari region of north-eastern Somalia, and subsequently moved into storage in Garowe.

37. The consignment was allegedly delivered to Alula in the days prior to 23 July 2012. Local residents in the vicinity informed Puntland authorities about the delivery. A Yemeni boatman, Mr. Salih Afiif Al-Amudi, involved in the transportation of the material to Alula, was subsequently arrested. In an interview with the Monitoring Group, Al-Amudi admitted he had transported the cargo in a speedboat from the Yemeni port city of Mukullah, and had been paid by a Somali arms trafficker known as Najib Adballah, who operates between Yemen and Puntland.<sup>21</sup>

38. The cargo consisted of 40 kilograms of explosive materials, a number of automatic pistols, and two sacks containing hundreds of electric detonators. Whilst the explosive materials proved to be ammonium nitrate, and the automatic pistols were surprisingly blank-firing pistols, there were over 1,500 detonators (see photographs in annex 6.1.b.).

Electric detonators, manufactured in Germany in 2003, 2004 and 2005, Garowe, 11 November 2012

Electric detonators

39. Among the items found, a large number of detonators appeared to have been manufactured in Germany. Markings on the cartons containing the detonators referred to the German manufacturer ORICA GERMANY GMBH.<sup>22</sup> Each carton contained 100 Dynadet-U-Oms detonators of medium intensity manufactured in 2003, 2004 and 2005. The Monitoring Group received independent confirmation that these detonators were sold to individuals and entities in Yemen and is continuing to follow up with the Yemeni security services.

40. In the meantime, significantly, detonators of the same manufacturer and model were identified as components built into well-designed suicide bomber vests, captured by the Puntland security forces in Galkayo on 17 November 2012.<sup>23</sup>

Bag containing a white granular substance

41. Although Puntland's initial report referred to an explosive compound in a bag, the Monitoring Group was able to determine that it probably contained Ammonium Nitrate, a fertilizer also commonly used in the manufacture of homemade explosive compounds for IEDs.<sup>24</sup> Two such bags containing ammonium nitrate were also part of a seized cargo near Qandala on 17 October 2012, as below.

Blank-firing pistols

42. The pistols depicted in Puntland's initial report and subsequently inspected and researched by the Monitoring Group, were found to be blank-firing pistols. They cannot shoot a projectile in their original condition. These pistols are made by ATAK Arms of Istanbul, Turkey. The ZORAKI Hand Gun M.814 model<sup>25</sup> uses 9mm P.A.K. Blank Ammunition<sup>26</sup> and holds 14 rounds (see photographs in annex 6.1.b.).

43. These pistols produce a loud blast, like a real shot. This model can fire in either semi-automatic or fully automatic mode. It field strips as a genuine semi-automatic hand gun, and looks and feels authentic in terms of size and weight. Their frame structure is made of polymer, with an added layer of chrome.

44. To the Monitoring Group's knowledge, this is the first time that such pistols have been identified in a shipment reported for Al-Shabaab. Sources in European law enforcement agencies report that similar blank-firing pistols have been modified (re-bored) to fire projectiles, and used in robberies. Given the inherent design and materials originally used, they remain unreliable, subject to backfiring and can seriously wound the operator.<sup>27</sup>

45. Given the nature of this small scale but significant case, in the context of multiple reports of ongoing weapons smuggling into the Bari region from Yemen, and the consistent use of electric detonators in IED attacks, the Monitoring Group recommends further investigation into weapons smuggling to Somalia coordinated by Al-Shabaab-affiliated networks in Yemen. The critical nature of such components, and the relative ease of transportation from Yemen, is suggestive of a predictable and consistent supply source and of other undetected instances where supplies of detonators evaded the embargo.

Seizure in Qandala, Puntland, October 2012

46. On 17 October 2012, members of the local community living near Qandala, in the Bari region of north-eastern Somalia, informed Puntland authorities in Bosaso that a "fiberglass dhow of the type known to originate from Yemen" landed at a natural bay called "Butiyalo".<sup>28</sup> Five males disembarked and unloaded a significant cargo of arms and ammunition. Puntland authorities alleged that the dhow had evaded capture and disappeared.<sup>29</sup> The Monitoring Group was not shown evidence of the type of ship used.

47. Puntland security forces launched an operation that resulted in the capture of 37 sacks. These bags contained a large number of munitions and explosive equipment, including:

- 220 PG-7 rounds
- 304 PG-7 propellant charges (boosters)
- Five rolls of detonating cord
- 500 electric detonators
- 137 kg of TNT
- One 73 mm gun (2A28 Grom)
- 230 hand-grenade detonators
- Two bags of ammonium nitrate

Arms captured near Qandala, 19 October 2012 – Source: Puntland Administration

48. The Monitoring Group conducted a physical inspection of the cargo and confirmed that the quantity of material captured matched the original report of the Puntland authorities, and obtained information that the cargo had been contaminated by seawater.<sup>30</sup>

49. The Qandala seizure represents one of the most important captures of arms in recent years, both in terms of the volume of cargo, diversity and nearly new condition of the majority of the ammunition. In short, this shipment offered the Al-Shabaab consignee a full complement of all the items required to manufacture IEDs and engage in a variety of other and notably more conventional offensive operations. The range of items was extensive enough for one Al-Shabaab unit to sustain a yearlong IED campaign.

PG-7 anti-tank rounds and propellant charges for RPG-7

50. PG-7 anti-tank rounds and propellant charges for RPG-7 constitute the largest component of this arms consignment. Most of the explosives and propellant charges (PG-7 anti-tank rounds for RPG-7) were in nearly new condition, with many items still wrapped in their original plastic and paper packaging. With the cooperation of the Government of Bulgaria, the Monitoring Group was able to determine that the majority of charges were manufactured in Bulgaria (see photographs in annex 6.1.c.).<sup>31</sup>

51. The data supplied by the Bulgarian government also verified the presence of the following ammunition (see photographs in annex 6.1.c.):

- Propellant charges [type N/A], lot No. 01-10-11, manufactured in 2010, and used for the production of 40mm rounds OG-7V
- Propellant charges CP-1, Lot No. 10-29-09, manufactured in 2009, and used for the production of 40mm rounds RF-7MA.
- Propellant charges CP-71, Lot No. 10-09-09, manufactured in 2009 and used in the production of 40/73mm RHEF-7MA.
- Label of a transportation container for propellant charges CP-1, Lot No. 10-29-09, manufactured in 2009, and used in the production of 40mm rounds RF-7MA.
- Propellant charges PG-7PM, Lot No. 10-11-08, manufactured in 2008, and used in the production of 40/73mm rounds RHEAT-7MA.
- Propellant charges [type N/A], Lot No. 10-05-11, manufactured in 2005, and used in the production of PG-7VM explosive charges.

52. In 2010, all PG-7 rounds assembled with propellant charges from these lot numbers were delivered to the armed forces of Yemen.<sup>32</sup> The Monitoring Group has further communicated a series of requests for information to the Government of Yemen. The Monitoring Group is awaiting the response.

Rolls of detonating cord

53. The Government of India provided essential information regarding five rolls of detonating cord, model Detonating Fuse/Cord – 10 gm (SUN CORD-10), manufactured in India by the firm Vetrivel Explosives Pvt Ltd. (see photographs in annex 6.1.c.).<sup>33</sup> The five rolls seized were part of a consignment of 400 rolls that the manufacturer exported from India in October 2009 to apparently a private customer, based or registered in Djibouti.

54. A confidential intelligence source has since confirmed that the five rolls of detonating cord were transferred from Djibouti to Yemen, before their final delivery in Puntland.<sup>34</sup> The Monitoring Group has communicated a series of requests for further information to the Governments of Djibouti and Yemen. The Permanent Mission of India to the United Nations has proposed to seek additional clarification from the Indian supplier.<sup>35</sup> Monitoring Group is awaiting the response.

Electric detonators

55. The cargo also included electric detonators of model Instantaneous Electric Detonators (CDET Electra), manufactured in India by the firm CDET Explosive Industries Private Ltd. The detonators were packaged in 18 bundles of about 10 detonators each. Each bundle was affixed with a specific label, unmarked with the exception of the figures "17" and "17-8". There were additional markings as follows: "C DET Crimping - Cubicle No.: [N/A] - Date of Mfg.: [N/A] - Shift: I II III".<sup>36</sup> The Monitoring Group is expecting further information from the Government of India.

Other arms and ammunition

56. The shipment also comprised an assortment of Soviet-made arms and ammunition;<sup>37</sup> such as a large quantity of 200gr and 400gr TNT explosive charges, a 73mm low pressure smoothbore semi-automatic gun, probably disassembled from the turret of a Soviet-made BMP-1 infantry fighting vehicle, and hand-grenade detonators.

57. The diversity in years of production of the weapons and ammunition in this consignment, much of it decades old and from several different countries, indicates that this consignment was probably assembled by a commercial weapons dealer, sourcing arms and ammunition from a wide variety of origins, intermediaries, makes and years of manufacture.<sup>38</sup> The shipment also contained two bags of ammonium nitrate, used in the manufacture of homemade explosives for IEDs.

AMISOM arms and ammunition storage

59. In 2012, it was brought to the attention of the Monitoring Group that an arms and ammunition storage facility located within the perimeter of the AMISOM base in Mogadishu contained arms and ammunition of various provenances, including Libya and North Korea, which were mostly destined for the TFG.

60. On 15 February 2013, the Monitoring Group presented a summary of these initial findings to the Committee and recommended the clearer mandating of UNMAS to manage and dispose of unserviceable munitions.<sup>39</sup> The Committee suggested that the Monitoring Group consult with the Panel of Experts established pursuant to resolution 1973 (2011) concerning Libya (hereafter the Panel of experts on Libya) and liaise with AMISOM to clarify the circumstances under which these arms and ammunition reached Mogadishu.<sup>40</sup> The Monitoring Group initiated a series of requests to establish the current situation of the stores, including considerations of safety and security.

61. Further to its previous mandates,<sup>41</sup> the Monitoring Group obtained additional detailed evidence, including past and recent photographs, partially documenting the volume and nature of the small arms, light weapons and ammunition present in these depots, which are placed under the authority of the AMISOM Sector 1 Commander, Brigadier Michael Odonga. The Monitoring Group was able to determine that these stocks were originally modest in volume, but steadily grew in the last couple of years.<sup>42</sup> As the stocks grew, they comprised an ever greater range of arms and ammunition types, Governments of manufacture, and countries of initial delivery.

Nature and range of arms and ammunition stored by AMISOM

62. The arms and ammunition stored by AMISOM represent a widely varied range of countries of production and countries of final destination.

63. Arms and ammunition documented at the stores can be de categorized as:

- Arms and ammunition captured from Al-Shabaab;
- Arms and ammunition bound for the TFG; and
- Ammunition allocated to AMISOM that is unserviceable and requiring disposal.

Arms and ammunition captured from Al-Shabaab

64. The most common types of arms captured from Al-Shabaab present in the AMISOM stores are old small arms and light weapons in poor condition. There are large quantities of Kalashnikov-pattern assault rifles and an array of vintage arms.

Arms and ammunition destined for the TFG

65. In 2011, the Monitoring Group reported that AMISOM "began overseeing the storage and dispensation of the arms and ammunition of the Transitional Federal Government."<sup>43</sup> Over time, AMISOM began conducting assessments for donor deliveries of weapons and ammunition for the Somali National Army (SNA), determining the types of equipment required given the conditions onthe ground.<sup>44</sup> Consequently, AMISOM stored arms and ammunition consignments from foreign donors.<sup>45</sup> In a number of cases, these weapons were initially delivered to other countries and in turn were supplied to Somalia.

66. When TFG stocks were depleted in 2010, AMISOM began distributing arms and ammunition from its own stocks to the TFG and allied militias.<sup>46</sup> Cases of arms and ammunition diversion by TFG soldiers were particularly problematic and documented at a time when AMISOM was fully engaged in armed combat with Al-Shabaab in and around Mogadishu. It had little option but to continue supplying weapons to the TFG on the ground. Similarly, AMSIOM supplied weapons to allied militias who also sold portions of their stocks at the Bakaara market, which were ultimately obtained by Al-Shabaab.<sup>47</sup>

67. Given its concerns about arms and ammunition diversion, AMISOM refrains from distributing larger calibre arms and ammunition, such as multiple rocket launchers, 60mm mortars and B-10 recoilless rifles, to militia and SNA units of the TFG and remained stored. Such weapons were not needed for urban warfare conducted at the time, and the concerns over diversion and loss on the battlefield were valid.<sup>48</sup>

Unserviceable AMISOM ammunition

68. AMISOM currently maintains stores of unserviceable ammunition in need of disposal. The Monitoring Group met with representatives of AMISOM, UNMAS and UNSOA to address the accumulated and growing stocks of ammunition and to undertake a comprehensive assessment of the safety and security implications at the stores.<sup>49</sup>

69. According to AMISOM officers and confirmed by UNMAS officials, the reason for this unusual accumulation of unserviceable ammunition is due to the rapid development of international infrastructure around Mogadishu airport that closed down the ammunition disposal area, until it was recently used by UNMAS.<sup>50</sup>

70. Furthermore, according to an UNMAS assessment report, AMISOM is planning to consolidate its arms and ammunition storage requirements at an alternate location.<sup>51</sup> UNMAS is currently identifying an appropriate disposal site for unserviceable ammunition.<sup>52</sup>

Other arms and ammunition

Libya

71. At the AMISOM stores in Mogadishu, the Monitoring Group has documented several cases of munitions with markings identifying the country of production, including former Yugoslavia and the Democratic People's Republic of Korea (DPRK), and their initial delivery to Libya (see photographs in strictly confidential annex 6.1.d.).

72. It is unclear, however, when these weapons were transferred from Libya to Mogadishu, and whether there were any intermediary transit points and owners between their delivery from Libya to Somalia. Due to this information gap, it is not certain whether the munitions entered Somalia in violation of the arms embargo on Libya.<sup>53</sup>

73. The Monitoring Group did clarify the status of two ammunition consignments that were once delivered to Libya and which are now present in the AMISOM depot. In consultation with the Panel of Experts on Libya, the Monitoring Group established that the first set of boxes containing 120mm mortar projectiles in an AMISOM depot, originally from the former Yugoslavia, were also identified in an ammunition dump located in Ajdabiya, eastern Libya.<sup>54</sup> Both boxes of mortar ammunition bore identical contract numbers (see photographs in strictly confidential annex 6.1.d.).

74. In addition, the Monitoring Group and the Panel of Experts on Libya identified a second set of boxes containing 14.5mm heavy machine gun ammunition, originally from the DPRK, which were part of a much larger consignment to Libya.<sup>55</sup> The box illustrated in strictly confidential annex 6.1.d. is the first of a 600 box order. Notably, the ammunition box is mislabelled, only referring to "Bearing".<sup>56</sup>

75. Contract reference marking on the ammunition boxes, identified in Mogadishu, indicate that this ammunition was produced in the DPRK factory number 93. They also indicate that the supplying contract was established in 1977. In addition, during 2012, the Panel of Experts on Libya was given access in Libya to ammunition boxes of the same contract number and ammunition content with identical markings.<sup>57</sup> The Panel of Expert on Libya had access to the heavy machine gun 14.5 mm rounds, manufactured in DPRK and observed markings indicate 1978 production (see photographs in strictly confidential annex 6.1.d.).

76. Both the Monitoring Group and the Panel of Expert on Libya in no way imply that AMISOM is in breach of sanctions on Libya, but seek the assistance of AMISOM and other concerned parties to better understand the chain of custody of the weapons. As such, experts from the Monitoring Group and the Panel of Experts on Libya are planning to conduct a joint field mission to Mogadishu during the summer 2013.

Iran

77. Among the various weapons viewed in the AMISOM stores are a small series of nearly new RPG-7-type launchers of recent manufacture. Close inspection revealed that specific features, such as the curved hand-grip and yellow painted cross located on the front iron sight, closely resemble Iranian manufactured RPG-7 launchers (see photographs in strictly confidential annex 6.1.d.).<sup>58</sup> Stripping the RPG launcher exposed the only marking on the entire weapon: three digits etched by dot pin marking (laser).<sup>59</sup> The Monitoring Group is following-up with Iranian authorities.

Sudan

78. In January 2011, the Monitoring Group identified dozens of medium calibre arms and ammunition that Sudan had supplied to the TFG in 2010, in violation of the arms embargo. Sudan supplied Sudanese manufactured RPG-7 launchers and 82mm mortar bombs (see photographs in strictly confidential annex 6.1.d.). This information has not been documented before.

79. In the AMISOM storage containers inspected in January 2011, the packing documents contained in the crates of the RPG-7 launchers and 82mm mortar bombs, as well as the markings on the bombs, indicating that these items were manufactured at the Yarmouk Industrial Complex in Khartoum, Sudan, in 2009 and 2010, respectively (see photographs in strictly confidential annex 6.1.d.).<sup>60</sup> Based on these dates and the date of inspection by the Monitoring Group, the arms and ammunition must have been supplied sometime during 2010.

Suspicious ships and shipments along the Somali coast

80. During the course of its current mandate, the Monitoring Group observed several ships navigating irregular sailing patterns in the Gulf of Aden. In particular, two ships warranted further investigation. First, the North Korean MV Dae San docked offshore in close proximity to known weapons trafficking corridors in Somalia.<sup>61</sup> Second, the Jihan 1, an Iranian dhow, was transporting a large weapons cargo, allegedly bound for Northern Yemen, but also connected to Somalia.<sup>62</sup>

The Case of the MV Dae San

81. The MV Dae San is a DPRK-flagged vessel which the Monitoring Group boarded on two occasions.<sup>63</sup> In 2012, it followed a path between the UAE, Oman and Somalia. On 15 July 2012, the vessel departed Port Rashid, UAE, having declared a cargo of 4500 tonnes of cement. On 22 July 2012, it sustained a critical leak to its hull and the captain decided to repair the water ingress in the Omani ports of Duqum and then Salalah. After the repairs, the vessel crossed the Gulf of Aden and dropped anchor within two miles of the Puntland coast near Alula, between Ras Alula and Ras Asayr, an area known for the anchorage of pirated vessels and weapons deliveries.<sup>64</sup> Initially, during his meeting with the Monitoring Group, the captain omitted to mention that he had docked the vessel near Alula, but when confronted with signals data, he stated that he had docked at that location due to engine trouble.

82. The Dae San then set sail for Socotra and spent thirteen days off the main island, allegedly to avoid monsoon conditions and wait for better weather conditions. The captain claimed that he took this opportunity to further repair the crack in the vessel's hull.

83. On 20 September 2012, the Dae San sailed on to Mogadishu, where, according to the captain, the consignee refused to accept the cargo of cement because it had been damaged by water and solidified into blocks. On 28 October 2012, the captain decided to sail back along the coast and dropped the bags of cement at about 45 nautical miles north of Mogadishu. He anchored 1.8 nautical miles offshore at an Al-Shabaab-controlled area to dispose of the damaged cargo and partly to rebalance the ship. The captain stated that over seven days, the crew threw overboard about 450 metric tonnes of cement.<sup>65</sup> When Somali nationals were seen preparing to sail across the short stretch of water to visit the ship, it sailed further north. On 6 November 2012, the vessel stopped twelve nautical miles west of Qandala, Puntland, anchoring two nautical miles offshore, in plain sight of two vessels hijacked by pirates.<sup>66</sup> According to the captain, the crew dumped another 20 metric tonnes of cement overboard.

84. On 16 November 2012, Puntland authorities impounded the Dae San after the local community in the Bari region reported that the ship's crew was dumping bags of cement into the sea, a fact confirmed by a PMPF helicopter dispatched to the scene that saw its five hatches open and the overboard dumping.

MV Dae San, Bosaso, 7 December 2013 (see annex 6.1.e. for additional photographs)

85. When the Monitoring Group reviewed the ship's documentation onboard, it discovered that the Dae San carries an international certificate for the transportation of dangerous goods (class 6.2 and 7), and that it had recently ferried ammonium nitrate. The captain had initially denied holding any dangerous goods certificate.<sup>67</sup>

86. Overall, in a short period, the Dae San captain had charted a suspicious course to locations controlled by Somali pirates and Al-Shabaab. It carried cement sacks, a preferred means of concealing illicit materials, ordinance, small arms and weapons.<sup>68</sup> The Monitoring Group could not confirm what the Dae San delivered to Somalia. However, the case indicates the opportunities available for individual operators, larger yachts, dhows, and internationally registered vessels to violate the arms embargo. Consequently, the Monitoring Group recommends that, when warranted, the monitoring and possible intercept of such transport ships in the vicinity of pirate strongholds and areas not controlled by Somali authorities as a deterrent measure.

The case of the Jihan 1

87. The Monitoring Group was first alerted to the Jihan 1, an Iranian wooden dhow, when the New York Times published an article detailing its cargo and its destination in Yemen, where the authorities seized the ship, its crew and contents.<sup>69</sup>

88. In May 2013, the Monitoring Group visited Yemen and met with the Yemeni General Counsel of the Ministry of Justice, and the Public Prosecutor in the case of the Jihan 1.<sup>70</sup> The Prosecutor provided a list of all items supporting the Prosecutor's case, including a detailed account of all arms and ammunition onboard the Jihan 1 from the time Yemeni authorities seized the ship off the coast of Yemen on 23 January 2013 (see annex 6.1.f.). The shipment included a large quantity of explosives and bomb-making equipment, as well as twenty Man-Portable Air-Defence Systems surface to air missiles. According to Yemeni security officials, the arms and ammunition were well packed in small containers, all of which were concealed inside several large compartments filled with diesel fuel.<sup>71</sup>

89. Yemeni officials indicated that this arms consignment was to be delivered to the Huthi rebellion in northern Yemen. However, the Monitoring Group investigated if some of the Jihan 1 cargo could have been intended for delivery in Somalia as well. When asked about this, security officials confirmed that the diesel could have been bound for Somalia. Members of the crew have also divulged to a diplomatic source who interviewed them in Aden that the diesel was bound for Somalia.<sup>72</sup>

90. In an interview given on 12 February 2013, the Minister of Finance in Puntland, Farah Ali Jama, commented on the authorities' decision to pass a law banning all petroleum imports from Yemen. Besides an economic rationale, the Minister also admitted that: "... security is one of the reasons why Puntland banned the petroleum imports from Yemen, due to several reports of arms being brought into Puntland from Yemen".<sup>73</sup> The President of Puntland, Abdirahman Mohamud 'Faroole', declared to the Monitoring Group that such arms can be smuggled inside diesel containers.<sup>74</sup>

91. The Monitoring Group is continuing its investigations and plans to write to both the Government of Yemen and the Puntland authorities, requesting clarifications and evidence regarding their respective declarations.

Annex 6.2: Non-compliant States and organizations

Security Council Resolution 2093 (2013) framework for the development of the Security Forces of the Federal Government of Somalia

1. In paragraph 38 of resolution 2093 (2013), the Security Council decides that the measures imposed in paragraph 5 of resolution 733 (1992) and paragraphs 1 and 2 of resolution 1425 (2002) do not apply, if notified at least five days in advance to the Committee established pursuant to resolutions 751 (1992) and 1907 (2009) concerning Somalia and Eritrea (hereafter "the Committee") for its information, to deliveries of weapons or military equipment or the provision of advice, assistance or training, intended solely for the development of the Security Forces of the Federal Government of Somalia, with the exception of specific items set out in the annex of the resolution.

2. Pursuant to paragraph 38 of resolution 2093 (2013), such notifications from the Somali Government must include information about the type and quantity of weapons, ammunitions, military equipment and material to be delivered, and the date of delivery. Member States delivering assistance can also, after informing the Federal Government of Somalia of its intentions, make such notifications.

3. In addition to this notification procedure for exemptions to the arms embargo for the Federal Government of Somalia, resolution 2093 (2013) introduces other unrestricted and standing exemptions, including for United Nations personnel and "AMISOM's strategic partners" operating under the African Union Strategic Concept of 5 January 2012<sup>1</sup> and in cooperation and coordination with AMISOM. On 16 April 2013, the Monitoring Group sent a letter to the Special Representative of the Chairperson of the African Union Commission for Somalia (SRCC), Ambassador Mahamat Saleh Annadif, requesting a list of strategic partners of the African Union Mission in Somalia. No reply has been forthcoming.

4. Paragraphs 11 (b) and 12 of resolution 1772 (2007) continue to apply to supplies of weapons and military equipment, and technical training and assistance intended solely to develop those Somali security sector institutions which were excluded from the ambit of resolution 2093 (2013), such as security forces of regional administrations (namely Somaliland, Puntland, Galmudug, and any future regional state recognised by the Federal Government of Somalia), and the factions of Ahlu Sunna wal Jama'a (ASWJ) formally associated with the Somali Government. Since international, regional and subregional organisations are also excluded from the provisions contained in paragraph 38 of resolution 2093 (2013), the exemption procedure stipulated in paragraph 3 of resolution 1916 (2010) continue to apply.

5. According to the Committee Guidelines revised on 30 May 2013, the procedure established by resolution 1772 (2007) could be used by a Member State or an international or regional organisation wishing to supply the Federal Government of Somalia with items enumerated in the annex of resolution 2093 (2013).

6. Accordingly, the regional representative of the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC) in Kenya, sent an exemption request on 24 April 2013 to the Chairman of the Committee in accordance with paragraph 12 of resolution 1846 (2008) and paragraphs 11 (b) and 12 of resolution

1772 (2007). The Committee had no objection to UNODC support to Somali security sector institutions in Puntland and Somaliland.<sup>2</sup>

7. Nonetheless, the Monitoring Group recommends that the Security Council should consider for its next resolution on Somalia consolidating and summarising the existing provisions for exemptions from the arms embargo, currently included in multiple resolutions, into a comprehensive, single exemption framework.<sup>3</sup>

AMISOM

8. In paragraph 2 of resolution 2093 (2013), the Security Council has reiterated again to AMISOMits request for the establishment "without any further delay" of a guard force of an appropriate size to provide security, escort and protection services to personnel from the international community. This request was previously made in paragraph 5 of resolution 2010 (2011) and repeated in paragraph 9 of resolution 2036 (2012).

9. AMISOM, however, has yet to established the guard force. Furthermore, according to diplomatic and military sources, AMISOM is instead directing diplomatic personnel planning missions to Mogadishu to request Somali Federal authorities for the provision of security details, contrary to paragraphs 1 (c) and 2 of resolution 2093.<sup>4</sup>

10. Consequently, as observed by the Monitoring Group in its previous report,<sup>5</sup> diplomatic personnel on mission in Mogadishu have to rely on private contractors for movements between the international airport and Villa Somalia, generating market opportunities for local and international security providers operating at times with equipment imported into Somalia in violation of the arms embargo, and developing a business model which remains largely unregulated and enmeshed with the private interests of high-ranking officials within the Federal security and intelligence services (see annex 6.3.).

Djibouti

11. According to media reports quoting official statements,<sup>6</sup> on 4 April 2013 the Government of Djibouti donated to Somalia, on the occasion of a State visit of Somali Prime Minister Abdi Farah Shirdon, several dozens of Bedford military trucks and 50 Saxon AT105 armoured personnel carriers (APCs) (see annex 6.2.a.).

H.E. Prime Minister Abdi Farah Shirdon inspecting a Saxon AT105 armoured personnel carrier, at the hand-over ceremony at Sheikh Osman military camp in Djibouti, on 4 April 2013

12. The Monitoring Group is unaware of any notification to the Committee from the Somali Federal Government or, alternatively, from the Government of Djibouti, regarding this donation. On 19 April 2013, the Monitoring Group sent a correspondence to Abdirahman Sheikh Issa, the Somali President's National Security Advisor and the Somali Government's focal point for the implementation of resolution 2093 (2013), requesting clarification and additional information. No reply has yet been forthcoming. If confirmed, this significant donation, in terms of type of military equipment and number of vehicles, would represent the principal technical violation of the arms embargo observed by the Monitoring Group during the reporting period.

Egypt

13. Pursuant to paragraphs 33 and 38 of resolution 2093 (2013), on 16 April 2013, the Arab Republic of Egypt notified on 16 April 2013 the Committee of its intention to provide training courses for officers of the Security Forces of the Federal Government of Somalia, after informing the Federal Government of Somalia.<sup>7</sup> As such, Egypt was the first Member State delivering assistance to notify, as an alternative to the FGS' obligation to do so, the Committee in accordance with the procedures stipulated in resolution 2093 (2013).

14. However, the Monitoring Group also received credible reports of two shipments of a military nature delivered at the end of April 2013 in assistance to the Somali Federal Security Forces by the Government of Egypt for which the Committee did not receive a notification.<sup>8</sup> During a telephone conversation of 29 May 2013, a Nairobi-based Egyptian diplomat denied that any shipment of weapons or ammunitions could have been delivered to Somalia without prior notification.<sup>9</sup>

15. In addition, according to local media, the commander of the Somali naval forces, Admiral Farah Qare, welcomed during a press conference on 4 June 2013 in Mogadishu a delegation from the Egyptian Ministry of Defence, and stated that "the Egyptian Government supports Somalia in the rebuilding of the headquarters of the Somali Ministry of Defence".<sup>10</sup>

16. The Federal Government of Somalia, or alternatively the Government of Egypt, are required to notify the Committee at least five days in advance of such support and assistance provided to Somali Federal Security Forces. Otherwise, such provisions constitute potential violations of the arms embargo on Somalia.

Ethiopia

17. The Monitoring Group has received from the Government of Ethiopia a detailed list of supplies provided by the Ethiopian Ministry of Defence to Somali security sector institutions during the period of 2011 to 2012, which was circulated for the information of the members of the Committee on 2 April 2013.<sup>11</sup> Although provided outside the exemption from the arms embargo procedures of resolution 1772 (2007) and the Committee Guidelines, this effort of transparency contrasts with the opacity that previously characterised the Ethiopian involvement in Somalia.

18. However, according to data received by the Monitoring Group, the Ethiopian air force has operated in January and February 2013, three military cargo flights to Baidoa, without prior notification of the Committee. On 22 April 2013, the Monitoring Group sent a letter to the Government of Ethiopia requesting clarification and additional information, for which no reply has yet been forthcoming.

19. Information obtained by the Monitoring Group from several UN sources indicates that these flights may be related to supply of military equipment to Ethiopian National Defence Forces (ENDF) operations on Somali territory, and therefore constitute a potential violation of the arms embargo on Somalia.

France

20. On 12 December 2012, the Government of France submitted to the Committee a notification for provision of technical assistance and support to Somali sector institutions that would be transported by air during the month of December 2012, to which the Committee had no objection.<sup>12</sup>

21. However, according to civil aviation records, the Government of France operated three military cargo flights to Somalia in October 2012, and one in February 2013, plus two military helicopter flights in August and December 2012 from Djibouti to Hargeisa. On 24 October 2012, the Monitoring Group witnessed at Mogadishu airport a large quantity of cargo, including large wooden boxes, being offloaded by unidentified French personnel, with the assistance of AMISOM military personnel, from a French military Transall registered 61-ZA.

Cargo from a French Transall C-160 registered 61-ZA offloaded by French personnel assisted by AMISOM, at Mogadishu International Airport on 24 October 2012

22. The Monitoring Group is unaware of any notification by France to the Committee concerning military flights to Somalia, except the one approved by the Committee in December 2012. On 17 April 2013, the Monitoring Group sent a letter to the Government of France requesting clarification and additional information.

23. In a letter dated 30 April 2013, the French Government confirmed to the Committee that such flights were conducted in order to transport support and assistance to Somali security sector institutions.<sup>13</sup> However, as mentioned in the previous report of the Monitoring Group, <sup>14</sup> paragraph 12 of resolution 1772 (2007) specifically requires that notification take place "in advance and on a case-by-case basis". Following the adoption of resolution 2093 (2013) on 6 March 2013, the Federal Government of Somalia, or alternatively the Government of France, will be required to notify the Committee at least five days in advance of any support and assistance supplied to Somali Federal Security Forces

Interpol

24. Following a press communiqué of 6 February 2013 announcing that the International Criminal Police Organization (INTERPOL) had provided "equipment and training to Somalia", the Monitoring Group requested further information from Interpol's representation in New York. In two separate letters dated 19 and 22 February 2013, the Special Representative of INTERPOL to the United Nations informed the Committee about a capacity building programme on counter-terrorism conducted in November 2012 for representatives of Somali Federal Security Forces, in addition to the delivery between November 2011 and November 2012 of "necessary equipment to the Somali Police".<sup>15</sup>

25. Paragraph 12 of Security Council resolution 1772 (2007) requires notification of support to Somali security sector institutions "in advance and on a case-by-case basis". Following the adoption on 6 March 2013 of resolution 2093 (2013), the Federal Government of Somalia will be required to notify the Committee at least five days in advance of any support and assistance supplied by Interpol to Somali Federal Security Forces.

Jordan

26. According to civil aviation data, two Royal Jordanian Air Force Ilyushin Il-76 "Candid", registered RJAF361 and RJAF360, flew in August 2012 and February 2013, respectively, to Mogadishu International Airport.

27. The Monitoring Group is unaware of any notification to the Committee concerning Jordanian support to Somali security sector institutions, and on 17 April 2013 sent a letter to the Government of Jordan requesting clarification and additional information.

28. On 6 May 2013, the Permanent Mission of the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan to the United Nations sent a detailed response to the Monitoring Group's requests in which it confirmed the flights and the delivery of assistance to the Somali security sector.<sup>16</sup>

29. However, paragraph 12 of Security Council resolution 1772 (2007) requires notification of support to Somali security sector institutions "in advance and on a case-by-case basis". Following the adoption on 6 March 2013 of resolution 2093, the Federal Government of Somalia, or alternatively the Government of the Kingdom of Jordan, will be required to notify the Committee at least five days in advance of any support and assistance supplied to Somali Federal Security Forces.

Kuwait

30. Civil aviation records received by the Monitoring Group indicate that the Kuwait Air Force operated one flight to Somaliland, Somalia, in November 2012. The aircraft, a Lockheed C-130 "Hercules" registered as KAF323, reportedly landed at Berbera International Airport on 30 November 2012.

31. The Monitoring Group is unaware of any notification to the Committee concerning Kuwaiti support to security sector institutions in Somaliland. On 17 April 2013, the Monitoring Group sent a letter to the Government of Kuwait requesting clarification and additional information. For the second year in a row, the Monitoring Group has not received any reply.<sup>17</sup>

32. Therefore, in the consistent absence of notification to the Committee from the supplying Member State, and in accordance with resolution 2093 (2013), the Monitoring Group expects in the future that the Federal Government of Somalia will notify the Committee, at least five days in advance, of any support and assistance supplied by the Government of Kuwait to its security forces.

Netherlands

33. According to civil aviation data, the Royal Air Force of the Netherlands has operated two military flights to Mogadishu and Berbera, Somalia, involving, respectively, one McDonnell Douglas DC-10-30CF registered T-255 in August 2012 and one Lockheed C130 Hercules registered G-781 in December 2012.

34. The Monitoring Group is unaware of any notification to the Committee concerning Netherlands support to Somali security sector institutions. On 19 April 2013, the Monitoring Group sent a letter to the Government of the Netherlands requesting clarification and additional information. No reply has yet been forthcoming.

Somalia

35. Before the adoption of resolution 2093 (2013), it was the assessment of the Monitoring Group that technical violations of the arms embargo were the responsibility of the supplying Member State or international or regional organisation providing support to Somali security sector institutions.

36. Since resolution 2093 (2013) provides the Somali Government with the capacity to inform the Committee of support and assistance to its security forces, the Monitoring Group considers that as of 6 March 2013 the responsibility for technical violations of the arms embargo primarily rests with the Somali Federal Government.

37. Therefore, in accordance with resolution 2093 (2013), the Monitoring Group expects the Federal Government of Somalia to notify the Committee, at least five days in advance, of any support and assistance supplied by any Member State, or international or regional organisation to its security forces, in the absence of an alternative notification from the supplying party.

Provision of equipment to the Somali Police Force

38. On 22 March 2013, the Monitoring Group was informed by a diplomatic source that the Somali Police Force had recently received uniforms, weapons and vehicles in order to equip the new Public Order Management Force, called in Somali "Birmadka Booliska" and modelled along the lines of the Daraawish units, the elite mobile police units of the Siyad Barre regime.<sup>18</sup>

39. On 17 April 2013, the Monitoring Group met with the Somali Police Commissioner, General Ali Hassan Mohamed "Looyaan", who confirmed the reconstitution of the "Birmadka" units. Recruitment for the units was carried out among the Police (400 recruits), the Somali Armed Forces (300 recruits) and the National Intelligence Security Agency (NISA) (300 recruits). General Hassan "Looyaan" also acknowledged having recently received new equipment for the 1,000-strong elite police force, partly trained by AMISOM in accordance with paragraphs 9 (c) and 11 (a) of resolution 1772 (2007), and informed the Monitoring Group that the vehicles were at the time of the meeting being painted at the main Somali police garage in Mogadishu.

40. The Monitoring Group is unaware of any notification to the Committee concerning material support to the "Birmadka" units of the Somali Police Forces, and General Hassan could not reveal to the Monitoring Group the name of the country that provided his Government with equipment in violation of the arms embargo.

Somali Police Public Order Management officers attending the speech of H.E. Abdi Farah Shirdon in Mogadishu on 24 April 2013

42. On 19 April 2013, the Monitoring Group sent a correspondence to Abdirahman Sheikh Issa, the Somali President's National Security Advisor and the Somali Government focal point for matters related to the implementation of resolution 2093 (2013), requesting clarification and additional information. No reply has yet been forthcoming.

Importation of armoured vehicles on behalf of private security companies

43. The Monitoring Group has documented one case in which the Federal Government of Somalia has authorized a foreign private security company to import into Somalia items under embargo, in lieu of approval from the Committee.

44. A letter dated 3 December 2012 addressed to the Somali Embassy in "Abdu Dubai" (sic) and signed by the Deputy Prime Minister and Minister of Foreign Affairs, H.E. Fawzia Yusuf H. Adam, informed Tacforce International, an Australian private security company based in the United Arab Emirates, that its request for importation of a B6-type armoured vehicle "has been officially approved" (see annex 6.2.b.).

45. On 23 February 2013, Engineer Ahmed Ma'alin Fiqi, then Director of the National Intelligence and Security Agency, requested in a second letter addressed to the Director of Mogadishu seaport to allow "the Tecforce [sic] International company to import the described vehicle by using Mogadishu International seaport" (see annex 6.2.b.).

46. Consequently, the Monitoring Group considers that the Federal Government of Somalia has committed on behalf of Tacforce International a technical violation of the arms embargo, and attributes direct responsibility to the Deputy Prime Minister and Minister of Foreign Affairs, Fawzia Yusuf H. Adam, and the former Director of NISA, Engineer Ahmed Ma'alin Fiqi.

47. At the same time, the Monitoring Group had been informed separately that a representative of the Ministry of Interior of the Federal Government of Somalia requested on 17 January 2013 that the United Nations Resident and Humanitarian Coordinator's office in Mogadishu provide to Somali authorities a copy of the official correspondence from the Chairman of the Committee approving the importation of B6-type armoured vehicles for United Nations operations in Somalia,<sup>21</sup> in order to release four vehicles delivered at Mogadishu seaport. By doing so, Somali authorities clearly had full knowledge that importation of B6-type armoured vehicles requires prior notification and subsequent approval from the Committee, suggesting a political motivation behind blocking the deployment of UN equipment and individual interests in facilitating the business of a private security company.

48. The Monitoring Group has repeatedly requested clarification and additional information from Abdirahman Sheikh Issa, the Somali President's National Security Advisor and the Somali Government focal point of for matters related to the implementation of resolution 2093 (2013),<sup>22</sup> as well as from H.E. Ambassador Dr. Elmi Ahmed Duale, Permanent Representative of the Somali Republic to the United Nations.<sup>23</sup> No reply has yet been forthcoming.

Implementation report from the Federal Government of Somalia in accordance with paragraph 39 of Security Council resolution 2093 (2013)

49. In paragraph 39 of resolution 2093 (2013), the Security Council requested the Federal Government of Somalia to report no later than one month after the adoption of the resolution on 6 March 2013 on the following:

- (a) The structure of the Security Forces of the Federal Government of Somalia;
- (b) The infrastructure in place to ensure the safe storage, registration, maintenance and distribution of military equipment by the Security Forces of the Federal Government of Somalia; and
- (c) The procedures and codes of conduct in place for the registration, distribution, use and storage of weapons by the Security forces of the Federal Government of Somalia, and on training needs in this regard.

50. On 2 April 2013, the Permanent Mission of the Somali Republic to the United Nations sent a correspondence to the President of the Security Council attaching a letter from the Somali Minister of Defence, H.E. Abdihakim Mohamoud Faqi, dated 18 March 2013, with regards to the implementation of paragraph 39 of resolution 2093.

51. The letter does not detail the overall structure of the Federal Government's security forces but only provides a rudimentary outline of the organization of the Somali Armed Forces, thereby excluding the Somali Police Forces and the National Intelligence and Security Agency. Furthermore, the description of the planned structure of the Somali Armed Forces is limited to only one level of responsibility and does not include a description of the chain of command, the structure and composition of the forces in each sector, and aggregate figures (such as numbers of officers versus other ranks, and clan representation).

Somali Armed Forces Command

52. As further outlined in annex 6.1., the description by the Somali Federal Government of the infrastructure in place to ensure effective management of stockpiles of weapons and ammunition clearly indicates that such infrastructure does not yet exist. Additionally, the Somali Government has not indicated to the Security Council, as requested by paragraph 39 (c) of resolution 2093, any need for training its personnel with regards to procedures and codes of conduct for the registration, distribution, use and storage of weapons.

Sudan

53. According to civil aviation records, the Government of Sudan operated three military flights to Mogadishu, Somalia, in September 2012 and January 2013, involving an Antonov An-74 registered ST-GFF.

54. The Monitoring Group is unaware of any notification to the Committee concerning Sudan's air operations and support to security institutions in Somalia. On 17 April 2013, the Monitoring Group sent a letter to the Government of Sudan requesting clarification and additional information. No reply has yet been forthcoming.

55. It is also worth noting previous Monitoring Group reports since 2009 on Sudanese support to Somali security sector institutions, including to Somali intelligence services, in violation of the sanctions regime on Somalia.<sup>24</sup> The Monitoring Group has requested for three consecutive years additional information from the Sudanese Government and has not received any reply to its letters.

56. Therefore, in the consistent absence of notification from the supplying Member State, and in accordance with resolution 2093 (2013), the Monitoring Group expects in the future that the Federal Government of Somalia will notify the Committee, at least five days in advance, of any support and assistance supplied by the Government of Sudan to its security forces.

Turkey

57. In a letter dated 8 May 2012 addressed to the Coordinator of the Monitoring Group, replying to a request for additional information regarding support to the Somali Police Force, the Government of Turkey declared that "before the commencement of the implementation of Turkey's assistance to Somali security sector, the SEMG will be duly notified in advance and the Sanctions Committee will be applied to for necessary approvals".<sup>25</sup>

58. Despite this undertaking, on 3 July 2012, the Government of Turkey began a training programme for 60 Somali police cadets at the Turkish National Police Academy, without prior notification of the Committee, and therefore in technical violation of the arms embargo on Somalia.

Launching ceremony of the training programme of Somali Police cadets at the Turkish National Police Academy on 2 July 2012, with representatives of the Turkish and Somali Governments

59. According to media outlets reporting on the launching ceremony at the academy on 2 July 2012, representatives of the Turkish government also committed to Somali officials present to equip the Somali Police with Turkish and foreign equipment.<sup>26</sup>

60. Furthermore, following an agreement signed in Ankara, Turkey, on 13 April 2012 on training, technical and scientific cooperation, pursuant to an initial agreement signed on 22 May 2010, the official gazette of the Republic of Turkey eventually announced on 7 November 2012 the establishment of "cooperation mechanisms in military training field" between the governments of Turkey and Somalia.<sup>27</sup>

61. This agreement includes but is not limited to training in Turkey of Somali cadets at military colleges, schools and academies, training for Gendarmerie and Coast Guard personnel, specialization courses (like "underwater attack"), and participation in joint exercises.

62. Therefore, in the absence of notification from the supplying State, and in accordance with resolution 2093 (2013), the Monitoring Group expects in the future that the Federal Government of Somalia will notify the Committee, at least five days in advance, of any support and assistance supplied by the Government of Turkey to its security forces.

United Arab Emirates

63. The United Arab Emirates (UAE) Government notified the Committee for a first time on 21 January 2013 and a second time on 25 February 2013.<sup>28</sup> In addition, on 5 February 2013 and on 24 April 2013, the UAE replied to requests from the Monitoring Group for additional information concerning the provision of military equipment in potential violation of the arms embargo on Somalia.<sup>29</sup> Therefore, the Monitoring Group would like to acknowledge the efforts of the UAE Government to notify the Committee regarding its support to Somali security sector institutions.

64. However, one notification was submitted after the fact, a Committee member placed a hold on a second notification, and in one case, on 6 March 2013, the UAE Government withdrew its notification with the intent to resubmit it pursuant to resolution 2093 (2013) adopted that same day. However, the Committee never received such a notification. Therefore, the UAE Government is in technical violations of the arms embargo on Somalia.

65. In the future, in accordance with resolution 2093 (2013), the Monitoring Group expects that the Federal Government of Somalia will notify the Committee, at least five days in advance, of any support and assistance supplied by the UAE Government to its security forces.

Operation "Restore Hope 2" in support of Somali security sector institutions

66. Between 1 August 2012 and 28 November 2012, the UAE air force conducted 15 flights to Somalia in order to deliver medicine, foodstuffs and supplies for its field hospital in Mogadishu, in addition to uniforms and armoured vehicles for Somali security forces. More specifically, the UAE Government delivered 2,000 pairs of military boots, 3,250 sets of military uniforms and three armoured vehicles, informing the Committee after the fact of its support to Somali security sector institutions.<sup>30</sup>

67. The Monitoring Group has obtained a document from the Somali Armed Forces detailing how uniforms provided by the UAE Government would be distributed to different brigades in Mogadishu and the Somali Navy (see annex 6.2.c.).

68. In March 2013, the UAE Government informed the Monitoring Group and the Committee of the delivery by air to Somalia of 4,000 additional military uniforms for Somali land and naval forces.<sup>31</sup>

Support to the Puntland Maritime Police Force (PMPF)

69. On 13 September 2012, Ambassador H.S. Puri, then Chairman of the Committee, wrote a letter to the Permanent Representative of the UAE to the United Nations, urging its Government to take all necessary steps to prevent the use of UAE ports and airports for activities in connection with technical assistance and training, financial and other assistance to military activities in Somalia in violation of Security Council resolutions 733 (1992), 1425 (2002) and 1844 (2008).

70. In spite of the Committee's position, according to a UAE official,<sup>32</sup> individuals and entities in the UAE have continued to supply technical advice and financial assistance directly to the Puntland Maritime Police Force, in violation of paragraph 2 of Security Council resolution 1425 (2002).

71. Approximately 5 million USD was provided directly and indirectly to the PMPF throughout the second half of 2012, in order to maintain its main base at Bandar Siyada, west of Bosaso, and its advanced posts at Iskushuban and Eyl, Puntland. Moreover, a team of 15 expatriates continue to provide technical assistance to the PMPF for air and maritime operations, maintenance of vehicles and equipment, and administration of the camps.

Screenshot of "The Project", a documentary featuring the PMPF in Puntland, Somalia, presented during the Tribeca film festival in New York, United States, on 21 April 2013

72. The expatriate personnel deployed unofficially by the UAE in Bandar Siyada to assist the PMPF have also directly supervised or supported several operations conducted by the PMPF, in addition to security operations conducted by the Puntland police in Bosaso and Puntland intelligence services. Regarding the latter, the Monitoring Group corroborated several reports of PMPF aircraft providing aerial surveillance and fire support to ground operations engaging Al-Shabaab in the Galgala region of Bari, Puntland, in January, February and March 2013.

73. Nevertheless, the Monitoring Group urges the international community, in accordance with paragraph 12 of Security Council resolution 1846 (2008) and paragraphs 11 (b) and 12 of resolution 1772 (2007), and within the framework of the constitutions of the Federal State and of the Puntland State of Somalia, to support the PMPF in the context of rule of law institutions, as it remains one of the most organized, trained and equipped security force in Somalia.

74. The PMPF has demonstrated on several occasions, despite the departure of the management and mentors from Sterling Corporate Services (see also annex 6.3), its capacity to deal with complex situations involving land, sea and air elements, such as the boarding of maritime vessels,<sup>33</sup> an assault operation against a hijacked ship<sup>34</sup> and the arrest of fishermen conducting illegal fishing activities off the coast of Puntland.<sup>35</sup> The release of 22 crew members of the MV Iceberg 1 on 23 December 2012, after a two-week campaign led by Rudolph "Roelf" Van Heerden, a former South-African army officer acting as a team leader for the expatriate personnel supporting the PMPF, constitutes the first successful rescue operation of crew members on board a pirate-controlled vessel by a Somali security force, although with unauthorized foreign assistance and support (see also II.D. of the Somalia report).

75. Consequently, the Monitoring Group maintains that the Committee should consider favourably any notification of intent to support the PMPF that would be submitted by the supplying Member State or international or regional organizations.

United Kingdom

76. During the course of the current mandate of the Monitoring Group, the Government of the United Kingdom has been increasingly involved in supporting security sector institutions in Somalia, particularly in Mogadishu and in Somaliland with the establishment of a Rapid Response Unit in March 2012.

Importation of weapons, ammunition and military equipment on behalf of a private security company

77. The United Kingdom has contracted a private security provider, G4S Security Services, to provide security details for its diplomatic premises and personnel in Somalia. The United Kingdom Government confirmed in a letter to the Monitoring Group that it has imported into Somalia weapons, ammunition and military equipment for use by G4S personnel for the protection of diplomatic premises and personnel.<sup>36</sup>

78. However, to date no specific exemption procedure has been established under the current sanctions regime to cover security details for diplomatic premises and personnel of Member States. The Monitoring Group has sought guidance from the Committee regarding the issue of diplomatic protection.

79. In the meantime, practice is mixed. The Committee had no objection to the notification sent on 18 October 2012 by the Government of Italy regarding outsourcing of security details for its diplomatic premises and personnel to SKA International Group, a service provider company.<sup>37</sup> Similarly, the Committee had no objection to the exemptions requests submitted by the Governments of Sweden (14 May 2013) and Germany (3 June 2013) for the importation of armoured vehicles intended solely for diplomatic protection.<sup>38</sup> Within the current terms of the sanctions regime, such notification for outsourcing security details in Somalia ought to constitute "best practices".

80. The Monitoring Group recommends that the Security Council should explicitly clarify whether the measures imposed by paragraph 5 of resolution 733 (1992) and further elaborated by paragraphs 1 and 2 of resolution 1425 (2002) are to be applied to deliveries of weapons or military equipment or the provision of assistance, intended solely to provide security, escort and protection services in Somalia to personnel from the international diplomatic community.

Training, technical advice, financial and other assistance to Somaliland security forces

81. The Monitoring Group understands that the United Kingdom Government has been providing operational training, technical and financial assistance to Somaliland security services, and specifically to the Rapid Response Unit (RRU) of the Somaliland Police. Since March 2012, this assistance has included the presence in Somaliland of British security/military personnel in an operational advising capacity, in addition to the provision of supplies and training on security and stockpile management notified to the Committee and subsequently approved.<sup>39</sup>

82. Furthermore, the Monitoring Group understands that the British consultancy firm Adam Smith International, contracted by the Department for International Development of the United Kingdom, conducted in early 2012 a training programme in support of security institutions in Somaliland, which included training sessions for Somaliland security officials in Somalia and abroad. On 19 April 2013, the Monitoring Group sent a letter to the Government of the United Kingdom requesting clarification and additional information.

Technical and financial assistance to the Somali Federal Presidency security details

83. The Monitoring Group also understands that the United Kingdom Government has been supporting since September 2012 a programme aimed at improving the security details of the President of the Federal Government of Somalia and the physical security of Villa Somalia, which included a global assessment of the security access and perimeter of the Presidential palace, the President's security details, and the implementation of a training programme for the President's advisers. On 19 April 2013, the Monitoring Group sent a letter to the Government of the United Kingdom requesting clarification and additional information.

84. On 28 June 2013, the United Kingdom mission to the United Nations confirmed the provision by its Government of training, technical and financial assistance to Somali security sector institutions, as described above, and provided additional information to the Monitoring Group. The United Kingdom Government considers the provision of assistance in support of police operations to be consistent with the United Nations Security Council resolutions on Somalia. The Monitoring Group, however, understands that police forces in Somalia form part of the Somali Security Sector institutions as referred to in paragraph 11(b) of resolution 1772 and therefore fall within the scope of the exemption framework.

United Nations Political Office for Somalia

85. According to a report of the UN Secretary-General on Somalia to the Security Council dated 22 August 2012, "on 7 May [2012], UNPOS delivered to the Somali police force equipment provided through funding from the Government of Japan. The equipment included 19 vehicles, 1,800 items of police equipment (helmets and handcuffs) and key communications equipment".<sup>40</sup>

86. Moreover, in a draft report to the Secretary-General dated 6 May 2013, the Monitoring Group learnt that "critical equipment and logistical, support will be provided to the Somali Government in May [2013]. This is particularly important as it provides for institutional capacity-building of the Ministry of Interior and National Security (MINS), the SPF, and strengthening local level security sector coordination arrangements (regional and district security committees), particularly in recovered areas".

87. The Monitoring Group is unaware of any notification from UNPOS to the Committee concerning support to Somali security sector institutions, since November 2011.<sup>41</sup> Furthermore, the Monitoring Group did not receive any reply to requests for additional information addressed to the head of the Security Sector Development office of UNPOS.<sup>42</sup>

88. Therefore, since January 2012, UNPOS has provided Somali security forces with vehicles, and police and communication equipment, in technical violation of the arms embargo on Somalia.

United States

89. In addition to recent media reporting,<sup>43</sup> the Monitoring Group received information from several diplomatic and military sources in Kenya and Somalia that the United States Government continues to provide support to the National Intelligence Security Agency in Mogadishu and to the Puntland Intelligence Service (PIS) in Bosaso and Galkayo.

90. Between 14 September 2010 and 30 March 2013, the Monitoring Group counted 236 flights to Somalia operated by Prescott Support Co. and RAM Air Services, mostly originating from Djibouti and bound for Bosaso and Galkayo, and sometimes Mogadishu. In response to its enquiry sent on 1 June 2011 by the Permanent Mission of the United States to the United Nations,<sup>44</sup> the Monitoring

Group understands that these two U.S.-based private air companies operate flights to Somalia on behalf of the U.S. Government in support of Somali security sector institutions.

91. More specifically, Prescott Support Co. conducted 50 flights between 14 September 2010 and 9 November 2012 with a Lockheed L-100-30 Hercules (382G) bearing United States registration N-3755P (see annex 6.2.d.). Considering the average payload of this aircraft, the delivery capacity of these flights amounts to about 1,000 tons of equipment and supplies.

92. The Monitoring Group observed that, between November 2012 and December 2012, the main base of the Puntland Intelligence Service located north of Galkayo has upgraded its facilities with two additional buildings, as illustrated by the photographs below.

Aerial photographs of Puntland Intelligence Service camp located north of Galkayo, taken on 11 November 2012 (left) and 9 December 2012 (right)

93. The construction of these two buildings during the month of November 2012 coincides with four Prescott Support Co. L-100-30 flights that landed at Galkayo airport between 3 and 9 November 2012, and constituted a load capacity of up to 80 tons of cargo.

94. In addition during the same period, the Monitoring Group counted 186 flights operated by RAM Air Services to Somalia with a Saab 340 bearing U.S. registration number N-702RS, including 139 flights from Djibouti to Bosaso, 27 flights to Galkayo, 4 flights to Mogadishu, and 10 flights from Wilson airport in Nairobi to Mogadishu (see annex 6.2.d).

Saab 340 registered N-702RS at Djibouti airport, on 21 September 2011

95. On one occasion, the Monitoring Group received uncorroborated information about the boarding at Galkayo airport of a handcuffed and blindfolded passenger, accompanied by several other individuals. However, the United States Government has not replied to date to the Monitoring Group's request for additional information, including the passenger list, flight plan and cargo manifest, concerning that flight.<sup>45</sup>

96. The Monitoring Group is unaware of any notification to the Committee from the United States Government concerning support to the Somali National Intelligence and Security Agency and the Puntland Intelligence Service, and on 16 May 2012, 31 December 2012 and 16 April 2013, requested additional information.<sup>46</sup> No reply has yet been forthcoming.

Annex 6.3: Private security companies

Mogadishu

1. For companies providing security details in Mogadishu to official guests of the FGS, it is the understanding of the Monitoring Group that the Permanent Mission of the Somali Republic to the United Nations in New York bears the responsibility for notifying the Committee established pursuant to resolutions 751 (1992) and 1907 (2009) concerning Somalia and Eritrea (hereafter "the Committee"), in accordance with paragraphs 33 and 38 of resolution 2093 (2013), as arguably it represents a form of support to the FGS security sector.

2. In fact, temporarily outsourcing escort services to duly licensed private companies would avoid devoting scarce resources of the Somali Police Force, in terms of manpower, equipment and vehicles, to the protection of foreign guests, and instead reserve these resources for the protection of the Somali people, as stated in paragraph 33 of resolution 2093.

Tacforce International

3. The Monitoring Group has received testimonies from Nairobi-based diplomats regarding their experience in planning security details for movements between Mogadishu International Airport and Villa Somalia. AMISOM refuses to provide support, despite an unambiguousness mandate and repeated requests from the Security Council to establish "without further delay" a guard force to provide security, escort and protection services to personnel from the international community.<sup>1</sup> Consequently, diplomatic missions request the assistance of the Somali Ministry of Foreign Affairs, which directs them to Tacforce International (see annex 6.2). In an earlier letter dated 3 April 2012, addressed to "UN Agencies" and "International NGO's", then Minister of Interior and National Security, Abdisamad Mohamud Hassan, "strongly support[ed] the use of Tacforce International by all foreign companies wishing to conduct business in Somalia for all security and life support requirements" (see annex 6.3.a).

4. Despite these credentials, the Monitoring Group has established that Tacforce International, a security company based in Dubai and managed by two ex-military Australian nationals, imported into Somalia in February 2013 a B6-type armoured vehicle in violation of the arms embargo, and with the complicity of Somali officials from the National Intelligence and Security Agency (NISA) and the Ministry of Foreign Affairs (see annexes 6.2, 6.2.c and 6.3.a). At an unknown date, it also imported a certain number of flak jackets and military helmets.

5. At its own initiative, the Monitoring Group briefed the Chief Executive Officer of Tacforce International, Arjen Valkenburg, on the sanctions regime on Somalia and its exemption procedures prior to the importation of the vehicle.<sup>2</sup> Therefore, the Monitoring Group notes that Tacforce International disregarded the arms embargo restrictions imposed by Security Council resolutions, as well as the potential implications of violations.

6. In addition, the Monitoring Group notes with concerns that members of the international community are contracting security companies operating with protective clothing and non-lethal military equipment imported in violation of the arms embargo on Somalia.

G4S Security Services

7. G4S Security Services is currently providing protection to United Kingdom diplomatic premises and personnel with weapons, ammunition and military equipment imported into Somalia for the purpose.

8. As stated in annex 6.2, the Monitoring Group recommends that the Security Council should explicitly clarify whether the measures imposed by paragraph 5 of resolution 733 (1992) and further elaborated by paragraphs 1 and 2 of resolution 1425 (2002) are to be applied to deliveries of weapons or military equipment or the provision of assistance, intended solely to provide security, escort and protection services in Somalia to personnel from the international diplomatic community.

Supreme Fuels

9. Supreme Fuels, a branch of the US Supreme Group with headquarters in the Netherlands, is contracted by UNSOA to provide fuel to AMISOM. On 8 April 2011, the Monitoring Group conducted a field inspection mission to Supreme Fuel's compound in Mogadishu and assessed, in terms of compliance with the sanctions regime, the security details employed by Supreme's security contractor, Compass integrated security solutions.<sup>3</sup>

10. The Monitoring Group was informed by a source with extensive knowledge of the security business in Mogadishu that in early 2012, Supreme Fuel contracted a new company, reportedly called "Sandar", to provide Supreme Fuels staff and premises with security. According to the same source, "Sandar" would be locally registered but staffed with international security officers, and owned by one Dany Richard. Richard is associated with Supreme's Fuels local partner and landlord, the businessman Mohamed Duale, who owns a local company called Nation Wide Enterprise.<sup>4</sup>

11. The Monitoring Group has received first-hand reports of "Sandar" personnel carrying assault rifles in Mogadishu in early 2012, as well as information regarding the importation into Somalia of protective equipment in violation of the arms embargo.<sup>5</sup> Notably, "Sandar" is not a known registered company, it does not have any website, contact details or legal footprint, and it has not signed the International Code of Conduct for Private Security Service Providers (ICoC).

12. In a letter dated 20 May 2013, Supreme Fuels acknowledged the fact that "the subcontracted security team [was] carrying weapons to protect staff working or visiting outside of the wire".<sup>6</sup> However, Supreme Fuels failed to provide the Monitoring Group with the name and contacts details of its security contractor in Mogadishu, a copy of its commercial registration and operating license or permit issued by the competent authorities in Somalia for security companies, a description of the current security details in place and a list of any weapons, ammunition and military equipment imported into Somalia.<sup>7</sup>

13. Since UN and AMISOM efforts in Somalia could be associated with foreign armed personnel operating outside any legal framework, the Monitoring Group recommends that the UN Department of Field Support takes the necessary steps to mitigate the potential for a reputational risk.

Observations

14. The Monitoring Group urges diplomatic missions, international and regional organisations, international NGOs and private entities and individuals, to ensure prior to contracting a security provider in Somalia that the company is operating in compliance with Security Council resolutions on Somalia.

15. The Monitoring Group also recommends that the Federal Department of Foreign Affairs of the Swiss Confederation should not permit as signatories of the ICoC those companies that are acting or have acted in violation of Security Council resolutions, according to reports of the Monitoring Group and other Panels of Experts mandated by the Security Council to monitor sanctions regimes. For those companies already signatories of the ICoC that violate Security Council resolutions, the Monitoring Group recommends that the members of the ICoC Temporary Steering Committee implement independent governance and oversight mechanisms and take the necessary action as soon as possible thereafter.

Somaliland

16. With the assistance of the Special Police Unit (SPU) of Somaliland, the Olive Group is responsible for the protection of the operations of Genel Energy, an Anglo-Turkish oil company registered in Jersey (see annex 5.5). During a meeting with the Monitoring Group, representatives of Genel Energy detailed the security measures and procedures implemented by the Olive Group to protect expatriate staff and operations in Burao, capital of the Toghdheer region of Somalia.<sup>8</sup> In addition, Genel Energy has invited the Monitoring Group to assess its compounds and operations in Somaliland.

17. The Monitoring Group expressed its reservations to Genel Energy representatives with regards to the following:

- The payment of funds directly to SPU soldiers constitutes a form of financial support to the Somali security sector in violation of Security Council resolution 1425 (2005); and
- The importation of radio equipment and vehicles temporary allocated to the SPU assigned to Genel Energy security details is in violation of resolution 733 (1992).

18. In its previous report, the Monitoring Group noted similar violations regarding the activities in Puntland of Africa Oil/Horn Petroleum/Canmex and their security provider, Pathfinder Corporation.<sup>9</sup> However, as in the case of Pathfinder's operations in Puntland, the transparency of Genel Energy and its efforts to comply with the sanctions regime represent "best practices" for private companies in Somalia.

Puntland

Sterling Corporate Services

19. In July 2012, Sterling Corporate Services (SCS), that was providing training, technical assistance and support to the Puntland Maritime Police Force (PMPF) in violation of the sanctions regime on Somalia, departed from Puntland. Donors in the United Arab Emirates had interrupted funding of the programme, which had been initiated in March 2010 by Erik Dean Prince and Lafras Luitingh.<sup>10</sup>

20. However, Rudolph "Roelf" van Heerden, the former PMPF operations manager, remained behind as a project consultant with a team of 14 expatriates to oversee the maintenance of the PMPF base, vehicles, boats and aircraft, in anticipation of a new sponsor adopting the programme.

Pathfinder Corporation

21. Following the end of drilling at Shabeel 1 and Shabeel north sites, in the Dharoor block located south of Bosaso, most of the officers of the Exploration Security Units protecting Africa Oil were demobilised under the supervision of Pathfinder Corporation expatriates in Bosaso.

22. On 30 April 2013, Pathfinder Corporation staff departed from Puntland after the suspension of its contract with Africa Oil. The Monitoring Group understands that the equipment temporarily issued to the Puntland Police Exploration Security Unit, including vehicles and radio equipment, has since been subsumed under the responsibility of Canmex, Horn Petroleum and ultimately Africa Oil.

Specialist Marine Services (SMS)

23. On 21 May 2013, the Monitoring Group received an email communication from Steven Platt, company director of Specialist Marine Services Limited, describing the current activities of his company in the Galmudug state of Somalia.<sup>11</sup>

24. A presentation entitled "Military Training Program" was attached to the email communication, which details a training programme for the Galmudug Armed Forces (GAF), the Galmudug Maritime Forces (GMF), the Galmudug Marine Commando (GMC) and the Special Forces Operation Group (SFOG) (see annex 6.3.b). According to this document, the mission of the Armed Forces of Galmudug is "to protect Somali interests both at home and abroad, executing the Foreign and Defence Policies of the Galmudug State Government through the exercise of military actions, along with diplomatic activities in support of GAF objectives".

Steven Platt at Galkayo airtport, unknown date

25. In his email, Steven Platt also stated the following:

As its stands the region has little or no support with SMS Ltd making a huge contribution with regards to training, supplying of kit, equipment and uniforms to the armed forces and bringing medical aid to the area.

26. On 21 May 2013, the Monitoring Group requested additional information to the company with regards to the provision of training and equipment.<sup>12</sup> According to the response received, <sup>13</sup> SMS confirmed the deployment of a five-man expatriate team in Galkayo, which "started to carry out military training of the Galmudug Armed Forces", and provided copies of letters signed by President 'Qeybdid', including an authorization letter to carry weapons (see annex 6.3.b). SMS also informed the Monitoring Group of the provision of the following military equipment:

Military Kit & Equipment

- 27. We have currently arranged for 600 complete military uniforms, this includes:
  - a. Combat Shirt (x2 per member)
  - b. Combat Jacket (x2 per member)
  - c. Combat Vest (x2 per member)
  - d. Combat Trousers (x2 per member)
  - e. Socks
  - f. Tactical Boots
- 28. In addition we have also made the following available:
  - g. Body Armour/Assault System
  - h. Armour Plates (x2 per member)

29. We now realise that given the interest we will require more uniforms and ECT. We have also arranged for the following communication systems:

- 1. Personal Radio Systems (Handheld) 210
- 2. Vehicle Radio Systems 100
- 3. Ops Room Radio Systems 10
- 4. Personal Radio Systems (Handheld) Marine 100
- 5. Marine Assets Radio System 50
- 6. Satellite Mobile Phone & Antenna

30. According to Steven Platt, SMS spent to date from its own budget 320,000 USD. SMS also plans to construct a military camp in southern Galkayo, and to train up to 1500 soldiers.

31. The provision of such training, assistance and equipment to "military forces" of the Galmudug State of Somalia by Specialist Marine Services and Steven Platt constitute a large-scale violation of the general and complete arms embargo on Somalia, established pursuant to Security Council resolutions 733 (1992) and 1425 (2002).

Kismayo

Atlantean Worldwide

32. On 27 September 2012, Atlantean Worldwide was incorporated in Arlington, Virginia, U.S.A. Atlantean has established a partnership with the Kismayo Development Authority (KDA), which is reportedly a political extension of the Ras Kamboni militia that operates alongside the Kenya Defence Forces (KDF) contingent of AMISOM.<sup>14</sup> Atlantean has no relationship with the FGS in Mogadishu and is not registered as a legal business with Somali authorities.

- 33. According to its website, Atlantean provides the following services:
  - Government services: include "intelligence support services", and "an extensive library of exportable training curriculums" with "on-the-job" mentoring and train-the-trainer programs;
  - Capacity building: includes training, advising, and consulting on topics such as "human security, counter-terrorism, maritime and border control, anti-poaching, [and] counternarcotics";
  - Risk management: includes "risk management consulting to help businesses minimize their security and reputational exposure", while Atlantean's "presence in Kenya and Somalia allows us to rapidly create operational security, intelligence, and response packages for oil and gas companies in emerging markets in East Africa"; <sup>15</sup> and
  - Camp operations: include accommodation for 60 persons at Camp Kismayo, and extra services such as flight charters to and from Wilson Airport in Nairobi, and help to "arrange security escorts for camp guests wishing to explore Kismayo 'outside of the wire,' visiting sites in and around the city".<sup>16</sup>

Screenshot of Atlantean's website, featuring KDF/AMISOM convoy in Kismayo, accessed at http://atlanteanworldwide.com/riskmanagement/ on 7 May 2013.

34. The President of Atlantean, Laura Engelbrecht, was previously president of the US-branch of a UK-based and Guernsey-registered intelligence-led security services company, New Century Corporation, headed by Colonel (retired) Tim Collins and co-owned by Michael Grunberg. Grunberg is also a shareholder, with Anthony "Tony" Buckingham and Lafras Luitingh, of Saracen Uganda, the company primarily involved with Erik Dean Prince in establishing the training programme for the Puntland Marine Force in Bosaso.<sup>17</sup> Furthermore, the offices of both Atlantean and New Century

(US) are located in the same building, at 1000 Wilson Boulevard, Arlington, Virginia. However, according to New Century, there is no formal or financial relationship between the two companies.<sup>18</sup>

35. According to its website, Atlantean's leadership team is mainly composed of ex-military personnel, including David "Thor" McNevin, the former US Defence Attaché in Nairobi, and Kevin Stockton, who served with US Army Special Operations, the 75th Ranger Regiment and "a Special Mission Unit".<sup>19</sup> The company also includes as a member of the Board of Directors, US Army Major General (retired) William "Bill" Garrison, a Vietnam veteran and commander of "Task Force Ranger" in Mogadishu in 1993.<sup>20</sup>

36. Notwithstanding indications that Atlantean was designed to operate in Kismayo as a security company, and testimonies from UN officials that Atlantean "is offering a number of services including accommodation support and security escort services to United Nations entities",<sup>21</sup> Laura Engelbrecht stated in a letter to the Monitoring Group that Atlantean is "not operating a security company".<sup>22</sup> (See also annex 6.3.c.)

37. Engelbrecht also stated that "we are intending to use HESCO-type barriers to place around the perimeter of our Camp", while the Monitoring Group has photographic evidence from January 2013 showing that HESCO-type walls were erected months before the letter was sent.

Atlantean's "Camp Kismayo" on 12 April 2013, with HESCO-type barriers visible in the background.

38. In addition, Atlantean failed to provide the Monitoring Group, despite several requests, with the packing lists and cargo manifests of a shipment delivered at Kismayo port by Alpha Logistics in

December 2012, and with the characteristics of vehicles pending exportation to Somalia at the time of writing.<sup>23</sup>

39. Currently, the Monitoring Group has not found evidence of a clear violation of the sanction regime by Atlantean. However, it considers that Atlantean is obscuring the motives behind its presence in Somalia and the scope of its business interests in order to appear to be in compliance with the sanctions regime. Consequently, the activities of Atlantean should be closely monitored in the future.

Annex 7

Obstruction of humanitarian assistance

Annex 7.1: Denial of access and attacks on aid workers (STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL)  $^{\ast}$

* The annex has not been reproduced in the pesent document because it is strictly confidential.

Annex 7.2: Diversion and misappropriation of humanitarian assistance

Diversion by Al-Shabaab

1. Few international agencies still work in Al-Shabaab controlled areas for two reasons. First, Al-Shabaab has lost significant ground in the past twelve months and redeployed from major towns to mostly rural areas. Second, Al-Shabaab has banned the vast majority of international organisations from operating in areas under its control. Nevertheless, a few international and national non-governmental organisations (NGOs) are still able to work in some Al-Shabaab strongholds. They face challenges of coordinating with local authorities while trying to ensure that resources do not get diverted from intended beneficiaries.

2. Agencies who have worked or still work in Al-Shabaab areas report similar experiences. To implement a programme they must coordinate with local authorities and ensure their support. Some NGOs described that they had to halt their projects before even beginning since the authorities attempted to influence the targeting of beneficiaries, at times up to half of them, and replace them with their supporters.<sup>1</sup> Others have struggled to refuse to pay direct taxes to Al-Shabaab who demanded either a lump sum 'registration fee' or a percentage of the value of the project, or both. In addition, Al-Shabaab has occupied the compounds and warehouses of many NGOs they have banned.

3. The payment of taxes to Al-Shabaab is a sensitive issue for humanitarian agencies because of the legal and ethical implications. While most agencies are adamant that they have not paid direct taxes to Al-Shabaab authorities, many admit off-the-record to having reimbursed their national staff when they did, or to having actually increased national salaries to make up for the taxes imposed on them by Al-Shabaab authorities.<sup>2</sup> In some cases, beneficiaries were taxed by Al-Shabaab with the full knowledge of local and international agencies responsible for the programmes. Donors, including the European Union and the United States, are fully aware of the price to pay for operating in Al-Shabaab receipt of their funds.<sup>3</sup> Doing so results in a tacit "don't ask, don't tell" policy between donors and the agencies they fund whereby the agencies ultimately bear the reputational and legal risks of resources leaking to Al-Shabaab.

"A protection emergency"

4. Diversion of aid in Somalia goes well beyond the theft of goods or resources destined to vulnerable populations. Indeed, one of the most pernicious forms of diversion continues to involve the phenomenon documented in the previous report of the Monitoring Group.<sup>4</sup> Individuals and groups, operating in networks organized to steal from and exploit vulnerable populations, including internally displaced persons (IDPs), continue to act as 'gatekeepers' and ensure that local 'pie-cutting' remains an essential component of aid delivery. Consequently, a large proportion of resources do not reach the intended beneficiaries. In addition, some gatekeepers are responsible for grave violations of human rights, including sexual violence and the mistreatment of vulnerable civilians. International assistance often fuels a cycle of abuse as aid organisations engage with gatekeepers for lack of an alternative. According to a senior UN humanitarian official, "Somalia is a protection emergency of endemic proportions, where civilians are held hostages by all of us".<sup>5</sup>

5. Although gatekeepers are not new to Somalia, the system of control has become more sophisticated and pervasive in the past few years. This has been the direct result of the inability of international staff to access many parts of the country, as well as deteriorating humanitarian conditions that led to massive influxes of aid since 2006. In and around Mogadishu in particular, business networks have flourished around locations where IDPs have fled. The Somali Government and the international humanitarian community allowed IDPs to settle where they could and for hundreds of IDP camps to emerge in the capital, instead of establishing organised camps. As a result, landowners, district leaders or influential individuals have been able to offer IDPs services in exchange for money.<sup>6</sup>

6. The perpetual inability of Somali authorities to provide assistance and security to IDPs strengthened the hold of gatekeepers and their affiliated militias. Some gatekeepers charge IDPs reasonable sums of money for rent and the provision of security, while others exploit them and divert the assistance provided by international and local aid groups. Indeed, human rights organisations have documented a plethora of examples of economic exploitation, ranging from the misappropriation of food aid, to looting by militias and diversion by gatekeepers, and district and other officials.<sup>7</sup> Moreover, gatekeepers are responsible for human rights violations, such as preventing IDPs from leaving their camps, allowing for sexual abuse, and punishing those who complain.<sup>8</sup>

7. The subject of gatekeepers is a sensitive one amongst the international humanitarian community as agencies are often reluctant to confront protection and accountability issues for fear of losing access or funding. While some agencies respond by conducting thorough assessments involving local authorities and establishing stringent monitoring of their programmes, others continue to deal with gatekeepers without realizing or questioning their modus operandi. Security concerns associated with gatekeepers have all too often justified the degree of diversion and exploitation in Somalia. In the words of a senior humanitarian official: "The narrative of many agencies has nothing to do with the reality, where non-delivery and sub-standard programmes are the rule, not the exception".

8. Diversion of funds by gatekeepers is endemic. For example, the Monitoring Group has obtained evidence showing the existence of 'ghost camps' that are operated by gatekeepers and supported by international assistance. One such camp in the Karaan District of Mogadishu was supposedly home to 3200 families and supported since 2011 by UN agencies. In April 2012, UN officials visited the camp and found in addition to the gatekeepers only a few women present with 20 to 30 shelters occupied by watchmen. There were some fires in the camp, but no signs of cooking. All the latrines were dry, indicating the absence of habitation. During a following visit a few weeks later, still no people were found in the camp, though the latrines were wet.<sup>10</sup> In another IDP camp in Wadajir, the district commissioner sought to obtain funding from a UN agency for a project already funded by another.<sup>11</sup>

9. Although such cases are often documented and known to humanitarian agencies, they sometimes ignore them due to preoccupations with spending existing funds and securing future grants rather than ensuring accountability either to donors or beneficiaries. In the absence of common operating standards or even informal agreements amongst the aid community on addressing gatekeepers, agencies willing to adopt a principled approach feel they are taking the major risks without any benefits. Indeed, while donors have stressed the need for increased transparency and accountability, they have not supported or promoted principled actors or provided many incentives for agencies to systematically tackle the problems of diversion.<sup>12</sup>

10. One initiative by the Somali Government to reduce the influence of gatekeepers entails a plan to establish up to three large, organized IDP camps in Mogadishu, where the IDPs can relocate under the protection of the Ministry of Interior and with the assistance of the international community. Despite the logistical difficulties of relocation, including an unrealistic timetable, the plan aims to stem the proliferation of IDP camps in the city and develop reliable profile data about IDPs, which have been root causes of the gatekeeper phenomenon. This initiative would provide the international community and aid groups with a single interlocutor, the Ministry of Interior, responsible for IDPs, thereby increasing accountability towards both beneficiaries and donors. There are doubts about the Government's ability to provide security. NonethelessUN agencies now largely support the initiative in the hope of establishing higher standards of protection and assistance as well as encouraging IDPs to relocate. According to a senior UN official: "There is no camp management in Somalia because everybody benefitted from the chaos, including us [humanitarian agencies]. The chaos meant not having to account".<sup>13</sup>

Diversion and fraud by staff and partners

11. Despite the significant challenges posed by gatekeepers to the international humanitarian community, they are only one component of a larger predicament. As different parts of Somalia have become more accessible in recent months, aid agencies have managed to visit the locations of programmes they have been funding through local Somali implementing partners, in some cases for years. Ground observations and greater third party monitoring have often revealed shocking truths about the lack of implementation and low quality of programmes. According to a senior UN official, "the disconnect between the rhetoric of some UN agencies and NGOs and what has actually been happening at local level is enormous".<sup>14</sup>

12. The detachment of reporting from reality was certainly affected by inaccessibility, but there are other explanations. Some agencies violated basic standards of risk management in the interest of continued operations in certain areas. While the 2011-2012 famine created conditions of duress under which agencies felt compelled and pressured by donors to act regardless of the risks, safeguards continued to be absent well past the end of the emergency. One example is the Common Humanitarian Fund (CHF), managed by the UN Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs (OCHA), which has disbursed since 2010 over 250 million USD of funding in Somalia without ensuring accountability. With 112 local partners selected through the cluster system, the CHF was designed to respond to emergencies by operating where others do not, but with limited knowledge of the risks. To its credit, since the beginning of 2013, OCHA has been requiring each partner to undergo a capacity assessment in order to become eligible for funding. In addition, it is developing a monitoring strategy and a mentoring system for local partners that carry risks but could become more reliable with training and capacity building.<sup>15</sup>

13. Despite evidence of fraud and diversion across organisations, a culture of denial persists, wherein aid agencies are reluctant to admit the misconduct by their staff and partners. Nevertheless, in the last year, individual UN agencies and NGOs have adopted mechanisms to mitigate risks posed by implementation through multiple layers of sub-contracting. By means of direct monitoring, third party monitoring, remote sensing through satellite imagery, call centres and other methods, some agencies have been able to set a higher standard of accountability. Once oversight and monitoring mechanisms are in place, most agencies find issues of concern with some of their programmes and partners. Indeed, uncovering evidence of diversion is generally a sign that humanitarian agencies are striving for accountability and not the opposite, especially after years of remote management and lax systems.

14. The UN Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO), for instance, is constantly monitoring its activities in Somalia through a set of risk mitigation measures and no new activity is started without review of the risks and its mitigation. FAO has started systematically using satellite imagery for its infrastructure and rehabilitation monitoring activities in high-risk and inaccessible areas, which has enabled it to identify irregularities and establish further mechanisms to address them. Following investigation, FAO was able to establish that one of its partners failed to implement the project for which it was contracted, and misreported to FAO about the work performed, the duration of the project, as well as the number of beneficiaries involved. Investigations by FAO further revealed that some of its partners had colluded in drafting of their proposals for different locations, using the same language and figures in their attempt to secure grants.<sup>16</sup>

15. Similarly, the UN High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) has identified problematic partners in its efforts to increase transparency. In 2011, for example, UNHCR contracted the Somali Minority Rights and Aids Forum (SOMRAF) to undertake a research project on minority clans in Somalia. The organisation failed to deliver the agreed product and stopped responding to communications from UNHCR, which subsequently sought restitution. The UN blacklisted SOMRAF through its Risk Management Unit (RMU) database, thereby strongly encouraging all UN agencies to refrain from engaging with them. In addition, UNHCR took action against two of its implementing partners engaged in the distribution of non-food items (NFIs), the International Islamic Relief Organization (IIRO) and JUMBO, for a significant percentage of diversion of NFIs from intended beneficiaries (ranging from 35 to 70% in the case of JUMBO).<sup>17</sup>

16. Obstacles still block the achievement of optimal levels of risk management, accountability and transparency. Agencies report that when they share their concerns regarding diversion with their donors, the responses and reactions do not encourage further openness. Each member of the donor community in Somalia abides by the legal regulations of their home capitals, preventing a consistent approach to the diversion of aid. Some donors require full restitution from their grantees in cases of diversion while others are more flexible when an agency acted in good faith. Some donors are legally bound to obtain all details in cases of diversion while levels of investigation conducted by individual agencies satisfy others. Aid organisations complain of unfairness when they are asked to assume risks that are well known and tacitly accepted by donors. This, combined with a lack of consistency, does not foster a culture of openness and leads to opaque reporting about programme implementation. Donors are aware of this fact. Indeed, a major donor told to the Monitoring Group about a UN agency admitting a case of diversion: "it would have been easier had they not said anything. Now, we are stuck with this".<sup>18</sup>

17. Separate from donors, the humanitarian community lacks a consistent approach to accountability. Conditions are better than two years ago, in part due to the establishment of the RMU and more creative monitoring by some UN agencies and NGOs. Nevertheless, existing mechanisms need to be strengthened. There are still cases of UN agencies hiring employees dismissed for fraud by other agencies. Moreover, the risk advice and assessments of the RMU are not adopted systematically since they are not compulsory for individual UN agencies. For example, the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) has continued to use a local partner, DIAL, that has been blacklisted by the RMU.<sup>19</sup> Furthermore, each UN agency and NGO has developed different contracting procedures and language for hiring implementing partners. Consequently, not all implementing partners are legally bound to disclose their use of subcontractors, which are not obliged to cooperate with investigations. Particularly problematic is the absence of or inadequate termination clauses in many contracts. The Monitoring Group has been consistently informed by various UN agencies that should a contractor deliver on programme implementation, they will not dismiss it unless they have been designated by the Security Council for targeted sanctions, regardless of evidence of misconduct presented by the Monitoring Group or possible reputational risk for the UN deriving from lack of action on the matter.<sup>20</sup>

Best practices

18. At present, the UN Risk Management Unit for Somalia is the most substantial effort made by any UN country team to mitigate risks of aid delivery. Established in 2011, the RMU is separately funded and operates under the umbrella of the UN Resident and Humanitarian Coordinator's Office, thereby ensuring its independence and credibility. The RMU supports UN development and humanitarian agencies, their partners, donors and other stakeholders by performing several key functions with tools designed to enhance risk management.

19. The RMU undertakes risk monitoring in Somalia upon the request of individual UN agencies. The aim of field visits is to assess the implementation of programmes and identify potential or existing problems. Moreover, either on its own initiative or upon request, the RMU conducts risk analysis of UN partners and contractors to help inform contracting decisions by the agencies. It also provides risk management training to UN staff, partners and donors. Most notably, the RMU established the Contractor Information Management System (CIMS), a database to facilitate information sharing, enhance due diligence and improve the management of contractors in Somalia. The database currently holds information on over 1200 contractors and over 485 million USD worth of contracts. Also, a search facility has been introduced to check against UN consolidated lists of designated entities and individuals.

20. However, participation in the RMU CIMS is not mandatory and some of the smaller UN agencies have yet to share information about their contractors. The effectiveness of the CIMS also depends on the quality of the information provided by agencies and on their diligence in updating the database, which some do better than others. Furthermore, since the terms of contracts vary greatly across agencies, many contractors are not required to provide information on their partners or sub-contractors, creating a major loophole in the risk management system and undermining its ability to monitor the supply chain of implementation, a sensitive issue that had been a main rationale for establishing the RMU in the first place.<sup>21</sup> The RMU has recently engaged with the United Nations Development Group (UNDG) and the High Level Committee on Management (HLCM) to help address this issue at a UN global level.

21. Since the RMU is exclusively a mechanism for the UN Country Team, NGOs are not part of its remit, except when they are contracted by a UN agency. As a result, NGOs lack a comparable mechanism to independently assess risk, share information and introduce mitigating measures. Better information sharing between the RMU and the NGO community can help with access to risk assessments and RMU advice, but to date this has been ad hoc due to resources and mandate. Nevertheless, many NGOs have themselves improved risk management frameworks with better

One such example is the adoption by the Somalia Cash Consortium of a common approach to risk mitigation.<sup>23</sup>

Risk management in practice

The AFREC case

22. Founded in 1992, the African Rescue Committee (AFREC) is a Somali NGO and a registered company in Kenya, Somalia and the U.S.A. In recent years, AFREC has been a partner of several UN agencies and international NGOs, mostly implementing projects in Lower Juba, which was largely inaccessible to international staff and monitors until recently. In September 2012, the UN had registered in the CMIS over 11 million USD worth of contracts with AFREC.<sup>24</sup> UN-funded projects included cash assistance for vulnerable families, education support for vulnerable communities, and safe water projects, entailing rehabilitation of wells and construction of latrines. Contracts between international NGOs and AFREC that had not been funded by a UN agency were not included in the CIMS.

23. On 14 September 2012, upon the request of UN partners and following worrying reports from third party monitors, the RMU undertook a preliminary risk assessment that included a field visit to Lower Juba to determine whether AFREC has indeed implemented the projects for which it had been contracted and filed reports. The RMU mission visited the locations of the GPS coordinates provided by AFREC to assess the status of implementation. In one community, where AFREC was supposed to have built latrines and established a mobile health clinic, the elders informed the mission that no such work had been done. Furthermore, the GPS coordinates provided by AFREC for both UNICEF and CHF projects were exactly the same and located in a vacant area at the base of a hill. The RMU did identify a problem with the CHF process that may have explained why the GPS coordinates were the same and inaccurate. However, in another community, where AFREC was supposed to have built latrines and wells, the mission found no signs of construction. Overall, while some project components were verified, the mission found major issues of concern both in terms of quality and degree of actual implementation.<sup>25</sup>

24. On 20 September 2012, the RMU conducted a second monitoring mission to another area of Lower Juba to assess AFREC's implementation of CHF projects. While a medical clinic run by AFREC was found to be operational, the RMU identified erroneous GPS coordinates that did not correspond to UN documentation, and found no evidence of the provision of mobile health services. In addition, an AFREC food distribution centre had apparently not distributed any food for several months, though it did dispense food vouchers funded by Care International during the mission's visit. Furthermore, the mission found in a warehouse a volume of UN-purchased or funded medical supplies, NFIs, education materials and water sanitation items that had been stored for a considerable period and/or removed from their packaging and strewn across the floor.<sup>26</sup> Further monitoring in Kismayo in November 2012 revealed similar problems with AFREC's implementation of CHF-funded projects.

25. On 27 September 2012, at the request of UN partners and the UN Resident and Humanitarian Coordinator's office, the RMU issued a risk report on AFREC. In assessing AFREC's performance in all its UN-funded programmes, the RMU established that although "AFREC appear to have delivered some aspects of the projects it is clear that AFREC's claimed achievements in all the projects listed here, do not reconcile with monitoring reporting from third-party monitors and the RMU monitoring team. It is apparent that there has been significant fraudulent reporting of performance by AFREC. It is possible that Force Majeure may impact programme activity in certain areas, but it does not explain the erroneous reporting submitted by AFREC and the failure to implement programme activities for all other areas".<sup>27</sup> The RMU further concluded that the fraud and diversion risks posed by AFREC were "extreme", and that there was a "very high" risk for the UN to continue working with AFREC.<sup>28</sup>

26. As a result of the RMU's findings, all UN agencies suspended their contracts with AFREC. Furthermore, due to suspected criminal actions by AFREC and its principal officers, the RMU entered into a memorandum of understanding with the UN Office of Internal Oversight Services (OIOS) that is normally mandated to investigate wrongdoing by UN Secretariat staff and represents an expansion of the investigative community scrutinizing international aid. At present, OIOS is investigating AFREC projects funded by the CHF, which may lead to criminal prosecution of the organisation and/or its key individuals, including its former executive director Abdi Ali Raghe. Preliminary investigations reveal over 2 million USD of funding was diverted by AFREC.<sup>29</sup>

The DIAL case

27. Between November 2012 and February 2013, the RMU conducted several monitoring missions to Kismayo to assess the status of implementation of UN-funded programmes by the Somali NGO, Development Initiative Access Link (DIAL). By the end of 2012, according to the CIMS, DIAL had received 6.1 million USD worth of contracts from the UN.<sup>30</sup> Third party monitors and other sources had levelled allegations against DIAL, including incomplete and 'fake' projects in Middle and Lower Juba, as well as diversion of UN funds by a senior staff member to fund a political campaign. In October 2012, these allegations prompted the CHF to suspend DIAL's contracts, but continued to use DIAL as a partner. UNICEF has felt that the mitigation measures it put in place and the lack of other partners in its area of operations justify the continuous use of DIAL, even though UNICEF acknowledges the high risk posed.<sup>31</sup>

28. The RMU's findings were inconclusive regarding some of the allegations, including diversion for political ends. However, it was able to establish the high likelihood of false reporting, diversion and fraud. Some of the achievements claimed by DIAL were untrue and expenditures claimed were false. Consequently, the RMU concluded that DIAL represented a "very high" risk for the UN, and it is currently pursuing the case to obtain further evidence.<sup>32</sup>

Violations of international humanitarian law

Annex 8.1: Attacks on civilians

Civilian harm caused by pro-Government forces

1. The capacity of the UN to monitor human rights violations, violations of international humanitarian law and the protection of civilians remains low. Lack of access to most of the country, combined with the opacity of military actors and the weakness of civil-military structures, have made it difficult to gather quantitative and qualitative data related to the conduct of hostilities. As such, the number of civilian deaths attributable to pro-Government forces is hard to ascertain. In the last few years, efforts were made to mitigate harm caused to civilians, notably through the African Union Mission in Somalia (AMISOM) Indirect Fire Policy adopted in 2011, and a close tracking firing mechanism. Nevertheless, civilians continue to be harmed during combat as a result of military movements and occupation, and simply as a consequence of the availability of weapons in Somalia.

2. Human rights organisations have managed to collect some information about civilian deaths caused by pro-Government forces, either through the legitimate conduct of hostilities, the use of disproportionate force or indiscriminate targeting in violation of international humanitarian law. Such incidents include the following:

- On 11 August 2012 in Kismayo, three civilians were killed apparently as a result of injuries inflicted by four shells fired by a Kenya Defence Forces (KDF) ship. Reports indicate that the shells hit civilian housing located by the sea.
- In Janay, close to Kismayo, another seven civilians were killed when they approached KDF positions while purchasing food in nearby shops.
- On 25 October 2012 in Lego, six civilians were killed when their bus was hit by crossfire between Al-Shabaab and AMISOM.
- Again on 15 January 2013 in Lego, six children were killed when AMISOM mistakenly fired at a madrasa (school).<sup>1</sup>

3. The situation is further complicated by the lack of structure of the Somali National Security Forces (SNSF), which consists of loosely assembled forces and militias without any real centralised command and control. Clan loyalties and side employment with private companies further undermine the principle of command responsibility within the Somali security forces. As a result, internal fighting amongst pro-Government forces is frequent and often results in civilian harm with impunity. Indeed, Government forces and affiliated militias have committed a range of abuses against civilians, including looting civilian areas, arbitrary arrests and detention, and sexual violence. Human rights groups, for instance, have documented violations committed by Ahlu Sunna wal Jama'a (ASWJ) upon their takeover of Bula Hawo in March 2012, when at least three civilians were executed and several hundred, including women and children, were arrested after a bomb attack.<sup>2</sup>

4. Moreover, civilians are often targeted for extortion. Reports collected by humanitarian and human rights agencies indicate that Somali Government soldiers and/or militia groups, after capturing a town in the course of military operations, routinely rounded-up young men, including children, on grounds of being affiliated with Al-Shabaab. Organisations working in these areas have consistently reported that such arrests are arbitrary and based on physical appearance or biased accusations. The actual motivation for such arrests seems not to be security but rather extortion. Apparently a fee, usually between 20 USD and 100 USD, buys the release of an arrested individual.<sup>3</sup> Also, reports are common about pro-Government forces proverbially establishing checkpoints to collect 'taxes' from the local population.<sup>4</sup>

5. AMISOM is a key provider of equipment, funds, training and leadership to the SNAF as well as some of its proxy forces. AMISOM works closely with Government-affiliated militias, instructing them when and where to report for the conduct of military operations, but does so outside any formal organisational structure. As a result, AMISOM has a duty to ensure that all forces fighting either directly with or on behalf of the Somali Government adheres to international humanitarian law. This obligation was acknowledged by the AMISOM Force Commander, Lieutenant General Andrew Gutti, who informed the Monitoring Group that "AMISOM considers itself responsible for the actions of all pro-Government soldiers".<sup>5</sup>

6. However, AMISOM itself is to some extent complicit in the violations committed by proxy forces. AMISOM continues to coordinate military operations with militias it knows are responsible for abuses against civilians. More directly, AMISOM transfers to such forces prisoners it has captured since its position is that it does not have the authority to detain individuals and therefore will not do so. Nevertheless, AMISOM has a residual duty of care to ensure that detainees it has transferred are not subjected to human rights abuses. In addition, further to the organisation-wide adoption of a Human Rights and Due Diligence Policy in July 2011, the UN has a duty to ensure that the entities it is supporting, including AMISOM, respect human rights and international humanitarian law.

7. AMISOM representatives told the Monitoring Group that the mission has mechanisms in place to address allegations of wrongdoing, including investigation procedures such as Boards of Inquiry, and sanctions in accordance with African Union and troop contributing countries' administrative and operational procedures. They further told the Monitoring Group that appropriate disciplinary measures are taken whenever soldiers are found guilty.<sup>6</sup> However, AMISOM and Somali security forces conduct such investigations without any presence of independent observers or experts. AMISOM does not release publicly or share the reports of its investigations.<sup>7</sup> The Monitoring Group is aware of only two Boards of Inquiry in the past 12 months. AMISOM did not share the reports of these inquiries with the Monitoring Group despite repeated requests.

8. Security Council resolution 2036 (2012) commended AMISOM's commitment to establish a Civilian Casualty Tracking, Analysis and Response Cell (CCTARC) that would track and investigate incidents of civilian harm, and provide compensation when required. The cell has yet to be established.

Civilian harm caused by Al-Shabaab

9. The indiscriminate use of force by Al-Shabaab continues to cause significant civilian harm. In 2012, Al Shabaab increased the use of victim-activated pressure plate improvised explosive devices (IEDs). According to UN Mine Action Service (UNMAS) data<sup>8</sup>, 28 IEDs detonated in Mogadishu during the course of 2011, resulting in 116 deaths out of 378 casualties. Between 1 January and 24 September 2012, the number of IEDs detonated in Mogadishu increased to 32, resulting in 62 deaths out of 235 casualties.

10. Civilian casualties resulting from suicide attacks have also increased significantly in 2012. In 2011, four attacks conducted by person-borne improvised explosive devices (PBIEDs) resulted in 11 civilian casualties. In 2012, four similar attacks resulted in 34 deaths out of 125 casualties. Although in principle the use of suicide vest attacks can be more targeted, they have been used indiscriminately against civilians. For example, on 21 September 2012, a double suicide attack against the Village Restaurant in Mogadishu resulted in 19 deaths. These figures are unlikely to go down in 2013 since an attack on the main court complex in Mogadishu on 14 April 2013 caused more than 35 deaths.

11. Targeted assassinations of civilians continue to form part of Al-Shabaab's modus operandi. Al-Shabaab has executed individuals perceived to be supportive of the Somali Government or AMISOM, often on suspicion of 'spying'.<sup>10</sup> Such killings are sometimes in the form of public executions, including beheadings. Al-Shabaab's assassination targets include politicians or local public figures supportive of the Somali Government.

12. In addition to killings of civilians, Al-Shabaab uses other methods of intimidation of civilian communities and private individuals. In areas under its control, Al-Shabaab establishes roadblocks, denying movement in and out of specific areas and imposes curfews. During the fighting for control of Kismayo and Marka in 2012, non-governmental organisations (NGOs) and UN agencies reported several incidents in which Al-Shabaab refused to allow civilians to flee the area. Instead, it used them as human shields. On 17 September 2012, for example, the UN documented an incident in which Al-Shabaab forced a minibus travelling from Kismayo to Jilib to turn back.<sup>11</sup> In another incident of 22 October 2012, Al-Shabaab was screening all trucks passing through Bulo Burte and denied passage to five trucks transporting Internally Displaced Persons (IDPs) returning from Garowe to southern Somalia.<sup>12</sup>

13. Al-Shabaab also imposes taxes on those individuals living in areas under its control, and the penalty for non-payment can range from public flogging to execution. In addition, Al-Shabaab uses threats and letters to intimidate those it suspects of supporting or working for pro-Government forces.<sup>13</sup>

Attacks on schools and hospitals

14. All parties to the conflict continue to target education and healthcare facilities. Lack of physical access in much of Somalia due to security concerns has made it difficult to determine the number of schools and hospitals attacked. Nevertheless, the UN has identified 84 incidents in 2012, including 72 attacks on schools and 12 attacks on hospitals. Most cases were allegedly perpetrated by Al-Shabaab (51 attacks), followed by the SNSF (14 attacks) and Ethiopian National Defence Forces (ENDF) (6 attacks). According to UN reports, Al-Shabaab was responsible for 11 of the 12 attacks on hospitals that were verified in 2012.

15. In September and October 2012, the UN verified 6 attacks on schools. The SNSF perpetrated 3 of these attacks in Banadir region and one in Hiran region, while Al-Shabaab was responsible for the other two in Bakol region. For example, on 15 September 2012, the SNSF converted Bunda Weyn primary school into a military base. This coincided with the commencement of the school semester and affected at least 130 pupils. On 6 October 2012, Al-Shabaab attacked a school in Rabdhuure district for the purposes of indoctrinating the children. 6 boys and one girl were recruited during the incident.<sup>15</sup>

16. In November and December 2012, the UN verified 6attacks on schools and their staff. The SNSF perpetrated three of these attacks, two in Lower Shabelle and one in Banadir, while Al-Shabaab, AMISOM and the ENDF were responsible for one each. In addition, unidentified armed elements attacked a hospital in Lower Shabelle and executed its director, leading to the closure of the facility for a week.<sup>16</sup>

17. Between January and March 2013, the UN verified 7 attacks on schools. Al-Shabaab perpetrated 5of the attacks and the SNSF the other two. For example, on 24 January 2013 in Baidoa district in Bay region, Al-Shabaab went to a Quranic School to mobilize children, and recruited six of them aged 12-16 years old. The SNSF reportedly attacked a hospital in Banadir region. On 27 January 2012, fighting between two allied SNSF groups led to the closure of a maternal and child health facility in Daynile district. The fighting resulted from a disagreement over control of taxes levied on businesses and a bus stop in the area around the health facility.<sup>17</sup>

After entering the compound of the High Court, three of the attackers exploded their vests and the remaining six entered the court building killing at least two lawyers and the court spokesman. A number of people in the building reportedly barricaded themselves on the upper floors. Security forces surrounded the area and at around 13:00 the crowd in the area was attacked by a suicide VBIED. Following the VBIED attack, SNG special forces (Alpha Group) deployed, assaulted the building and killed the attackers. Two Turkish humanitarian workers were also reportedly injured and referred for treatment to the Al-Shifa Hospital before being evacuated to Turkey. The actual target of the attack was unconfirmed. Available information suggested that the VBIED was probably targeting either the airport, but was prevented from proceeding after the road had been blocked following the first attacks on the High Court, or any AMISOM convoy that could have been sent as a reinforcement from the airport to the High Court. The attack on the Turkish convoy seems to have been opportunistic and conducted only after it appeared clear to the suicide bomber that his primary target could not be reached. An NGO-rented vehicle parked close to Peace Hotel 2 was also destroyed by the blast. No casualties were however reported from that NGO. The same day, the pro-Al-Shabaab website Somali Memo broadcast an interview with the Al-Shabaab Spokesman, Sheikh Ali Mohamud Raghe "Ali Dheere", who commented on the two attacks conducted in Mogadishu. ## Annex 8.1.a: Attacks on journalists and the media

1. The year 2012 was the deadliest on record for Somalia's media. Eighteen journalists were killed either in bomb attacks or as direct targets of murder. According to Reporters Without Borders (RWB), Somalia was the second most dangerous country in the world, after Syria, for those working in news and information. As a result of killings, systematic censorship and intimidation, Somalia ranked 175 out of 179 countries in RWB's World Press Freedom Index.<sup>1</sup> An additional three journalists were killed through April 2013.

2. Al-Shabaab publicly claimed responsibility for several killings of journalists,<sup>2</sup> but not others. Some reports attribute responsibility to Government forces. For example, in September 2012, Ahmed Abdulahi Farah, a photographer working for the Yemeni news agency Saba, was shot dead on a minibus at a checkpoint in the southern district of Madina, Mogadishu. According to initial information, when he tried to photograph the checkpoint, the armed men in military uniform manning it opened fire.<sup>3</sup> In addition, journalists covering stories about corruption in the Government have been particularly targeted.

3. Furthermore, the media in Somalia are routinely subjected to intimidation and censorship. While the January 2013 arrest by Somali authorities of Abdiaziz Abdinur Ibrahim, tried and sentenced for speaking to a rape victim, was well publicized (see annex 8.2. below), there are many other cases throughout the country of journalists and media outlets censored or otherwise penalized for upholding freedom of the press. In an attempt to tackle the problem, on 19 February 2013, the Federal Government of Somalia offered a 50,000 USD reward for information leading to the conviction of anyone responsible for the killing of journalists. Media reports quoted Prime Minister Abdi Farah Shirdon as saying the reward would help bring the killers to justice.<sup>4</sup>

- 8 April 2013, Berbera District, Waqooyi Galbeed: Somaliland police arrested Yasin Jam'a, a reporter for the London-based Somali satellite TV channel, Universal, who also writes for a Somali online news outlet hadhwanaagnews. The police gave no reason for the arrest, but there was speculation that it may have been linked to the reporter's coverage of recent protests against energy companies prospecting for oil and gas in the region.
- 13 April 2013, Hargeysa District, Waqooyi Galbeed: The Maroodi Jeeh Regional Court sentenced a local journalist, Jamac Jiir, for defamation of the Somaliland Government. The journalist was sentenced to six months imprisonment and a fine of 600,000 Somaliland shillings.

Annex 8.2: Gender-based violence

1. Given the lack of current, comprehensive and reliable data, human rights and aid organisations continue to struggle to understand the full extent of gender-based violence (GBV) in Somalia and to respond appropriately to the needs of those affected. The organisations that attempt systematic collection and analysis of GBV data face a variety of challenges, including lack of access caused by insecurity, as well as cultural stigma related to sexual violence, and, in some cases, intimidation by local communities and authorities. Rashida Manjoo, the current Special Rapporteur on Violence Against Women, encountered this challenge during her mission to Somalia, and stated that there is a "lack of systematic data collection relating to violence against women", and that "she was unable to obtain any statistical data from the authorities."

2. Nevertheless, the United Nations and its partners recorded within their limited means, between January 2012 and November 2012, 1700 reported incidents of rape, confirming that GBV remains a major problem in Somalia. This number is widely believed to be an underestimate, yet still constitutes an increase in reported cases of rape and sexual violence against women and children as compared to previous years. A third of the reported cases involved children. Consistent with previously identified patterns, the majority of victims continue to be IDPs, rendered particularly vulnerable by their displacement and the consequent weakening of social and clan structures and protection.

3. Due to significant military activities in the past year, there was a spike in sexual violence cases recorded between April and July 2012. Indeed, according to the UN, there were 125 cases of rape recorded in April, 118 in May, 79 in June and 144 in July, which correspond to SNSF, AMISOM and allied militias' operations against Al-Shabaab in the Afgooye and Bala'd corridor near Mogadishu.<sup>2</sup> Indeed, UN agencies and NGOs monitoring protection of civilians-related issues report a significant number of anecdotal accounts of rape by Government forces and affiliated militias during that period.<sup>3</sup> While the Somali Government often took swift action following the report of such incidents, deploying mobile martial courts to the field to try alleged perpetrators (and even executing four of them), human rights organisations maintain that violations continued throughout the course of military operations.<sup>4</sup> Similar accounts of rape by Government-affiliated forces – namely the Ras Kamboni brigades – emerged when Kismayo fell in October 2012, a result of poor discipline and lack of centralized command and control structures over belligerent forces.<sup>5</sup>

The particular vulnerability of internally displaced women

5. Human rights and aid organisations continue to stress the particular vulnerability of IDP women, by far the largest group of GBV victims in Somalia. While the number of IDP women and girls raped was consistently high throughout the past twelve months, there was a notable spike in the month of August 2012, with 141 cases of rape reported. Analysts believe this spike was linked to the Somali Presidential elections. Indeed, in the run-up to the elections, political leaders used IDPs to mobilise political support and to gain votes, and TFG-affiliated militias operated in IDP camps to control demonstrations.

6. In and around Mogadishu alone, there are currently 530 IDP camps, populated 75% by women and children, and where police and different armed groups, including local militias, often live amongst the population.<sup>7</sup> Women rights organisations and IDP women informed the Monitoring Group that this situation was untenable, and emphasized that the consequence of such proximity was violence perpetrated against women and girls by militias and armed groups.<sup>8</sup> Indeed, according to surveys and focus group discussions conducted by several UN agencies and partners, Mogadishu is the district associated with the greatest perceived threat from non-Governmental armed forces, and most victims of sexual assault describe the perpetrators as "men in uniform", often armed with AK-47s or automatic rifles.<sup>9</sup>

7. There are multiple root causes of such violence. The wide availability of various weaponry is one factor, while armed conflict, a Somali reality for more than two decades, is another one. The lack of command and control exerted by central authorities over armed groups and militias, ultimately, remains the most important cause of violence against IDP women. The scenarios previously documented by the Monitoring Group continue to be the norm in Mogadishu, where victims of sexual assault cannot identify the uniforms worn by their attackers, and do not know whether they belong to the Somali police, the army, or a militia.<sup>10</sup> Furthermore, due to inadequate or irregularly paid salaries, members of the Somali security forces often work as private security providers at night, adding to the number of armed men in the streets.

8. IDP women are also particularly at risk of violence as a consequence of the unconventional nature of IDP settlements in Mogadishu and elsewhere in Somalia. The consequences of fragmented security forces are compounded by the disorganisation of IDP camps in Mogadishu, the control exerted by gatekeepers over displaced populations,<sup>11</sup> (see also annex 7.2) and the lack of enforcement of internationally recognised standards in IDP camps.<sup>12</sup> As surveys of IDP women confirm, the insecure environments of IDP camps and insufficient social protection put women at risk. IDP settlements are insecure due to their physical location on the outskirts of towns; the structurally flimsy housing constructed from wood, cardboard and cloth, and often lacking doors; insufficient lighting; intolerable heat in the warm months causing people to sleep outside; the necessity for girls and women to walk significant distances to collect fuel, access latrines, attend school, go to work or utilize medical services; and in some instances, the simple absence of separate toilet facilities for females and males.<sup>13</sup>

9. Somali refugee women and girls fleeing to neighbouring countries are also targets of sexual violence when they pass through areas controlled by insurgent militias in their efforts to reach the border or a safer area in Somalia.<sup>14</sup> Furthermore, reports from IDP and refugee populations originating from Al-Shabaab areas indicate a significant prevalence of forced marriage amongst women and young girls, as well as marital rape and unwanted pregnancies. Reports also indicate that sexual violence takes place in refugee camps outside Somalia, where overcrowding and inadequate shelters have contributed to difficult living conditions and a higher overall risk of sexual violence.<sup>15</sup>

The Somali Government's response to gender-based violence

10. The Somalia Penal Code criminalizes rape but considers it a crime against morals, not against the person and, therefore, cannot adequately address this form of violence against women.<sup>16</sup> According to the Special Rapporteur on Violence Against Women, "acts and practices of violence against women remain unregulated under national legislation and policies" in the Somali Republic.<sup>17</sup> Tackling shortcomings in national laws and policies to guide action will be essential if the Government is going to deliver effective protection to women.

11. Somalia, however, is nevertheless bound by international obligations which protect women from rape and sexual abuse through various instruments. Indeed, while the Convention on the Elimination of all forms of Discrimination against Women (CEDAW) has yet to be ratified by the Somalia,<sup>18</sup> it recognized that Somali girls and women have the right to live their lives free of violence when it formally accepted the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights,<sup>19</sup> the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights,<sup>20</sup> and the Convention against Torture and Other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment.<sup>21</sup> In addition, Somalia acknowledged the right to life without violence when it signed the Protocol to the African Charter on Human and Peoples' Rights on the Rights of Women in Africa.<sup>22</sup> Thereby, Somalia committed to combating all forms of discrimination against women, including violence against women (article 4), and to adopting the appropriate legislative and institutional measures (article 2).

12. Furthermore, the equality of rights of Somali citizens, of girls and boys and of women and men, are recognized in the 2004 Transitional Federal Charter of the Somali Republic,<sup>23</sup> the 2001 Constitution of the Republic of Somaliland,<sup>24</sup> and the 2008 Constitution of the Puntland State of Somalia.<sup>25</sup> The new Provisional Constitution of Somalia, adopted in August 2012, clearly enshrines into law the right of all individuals to personal security, and prohibits all forms of violence against women.<sup>26</sup> Finally, specific protections, embedded in the UN Guiding Principles on Internal Displacement<sup>27</sup> and the African Union Convention for the Protection and Assistance of Internally Displaced Persons in Africa, apply to IDP women.<sup>28</sup>

13. In March 2012, the TFG committed to the creation of a task force on GBV to address the endemic problem of rape in the capital. The task force never met. President Hassan Sheikh Mohamud pledged to address the issue of sexual violence when he was elected.<sup>29</sup> On 5 February 2013, Prime Minister Abdi Farah Shirdon launched an Independent Task Force on Human Rights to tackle what he termed "culture of impunity" with regards to human rights abuses in Somalia. The Prime Minister announced the new Task Force would specifically investigate allegations of widespread rape and sexual abuse, especially of women in IDP camps. Consisting of 13 members, including 4 women, the task force was due to issue its first report in May 2013.<sup>30</sup>

Problems with the police

14. Women's groups and human rights organisations believe that the vast majority of GBV incidents against women are not reported,<sup>31</sup> a fact that has been confirmed by the Monitoring Group in its interviews with survivors of rape in Mogadishu.<sup>32</sup> Mistrust of the police and reluctance to report cases of rape or other forms of sexual assault was also confirmed by a large percentage of women who participated in focus group discussions held by the UN and its partners.<sup>33</sup>

15. Lack of trust in the police is caused by several factors. Many women report fearing the police in general, but they are also concerned about being ignored, intimidated, and sometimes even harassed when approaching a local station.<sup>34</sup> Cultural taboos concerning rape, as well as the impact on the victim's family further weakens reliance on the police, which is compounded by the fact that women do not want to report incidents of sexual violence to men. As a result, women turn to traditional forms of justice, seeking the assistance of their clan and elders, and tend to call on the police only when all other options have been exhausted. Moreover, most women interviewed by the Monitoring Group believe the police to be inefficient, corrupt, and unable and unwilling to respond adequately to allegations of sexual violence.<sup>35</sup>

16. The fears of GBV victims are rooted in the basic reality that the police are sometimes part of the problem, unwilling to investigate cases of assault or committing violations themselves. In practical terms, the Somali police face serious challenges in collecting evidence, lack the resources to seriously investigate, and are unable to protect victims and witnesses. The scarcity of female officers, or even men trained in handling incidents of sexual violence, undermines the ability of the Somali police to foster a sense of confidence in its commitment to treat GBV as a priority.<sup>36</sup>

17. The need for police reform and in particular for increasing the responsiveness of the police in sexual violence cases is widely recognized by Somali Government officials and activists, and by the international community. In 2011, in an effort to make the police more "women friendly", the UN Development Programme (UNDP) established Women and Children desks at two police stations in Hargeisa, Somaliland. This initiative was not as successful as hoped since the former chief of police failed to support it. Still, the experience can help shape a model for the rest of Somalia, creating a sympathetic space for women to approach police stations with less fear and more confidence.<sup>37</sup>

18. UNDP's Governance and Rule of Law Programme has attempted to support a larger, better trained and more organized police force. In South-Central Somalia, UNDP pays stipends to 5300 police officers that are not paid salaries from Government sources. Trained and certified, and vetted to the extent possible, these police officers remain unable to provide security to IDP camps, and frequently they continue to be part of the problem, abusing power, seeking bribes and using violence against civilians, including women and children.<sup>38</sup> The command and control structures of the police in South Central Somalia are extraordinarily weak as a result of years of neglect, and the lack of strong, systematic oversight makes it difficult to appreciate the extent of the problem and the range of shortcomings to be addressed. As part of the UN-wide Human Rights and Due Diligence Policy adopted in July 2011, the UN has an obligation to monitor its partners for potential human rights violations. This could be facilitated through the establishment of a Somali-owned, UN-mentored directorate-general for policing. In addition, a dedicated effort is needed to actively recruit, train and equip more women for the police force, as was endorsed by Somaliland in its five-year police strategic plan.<sup>39</sup>

Access to justice

19. Comparable to their mistrust in the police, women are reluctant to redress their grievances through the formal justice system. For its part, the Somali justice system is reluctant to prosecute cases of GBV. Between January and November 2012, the Military Court opened only 13 cases against members of the Somali security forces, including two against members of the National Security Authority, one against a member of the Somali National Police, three against militia members and the remaining against members of the Somali National Army. Nine of the cases are pending, three have resulted in the acquittal of the defendants, and one ended in the imposition of the death penalty. Prosecution through the regular criminal justice system is also limited. Official police and court data are not available. However, data informally shared with the Monitoring Group indicates that about 100 cases of rape were opened in Mogadishu between January and November 2012.

20. Surveys and focus group discussions with women explain their general mistrust of the justice system. They fear further abuse and corruption, and the direct and indirect financial costs of pursuing a case in the formal courts can be prohibitive for many girls and women. In addition, prosecutions encounter difficulties in proving cases of sexual violence due to evidence tampering and withdrawal of witnesses, judicial and prosecuting officials lack capacity, convictions are often not enforced, victims are not adequately protected, and the shame and stigma associated with incidents of sexual violence becoming public damage personal and family reputations.<sup>41</sup>

21. While there are limitations throughout the country, the capacities of justice ministries vary greatly across Somali regions. In Somaliland, for instance, there are multiple initiatives to strengthen the justice system, including the 2012-2016 Somaliland National Development Plan, the Somaliland Ministry of Justice Judicial Reform Work Plan, the Somaliland Law Reform Commission, the Somaliland National Human Rights Commission and the Good Governance and Anti-Corruption Commission. In addition to general reform efforts, such as revising laws and procedures, providing more infrastructure, concluding cases more quickly, and strengthening the capacity of the judiciary, "the justice sector reform program aims at promoting women's legal education, entry into the legal profession, and women's equal access to justice".<sup>42</sup> Steps have also been taken towards the creation of a legal aid unit for the provision of legal counsel to those in need.<sup>43</sup>

22. Furthermore, UNDP established in Somaliland the Sexual Assault Referral Centre, Baahi-Koob, on the premises of the Hargeisa Hospital Group. As a place of safety, Baahi-Koob operates as a holistic service provider for survivors of sexual assault, who can receive medical treatment, psychosocial counselling, legal aid and helpful information. Meanwhile, Baahi-Koob staff members are able to assist in criminal investigations and prosecutions. With limited resources, the centre is a groundbreaking and welcome initiative in Somalia. However, it faces many difficulties with authorities that refuse to fully recognize incidents of GBV, and local clan and community elders who invariably intervene in cases before the courts.

23. Conditions in Puntland are considerably worse. Authorities show little willingness to invest in the justice sector. Lawyers continue to have limited or no access to clients in police custody. The judiciary lacks independence as members are selected based on clan affiliations and can be dismissed arbitrarily by the President. Resources are severely limited. There are only a dozen prosecutors for the entire region and none of the judges have a legal background, though they receive six-months training by UNDP. None of the prosecutors or judges are women. The only practicing female lawyer was forced to resign under Islamist activists pressure. Finally, there have seen a significant number of attacks against judges and prosecutors in the past couple of years, resulting in eight deaths.<sup>45</sup>

24. In South Central Somalia, in places like Baidoa, courts have begun operating again. Mogadishu continues to have the only semi-functioning judicial system. Regardless of support from the Government and the international community, courts remain weak and the majority of the members of the judiciary are not paid regularly, if at all. Aside from the main Benadir Court, which was bombed in April 2013, district courts are not functioning well, and access and costs remain a problem for the vast majority of women.<sup>46</sup> UNDP has started implementing a mobile courts programme in IDP camps to facilitate access to justice for IDP women, and it is working with legal aid partners to secure legal representation for those who cannot afford it.<sup>47</sup> Despite these efforts, women continue reporting a lack of trust in the formal justice system.

The authorities' mishandling of a case of alleged rape

25. Women's mistrust in the police and the justice system is reinforced by the authorities' mishandling of the widely publicised case of alleged rape of an IDP woman. On 6 January 2013, Universal TV, a Somali television station, reported that armed men in police uniforms had raped a young woman. The same day, Al Jazeera published an article describing rape by security forces in Mogadishu IDP camps.<sup>48</sup>As a direct consequence of the reporting, on 10 January 2013, the Criminal Investigation Division (CID) of the Somali Police Force in Mogadishu arrested a woman who alleged having been raped by Government forces on 14 August 2012 in the Hodan district of Mogadishu. They also detained two acquaintances of the woman who had connected her with journalists.<sup>49</sup>

26. During interrogations, CID Director, General Abdullahi Hassan Barisse, reportedly compelled the woman to provide the telephone numbers of journalists who had interviewed her. On 10 January 2013, Abdiaziz Abdinur Ibrahim, a freelance journalist who had worked with Dalsan Radio and Badri Media Productions, was called to the police station for questioning and then detained.<sup>50</sup>

27. Following two days of interrogation, the police released the woman claiming she had retracted the allegation of rape. However, on 12 January 2013, they arbitrarily detained her husband who persisted that his wife had been raped. Two other individuals, a woman and a man who had helped introduce the journalists, were also detained for more than two weeks. On 29 January 2013, after 19 days detention without charge, and denial of access to a lawyer, a doctor and medicine, the Attorney General charged the journalist Abdiaziz Abdinur Ibrahim with insulting a Government body and inducing the woman to give false evidence. Under the Somali Penal Code he faced up to four years in prison for the first charge and two years for the second. The alleged rape victim was also charged with insulting a Government body, in addition to simulating a criminal offense and making a false accusation, which carry punishments of up to three and six years in prison, respectively.<sup>51</sup>

28. The alleged rape victim's husband and the two individuals who helped introduce the woman to the journalist were charged with assisting her to evade investigation, which carries up to a four-year prison term, and assisting her to secure profit for the rape allegation, carrying up to a five-year prison term. The charge sheet indicates that the Government believed there was a conspiracy to discredit it for financial gain.<sup>52</sup>

29. On 5 February 2013, Abdiaziz Abdinur Ibrahim, was sentenced to one year in prison for fabricating a false claim — though he did not publish the allegation, entering the home of another man without permission, and falsely accusing a Government body of committing a crime that damages state security. The woman was also sentenced to one year in prison for fabricating a rape case that damages state security. The court deferred her sentence for one year because she was breastfeeding. The court ordered the release of the woman's husband and the two others for lack of evidence.<sup>53</sup>

30. Human rights organisations denouncing a botched trial argued that "the prosecutor failed to provide any evidence to justify a conviction on the criminal charges. The prosecutors called three witnesses, two of whom asserted they had assisted the woman after she was raped, and a nurse who had not examined the woman. A midwife testified on the first day of the trial, February 2nd, that she concluded that the woman was not raped after conducting a 'finger test,' an unscientific and degrading practice that has long been discredited because it is not a credible test of whether a woman has been raped". <sup>54</sup>

31. On 3 March 2013, the court of appeals upheld a lower court's conviction of journalist Abdiaziz Abdinur Ibrahim, but reduced his sentence from one year to six months. The alleged rape victim was found not guilty of her charges, including insulting the Government. Finally, on 17 March 2013, the Supreme Court of Somalia overturned the conviction of journalist Abdiaziz Abdinur Ibrahim and ordered his immediate release.

32. During the course of these events, on 11 February 2013, the Monitoring Group sent an official correspondence to the Somali Prime Minister, Abdi Farah Shirdon, in an attempt to obtain additional information about the case. No reply was forthcoming.

33. This case overtly illustrates the grave shortcomings of Somali rule of law institutions in responding to cases of sexual violence, both in terms of the failure of the police to investigate the rape allegation itself and then the treatment of the alleged victim, her husband and the other individuals targeted by the authorities, including the apparent violation of their presumption of innocence. Indeed, on 26 January 2013, the Attorney General told the BBC Somali Service that the journalist and the other individuals were complicit in an effort to tarnish the reputation of the security forces.<sup>55</sup> On 16 January 2013, the Commissioner of the Somali Police Force, Major General Sharif Shekhuna Maye, held a news conference in Mogadishu, at which he 'showcased' the alleged victim, and claimed that Abdiaziz Abdinur Ibrahim was part of a plot to tarnish the image of the national forces.<sup>56</sup>

34. Consequently, the case has had a significant impact on the willingness of women to report cases of sexual abuse by Government forces and negatively affected the limited provision of services to victims in Mogadishu.<sup>57</sup> Overall, the case has served to undermine the President's commitment to tackling sexual violence and risks discouraging media reporting on this important issue.

Sexual exploitation and abuse by AMISOM forces

35. Allegations of sexual exploitation and abuse (SEA) by AMISOM troops first surfaced in 2011, when the UN country team was informed by Somali human rights groups of prostitution on AMISOM bases and marriage of minors to AMISOM troops. The UN raised the issue with the AMISOM command, which took some measures to address the problem, including additional training of troops.<sup>58</sup> Nevertheless, at present three trends of allegations continue to emerge. First, women's groups denounce the presence of female translators waiting for employment on the AMISOM base, where they are vulnerable to exploitation. Second, there are reports of sexual exploitation around the AMISOM-run hospital on its Mogadishu base, where women are asked for sex in exchange for access. Third, women's groups recount testimonies of women brought onto the AMISOM base in Mogadishu by the shopkeepers located there for the purpose of prostitution, as well as of food being provided for sex at AMISOM outposts elsewhere in the country.<sup>59</sup>

36. The Monitoring Group was able to speak to women who described specific incidents of prostitution and other forms of sexual exploitation by members of AMISOM, as well as intimidation by AMISOM troops to keep them silent. Women's groups reported being scared of "taking on" the issue, having previously suffered consequences for raising it with the AMISOM command in Mogadishu, including being banned from the AMISOM base.<sup>60</sup> Meanwhile, AMISOM still lacks appropriate mechanisms to address allegations of SEA by systematically collecting and investigating them in a methodical and transparent way.

37. The Monitoring Group raised the issue of SEA with the AMISOM command in Mogadishu. Although it has taken some positive steps, such as the appointment of a gender officer in October 2012 and the provision of workshops on SEA to its troops, AMISOM's response to the allegations remains ad hoc at best, while the posture of its command is defensive rather than proactive. According to AMISOM civil-military officers, there is no need of a dedicated means for women to lodge complaints since "victims of SEA would come to us because we are very friendly".<sup>61</sup> According to the Force Commander, Lieutenant General Andrew Gutti, AMISOM "never had a verified incident of sexual exploitation".<sup>62</sup>

38. AMISOM claims that measures are in place to investigate allegations of wrongdoing by its troops. Political officers gather intelligence on the ground regarding interactions between the population and AMISOM troops. When allegations are made and substantiated with some evidence, a board of inquiry is assembled to investigate. However, boards of inquiry are assembled on an ad hoc basis and composed of AMISOM officers who lack investigative experience and independence. Moreover, in the past twelve months, only two boards of inquiry have been convened, and their reports are not public or shared systematically with UN human rights monitors.<sup>63</sup> Despite repeated requests, the Monitoring Group did not receive copies of the reports. Furthermore, the Force Commander and his legal adviser were unable to answer questions related to the composition of the boards of inquiry and the cases they addressed, or the measures that were taken following the findings of the boards.

39. AMISOM has yet to implement the UN Policy on Prevention of Sexual Exploitation and Abuse, aside from inclusion of a section on SEA in pre-deployment training. The Policy requirements include prevention, public information, establishment of a reporting system, establishment of accountability mechanisms and support to victims. The UN itself and in particular the UN Support Office for AMISOM (UNSOA) has an obligation to ensure that all measures are taken by AMISOM to prevent SEA and respond to allegations, in accordance with the UN-wide Human Rights and Due Diligence Policy.

40. Security Council resolution 2093 (2013), which extended the mandate of AMISOM through 2014, requested AMISOM in paragraph 14 to apply policies consistent with the UN zero-tolerance policy on sexual exploitation and abuse in the context of peacekeeping. To date, AMISOM has not taken the necessary steps to comply with this provision.

Annex 9

Violations of the ban on charcoal

Annex 9.1: Overview

1. Following the advance of the Kenya Defence Forces (KDF) contingent of the African Union Mission in Somalia (AMISOM) through southern Somalia and its final entry into Kismayo on 28 September 2012 with the Ras Kamboni forces of Sheikh Ahmed Mohamed Islam 'Madobe', a number of charcoal stockpiles of considerable scale were discovered and gained much attention. The stockpile in Kismayo was estimated to consist of some four million sacks of charcoal with a market value of at least 60-64 million USD. Comparable stockpiles were found to exist in Burgabo, Kuday, Anole and Al-Shabaab-controlled Barawe. The size of these stockpiles was, however, fluid, since there was continuous ground transportation of charcoal, for instance, into and between Kismayo and Barawe.

2. Throughout October 2012, there was rising tension and debate in diplomatic circles about the status of the stockpiles given the ban on the export of charcoal pursuant to Security Council resolution 2036 (2012), which prohibited the export and direct or indirect import of charcoal from Somalia, and considered the engagement in such commerce as a threat to the peace, security, or stability of Somalia. In addition, successive Somali Governments had outlawed the trade in charcoal domestically.<sup>1</sup> Nevertheless, KDF commanders almost immediately began to push for the export of the stockpiled charcoal on security grounds, arguing that their mission was threatened by the demands of charcoal traders. The argument that a group of charcoal traders constituted a greater threat to the KDF than Al-Shabaab that had just been routed in Kismayo, was difficult to appreciate. Instead, it was far more likely that exporting charcoal would exacerbate clan tensions and resource interests, leading to much broader conditions of conflict. And this is preciselywhat subsequently occurred (see annex 3.3).

3. Members of the Juba Business Committee in Kismayo that had been trading charcoal throughout the period of Al-Shabaab's presence in the city, called for a temporary lifting of the ban. On 22 October 2012, this committee issued a petition requesting seven months to clear the stockpile (see annex 9.1.a). In support, the KDF, through AMISOM and the Commission of the African Union, appealed to the Security Council to temporarily lift the ban.<sup>2</sup> On 1 November 2012, in a letter addressed to the Chairman of the Security Council Committee pursuant to resolutions 751 (1992) and 1907 (2009) concerning Somalia and Eritrea (hereafter "the Committee"), the Permanent Representative of Kenya to the United Nations, His Excellency, Mr. Macharia Kamau, requested a special waiver for the "export of charcoal for a determinable period".<sup>3</sup> However, in its resolutions 2072 (2012) and 2073 (2012), the Security Council did not lift the complete ban on the exportation and importation of charcoal.

4. One effect of calling for a temporary lifting of the ban was to shift focus onto the stockpiles as if it was the key issue. In diplomatic circles, options were considered, including a one-time export of the stockpiles, an internal sale and wholesale destruction. However, the pressure and focus on the export of the charcoal prevented an alternative solution from being seriously considered. For its part, the assessment of the Monitoring Group at the time was that a temporary lifting of the ban was neither proposed in good faith nor viable. It was a device to maintain the charcoal business indefinitely. Since there was perpetual movement to and from the stockpiles, it would not have been feasible to fix the amount of charcoal to be exported on a one-time basis without a ground assessment and controlled monitoring, which were not available. Consequently, the Monitoring Group believed the stockpiles would have been maintained to ensure a perpetual lift of the ban, while exports continued. The actual issue at stake was not the export of the stockpiles but the production of new charcoal that both sustained the stockpiles and constituted the charcoal exported.

5. Throughout October 2012 and following the entry of KDF/AMISOM into Kismayo, the President of Somalia, Hassan Sheikh Mohamud, had instructed AMISOM to keep the port of Kismayo closed to commercial traffic and not to export any charcoal from the area. He was unaware that the former Prime Minister, Abdiweli Mohamed Ali Gaas, had written to the Committee on 17 October 2012, on the eve of his leaving office, requesting a review of the charcoal ban (see annex 9.1.b). Still AMISOM officials assured diplomats and the Monitoring Group that the President's instructions were being faithfully implemented. However, the port of Kismayo was never closed. By 22 October 2012, one ship (Fadhil Rabi) and two dhows had docked at the port and offloaded cement and sugar. By 25 October 2012, two ships (Fadhil Rabi and Diamond Moon) and five dhows were in Kismayo. As late as 26 October 2012, the AMISOM Deputy Force Commander for Operations and Plans, Major General Simon Karanja, assured the President that the port was closed and there was no shipping traffic, while he knew otherwise.<sup>4</sup> The President reiterated his instructions to AMISOM regarding both the port closure and charcoal exports, and the following day issued his first public statement to this effect (see annex 9.1.c).

6. By the end of October 2012, Madobe and the charcoal traders threatened that if the ban was not lifted by 3 November 2012, they would export charcoal anyway from Al-Shabaab-controlled Barawe and Kismayo if possible. On 2 November 2012, a delegation from Mogadishu, including General Karanja, the acting Somali Defence Minister, Husayn Arab Isa, and Chief of Defence Forces, Major General Abdiqadir Shaykh Ali Dini, arrived in Kismayo and assured the charcoal traders that the ban would be lifted soon.

7. However, as it became clear between the passage of Security Council resolutions 2072 (2012) and 2073 (2012) that the ban would not be lifted, the KDF, Madobe and his Ras Kamboni forces took the unilateral decision to begin the export of charcoal from Kismayo port. Already by 30 October 2012, the Fadhil Rabi and one dhow had been loading charcoal. On 4 November 2012, the Monitoring Group received urgent information that at least three dhows were loading charcoal and expected to depart immanently.<sup>5</sup> In addition, three dhows were loading charcoal off Burgabo and at least four ships (Topaz II, Star Island H, Lady Jana, and Loai IV) were anchored offshore at Barawe loading charcoal.<sup>6</sup> Some vessels in Kismayo were preparing to sail to Barawe to load charcoal there, and in Mogadishu there was a backlog of ships waiting to sail to Kismayo.

8. Meanwhile, on 2 November 2012, the Somali Presidency announced the establishment of a Task Force to address the charcoal stockpile at Kismayo. The objectives of the Task Force were stated to be:

- To determine the source of the charcoal, its ownership, quantity and estimated value, and reasons for such accumulation;
- To propose ways of using the charcoal in the internal market, and ways and means of transporting and distributing the charcoal to different local markets;
- To propose ways of preventing repetition of the current situation; and
- To propose ways of galvanizing the support of the international community in the utilization of the current stockpile, particularly the UN, the African Union, the Intergovernmental Authority on Development (IGAD) and AMISOM.

9. The nine members of the Task Force were drawn from a variety of backgrounds with responsibility to compile a report within seven days. On the same day, the Somali Presidency urgently requested AMISOM security and logistical support for the work of the team (see annex 9.1.d).

10. The visit of the Task Force to Kismayo was delayed, but on 7 November 2012 a delegation consisting of the 9-member Task Force, four AMISOM officials including the Chief of Staff, General Ousman, as well as a group of journalists, arrived at Kismayo airport at 12:30 p.m. The area commander of the KDF, Col. Hassan, met the members of the delegation and informed them that the Somali National Army (SNA) and Ras Kamboni forces were not prepared to meet with them. He added that Madobe said he would not meet with the delegation unless it was under the auspices of IGAD and that the safety and security of the delegation could not be guaranteed if it travelled outside the airport. Both the AMISOM Force Commander, Lieutenant-General Andrew Gutti, and The Somali President were informed of the situation and, after some deliberation, the Task Force returned to Mogadishu, leaving the journalists to remain overnight at the airport.<sup>7</sup> At the time the delegation was in Kismayo, approximately 15 vessels (13 dhows and 2 ships) were docked at the port in the process of loading charcoal and had been loading charcoal at least since the day before, 6 November.<sup>8</sup>

11. Following its failed mission to Kismayo, the President's Task Force remained inactive. This event, however, set a pattern for subsequent Government delegations, which have largely not been permitted to leave Kismayo airport. Indeed, on days when charcoal is loading, visitors to Kismayo are usually not allowed to exit the airport compound. On 11 March 2013, the Monitoring Group, accompanied by a team of UN investigators, was prohibited from leaving Kismayo airport by the Ras Kamboni chief of security in the city, Mahmoud Abdullahi 'Hawil', on grounds of insecurity despite UN security assessments to the contrary. At the time, the Monitoring Group was separately informed that it was actually not permitted to visit the city and the port because 14 vessels were in the process of loading charcoal.

12. On 6 November 2012, in response to initial press reports about the export of charcoal from Kismayo under AMISOM control, AMISOM issued a statement reaffirming its commitment to support the Somali Government's efforts to end the illegal trade in charcoal (see annex 9.1.e).

13. On 12 November 2012, the Monitoring Group visited Kismayo, the charcoal stockpiles in the town and the port. At the port, the Monitoring Group attended a meeting chaired by Madobe that included representatives of the KDF, the Ras Kamboni militia, the local interim administration, the SNA, and a group of charcoal traders from the Juba Business Committee, amongst others. During the meeting, Madobe and the traders vowed to discontinue charcoal trading if they could only export the existing stockpile. Madobe said, "once charcoal is burnt, it can never be a tree again". The Monitoring Group had three critical observations during its visit.

Juba Business Committee charcoal traders, 22 October 2012

14. First, the Monitoring Group was able to observe a considerable amount of new charcoal being packaged into 25 to 30 kg sacks at the location of the stockpiles. It was already clear that the charcoal being exported was new charcoal, and that the stockpile was being maintained (see annex 9.1.f).

15. Second, the Monitoring Group verified that the port is under the joint security control of the KDF and the RKB, and both undertake joint operations at the port. In addition, according to charcoal traders and shippers, the Kenyan Navy has oversight at the port and a KDF officer, Major Maingi, was the focal point for authorizing the offloading and loading of vessels.<sup>10</sup> (See annex 9.1.g.)

16. Third, the Monitoring Group observed 10 vessels docked at the port in the final stages of off-loading mostly sugar and cement. The port jetty had been cleared of charcoal and sanitized, and vessels partially loaded with charcoal were ordered out of the port in preparation for the Monitoring Group visit. Following the departure of the Monitoring Group, additional vessels docked at the port, and the following day, 13 November 2012, there was large-scale loading of charcoal on the docked vessels.<sup>11</sup>

Ships loading at Port of Kismayo on 13 November 2012

17. During the month of November 2012, the Monitoring Group was able to confirm that at least 20 vessels had exported well over 700,000 sacks, and in December at least 22 vessels had exported at least 800,000 sacks of charcoal from Kismayo port.<sup>12</sup> The Monitoring Group estimated that these figures constituted about 70-80% of the actual exports and did not account for charcoal transported overland to Barawe. Nevertheless, their export value was considerable. A 25 to 30 kilogram sack of charcoal has a local value of 5 to 6 USD, but an export value of a minimum of 15 to 16 USD, representing at least 10 to 13 million USD per month. In addition, the port manager at Kismayo, a Kenyan Somali charcoal trader of the Ras Kamboni forces, Abdullahi Dubad (a.k.a. 'Hadun'), was taxing the charcoal exports on behalf of KDF-supported Madobe at a rate of 1.20 USD, while Al-Shabaab in Barawe was charging 1.50 USD. In due course, both rates increased to 1.50 USD and 2.00 USD, respectively.<sup>13</sup>

18. Despite the export of at least 1.5 million sacks over two months, the stockpile in Kismayo was not declining. Rather, the rate of charcoal being trucked into Kismayo was rising significantly. Indeed, the charcoal being exported was in fact newly produced. This meant that the issue of concern ought never to have been the stockpiles themselves, but the ongoing and increasing scale of new production. This fact was reinforced in January and February 2013, when large scale-production began in Al-Shabaab controlled Badade district, north of the Kenyan border where a forested area was being levelled. The amount of charcoal being trucked to Kismayo was outstripping the export capacity at the port and a new stockpile was established at Fifmodow in Kismayo (see annex 9.1.h.). Corresponding to the increased production of charcoal, the import of sugar gradually increased in late 2012 and considerably increased thereafter for transportation to and across the Kenyan border.

19. Between Badade and Kismayo, charcoal trucks passed through several checkpoints. A first checkpoint at Buulo Xaaji, about midway, is controlled by Al-Shabaab. Ras Kamboni and SNA forces control a second and third checkpoint, and the KDF controls a final checkpoint before the final destination of the port. Apart from small interpersonal disputes, since January 2012 there have not been any significant security incidents on the charcoal transportation route, indicating an accommodation on the ground between interested parties.<sup>15</sup> In addition, members of Al-Shabaab have routinely entered Kismayo by riding on charcoal trucks.

20. Overall, despite the fact that the KDF/AMISOM and Ras Kamboni forces replaced Al-Shabaab's control of Kismayo, the charcoal business architecture remained intact. While the production and trade in charcoal has always existed in Somalia on a smaller scale, during Al-Shabaab's control of Kismayo it became a large-scale international enterprise combining local clan and Al-Shabaab financial interests, as previously documented by the Monitoring Group (S/2011/433 and S/2012/544). The nature of the business enterprise forged by Al-Shabaab continues with Al-Shabaab, its commercial partners and networks still central to the trade. Essentially, with the changeover of power in Kismayo, the shareholding of the charcoal trade at the port was divided into three between Al-Shabaab, Ras Kamboni and Somali Kenyan businessmen cooperating with the KDF.<sup>16</sup> In addition to Al-Shabaab's shareholding at Kismayo represented by individual charcoal traders in the local business community, there is seamless movement of charcoal trucks between Kismayo and Barawe and regular coordination between the two ports, not least because of the personal and commercial relations between charcoal traders, individuals in Ras Kamboni and members of Al-Shabaab.<sup>17</sup>

21. This dramatic increase in scale of the charcoal trade since the time when Al-Shabaab exclusively controlled it, actually benefits Al-Shabaab as it draws considerable revenue from its partial shareholding in the expanded business. In fact, its shareholding in Kismayo charcoal, in combination with its export revenues at Barawe and its taxation of trucks transporting charcoal from production areas under its control are likely exceeding the revenue it generated when it controlled Kismayo, previously estimated by the Monitoring Group to be 25 million USD per year (see annex 9.2). As such, Al-Shabaab has managed to exploit and profit from the diversification of interests in the charcoal trade (see annex 9.2).

22. Despite these revenues in southern Somalia, there may not be an equitable trickle-down to Al-Shabaab in other areas of Somalia or East Africa. Al-Shabaab cells in other areas have at times relied on diaspora funding, which has decreased in response to recent terrorism cases targeting Al-Shabaab throughout the world. Regional and clan interests can outweigh distribution of revenue to other Al-Shabaab-controlled areas.

(Statement on the Charcoal Export at Kismayu Port

Mogadishu — October 27, 2012, The Somali government reiterates the ban on charcoal exports In line with the UN Security Council resolution where all member states were asked to take the necessary measures to prevent the export and import of charcoal from Somalia which the Government of Somalia previously originated the request for the ban on the grounds that the charcoal business is not only hazardous to the environment but also detrimental to the security efforts.

Therefore, we express our deep concerns of any possibility to violate the UN security council resolution that bans charcoal and the government is in the process of forming task force to make sure and prevent any violations of the charcoal ban"

The Federal Government is pleased by what has been achieved since the takeover of Kismayu by the Somali forces and AMISOM. The local leaders in Kismayu have the responsibility to put the people first, above any political differences and self interests what so ever and to ensure security, stability and restore confidence to the public.

The clear position of the Somall Government is to maintain the seaport and the air port facility solely open for humanitarian assistance, AMISOM and Somali forces are making sure to keep this task until an interim administration is established in due course.

It is the solid belief of the Somali Government that the people of Kismayu are fed up with counter productive politics, worlordism and extresmism and they deserve security, stability, basic serivce delivery and prosperous future. Therefore, the charcoal at the port will be stored for the time being so as the government to come up with the best course of action to deal with it in time.

The Somali Government is committed to comply with the UN Security Council Resolution 2036 and calls for the uphold of the ban and stand ready to continue to assist the people of Kismayu. We are taking full responsibility to mobilize humanatarian assistance and the government is in the process of sending ship of aid from the federal government to the people of Kismayu.

Scale of exportation

1. Since November 2012, the principal ports systematically exporting charcoal from Somalia have been KDF/AMISOM/Ras Kamboni-controlled Kismayo and Al-Shabaab-controlled Barawe. In addition, though, there are on-going, more idiosyncratic exports of charcoal from smaller ports at Buur Gaabo, Anole, Koday and Koyaama, all south of Kismayo, where stockpiles also exist.

2. The Monitoring Group previously estimated that, in 2011, some 9 to 11 million sacks of charcoal were exported from Somalia, generating for Al-Shabaab annual revenues in excess of 25 million USD.<sup>1</sup> At the rate of export since November 2012, the Monitoring Group estimates that this number is rising to 24 million sacks per year and represents an overall international market value of 360 to 384 million USD, with profits divided along the charcoal trade supply chain, including for Al-Shabaab. In other words, the scale of charcoal export from Somalia has increased by 140 per cent.

3. This increased production has devastating environmental effects. Based on UNEP calculations, the production of 24 million sacks of charcoal in 2012-2013 would require 10.5 million trees, and given the average density of 60 Acacia trees per hectare, the area of deforestation would cover 676 square miles, which is larger than the city of Houston, Texas in the United States.<sup>2</sup> The level of increased production makes this trade ultimately unsustainable, but destructive to Somalia's few fertile areas in the meantime.

Port of Kismayo

4. While the Monitoring Group has generally been able to track some 70-80 per cent of charcoal exports from Kismayo through shipping cargo records, imports at destinations, and other photographic and documentary sources, it was aware that its data was incomplete. Through the course of its mandate, further photographic and documentary evidence, as well as testimonies of charcoal traders, revealed additional shipping. On the preponderance of the evidence compiled, including average shipping rates, the Monitoring Group conservatively estimates that, since November 2012, approximately one million sacks of charcoal valued at 15 to 16 million USD have been exported on a monthly basis.. Charcoal traders in Dubai claim the amount to be far more, but the Monitoring Group could not verify how much more.<sup>3</sup> Although, the Monitoring Group bases its estimates on 25-kilogram sacks, while charcoal sacks exported from Kismayo range from 25 to 35 kilograms and in some cases they may be as large as 50 kilograms.

5. The port of Kismayo has the capacity to dock more than 22 dhows and one to two ships at a time. The Monitoring Group confirmed that since November 2012, on average 17 vessels docked at Kismayo port at any given time.<sup>4</sup> It can take up to a week for a vessel to offload its cargo and reload manually.<sup>5</sup> In principle, therefore, the port has the capacity to service 88 vessels in a month, but more realistically given the port operations and infrastructure it could service about 50 vessels. Analysis of data collected during port visits (between November 2012 and May 2013) indicates that Kismayo port serviced an average of 29 vessels per month, including about two of these being larger ships.<sup>6</sup> In December 2012, for instance, the Monitoring Group confirmed that 31 dhows and two ships loaded charcoal for export from Kismayo (see annex 9.2.a).<sup>7</sup>

6. Smaller wooden boats or dhows on average load 33,000 sacks of charcoal weighing 25 kilograms, but have the capacity to load up to 50,000 sacks. Larger ships can load 100,000 to 150,000 sacks, or more depending upon the size of the vessel.<sup>8</sup> Given the average shipping traffic of 29 vessels, including two larger ships, confirms the conservative estimate that at least one million sacks or 25 million kilograms of charcoal have been exported per month from the port of Kismayo (see annex 9.2.a to view monthly aerial photos of the port).

Natural port of Barawe

7. Barawe, located north of Kismayo, remains under Al-Shabaab control and therefore is inaccessible and more difficult to monitor. Barawe is a natural beach port requiring ships to anchor offshore. Consequently, charcoal is first loaded onto smaller boats that then transfer the cargo to the ships offshore, a more time-consuming process. Dhow traffic is less frequent than Kismayo, with some 21 dhows anchoring off Barawe between February and May 2013. In addition, the Monitoring Group has been able to confirm that since October 2012 approximately six large ships per month loaded charcoal for export.<sup>9</sup> Based on the rate and capacity of the shipping traffic, the Monitoring Group estimates that between 600,000 and one million sacks of charcoal were likely loaded each month at Barawe. Since Al-Shabaab taxes charcoal at the rate of 2 USD per sack, the likely revenue for Al-Shabaab potentially amounts to 1.2 to 2 million USD per month. The main company in Barawe exporting charcoal is called "Taqfir." <sup>10</sup>

Charcoal production and Al-Shabaab

8. Charcoal is produced by cutting down and burning the Acacia bussei tree, which is a slow-burning hardwood this is prized by charcoal brokers for its longer burn-time and aromatic scent used as a luxury commodity for flavouring grilled meat in the Middle East.<sup>11</sup> The Kismayo area in particular is known for the highest quality charcoal in Somalia since the density of the wood produces larger pieces of charcoal. The majority of charcoal production occurs in southern Somalia in Al-Shabaab-controlled areas where the local market value of each sack of charcoal is 5 to 6 USD.

9. As production of charcoal dramatically increased in Badade, by February 2013, between 90 and 100 trucks daily were transporting charcoal to Kismayo.<sup>12</sup> At the Buulo Xaaji checkpoint, Al-Shabaab was taxing smaller 5-ton trucks 250 USD each and larger 12-ton trucks 500 USD each. As such, the daily revenue potential for Al-Shabaab at this one checkpoint amounted to between 22,500 USD and 50,000 USD, which equates to a monthly revenue income of between 675,000 USD and 1.5 million USD. However, this checkpoint is exceptional, given production in Badade, and is unlikely to remain generating this revenue for an extended period. Indeed, the location of checkpoints is fluid and depends on the potential advantage to be gained.

Kismayo charcoal traders

10. In addition to the 30 traders who identified themselves in the 22 October 2012 petition requesting a temporary lifting of the charcoal ban (see annex 9.1.a), the Monitoring Group has identified a broader list of 39 charcoal traders, of which about half are from the Majeerteen clan.<sup>13</sup> Many of the traders are Kenyan Somali and operate between Kismayo, Garissa in northeastern Kenya and Nairobi. These traders act as brokers for larger traders mostly in the UAE and representatives for individual consignments of charcoal being exported. They all operated in Kismayo throughout the period of Al-Shabaab's control. While some dealt with Al-Shabaab as a matter of practicality or for personal and clan reasons, others operated and continue to operate on behalf of Al-Shabaab. In addition, since most charcoal production is in Al-Shabaab-controlled areas, the traders necessarily need to maintain at the minimum commercial and logistical links with Al-Shabaab.<sup>14</sup> Indeed, months after KDF/AMISOM took control of Kismayo, Al-Shabaab flags painted on buildings have still not been removed due to local opposition.

City of Kismayo on 12 April 2013

11. Of the Kismayo traders identified to have strong links with Al-Shabaab, there are two key businessmen responsible for a significant portion of the charcoal exports. First, Hassan Mohamud Yusuf (a.k.a. 'Awlibaax') from the Mareehan clan is the Chairman of the Juba Business Committee, which is a coalition of charcoal traders, and organized the 22 October petition (see annex 9.1.a). He has commercial and political links to Al-Shabaab, and represents their shareholding interests in Kismayo.<sup>16</sup> In addition, he is linked to the key charcoal businessman in Dubai, Saleh Da'ud Abdulla, whose ideological affiliation with Al-Shabaab has been previously identified by the Monitoring Group.<sup>17</sup> Second, Ali Ahmed Naaji, from the minority Cawro-maleh clan, arranges or provides loans to Al-Shabaab, and makes investments for them in South Sudan.<sup>18</sup> Of the 39 charcoal traders identified, the Monitoring Group calculates, based on port records indicating representatives of consignments, that Yusuf and Naaji control approximately 32 per cent of charcoal exports from Kismayo, mostly destined for Dubai, UAE.<sup>19</sup>

Charcoal businessmen in the GCC

12. Amongst charcoal traders in the Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC) countries, the Monitoring Group has identified six largest businessmen in Dubai, UAE, to be: Saleh Da'ud Abdulla (Al Baoon Trading Company); Baba Mansoor Ghayedi, (a.k.a. 'Haji Baba') (Al Qaed International General

13. Of these charcoal enterprises, Da'ud's Al Baoon Trading Company, previously described by the Monitoring Group,<sup>21</sup> and Haji Baba's Al Qaed International General Trading L.L.C. (see annex 9.2.b) control the majority of the market share in charcoal.

Al Baoon Trading Company

14. In 2011, the Monitoring Group identified Saleh Da'ud Abdulla, the owner of Al Baoon, as the most important trader exporting charcoal from then Al-Shabaab-controlled Kismayo and Barawe. He was described as an ideological affiliate of Al-Shabaab and a close business associate of Hassan Dheere, a high-ranking Al-Shabaab officer in Barawe.<sup>22</sup>

15. On 9 July 2012, Da'ud chartered the MV Robastar (IMO #8211590) to load 180,000 to 200,000 sacks of charcoal in Barawe for delivery to the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia (see annex 9.2.c). On 1 December 2012, the Robastar loaded 124,000 sacks of charcoal at the port of Kismayo. Da'ud<sup>23</sup> had chartered the vessel and Hassan Mohamud Yusuf (a.k.a. 'Awlibaax'), the charcoal trader in Kismayo, was the port representative for this consignment.<sup>24</sup>

16. Al Baoon is the listed owner of the MV Alba Star (IMO #8507561), which was observed loading charcoal at Barawe on 20 January 2013. On 29 January 2013, an eyewitness observed the MV Alba Star returning to the port of Barawe because of suspicious smoke on board the vessel. The charcoal on board had caught fire and had to be off-loaded in order to survey damage to the ship.<sup>25</sup> The MV Alba Star was also observed in Barawe on 21 February 2012 loading charcoal.

17. Hamil al-Misk, a Saudi Arabian company linked to Da'ud and another large charcoal trader in Dubai, Abdulshakkuur Ismail Farah, chartered the MV Loai IV (IMO #8221911)<sup>26</sup> to transport Somali charcoal to the Port of Jizan, Saudi Arabia. Loai Petroleum DMCC, located in Jumeirah Lake Towers, Dubai, UAE, is the owner of the Loai IV, which loaded between 100,000 and 150,000 sacks of charcoal in Barawe on 12 November 2012.<sup>27</sup> On 14 November 2012, in spite of the Security Council ban, Hamil al-Misk received a waiver from the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia to import 1,714,000 bags of charcoal purchased from Somalia (see annex 9.2.d). Instead of proceeding to Saudi Arabia, the Loai IV delivered the charcoal to Egypt. Hamil al-Misk initiated a legal suit in Egypt against Loai Petroleum DMCC, and the court ruled that the cargo belonged to Hamil al-Misk. However the decision was appealed and the cargo and ship are still at anchorage in Egypt pending the outcome of the case.<sup>28</sup>

Al Qaed International General Trading L.L.C.

18. The largest purchaser of charcoal in Dubai is Al Qaed International General Trading, which is owned by Baba Mansoor Ghayedi (a.k.a. Haji Baba).<sup>29</sup> Haji Baba is an Iranian national who has resided in Dubai for the past 17 years and has been involved in the importation of Somali charcoal for over 12 years. He described himself to the Monitoring Group as the "King of Charcoal" and said that he controls the charcoal market in Dubai.<sup>30</sup> One of his suppliers is Hassan Diriye Farah (a.k.a. 'Dhurxul') of Wadi al Hejaz General Trading,<sup>31</sup> who was previously identified by the Monitoring Group as a major UAE-based charcoal trader<sup>32</sup> and who continues to be an active charcoal trader.

19. Contradicting his initial sentiments, Haji Baba subsequently claimed to the Monitoring Group that he has not imported Somali charcoal to the UAE since June 2012, and he only purchases charcoal at the Creek of Sharjah, after it has been processed by customs officials. He stated the paperwork indicates that the charcoal originates from Djibouti and Kenya, where charcoal exportation is also prohibited domestically.<sup>33</sup> In order to avoid the Security Council charcoal ban, many traders are obtaining false bills of lading from third countries to cover their trade in Somali charcoal (see annex 9.2.e).<sup>34</sup>

20. Despite his claim that he has not traded in Somali charcoal, in December 2012, Haji Baba chartered the Seagull D (IMO #8014382) to load 160,000 sacks of charcoal destined for Lebanon.<sup>35</sup> He arranged the charter through Abdihakim Musse Gelle, an agent for the Seagull D who works for a Syrian individual named "Abu Noor". On 1 December 2012, the Seagull D loaded 140,000 sacks of charcoal in Kismayo.<sup>36</sup> This vessel had originally been chartered by Da'ud under the company name Hamil al-Misk to export charcoal to Saudi Arabia. Between 8 and 14 December 2012, the Seagull D arrived in Barawe and loaded and unknown quantity of charcoal.<sup>37</sup> The charcoal was delivered to Lebanon and a court case over the ownership of the charcoal ensued.

21. Notably, on 18 September 2012, the UAE Permanent Representative to the United Nations in New York, sent an official correspondence to the Monitoring Group regarding an impounded shipment of 100,000 bags of Somali charcoal in the UAE (see annex 9.2.f). The Monitoring Group requested the UAE for additional details of the shipment but was unable to obtain any further information. Several charcoal traders in Dubai confirmed that the ship was the MV Nabil H (IMO#7911698),<sup>38</sup> and that the consignee for the shipment of the charcoal was Haji Baba. After 10,000 sacks were offloaded in Dubai, and at a certain point the charcoal was reloaded and the vessel left the port. The vessel was re-routed to Saudi Arabia, where it finally offloaded the charcoal.<sup>39</sup>

Al Aqeed General Trading

22. Notably, Haji Baba had a contract with Abdulshakkur Ismail Farah, the owner of Hamil al-Misk in partnership with Da'ud, to purchase 74,000 sacks of Somali charcoal to be imported into

Kuwait in violation of the ban (see annex 9.2.g). The contract specified that the cargo would be transported on the MV Fadhil Rabi (IMO #7223039).<sup>40</sup>

23. On 30 October 2012, the Fadhil Rabi was photographed docked at the port of Kismayo and had already unloaded sugar and cement. The Monitoring Group learnt that Dahir Sheikh Omar Mohammed of Al Aqeed General Trading was managing this vessel, and contacted him on 4 November 2012. He stated that the ships and dhows docked in Kismayo were waiting for the Somali Government to authorize the loading of charcoal. By 5 November 2012, dhows had been loading with charcoal to be exported to the UAE. Dahir stated that the Fadhil Rabi left Kismayo that day empty.

24. On 20 November 2012, the Monitoring Group spoke again with Dahir, who stated that the Fadhil Rabi, after leaving Kismayo empty, was currently in Mogadishu loading cement and lemons to be transported to Dubai. However, the Monitoring Group obtained shipping data indicating that on 17 November 2012, the Fadhil Rabi completed loading 74,798 sacks of charcoal (1,869,950 kilograms) in Kismayo.<sup>41</sup> On 29 November 2012, the Fadhil Rabi was at the port of Mogadishu off-loading general cargo.

25. Al Aqeed General Trading is also linked to several ships and dhows that have transported charcoal from Kismayo and Barawe to Dubai.

Kismayo General Trading L.L.C.

26. Dahir Sheikh Omar Mohammed is also in partnership and shares an office with Basheer Khalif Moosa of Kismayo General Trading L.L.C. Dubai-based charcoal traders have described him as the "Father of all Dhows". On 7 January 2013, the MSV Al-Yusuf imported 47,663 sacks of charcoal (1,191,575 kilograms). The bill of lading indicated that this consignment was from Djibouti, the consignee was Kismayo General Trading and the shipper was Red Sea Transit and Transport in Djibouti (see annex 9.2.h). However, the MSV Al-Yusuf was docked in Kismayo on 24 December 2012, and the charcoal trader responsible for the consignment was Ali Naaji.<sup>42</sup> There is further evidence that the MSV Al-Yusuf loaded charcoal in Kismayo on 4 November 2012.<sup>43</sup> Basheer is connected to Red Sea Transit, and has been using them to obtain false bills of lading to import Somali charcoal.

Other charcoal shipments

27. Gulf of Aden Shipping L.L.C. is the manager of the MV Topaz II (IMO #7924839), which loaded charcoal at Barawe in October 2012. Dubai-based shippers have stated that this company is using large ships to regularly import multiple loads of charcoal into Dubai.<sup>45</sup>

28. On 4 May 2013, the MV Soleil (IMO #8300482) (formerly named the MV Lady Jana) was photographed filled with charcoal at Port Rashid, Dubai, UAE (see annex 9.2.i).<sup>46</sup> In October 2012, this vessel was observed loading charcoal at Barawe.

29. On 27 September 2012, the MV Star Island H (IMO #8114364) loaded 140,000 bags of charcoal in Barawe to be shipped to the Port of Jizan, Saudi Arabia. The consignee for this cargo was Al Mudara Trading Est., located in Saudi Arabia, and the shipper was Horyal Trading Company in Barawe (see annex 9.2.j). The contact person for Al Mudara Trading is Saud Nasser Al-Mdra'a, who was identified as an importer of Somali charcoal in the previous Monitoring Group report.<sup>47</sup>

30. The Monitoring Group also identified in its previous report Talal Al-Saa'di, who is based in Riyadh and regularly imports charcoal from Barawe and Kismayo. Al-Saa'di imported Somali charcoal into Saudi Arabia on the MV Victoria (IMO#7906203), which is managed by Ajman Shipping & Trading. In May 2012, Al-Saa'di shipped approximately 100,000 bags of charcoal from Barawe to the Port of Jizan on the MV Victoria.<sup>48</sup> According to Mogadishu port records, the agent listed for the MV Victoria is Al Aqeed General Trading, which is owned/managed by Dahir Sheikh Omar Mohammed. On 12 November 2012 and 14 February 2013, the MV Victoria was observed

The Charcoal – Sugar Trade Cycle

31. The Monitoring Group has previously established the cyclical trade involving the importation of sugar to Somalia and the export of charcoal on the same vessels (S/2011/433). This is a continuing trend that Da'ud has incorporated into his business model. Da'ud's ship, the MV Alba Star, delivered 4.2 million kilograms of sugar and 150,000 kilograms of rice to the port of Mogadishu on 22 November 2012. According to port records, the vessel did not load cargo at the port of Mogadishu. Given the loss incurred against the original delivery if a vessel sails empty, many traders will send their vessels to Barawe or Kismayo to load charcoal for their return trip to the GCC. Analysis of vessels offloading at the port of Mogadishu indicates that 26 per cent identify their next port of call as Kismayo. The majority of these vessels originated in the Dubai, UAE. Some vessels offload only a portion of their cargo in Mogadishu before heading to Kismayo, and possibly Barawe. There are no destinations recorded for all other vessels.

32. The MV Victoria also transported sugar to the port of Mogadishu on 1 November 2012 before it was observed loading charcoal in Barawe on 12 November 2012. Its previous port of call was the Port of Salalah, Oman.<sup>51</sup>

33. Another ship that is part of this business model is the MV Diamond Sun (IMO #8701923), owned by Aland Shipping LTD in the Marshall Islands. According to charcoal traders, this vessel is being chartered by Mogadishu Stars,<sup>52</sup> which was previously identified by the Monitoring Group Report as a sugar trading company closely linked to Ali Ahmed Nur Jim'aale,<sup>53</sup> designated for targeted measures by the Committee on 17 February 2012. On 16 November 2012, the Diamond Sun loaded 82,321 bags of charcoal at the port of Kismayo. The Kismayo charcoal trader representing this consignment was the Al-Shabaab affiliated Chairman of the Juba Business Committee. Hassan Mohamud Yusuf (a.k.a. 'Awlibaax') and the shipment was destined for Dubai, UAE.<sup>54</sup> On 16 January 2013, the Diamond Sun offloaded sugar at the port of Mogadishu and identified its next port of call as Kismayo.<sup>55</sup> Mogadishu Stars also had a contract with UNSOA for weekly charcoal deliveries of 52,175 kilograms of charcoal for the Ugandan and Burundian contingents of AMISOM in Mogadishu. Additionally, Mogadishu Stars also had a contract with UNSOA for weekly charcoal deliveries of 52,175 kilograms of charcoal for the Ugandan and Burundian contingents in Mogadishu (see annex 9.2.k).

34. On 14 December 2012, the MV Ashraf B (IMO #7126360) was observed loading charcoal at Barawe.<sup>56</sup> On 6 March 2013, it offloaded sugar at the Port of Mogadishu. On 6 April 2013, a fire erupted on board the vessel while it was en route from Djibouti to Dubai and three crewmembers perished.<sup>57</sup> Sources stated that the charcoal on the vessel caught fire,<sup>58</sup> which is not uncommon when transporting large quantities of charcoal, and the Ashraf B did not load any cargo before leaving Mogadishu.

Importing States

35. GCC countries continue to be the principal importers of Somali charcoal in violation of the Security Council ban. During the reporting period, , the main destinations have included the UAE and Saudi Arabia, as well as Egypt, Lebanon, Oman, Kuwait and Yemen.<sup>59 60</sup>

36. There are strong links between the Kismayo charcoal traders and the large charcoal businessmen in Dubai (see annex 9.2.1). The main offloading point for most dhows arriving into the UAE is the Creek of Sharjah, which is not secured and appears to be only minimally inspected by UAE officials. At any given time there are large numbers of dhows offloading charcoal, and crewmembers freely admit they have sailed from Somalia. On multiple occasions, the Monitoring Group has observed the offloading of Somali charcoal at the Creek of Sharjah (see annexes 9.2.m.i-vi).

37. On 6 December 2012, the UAE submitted to the Committee its report on implementation of Security Council resolution 2036 (2012), but domestic measures are yet to reduce the imports of charcoal from Somalia.

38. In the previous report of the Monitoring Group (S/2012/544), Saudi Arabia was noted as the top importer of charcoal in 2012. Currently, the Monitoring Group can confirm that charcoal is still being imported into Saudi Arabia, and the Government has on at least one occasion provided a waiver to import Somali charcoal in violation of the ban (see above and annex 9.2.d).

39. On 28 March 2013, the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia submitted to the Committee its report on implementation of Security Council resolution 2036 (2012), but domestic measures are yet to reduce the imports of charcoal from Somalia.

Sir.

I should like to make reference to the request presented by Hamil al-Misk Company on 21 Dhu'lqa'dah A.H. 1433 concerning the import of charcoal purchased from Somalia and for which the amount specified has been paid. The sum of 32,340,000 riyals was paid for 1,714,000 bags of charcoal, the import of which was agreed prior to the promulgation of the ban.

I bring this case to the attention of the General Director and recommend that, given the current circumstances, the above-mentioned quantity should be released on this occasion because the contract for the purchase of this shipment was concluded prior to the promulgation of the ban.

I hope that you will review the case and instruct that customs procedures in respect of the quantity specified above should be completed. The importers should pledge that, in the future, they will not import charcoal from Somalia while the ban is in effect.

Accept, Sir, the assurances of my highest consideration.
