I. Introduction

1. The Economic and Social Council, by resolution 1996/41 of 26 July 1996, which it adopted pursuant to its consideration of the follow-up to General Assembly resolution 50/227 of 24 May 1996, requested the Secretary-General to prepare a comprehensive document compiling information on the functional commissions and expert groups and bodies and to submit it to the Council. Consequently, a report entitled “Subsidiary bodies of the Economic and Social Council and the General Assembly in the economic, social and related fields” (E/1996/97) was presented to the Council at its resumed substantive session of 1996. An addendum to that report (E/1996/97/Add.1) provided further information on the working methods of the functional commissions and expert groups of the Council. An updated version of the report was submitted to the Council in a note by the Secretary-General at its substantive session of 2001 (E/2001/INF/3).

2. To reflect changes made to the number, structure and terms of reference of the subsidiary bodies and their working methods in the context of the restructuring and revitalization of the United Nations in the economic, social and related fields carried out by the Council and the General Assembly, in particular with the aim of achieving the goals set out in the United Nations Millennium Declaration1 and the 2005 World Summit Outcome,2 an updated note was issued in document E/2008/INF/3.

3. Since the issuance of that note, subsidiary bodies have continued to adjust their methods of work. In addition, a number of landmark documents have been adopted, including General Assembly resolution 66/288 of 27 July 2012 entitled “The future we want”; resolution 69/313 of 27 July 2015 entitled “Addis Ababa Action Agenda of the Third International Conference on Financing for Development (Addis Ababa Action Agenda)”; and resolution 70/1 of 25 September 2015 entitled “Transforming our world: the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development”, which have resulted in changes to the intergovernmental machinery. The present note (part I) provides information on the status of the subsidiary bodies of the Council in the economic, social and related fields. It is intended as a reference tool, providing in a readily accessible format information on the intergovernmental and expert machinery in these fields and thereby supporting the intergovernmental mechanisms in the implementation of their respective mandates and goals.

4. For each subsidiary body, information is given concerning its establishment and terms of reference, membership and composition, the term of office of its members, its reporting procedure and the frequency of its sessions. Election of bureaux, multi-year work programmes and working methods are also described, as applicable. Section I contains information on the subsidiary bodies of the Economic and Social Council, which have been grouped, on the basis of their institutional status, into seven categories: (a) functional commissions, (b) regional commissions, (c) standing committees, (d) ad hoc committees, (e) expert bodies composed of governmental experts, (f) expert bodies composed of members serving in their personal capacity and (g) related bodies.

5. Information on the subsidiary bodies of the General Assembly in the economic, social and related fields will be included in part II of the present document, to be issued separately. Part II will also include information on the high-level political forum on sustainable development, the Economic and Social Council forum on financing for development follow-up and the multi-stakeholder forum on science, technology and innovation for the Sustainable Development Goals established pursuant to Assembly resolutions 66/288, 67/290 of 9 July 2013, 69/313 and 70/1.

II. Subsidiary bodies of the Economic and Social Council

A. Functional commissions

1. Statistical Commission

Website: https://unstats.un.org/unsd/statcom/

Terms of reference

6. The Statistical Commission was established by the Council in its resolution 8 (I) of 16 and 18 February 1946. Its terms of reference were set out in resolutions 8 (I), 8 (II) of 21 June 1946 and 1566 (L) of 3 May 1971.

7. In accordance with resolutions 8 (I) and 8 (II), the Commission assists the Council:

   (a) In promoting the development of national statistics and the improvement of their comparability;

   (b) In the coordination of the statistical work of specialized agencies;

   (c) In the development of the central statistical services of the Secretariat;

   (d) In advising the organs of the United Nations on general questions relating to the collection, analysis and dissemination of statistical information;

   (e) In promoting the improvement of statistics and statistical methods generally.

8. In paragraph 2 of its resolution 1566 (L), the Council considered that the ultimate goal of the work of the Commission should be the achievement of an integrated system in the collection, data processing and dissemination of international statistics by the organs and agencies of the United Nations system with special regard to the requirements of reviewing and appraising economic and social progress, taking into account the needs of the developing countries.

Membership and composition

9. In accordance with paragraph 3 of Council resolution 1147 (XLI) of 4 August 1966, the Statistical Commission consists of one representative from each of 24 Member States elected by the Council on the basis of an equitable geographical distribution, according to the following pattern:

   (a) Five members from African States;

   (b) Four members from Asia-Pacific States;

   (c) Four members from Latin American and Caribbean States;

   (d) Seven members from Western European and other States;

   (e) Four members from Eastern European States.

With a view to securing a balanced representation in the various fields covered by the Commission, the Secretary-General consults with the Governments thus elected before the representatives are nominated by those Governments and confirmed by the Council.
Term of office
10. The term of office of members is four years (Council resolution 591 (XX) of 5 August 1955).

Reporting procedure
11. The Commission reports directly to the Council. Its report is presented as a supplement to the Official Records of the Economic and Social Council.

Frequency of meetings
12. The Commission meets annually for four working days (Council resolution 1999/8 of 26 July 1999).

Multi-year programme of work
13. The Commission adopts annually a multi-year programme of work relating to the three subsequent sessions. At its forty-ninth session, the Commission approved its programme of work for the period 2018–2022.

Election and term of office of the Bureau
14. The Bureau is normally elected at the first meeting of the session. The Bureau serves for two years. This is achieved by electing the Bureau for a period of one year and re-electing those members of the Bureau who continue to be representatives to the Commission at the following session. The Bureau is elected based on the principle of equitable geographical distribution — a member of the Bureau is elected from each of the regions represented on the Commission. The position of Chair of the Commission rotates on a geographical basis in principle. There is, at the same time, an understanding among members of the Commission that competence and familiarity with the issues being considered at the session are the most important criteria to be taken into account.

15. To ensure continuity, it is the Commission’s normal practice to elect one of the Vice-Chairs of the outgoing Bureau as Chair of the incoming Bureau.

16. The Bureau of the Commission plays a proactive role in the preparations for the session, including by formulating its draft programme of work and facilitating the communication with members of the respective regional groups on matters related to the work of the session.

Modalities for taking action and format for recommendations
17. There is an understanding among members of the Commission that action on draft proposals and texts should be taken without a vote.

18. There are no Chair’s summaries as such.

Utilization of informal consultations
19. It has been the practice of the Commission for the Rapporteur to prepare the texts of the draft report in consultation with the Secretariat and members of the Commission. Informal consultations as such do not take place.

Role of the Secretariat
20. The Secretariat traditionally assists the members of the Commission by undertaking both substantive and technical support roles. The substantive secretariat assists delegations in the drafting of texts, at their request, assisting them during informal consultations on draft resolutions, providing information on various substantive matters as well as facilitating the application of United Nations editorial practice. The technical secretariat is responsible for the organizational and procedural aspects of support to the work of the Commission, including through the provision of advice to the presiding officer and the Bureau on the rules of procedure and past practice, and in the drafting of the report of the session.

Inclusion of a general debate in the work programme

21. The Commission holds a general discussion, sequentially, on each agenda item.

Utilization of panel discussions and/or question-and-answer sessions

22. It is not the practice of the Commission to hold panel discussions or question-and-answer sessions.

2. Commission on Population and Development

Terms of reference

23. The Population Commission was established by the Economic and Social Council in its resolution 3 (III) of 3 October 1946. Its original terms of reference are set out in Council resolution 150 (VII) of 10 August 1948.

24. In paragraph 24 of its resolution 49/128 of 19 December 1994, the General Assembly decided that the Commission should be renamed the Commission on Population and Development (see also Economic and Social Council decision 1995/209 of 10 February 1995). In paragraph 23 of the same resolution, the Assembly decided that it, the Council and the Commission should constitute a three-tiered intergovernmental mechanism that would play the primary role in the follow-up to the implementation of the Programme of Action of the International Conference on Population and Development, and that the Commission, as a functional commission assisting the Council, would monitor, review and assess the implementation of the Programme of Action at the national, regional and international levels and advise the Council thereon.

25. In its resolution 2016/25 of 27 July 2016, the Council affirmed that the Commission would contribute to the follow-up and review of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development within its existing mandate, and that the contribution of the Commission should reflect the integrated nature of the Sustainable Development Goals, as well as their interlinkages.

26. According to the Commission’s terms of reference, which were amended and endorsed by the Council in paragraph 3 of its resolution 1995/55 of 28 July 1995, the Commission is to assist the Council by:

(a) Arranging for studies and advising the Council on:
   (i) Population issues and trends, including determinants and consequences;
   (ii) Integrating population and development strategies;
   (iii) Population and related development policies and programmes;

(iv) Provision of population assistance, upon request, to developing countries and, on a temporary basis, to countries with economies in transition;

(v) Any other population and development questions on which either the principal or the subsidiary organs of the United Nations or the specialized agencies may seek advice;

(b) Monitoring, reviewing and assessing the implementation of the Programme of Action of the International Conference on Population and Development at the national, regional and global levels, identifying reasons for success and failure, and advising the Council thereon. Such considerations shall include:

(i) Adopting a topic-oriented and prioritized multi-year work programme, culminating in a quinquennial review and appraisal of the Programme of Action. That work programme, inter alia, will provide a framework to assess the progress achieved in the implementation of the Programme of Action;

(ii) Monitoring the implementation of the Programme of Action through periodic reports on population trends and policies, population programmes and population and related development activities;

(iii) Reviewing on a regular basis the flow of financial resources and the funding mechanisms to achieve the goals and objectives of the Programme of Action;

(iv) Undertaking a quinquennial review and appraisal of the progress made in achieving the goals and objectives of the Programme of Action and in implementing its recommendations, and reporting its findings to the Council;

(v) Maintaining and enhancing public attention and support for the implementation of the Programme of Action, through the dissemination of its monitoring, review and assessment reports in a concise and clear format;

(vi) Considering the reports of the meetings of inter-agency mechanisms established by the Secretary-General to ensure coordination, collaboration and harmonization in the implementation of the Programme of Action;

(vii) Considering reports on the activities of intergovernmental and non-governmental organizations for the implementation of the Programme of Action, in accordance with the arrangements adopted by the Economic and Social Council for consultation with those organizations;

(c) Providing appropriate recommendations to the Council, on the basis of an integrated consideration of the reports and issues related to the implementation of the Programme of Action;

(d) Reviewing the findings of research and analysis pertaining to the interrelationship between population and development at the national, regional and global levels and advising the Council thereon.

Membership and composition

27. In accordance with Council decision 1995/320 of 12 December 1995, the Commission consists of one representative from each of 47 States Members of the United Nations and members of the specialized agencies elected by the Council on the basis of an equitable geographical distribution, according to the following pattern:

(a) Twelve members from African States;

(b) Eleven members from Asia-Pacific States;
(c) Five members from Eastern European States;
(d) Nine members from Latin American and Caribbean States;
(e) Ten members from Western European and other States.

28. In its decision 88 (LVIII) of 6 May 1975, the Council decided that, in accordance with established procedures, the Secretary-General should consult with the Governments elected to serve on the Commission about the nomination of their representatives, in order to ensure a balance in representation of the various disciplines covered by the work of the Commission.

29. In order to maintain close liaison with other bodies concerned with population issues, the Commission invites representatives from other functional commissions to take part in its proceedings without the right to vote.

Term of office

30. In its decision 2005/213 of 31 March 2005, the Council decided that the term of office of members of the Commission would be for four regular sessions of the Commission, to begin immediately after the conclusion of the Commission’s regular session held after 1 January, following their election by the Council, and to end at the conclusion of the regular session held after 1 January, following the election of the States that were to succeed them as members, unless they were re-elected.

Reporting procedure

31. The Commission reports directly to the Council. Its report is presented as a supplement to the Official Records of the Economic and Social Council.

Frequency of meetings

32. The Commission meets annually (General Assembly resolution 49/128 and Council decision 1995/209), usually for five working days.

Multi-year programme of work

33. In its decision 2017/260 of 7 July 2017, the Council decided that, starting with its fifty-third session, in 2020, the Commission would adopt a four-year cycle for the review and appraisal of the implementation of the Programme of Action of the International Conference on Population and Development and its contribution to the follow-up and review of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, as part of a multi-year work programme aligned with the main theme of the Council and with the thematic focus of the high-level political forum on sustainable development, convened under the auspices of the Council.

Election and term of office of the Bureau

34. The Bureau of the Commission is elected at the first meeting of each session, which is held immediately following the closure of the preceding session for the sole purpose of the election (Commission decision 2004/2 and Council decision 2005/213). The members of the Bureau hold office for one year. In order to ensure continuity, efforts have been made to elect at least one member of the previous Bureau to the incoming one.

35. At its thirty-seventh session, held in 2004, the Commission decided to establish a system of regular geographical rotation for the chairmanship of the Commission (Commission decision 2004/2; see also its decision 2005/2).
36. The Bureau of the Commission, in particular the Chair, plays a proactive role in the preparations for the session, including through briefings on organizational and substantive matters, consultations with Member States and oversight in the selection of invited speakers. To ensure the transparency of these preparations, minutes of Bureau meetings are prepared and shared by Bureau members with their respective regional groups.

 Modalities for taking action and format for recommendations

37. There is no formal or informal agreement that action should be taken by consensus. The Commission takes action through decisions and resolutions.

 Utilization of informal consultations

38. The Commission holds informal consultations on all texts under consideration.

 Role of the Secretariat

39. The Secretariat traditionally assists the members of the Commission by providing substantive and technical secretariat support. The substantive secretariat assists the Chair in the drafting of texts, assists facilitators and delegations during informal consultations on draft resolutions or decisions and provides information and advice on substantive matters. The technical secretariat is responsible for the organizational and procedural aspects of support to the Commission’s work, including through the provision of advice to the presiding officer and the Bureau on the rules of procedure and past practice, and in the drafting of the report on the session.

 Inclusion of a general debate in the work programme

40. Two sub-items are included under the item on the general debate, one focusing on actions for the further implementation of the Programme of Action at the global, regional and national levels, and one focusing on the special theme of the Commission (Council resolution 2016/25).

 Utilization of panel discussions and/or question-and-answer sessions

41. The Commission holds panel discussions and engages in question-and-answer sessions.

3. Commission for Social Development

 Terms of reference

As a result of a comprehensive reappraisal of the role of the Commission, the Council, in resolution 1139 (XLI) of 29 July 1966, renamed it the Commission for Social Development in order to clarify its role as a preparatory body of the Council in the whole range of social development policy.

43. In accordance with Council resolutions 10 (II) and 1139 (XLI), the terms of reference of the Commission are:

(a) To advise the Council on social questions of a general character and give particular attention to policies designed to promote social progress, to the establishment of social objectives and programme priorities and to social research in areas affecting social and economic development;
(b) To advise the Council on practical measures that may be needed in the social field, including questions of social welfare, community development, urbanization, housing and social defence;

(f) To advise the Council also on vital social problems in respect of which action or recommendations may be required either by the Council itself or by the General Assembly in accordance with Assembly resolution 2035 (XX).

44. In its resolution 50/161 of 22 December 1995, the General Assembly decided that the Assembly, through its role in policy formulation, the Council, through its role in overall guidance and coordination, and the Commission should constitute a three-tiered intergovernmental process in the follow-up to the implementation of the Copenhagen Declaration on Social Development and Programme of Action of the World Summit for Social Development. 4

45. In its resolution 1996/7 of 22 July 1996, on the follow-up to the Summit and the future role of the Commission, the Council added to its terms of reference, deciding that the Commission should assist it in monitoring, reviewing and appraising the progress achieved and problems encountered in the implementation of the Copenhagen Declaration and Programme of Action and advise it thereon, and should:

(d) Make recommendations regarding social development to the Council;

(e) Elaborate practical measures aimed at furthering recommendations of the Summit;

(f) Identify issues requiring improved system-wide coordination, taking into account substantive inputs from different organizations of the United Nations system, as well as the contributions of other functional commissions concerned, in order to assist the Council in its coordination functions;

(g) Maintain and enhance public awareness and support for the implementation of the Copenhagen Declaration and Programme of Action.

46. The Commission also has the primary responsibility for the follow-up to the outcome of the twenty-fourth special session of the General Assembly5 and serves as the main United Nations forum for an intensified global dialogue on social development issues and in promoting the integrated treatment of social development issues in the United Nations system (see Council resolution 2018/3 of 17 April 2018).

47. The Commission reports on social aspects related to the annual theme of the Council (see Council resolution 2016/6 of 2 June 2016). It also contributes to the follow-up to the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, within its existing mandate, by supporting the thematic reviews of the high-level political forum on sustainable development on progress on the implementation of the Sustainable Development Goals, including cross-cutting issues, bearing in mind the need to reflect the integrated nature of the Goals as well as the interlinkages between them, while engaging all relevant stakeholders and feeding into and being aligned with the cycle of the high-level political forum, according to the organizational arrangements established by the General Assembly and the Council (see Council resolution 2018/3).

Membership and composition

48. In accordance with Economic and Social Council resolution 1996/7 of 22 July 1996, the Commission is composed of 46 members elected by the Council from among the States Members of the United Nations or members of the specialized agencies on the basis of an equitable geographical distribution, according to the following pattern:

(a) Twelve members from African States;
(b) Ten members from Asia-Pacific States;

In accordance with Council resolution 1139 (XLI), section IV, paragraph 1, the States elected to the Commission should nominate candidates who hold key positions in the planning or execution of national social development policies or other persons qualified to discuss the formulation of social policies in more than one sector of development.

Term of office

49. In its decision 2002/210 of 13 February 2002, on improvement of the work of the Commission, the Council decided that the term of office of the members of the Commission would be for four regular sessions of the Commission, to begin immediately after the conclusion of work of the Commission’s regular session held after 1 January following their election by the Council, and to end at the conclusion of the regular session held after 1 January following the election of the States that were to succeed them as members of the Commission, unless they were re-elected, and that, in that context, the provisions of General Assembly resolution 1798 (XVII) of 11 December 1962 would apply only to the substantive part of the sessions of the Commission.

Reporting procedure

50. The Commission reports directly to the Council. Its report is presented as a supplement to the Official Records of the Economic and Social Council.

Frequency of meetings

51. The Commission meets annually (Council resolution 1996/7), usually for eight working days.
Programme of work

52. In its resolution 2005/11, the Council decided that in order to fulfil its mandate, beginning with its forty-fifth session, the work of the Commission would be organized in a series of two-year action-oriented implementation cycles, which would include a review segment and a policy segment and that the Commission should strengthen the connection between its review of implementation and its policy recommendations. The Commission adopted a theme for each review and policy cycle through its fifty-sixth session, held in 2018.

53. In its resolution 2018/3, the Council decided that the Commission would consider one priority theme at each session on the basis of the follow-up to and review of the World Summit for Social Development and its linkages to the social dimensions of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development. The Council also requested the Commission to adopt a multi-year programme of work at the fifty-seventh session (in 2019) to allow for predictability and adequate time for preparation while taking into consideration, in selecting its theme, the programme of work of the Council and the 2030 Agenda, so as to build synergies and contribute to the work of the Council system and the high-level political forum on sustainable development.

Election and term of office of the Bureau

54. In its decision 2002/210, the Council decided that the Commission, immediately following the closure of a regular session, would hold the first meeting of its subsequent regular session for the sole purpose of electing the new Chair and other members of the Bureau, in accordance with rule 15 of the rules of procedure of the functional commissions of the Council. The members of the Bureau are elected for a term of office of two years (Council resolution 2016/6).

55. There is no established practice for rotation of members of the Bureau other than that based on the principle of equitable geographical distribution.

Modalities for taking action and format for recommendations

56. There is no formal agreement that action should be taken by consensus. While the Commission endeavours to take action by consensus, there are occasions when votes may be requested.

57. The Commission normally takes action through the adoption of draft resolutions and draft decisions. In its resolution 2018/3, the Council decided that the Commission should propose an action-oriented resolution under its annual priority theme with recommendations to the Council.

Utilization of informal consultations

58. It has been the practice of the Commission to hold informal consultations on all draft proposals.

Role of the Secretariat

59. The Secretariat traditionally assists the members of the Commission by providing substantive and technical secretariat support. The substantive secretariat assists delegations in the drafting of texts, at their request, assisting them during informal consultations on draft resolutions, as well as by providing information on various substantive matters. The technical secretariat is responsible for the organizational and procedural support to the work of the intergovernmental body, including through the provision of advice to the presiding officer and the Bureau on the rules of procedure and past practice, and in the drafting of the report of the session.
Inclusion of a general discussion in the work programme

60. The Commission used to hold a general discussion on each agenda item. Starting from the fifty-sixth session, in 2018, the Commission holds one general discussion of its substantive agenda item and its sub-items 3 (a) Priority theme, 3 (b) Review of relevant United Nations plans and programmes of action pertaining to the situation of social groups and 3 (c) Emerging issues, as a whole. Pursuant to Council resolution 2006/18 of 26 July 2006, the Commission decided to include the agenda item entitled “Emerging issues” in its programme of work and, in accordance with Council resolution 2014/3 of 12 June 2014, decided to utilize the agenda item, as appropriate, to promote consideration of relevant issues on the agenda of the Council, in particular the annual main theme of the Council and the integration segment linked thereto, which would bring together the key messages from the Council system on the main theme and develop action-oriented recommendations for follow-up.

Utilization of panel discussions and/or question-and-answer sessions

61. The Commission has held a number of panel discussions with invited experts. In its resolution 2018/3, the Council encouraged the Bureau of the Commission to continue to propose interactive dialogues, such as high-level events and ministerial and expert workshops that engage Member States and relevant stakeholders, so as to encourage dialogue and enhance the impact of its work, including by addressing the implementation of, follow-up to and review of the social dimension of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development.

62. Also in resolution 2018/3, the Council invited the Department of Economic and Social Affairs, the relevant specialized agencies, regional commissions, funds and programmes of the United Nations system and the international financial institutions to present their relevant activities and reports, which might contribute to the advancement of the priority theme, including by participating in interactive dialogues with Member States and relevant stakeholders.

63. The Commission encourages non-governmental organizations (NGOs), as well as other civil society actors, to participate, to the maximum extent possible, in line with Council resolution 1996/31 of 25 July 1996, in the work of the Commission and in the monitoring and implementation of the Copenhagen Declaration and Programme of Action and the outcome of the twenty-fourth special session of the General Assembly (Council resolution 2018/3).

Terms of reference

64. The Commission on the Status of Women was established by the Council in its resolution 11 (II) of 21 June 1946 to prepare recommendations and reports to the Council on promoting women’s rights in political, economic, civil, social and educational fields and to make recommendations to the Council on urgent problems requiring immediate attention in the field of women’s rights with the object of implementing the principle that men and women should have equal rights, and to develop proposals to give effect to such recommendations. In its resolution 1987/22 of 26 May 1987, the Council decided to expand the terms of reference of the Commission to include the functions of promoting the objectives of equality, development and peace, monitoring the implementation of measures for the advancement of women, and reviewing and appraising progress made at the national, subregional, regional, sectoral and global levels.
65. In its resolution 50/203 of 22 December 1995 on the implementation of the outcome of the Fourth World Conference on Women,⁶ the General Assembly decided that the Assembly, the Council and the Commission, in accordance with their respective mandates and with Assembly resolution 48/162 of 20 December 1993 and other relevant resolutions, should constitute a three-tiered intergovernmental mechanism that would play the primary role in the overall policymaking and follow-up, and in coordinating the implementation and monitoring of the Platform for Action adopted at the Conference.⁷ The Assembly also decided that the Commission, as a functional commission assisting the Council, should have a central role in the monitoring of the implementation of the Platform for Action within the United Nations system and in advising the Council thereon.

66. In its resolution 1996/6 of 22 July 1996, on follow-up to the Fourth World Conference on Women, the Council further modified the terms of reference of the Commission. It decided that the Commission should:

(a) Assist the Council in monitoring, reviewing and appraising progress achieved and problems encountered in the implementation of the Beijing Declaration and Platform for Action⁸ at all levels, and should advise the Council thereon;

(b) Continue to ensure support for mainstreaming a gender perspective in United Nations activities and develop further its catalytic role in that regard in other areas;

(c) Identify issues where United Nations system-wide coordination needed to be improved in order to assist the Council in its coordination function;

(d) Identify emerging issues, trends and new approaches to issues affecting the situation of women or equality between women and men that required consideration and make substantive recommendations thereon;

(e) Maintain and enhance public awareness and support for the implementation of the Platform for Action.

67. The Commission also has the primary responsibility for follow-up to the outcome of the twenty-third special session of the Assembly.⁹

68. In accordance with Council resolution 2015/6 of 8 June 2015, the Commission also contributes to the follow-up to the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development so as to accelerate the realization of gender equality and the empowerment of women. In selecting its priority theme, the Commission takes into consideration, in addition to the Beijing Platform for Action and the outcomes of the twenty-third special session of the General Assembly, the programme of work of the Council, as well as the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, so as to build synergies and contribute to the work of the Council system and the high-level political forum on sustainable development.

69. Furthermore, the Commission plays a catalytic role with respect to gender mainstreaming in the United Nations system, including in support of the implementation of the 2030 Agenda. Towards that end, the Commission cooperates with other intergovernmental processes and functional commissions through, as appropriate, the exchange of information and transmission of the outcomes of its work, joint informal interactive events and the participation of its Chair, in consultation with the Bureau, in relevant processes.

Membership and composition

70. In accordance with Council resolution 1989/45 of 24 May 1989, the Commission consists of one representative from each of 45 Member States elected by the Council on the basis of equitable geographical distribution, according to the following pattern:

(a) Thirteen members from African States;
(b) Eleven members from Asia-Pacific States;
(c) Nine members from Latin American and Caribbean States;
(d) Eight members from Western European and other States;
(e) Four members from Eastern European States.

Term of office

71. In its decision 2002/234 of 24 July 2002, the Council decided that the term of office of the members of the Commission would be for four regular sessions of the Commission, to begin immediately after the conclusion of work of the Commission’s regular session held after 1 January, following their election by the Council, and to end at the conclusion of the regular session held after 1 January, following the election of the States that were to succeed them as members of the Commission, unless they were re-elected.

Reporting procedure

72. The Commission reports directly to the Council. Its report is presented as a supplement to the Official Records of the Economic and Social Council.

Frequency of meetings

Multi-year programme of work

75. The Commission reviewed its methods of work in 2006 (Council resolution 2006/9, on the future organization and methods of work of the Commission), and confirmed them in 2009 (Council resolution 2009/15). In 2015, the Commission reviewed its methods of work with a view to further enhancing the impact of its work (Council resolution 2015/6, on the future organization and methods of work of the Commission on the Status of Women) and as a consequence, the Council requested the Commission to continue to apply a thematic approach to its work and to adopt a multi-year programme of work. The Council decided that the session of the Commission would include a ministerial segment; the Commission would continue to consider one priority theme at each session; the Commission would, as necessary, continue to discuss emerging issues, trends, focus areas and new approaches to questions affecting the situation of women, including equality between women and men; and, at each session, the Commission would evaluate progress in the implementation of the agreed conclusions on a priority theme of a previous session, as its review theme. The Commission selects its priority theme on the basis of the Beijing Platform for Action and the outcomes of the twenty-third special session of the General Assembly and possible linkages to the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development.

_Election and term of office of the Bureau_

76. In accordance with Economic and Social Council resolution 1987/21, the members of the Bureau serve for two years. Since the Commission meets annually, members are elected at the beginning of every other session. In its decision 2002/234, the Council decided that, starting with the forty-seventh session of the Commission in 2003, the Commission, immediately following the closure of a regular session, would hold the first meeting of its subsequent regular session for the sole purpose of electing the new Chair and other members of the Bureau, in accordance with rule 15 of the rules of procedure of the functional commissions of the Council.

77. There is no formalized practice for rotation of members of the Bureau other than that based on the principle of equitable geographical distribution.

78. The Bureau of the Commission plays a proactive role in the preparations for the session, including through regular briefings and consultations with Member States, and proposals for interactive dialogues, such as high-level events and ministerial and expert workshops that engage Member States and relevant stakeholders, so as to encourage dialogue and enhance the impact of the Commission’s work.

_Modalities for taking action and format for recommendations_

79. There is an understanding among members of the Commission on the desirability of taking action by consensus. If consensus is not possible, the Commission will take action by voting.

80. The Commission decided, at its fortieth session, in 1996, that the results of its dialogues would normally be reflected in concise, action-oriented agreed conclusions, and adopted agreed conclusions for the first time at that session. This was confirmed in Council resolution 2006/9.

81. In its resolution 2015/6, the Council further elaborated on this format when it decided that the outcome of the Commission’s annual discussions on the priority theme would be in the form of short and succinct agreed conclusions, negotiated by all Member States, which would focus on action-oriented recommendations for steps and measures to close remaining gaps, meet challenges and accelerate implementation, to be taken by Governments, relevant intergovernmental bodies, mechanisms and entities of the United Nations system and other relevant stakeholders, and that the agreed conclusions would be widely disseminated to the United Nations system and made widely available by all Member States to the public in their own countries so as to encourage follow-up action.

_Utilization of informal consultations_

82. The Commission holds informal consultations as required and, in particular, for purposes of elaborating its agreed conclusions.
Role of the Secretariat

83. The Secretariat provides information, identifies options available and assists in drafting proposals, at the request of delegations. It prepares proposals for the organization of the sessions and the conduct of business and assists in drafting the final report.

Inclusion of a general debate

84. The Commission holds, on an annual basis, a general discussion that commences during the ministerial segment on the follow-up to the Fourth World Conference on Women and to the twenty-third special session of the General Assembly. Statements identify goals attained, achievements made and efforts under way to close gaps and meet challenges in relation to the priority theme and the review theme.

Utilization of interactive dialogues and panel discussions

85. In pursuance of Council resolution 2015/6 on the future organization and methods of work of the Commission, the Commission’s ministerial segment includes ministerial round tables, as well as other high-level interactive dialogues to exchange experiences, lessons learned and good practices. Ministers and other high-level government representatives indicate in advance their preferences for participation in ministerial round tables and dialogues. Other stakeholders, including representatives from NGOs and other stakeholder groups, are also given the opportunity to participate.

86. The Commission also holds interactive expert panel discussions on the priority theme and an interactive dialogue on the emerging issue theme, as applicable. The Commission considers its review theme through an interactive dialogue that includes presentations by Member States of different regions, on a voluntary basis, of lessons learned, challenges and best practices, as well as an interactive expert panel discussion on addressing data gaps and challenges in the enhanced collection, reporting, use and analysis of data.

Participation of non-governmental organizations and other stakeholders

87. In view of the traditional importance of NGOs in the promotion of gender equality and the empowerment of women and girls, such organizations are encouraged to participate in the work of the Commission. The Commission allocates time for them to deliver statements on themes relevant to the session, during panels and interactive dialogues and at the end of the general discussion.

88. Other stakeholders, such as all gender-specific United Nations entities and other relevant United Nations entities, including the Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women, are also invited to contribute to the discussion of the Commission.

At that session, the Assembly adopted the outcome document entitled “Our joint commitment to effectively addressing and countering the world drug problem” (resolution S-30/1, annex, of 19 April 2016), which contained seven thematic chapters and more than 100 operational recommendations. In that outcome document, Member States resolved to take the steps necessary to implement the operational recommendations, in close partnership with the United Nations and other intergovernmental organizations and civil society, and to share with the Commission on Narcotic Drugs, as the policymaking body of the United Nations with prime responsibility for drug control matters, timely information on progress made in the implementation of the recommendations.
(iv) Governing body of the United Nations International Drug Control Programme

The Assembly, by the same resolution, established the Fund as from 1 January 1992, under the direct responsibility of the Executive Director of the Programme for the purpose of financing the Programme’s operational activities. The Fund accounts for over 90 per cent of the resources available to the United Nations for drug control.

Membership

94. The membership of the Commission was increased from 40 to 53 by the Council in its resolution 1991/49 of 21 June 1991, with the following distribution of seats among the regional groups:

   (a) Eleven for African States;

The Council also decided that the Commission should establish the Committee of the Whole to examine specific technical items on the agenda referred to it by the Commission, as well as draft decisions and draft resolutions, the Committee to meet concurrently with the annual session of the Commission for a period not exceeding four working days.

99. The Economic and Social Council, in its decision 2011/259 of 28 July 2011, entitled “Joint meetings of the reconvened sessions of the Commission on Narcotic Drugs and the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice”, decided that, starting in 2011, the Commission on Narcotic Drugs and the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice would hold joint meetings during their reconvened sessions for the purpose of considering agenda items included in the operational segment of the agendas of both Commissions, with a view to providing integrated policy directives to the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime on administrative, budgetary and strategic management issues. The Council also decided that the practice of holding back-to-back reconvened sessions of the Commissions would be continued to enable each Commission to consider, in separate meetings, agenda items included in the normative segment of its agenda.

100. In accordance with the established budget cycle for the Fund of the Programme and the methodology to be followed in that regard (see Commission resolution 13 (XXXVI)), the Commission approves the final budget of the Fund for the current biennium and the initial budget for the next biennium at a reconvened session held in the final months of odd-numbered years. That practice has been endorsed by the Council in a series of decisions.

Election and term of office of the Bureau

101. With effect from 2000, the Commission, at the end of each session, elects the Bureau for its next session (Council resolution 1999/30 of 28 July 1999). The newly elected Bureau plays an active role in the preparations for the session, through intersessional meetings of the Commission convened to address organizational and substantive matters related to its work. Another goal of the intersessional meetings of the Commission is to provide continuous and effective policy guidance to the United Nations International Drug Control Programme (Council resolution 1999/30).

Modalities for taking action and format for recommendations

102. Action by the Commission is taken through resolutions and decisions. Decisions and resolutions are generally taken by consensus; however, decisions provided for under articles 2 and 3 of the 1971 Convention and article 12 of the 1988 Convention are taken by a two-thirds majority of the members of the Commission. To adopt these decisions, an affirmative vote of at least 35 members of the Commission is required. Other decisions taken by the Commission under the Single Convention are subject to a majority requirement, as provided for in the Commission’s rules of procedure.

Utilization of informal consultations

103. Informal consultations have proved to be very useful in advancing agreement refining or merging draft resolutions.

Inclusion of a general debate in the work programme

104. At its sixtieth session, in 2017, the Commission decided to include an item entitled “General debate” in its agenda.

Role of the Secretariat

105. The United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime serves as the substantive and technical secretariat of the Commission and assists the Commission in identifying viable options that are available to it.
Utilization of panel discussions and/or question-and-answer sessions

106. During intersessional meetings of the Commission on Narcotic Drugs, in particular when thematic discussions are held in follow-up to the special session of the General Assembly on the world drug problem, the Commission makes use of panellists selected for their expertise, with due consideration to geographical balance, for the purpose of holding interactive dialogues.

107. During the operational segment of its agenda, a dialogue is held between Member States (donor, middle-income and recipient countries) and the United Nations International Drug Control Programme on priorities and policies, on the basis of the annual report of the Executive Director on the activities of the Programme and proposals for the budget of the Fund.

Multi-year programme of work

124. In section I of its resolution 6/1 of 9 May 1997, the Commission decided to establish a multi-year workplan, with each session of the Commission being devoted to a specific major theme. In its resolution 9/1 of 20 April 2000, the Commission decided to continue to follow its established multi-year programme of work, according to which each session of the Commission would have one prominent theme.

Modalities for taking action and format for recommendations

127. By informal agreement, action is taken by consensus. Thus far, action has been taken through resolutions and decisions.

Role of the Secretariat

129. The Secretariat plays an active role by providing technical and substantive services to the Commission and by assisting the Commission in identifying options available to the Commission and advising it on viable solutions.

The Commission holds open-ended intersessional meetings on a regular basis.

13 General Assembly resolution 60/1.
136. In its resolution 70/125 entitled “Outcome document of the high-level meeting of the General Assembly on the overall review of the implementation of the outcomes of the World Summit on the Information Society”, adopted on 16 December 2015, the General Assembly called for the continuation of annual reports on the implementation of outcomes of the World Summit on the Information Society, through the Commission on Science and Technology for Development, to the Economic and Social Council, taking into account the follow-up and review of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, and in this regard invited the high-level political forum on sustainable development to consider the annual reports of the Commission on Science and Technology for Development.

137. Most recently, the General Assembly, in its resolution 72/228 adopted on 20 December 2017, recognized the central role that the Commission plays, as the United Nations focal point for science, technology and innovation for development, in analysing how science, technology and innovation, including information and communications technologies, serve as enablers of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development by acting as a forum for strategic planning, sharing lessons learned and best practices, providing foresight about critical trends in science, technology and innovation in key sectors of the economy, the environment and society, and drawing attention to emerging and disruptive technologies.

Membership and composition

138. In accordance with Council decision 2006/267 of 15 December 2006, the Commission has 43 members, with the following geographical distribution:

(a) Eleven members from African States;

139. The term of office of members is four years (General Assembly resolution 46/235, annex, para. 7 (a) (ii)).

Reporting procedure

140. As a functional commission, the Commission reports directly to the Council. Its report is presented as a supplement to the Official Records of the Economic and Social Council.

Duration of meetings

Programme of work

142. Starting from its sixteenth session, in 2013, the Commission selects annually two themes as the priority themes for consideration at its next session. At its tenth session, in 2007, in response to the request of the Council in its resolution 2006/46, the Commission adopted a multi-year work programme and decided to focus in each biennium on a specific theme related to the building of the information society, and to examine, within its original mandate, the implications of science and technology for development (see Commission decision 10/101\textsuperscript{14}).

Election and term of office of the Bureau

143. At the end of each session, the Commission elects its Bureau for the following session. The Bureau retains its functions during the intersessional period.

144. There is no special arrangement for a senior Vice-Chair to become Chair at the following session. The rotation of members of the Bureau is based on the principle of equitable geographical distribution.

145. The Bureau of the Commission plays a proactive role in the preparations for the session, including through regular briefings and consultations with Member States, and proposals for interactive dialogues, such as high-level events and ministerial and expert workshops that engage Member States and relevant stakeholders, so as to encourage dialogue and enhance the impact of the Commission’s work.

Modalities for taking action and format for recommendations

146. There has been an informal understanding among members of the Commission that decisions should be made by consensus. The Commission normally takes action on draft proposals without a vote.

147. The Commission takes action on draft resolutions and decisions. It does not take action on the basis of Chair’s summaries or agreed conclusions. Chair’s summaries have, however, been included in the report of the Commission.

Utilization of informal consultations

148. Informal consultations are held on all draft proposals and the draft report.

Role of the Secretariat

149. The Secretariat traditionally assists the members of the Commission by providing substantive and technical secretariat support. The substantive secretariat assists delegations in the drafting of texts, at their request, assisting them during informal consultations on draft proposals, as well as by providing information on various substantive matters. The technical secretariat is responsible for the organizational and procedural support to the work of the intergovernmental body, including through the provision of advice to the presiding officer and the Bureau on the rules of procedure and past practice, and in the drafting of the report of the session.

Inclusion of a general discussion in the work programme

150. A general discussion is held on each agenda item.

Utilization of panel discussions and/or question-and-answer sessions

151. At its second session, the Commission decided that it would carry out its work programme at future sessions, inter alia, through panels, experts or working groups.

Participation of non-governmental organizations, civil society entities and business sector entities, including the private sector, in the work of the Commission

152. In its resolution 2006/46, the Council decided that, while using the multi-stakeholder approach effectively, the intergovernmental nature of the Commission should be preserved. For the modalities of participation of such organizations and entities, see Council decisions 2015/243, 2015/244 and 2015/245, of 22 July 2015.

8. Commission on Sustainable Development (discontinued)

153. In its resolution 66/288, the General Assembly decided to establish a universal, intergovernmental, high-level political forum, building on the strengths, experiences, resources and inclusive participation modalities of the Commission on Sustainable Development, and subsequently replacing the Commission. (annex, sect. IV, paras. 84–86 on the high-level political forum on sustainable development). In its resolution 67/290, the Assembly recommended that the Economic and Social Council abolish the Commission on Sustainable Development effective upon the conclusion of its twentieth session, to be held prior to the first meeting of the forum, pursuant to Assembly resolution 67/203 of 21 December 2012. The Commission on Sustainable Development held its twentieth and final session on 20 September 2013. By its resolution 2013/19 of 24 July 2013, the Council abolished the Commission on Sustainable Development with effect from 20 September 2013.

(c) May, after discussion with any specialized agency functioning in the same general field and with the approval of the Council, establish such subsidiary bodies as it deems appropriate for facilitating the carrying out of its responsibilities.

191. At its meeting on 2 December 2005, the Commission adopted the workplan on its reform, which was endorsed by the Council in its resolution 2006/38 and is contained in annex I to that resolution. The workplan included the following mission statement:

The Economic Commission for Europe as a multilateral platform facilitates greater economic integration and cooperation among its ... member States and promotes sustainable development and economic prosperity through:

(a) Policy dialogue;

(b) Negotiation of international legal instruments;

(c) Development of regulations and norms;

194. At its sixty-fourth session, held in Geneva in March 2011, the Commission adopted decision A (64). In that decision, the Commission, inter alia, reaffirmed the strategic directions adopted by the 2005 ECE reform, welcomed its implementation and achievements, and underlined the importance of its first five-year review in 2011–2012, with a view to drawing conclusions on the future work priorities of ECE. It also reaffirmed the commitment of its member States to support and strengthen the effective implementation of the organization’s mandate, to ensure its continued substantive relevance and greater visibility, and to maintain and promote its relevance as a regional forum in its areas of expertise, meeting effectively the changing needs of its member States, and taking into due account the specific needs of its countries with economies in transition (E/2011/37-E/ECE/1462).

195. By the same decision, the Commission invited the Executive Committee to decide on the modalities of the review. (g) Committee on Housing and Land Management (mandate unchanged);
(h) Committee on Economic Cooperation and Integration replaced by the Committee on Innovation, Competitiveness and Public-Private Partnerships (ECE/EX/2015/L.8).

Annex I to resolution 41/213, which is entitled “Budget process”, provides that, in off-budget years, “the Committee for Programme and Coordination, acting as a subsidiary organ of the General Assembly, shall consider the outline and submit, through the Fifth Committee, to the General Assembly its conclusions and recommendations” and that, in budget years, “the Committee for Programme and Coordination and the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions shall examine the proposed programme budget in accordance with their respective mandates and submit their conclusions and recommendations to the General Assembly, through the Fifth Committee, for the final approval of the programme budget”.

221. In its resolution 72/266 A of 24 December 2017, the Assembly, inter alia, approved the proposed change from a biennial to an annual budget period on a trial basis and decided that the proposed programme budget would consist of:

(a) Part I: the plan outline, which endorses the long-term priorities and the objectives of the Organization;

(b) Part II: the programme plan for programmes and subprogrammes and programme performance information;

(c) Part III: the post and non-post resource requirements for the programmes and subprogrammes.

222. The General Assembly also decided that parts I and II would be submitted through the Committee for Programme and Coordination and part III through the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions for the consideration of the Assembly. Furthermore, the Assembly reiterated that the Committees should examine the proposed programme budget in accordance with their respective mandates and that the sequential nature of the review process of the proposed programme budget would be preserved. The changes decided upon in resolution 72/266 A would be reviewed by the Assembly at its seventy-seventh session, with a view to taking a final decision on the implementation of the annual budget.

226. The Committee reports to the Assembly and the Council, as it is a subsidiary body of both. Its reports are presented as supplements to the Official Records of the General Assembly.

Frequency of meetings

227. In accordance with its terms of reference (see annex to Council resolution 2008 (LX) of 14 May 1976) the Committee meets for six weeks during programme planning years (even-numbered years) and for four weeks in budget years (odd-numbered years) (see also paras. 219–222 above).

Election and term of office of the Bureau

228. The Committee elects its Bureau at its organizational session, which is to be held no later than six weeks before the beginning of each substantive session. It elects a Chair, three Vice-Chairs and a Rapporteur for a term of one year.

229. The post of Chair and the post of Rapporteur rotate annually among the regional groups in accordance with a decision taken at the Committee’s twenty-fifth session, held in 1985. There is a strict pattern of rotation for the post of Chair: (a) African States; (b) Eastern European States; (c) Latin American and Caribbean States; (d) Western European and other States; and (e) Asia-Pacific States.

230. The post of Rapporteur is occupied by a member of the regional group that occupied the post of Chair the previous year.

Modalities for taking action and format for recommendations

231. The Committee takes action by consensus. The report of the Committee consists of two parts: (a) an account of the discussion; and (b) conclusions and recommendations. The part of the report reflecting the discussion contains the views expressed by individual delegations during the formal meetings and not those of the Secretariat. In that connection, at its thirty-ninth session, held in 2000, the Committee agreed that draft reports of the Committee prepared by the Secretariat must accurately reflect the opinions expressed during the discussion on specific matters. The conclusions and recommendations section of the report contains the agreements reached on issues raised under specific agenda items. Also at its thirty-ninth session, the Committee agreed to concentrate on the conclusions and recommendations section of the draft report.

Utilization of informal consultations

232. It has been the practice of the Committee to hold informal consultations on all substantive items under consideration in order to facilitate the consensus. At its forty-seventh session, held in 2007, the Committee, while emphasizing the importance of formal meetings, decided to devote more time to informal consultations. It also emphasized the value added of “informal informal” consultations as a tool to reach consensus.

Role of the Secretariat

233. The Secretariat plays an active role in promoting action by the Committee. This is accomplished by permitting representatives from the substantive offices concerned to attend both the formal and informal meetings of the Committee in order to respond to questions and provide additional information and clarification as necessary. At its forty-sixth session, the Committee emphasized the need for the presence of senior programme managers to assist it in the deliberations on agenda items pertaining to the areas of their respective responsibilities. For the role of the Secretariat in preparing the draft reports, see paragraph 231 above.

Inclusion of a general debate in the work programme

234. The Committee begins its consideration of a specific agenda item by hearing an introduction by the Secretariat. It then holds a discussion on the item.

Utilization of panel discussions and/or question-and-answer sessions

235. There are no panel discussions in the Committee. At the conclusion of its general discussion or general debate, representatives from the Secretariat answer questions raised by Member States and may also provide additional clarifications and explanations relating to concerns expressed during the general discussion.

236. At its forty-seventh session, the Committee decided to devote one or two meetings of its session to a discussion, with high-level participation, of a specific issue in its programme of work related to coordination.

Relationship with other intergovernmental bodies

237. At its fortieth session, the Committee reiterated its recommendation that the relevant intergovernmental bodies, as well as the Economic and Social Council and the Main Committees of the General Assembly, should include in their programme of work an agenda item on programme planning for review of the programme plan and its revisions, in accordance with Assembly resolution 45/253 of 21 December 1990 and regulation 3.1 of the Regulations and Rules Governing Programme Planning, the Programme Aspects of the Budget, the Monitoring of Implementation and the Methods of Evaluation (see also paras. 219–222 above).

2. Committee on Non-Governmental Organizations

Website: csonet.org/?menu=105

Terms of reference

238. The Committee on Non-Governmental Organizations was established by the Council in its resolution 3 (II) of 21 June 1946. Its original terms of reference were set out in Council resolution 288 B (X) of 27 February 1950, which was superseded by Council resolution 1296 (XLIV) of 25 May 1968. The current terms of reference of the Committee are set out in Council resolution 1996/31 of 25 July 1996.

239. The Committee carries out the functions assigned to it by the Council in connection with the arrangements for consultations with NGOs adopted by the Council in accordance with Article 71 of the Charter of the United Nations, as reflected in Council resolution 1996/31. In its proceedings, including when considering applications for granting consultative status to NGOs, the Committee is guided by the rules of procedure of the Council.

240. The main functions of the Committee are:

(a) Considering applications for general consultative status and special consultative status and for listing on the Roster made by NGOs and requests for a change in status, and to making recommendations thereon to the Council;

(b) Monitoring, on a regular basis, evolving relationships between NGOs and the United Nations;

(c) Examining, every fourth year, a brief report submitted to it, through the Secretary-General, by organizations in general consultative status and in special consultative status, of their activities in support of the work of the United Nations, and making recommendations to the Council thereon;

(d) Considering matters concerning NGOs that may be referred to it by the Council or by its commissions.

241. Furthermore, the Committee consults, in connection with sessions of the Council or at such other times as it may decide, with organizations in general consultative status and special consultative status on matters within their competence, other than items on the agenda of the Council, on which the Council or the Committee or the organization requests consultation, and reports thereon to the Council.
242. The Committee also consults, in connection with any particular session of the Council, with organizations in general consultative status and special consultative status on matters within the competence of the organizations concerning specific items already in the provisional agenda of the Council on which the Council or the Committee or the organization requests consultation, and makes recommendations as to which organizations should be heard by the Council or the appropriate committee and regarding which subjects should be heard. The Committee reports to the Council on such consultations.

243. The Committee also makes recommendations to the Council as to which organizations in general consultative status should make an oral presentation to the Council and on which items they should be heard. In the absence of a subsidiary body of the Council with jurisdiction in a major field of interest to the Council and to organizations in special consultative status, the Committee may recommend that an organization in special consultative status be heard by the Council on a subject in its field of interest.

Membership and composition

244. The Committee has 19 members (Council resolution 1981/50 of 20 July 1981), which are elected on the basis of equitable geographical representation. The membership of the Committee consists of:

(a) Five members from African States;
(b) Four members from Asia-Pacific States;
(c) Two members from Eastern European States;
(d) Four members from Latin American and Caribbean States;
(e) Four members from Western European and other States.

Term of office

245. In accordance with Council decision 70 (ORG-75) of 28 January 1975, the term of office of members is four years.

Reporting procedure

246. The Committee reports directly to the Council (rule 82 of the rules of procedure of the Council).

Frequency of meetings

247. The Committee meets annually for three weeks, for its regular and resumed sessions (Council decisions 1995/304 of 26 July 1995 and 1997/297 of 23 July 1997). Usually, the Committee holds 30 formal meetings annually, 16 of them in the regular session and 14 in the resumed session. The Committee also holds informal meetings prior to each session for the purpose of clarifying matters arising from applications for consultative status. All public meetings of the Committee are webcast (Council decision 2017/216 of 19 April 2017).

Election and term of office of the Bureau

248. In accordance with rule 18 of the rules of procedure of the Economic and Social Council, each year, at the commencement of its first meeting, the Committee elects its Chair and four Vice-Chairs. In accordance with rule 19, Bureau members are eligible for re-election. One of the Vice-Chairs is subsequently designated to serve also as Rapporteur.
249. In electing the Bureau, regard should be given to the principle of equitable geographical rotation.

Modalities for taking action and format for recommendations

250. At the first formal meeting of the session, the Chair encourages the Committee to adopt its decisions by consensus. If requested, the Committee decides on proposals by a recorded roll-call vote. Otherwise, it takes action through resolutions and decisions adopted by consensus. While the majority of the Committee decisions are taken by consensus, recorded roll-call votes are conducted on proposals to recommend to the Council to grant, suspend or withdraw consultative status to organizations as well as on procedural questions.

Utilization of informal consultations

251. Informal consultations may take place on an ad hoc basis.

Role of the Secretariat

252. The Secretariat traditionally assists the members of the Committee by providing substantive (NGO Branch, Department of Economic and Social Affairs) and technical (Disarmament and Peace Affairs Branch, Department for General Assembly and Conference Management) secretariat support. The NGO Branch conducts an initial review of the applications for consultative status submitted by NGOs to ensure that they align with the requirements of Council resolution 1996/31 and processes the documentation required by the Committee during its sessions. The initial review includes communicating with NGOs and ensuring that applications are complete and ready for consideration by the Committee. The number of new applications for consultative status has risen exponentially, from 143 in 2009 to 747 in 2017. Throughout the year, the NGO Branch also reviews and processes quadrennial reports submitted to the Committee by NGOs in consultative status. The number of the quadrennial reports received in 2017 stood at 554, up from 204 in 2009. The technical secretariat provides organizational and procedural support to the Committee, including through the issuance of pre-session documentation, the provision of advice to and drafting of procedural notes for presiding officers and the Bureau on the rules of procedure and past practice and preparing the procedural reports of the regular and resumed sessions.

Inclusion of a general debate in the work programme

253. There is no general debate in the Committee.

Utilization of panel discussions and/or question-and-answer sessions

254. In its consideration of applications from NGOs for consultative status with the Council, the Committee provides an opportunity for delegations, members or non-members of the Committee to pose questions to the representatives of the organizations presenting applications during question-and-answer sessions held regularly during its regular and resumed sessions.

3. Committee on Negotiations with Intergovernmental Agencies

255. The Committee on Negotiations with Intergovernmental Agencies was established by the Council in its resolution 11 (I) of 16 February 1946 in order to carry out negotiations with intergovernmental agencies with a view to bringing them into relationship with the United Nations in accordance with Articles 57 and 63 of the Charter. The Committee last met in 2003 in connection with the draft agreement between the United Nations and the World Tourism Organization (see document...
D. Ad hoc bodies

1. Ad Hoc Open-ended Working Group on Informatics (no longer meets)

   256. By resolution 1995/61 of 28 July 1995, the Council requested its President to convene initially for one year, the Ad Hoc Open-ended Working Group on Informatics, to make appropriate recommendations for the due fulfilment of the provisions of its resolutions on the need to harmonize and improve United Nations information systems for optimal utilization and accessibility by all States. The functions of the Working Group were outlined by the Council in its resolution 2000/28 of 28 July 2000. The Council renewed the mandate of the Working Group every year from 1996 to 2011 (Council resolution 2010/38 of 15 December 2010).

2. Ad Hoc Advisory Group on Haiti

   257. By its resolution 1999/4 of 7 May 1999, the Economic and Social Council decided to create an Ad Hoc Advisory Group on Haiti, and requested it to submit to the Council at its substantive session of 1999 recommendations on how to ensure that international community assistance to the efforts to support the Government of Haiti in achieving sustainable development was adequate, coherent, well coordinated and effective. The Group is composed of the Permanent Representatives of Canada (Chair), Argentina, Benin, the Bahamas, Belize, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, El Salvador, France, Haiti, Mexico, Peru, Spain, Trinidad and Tobago, the United States of America and Uruguay. By its decision 2004/322 of 11 November 2004, the Council decided that the Ad Hoc Advisory Group would invite the participation of the President of the Economic and Social Council and the Special Representative of the Secretary-General for Haiti in its work.

   258. The mandate of the Ad Hoc Advisory Group has been renewed annually by the Council, most recently in resolution 2018/19 of 24 July 2018, in which the Council extended the mandate of the Group until the conclusion of the 2019 session, with the purpose of following closely and providing advice on the long-term development strategy of Haiti to promote socioeconomic recovery, reconstruction and stability, with particular attention to the need to ensure coherence and sustainability in international support for Haiti, based on the long-term national development priorities, building upon the Strategic Plan for the Development of Haiti, and stressing the need to avoid overlap and duplication with respect to existing mechanisms.

E. Expert bodies composed of governmental experts

1. Committee of Experts on the Transport of Dangerous Goods and on the Globally Harmonized System of Classification and Labelling of Chemicals

   Website: www.unece.org/trans/danger/danger.html

   Terms of reference

   259. A Committee of experts on the international transport of dangerous goods was first appointed in accordance with Council resolution 468 G (XV) of 15 April 1953 to study the issue and present a report. The mandate of the Committee of Experts on the Transport of Dangerous Goods was subsequently expanded (see Council resolutions 1488 (XLVIII) of 22 May 1970, 1743 (LIV) of 4 May 1973 and 1973 (LIX) of 30 July 1975). A group of experts on explosives was also created by the Council in resolution 724 C (XXVIII) of 17 July 1959 to deal with the listing and harmonizing of the packing of explosives. By resolution 1488 (XLVIII), the Council decided that the Group should function as a subsidiary body of the Committee. A Group of Rapporteurs on the Packing of Dangerous Goods was set up by the Committee at its third session, and the creation of this subsidiary body was endorsed by the Council when approving the report of the Committee on its third session (Council resolution 994 (XXXVI) of 16 December 1963). This group was renamed “Group of Rapporteurs” in 1975. In 1989, the Group of Rapporteurs and the Group of Experts on Explosives were combined and renamed Subcommittee of Experts on the Transport of Dangerous Goods (see Council resolution 1989/104 of 27 July 1989). Since 1963, the Economic Commission for Europe at Geneva has served as the secretariat of the Committee.

260. On the basis of a proposal transmitted by the President of the Intergovernmental Forum on Chemical Safety (E/1999/90) and of the related recommendations of the Committee (E/1999/43, para. 21), the Council, by resolution 1999/65 of 26 October 1999, reconfigured, as from 2001, the Committee and its Subcommittee into the Committee of Experts on the Transport of Dangerous Goods and on the Globally Harmonized System of Classification and Labelling of Chemicals, with one Subcommittee of Experts on the Transport of Dangerous Goods and a second Subcommittee of Experts on the Globally Harmonized System of Classification and Labelling of Chemicals.

261. The terms of reference of the Committee, which are contained in the annex to resolution 1999/65, are as follows:

The Committee shall deal with strategic issues rather than technical issues. It is not envisaged that it will review, change or revisit technical recommendations of the Subcommittees. Accordingly, its main functions shall be to:

(a) Approve the work programmes for the Subcommittees in the light of available resources;

(b) Coordinate strategic and policy directions in areas of shared interests and overlap;

(c) Give formal endorsement to the recommendations of the Subcommittees and provide the mechanism for channelling them to the Economic and Social Council;

(d) Facilitate and coordinate the smooth running of the Subcommittees.

Subsidiary bodies of the Committee of Experts

(i) Subcommittee of Experts on the Transport of Dangerous Goods

262. In pursuance of Council resolution 1999/65, the Subcommittee replaced the existing Committee of Experts on the Transport of Dangerous Goods and its Subcommittee, with the same terms of reference. The original terms of reference are contained in Council resolution 468 G (XV). They have been subsequently modified, confirmed or extended in the various resolutions adopted by the Council when considering the work of the Committee every two years, as reflected, inter alia, in paragraphs 166 to 175 of E/1996/97, Council resolutions 645 G (XXIII) of 26 April 1957, 724 C (XXVIII), 871 (XXXIII) of 10 April 1962, 994 (XXXVI) of 16 December 1963, 1488 (XLVIII), 1743 (LIV), 1744 (LIV) of 4 May 1973, 1973 (LIX), 2050 (LXII) of 5 May 1977 and, in addition, Council resolutions 1995/6 of 19 July 1995, 1997/3 of 18 July 1997 (referring to E/1997/16, para. 21), 1999/62 of 30 July 1999 (referring to document E/1999/43, para. 34).
263. As consolidated, the terms of reference can be summarized as follows:

(a) To recommend and to define groupings or classification of dangerous goods on the basis of the character of risk involved, and to develop related classification tests and criteria;

(b) To list the principal dangerous goods moving in commerce and assigning each to its proper grouping or classification;

(c) To recommend marks or labels for each grouping or classification, which shall identify the risk graphically and without regard to printed text;

(d) To recommend the simplest possible requirements for shipping papers covering dangerous goods;

(e) To address the problem of packing (including construction, testing and use of packagings, intermediate bulk containers, large packagings, gas cylinders and gas receptacles);

(f) To study the questions concerning the construction, testing and use of tanks other than those permanently fixed to, or forming part of, the structure of seagoing vessels or inland waterway craft;

(g) To develop provisions for the transport of solid substances in bulk in freight containers;

(h) To address the problem of the joint transport of dangerous goods, including questions of compatibility and segregation;

(i) To consider giving each of the dangerous goods a numerical designation, which, in addition to the “dangerous goods” label would indicate the group of compatibility, which could be instrumental in the solution of the problems of the joint transportation of dangerous goods;

(j) To consider supplementing the list of dangerous goods with indications of the properties and the category of danger of such goods, the firefighting means, other safety measures regarding such goods and their packing;

(k) To investigate divergencies existing in the modal practices applicable to the transport of dangerous goods in respect of their classification, identification, labelling and packaging;

(l) To study, in consultation with other organizations concerned, particularly the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development, the International Maritime Organization, the International Civil Aviation Organization, the International Air Transport Association and the regional commissions, the possibility of an international convention on the transport of dangerous goods by all modes of transport;

(m) To take into account the special problems of developing countries;

(n) To elaborate proposals for globally harmonized criteria for the classification of flammable, explosive and reactive materials, taking account of aspects not necessarily covered under transport safety regulations, such as the protection of workers, consumers and the general environment, in cooperation with experts from the International Labour Organization and the International Programme on Chemical Safety;

(o) To cooperate with the International Programme of Chemical Safety for the implementation of Agenda 21;

(p) To reformat the Recommendations on the Transport of Dangerous Goods into Model Regulations on the Transport of Dangerous Goods to keep them up to date and to rationalize their development.
In March 1959, the Committee, after having developed recommendations concerning the labelling of radioactive material, recognized the necessity of coordination with the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA) in the drafting of recommendations relating to the transport of such material. Consequently, the Council, in its resolution 724 (XXVIII) of 17 July 1959, requested the Secretary-General to inform IAEA of its desire that IAEA be entrusted with the drafting of recommendations on the transport of radioactive material, on the understanding that those recommendations would be consistent with the principles adopted by the Committee and that they would be established in consultation with the United Nations and the specialized agencies concerned. This has led to continuous cooperation among the Committee, the International Maritime Organization, the International Civil Aviation Organization and ECE. When it was decided to reformat the provisions of the Recommendations on the Transport of Dangerous Goods into the Model Regulations on the Transport of Dangerous Goods, it was also agreed, after consultation with IAEA, that the Committee would incorporate the provisions of the IAEA Regulations for the Safe Transport of Radioactive Material into the Model Regulations (Council resolution 1997/3).

(ii) Subcommittee of Experts on the Globally Harmonized System of Classification and Labelling of Chemicals

As set forth in the annex to Council resolution 1999/65, the functions of the Subcommittee are to:

(a) Act as custodian of the globally harmonized system of classification and labelling of chemicals, managing and giving direction to the harmonization process;

(b) Keep the system up to date, as necessary, considering the need to introduce changes to ensure its continued relevance and practical utility, and determining the need for and timing of the updating of technical criteria, while working with existing bodies, as appropriate;

(c) Promote understanding and use of the system and encourage feedback;

(d) Make the system available for worldwide use and application;

(e) Make guidance available on the application of the system, and on the interpretation and use of technical criteria to support consistency of application;

(f) Prepare work programmes and submit recommendations to the Committee.

Composition and membership

Under Council resolution 645 G (XXIII), the original Committee was to consist of “not more than nine qualified experts from countries interested in the international transport of dangerous goods”. Governments were invited to make available, at the request of the Secretary-General and at their own expense, the members of the Committee of Experts. The Council, in its resolution 1973 (LIX), enlarged the composition of the Committee of Experts by adding five members from developing countries, so as to ensure the adequate participation of such countries. Subsequently, the Secretary-General received applications from various countries. In 2017, 40 countries were full members of the Committee and members of one or both of the Subcommittees. In the same year, five observer countries participated in their work in accordance with rule 72 of the rules of procedure of the Economic and Social Council.
Reporting procedure

267. The Secretary-General submits to the Council, on a biennial basis, a report on the work of the Committee of Experts.

Frequency of meetings

268. As from 2001–2002, the reconfigured Committee meets on a biennial basis, while the two Subcommittees meet back-to-back, twice each year.

2. Intergovernmental Working Group of Experts on International Standards of Accounting and Reporting

Website: isar.unctad.org/

Terms of reference

269. The Council, in its resolution 1979/44 of 11 May 1979, established the Ad Hoc Intergovernmental Working Group of Experts on International Standards of Accounting and Reporting. By resolution 1982/67 of 27 October 1982, the Council established the Intergovernmental Working Group of Experts on International Standards of Accounting and Reporting, deciding that it should: (a) serve as an international body for the consideration of issues of accounting and reporting falling within the scope of the work of the Commission on Transnational Corporations, in order to improve the availability and comparability of information disclosed by transnational corporations; (b) review developments in this field, including the work of standard-setting bodies; and (c) concentrate on establishing priorities, taking into account the needs of home and host countries, particularly those of developing countries.

270. In addition, the Council decided that the Group should meet for a period of two weeks not more than once a year and should report to the Commission on Transnational Corporations on further steps to be taken in pursuit of the long-term objective of the international harmonization of accounting and reporting within the scope of the work of the Commission, particularly with regard to the comprehensive information system and the code of conduct on transnational corporations then being formulated, on the understanding that duplication of work should be avoided. In its resolution 1991/56 of 26 July 1991, the Council decided that the Commission, at its annual session, should keep under review the work of the Group and, in particular, should review the mandate, terms of reference and achievements of the Group after five years, with a view to deciding on the advisability of its continuation.

271. Pursuant to General Assembly resolution 49/130 of 19 December 1994, the Intergovernmental Working Group, along with the Commission on Transnational Corporations, has been incorporated into the institutional machinery of the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development.

Membership and composition

272. In accordance with paragraph 4 (b) of Council resolution 1982/67, the Group, taking into account the different existing systems of accounting and reporting and without prejudice to the principle of equitable geographical distribution, is composed of 34 members elected by the Council on the following basis:

(a) Nine members from African States;

(b) Seven members from Asia-Pacific States;

(c) Three members from Eastern European States;

(d) Six members from Latin American and Caribbean States;
(c) Nine members from Western European and other States.

Pursuant to paragraph 4 (c) of the same resolution, each State so elected shall appoint an expert with appropriate experience in the field of accounting and reporting.

273. Greater participation of all member States of the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development in the discussions of the Group is encouraged in order to maximize the involvement of non-member States. In addition, United Nations bodies and organs, intergovernmental organizations and NGOs and international experts in the area of accounting and reporting may participate as observers in the work of the Working Group.

Term of office

274. The term of office of members is three years (Council resolution 1982/67, para. 4 (d)).

Reporting procedure

275. The Group reports to the Investment, Enterprise and Development Commission, a subsidiary body of the Trade and Development Board.

Frequency of meetings

276. The Group meets annually (Council resolution 1982/67), usually for three working days.

Election and term of office of the Bureau

277. The Group elects the Chair and Vice-Chair at the beginning of its annual session. The Vice-Chair is subsequently designated to serve as Rapporteur. The members of the Bureau are elected for a term that lasts until the opening of the next annual session.

Programme and working methods

278. The Group takes action through agreed conclusions adopted by consensus. The report of the Group consists of two parts: (a) an account of the discussions; and (b) agreed conclusions. The part reflecting the discussions sets out the views expressed during the annual sessions with respect to specific matters. All drafts should be provided to the Chair and Rapporteur prior to circulation so as to ensure that the reports accurately reflect those views. The section on the agreed conclusions contains the agreement reached on issues raised under specific agenda items.

Utilization of informal consultations

279. Informal consultations may take place on an ad hoc basis in order to facilitate the consensus.

Role of the Secretariat

280. The Secretariat plays a proactive role in promoting action by the Group. It assists the Group in substantive, organizational and procedural matters; prepares background documentation for annual sessions; and provides preliminary draft proposals based on the views expressed by the delegations during the meetings.

281. The Group holds panel discussions with the participation of invited lead experts followed by a general debate on the agenda items proposed in the agreed conclusions of the previous sessions.
3. United Nations Group of Experts on Geographical Names

Website: unstats.un.org/UNSD/geoinfo/UNGEGN/general.html

Terms of reference

282. The Council, in its resolution 715 A (XXVII) of 23 April 1959, requested the Secretary-General to set up a small group of consultants to consider the technical problems of domestic standardization of geographical names, including the preparation of a statement of the general and regional problems involved, to prepare draft recommendations for the procedures, principally linguistic, that might be followed in the standardization of their own names by individual countries and to report to the Council on the desirability of holding an international conference on this subject and of the sponsoring of working groups based on common linguistic systems.

283. The First United Nations Conference on the Standardization of Geographical Names was held at Geneva from 4 to 22 September 1967. On the basis of the recommendations of the Conference, the Council, in its resolution 1314 (XLIV) of 31 May 1968, approved the terms of reference for the Ad Hoc Group of Experts, which was renamed United Nations Group of Experts on Geographical Names by the Council in a decision adopted at its 1854th meeting, 4 May 1973.

285. In its resolution 2018/2 of 10 November 2017, the Council decided that the United Nations Conference on the Standardization of Geographical Names and the United Nations Group of Experts on Geographical Names would be discontinued in their current formats and be subsumed by a subsidiary body of the Economic and Social Council that would retain their respective mandates, where relevant, as well as resolutions of the United Nations Conference on the Standardization of Geographical Names and responsibility for the implementation thereof, would be named the United Nations Group of Experts on Geographical Names, which would be composed of representatives of States Members of the United Nations, including experts appointed by Governments, and would focus on technical issues associated with the standardization of geographical names that might, where appropriate, support relevant aspects of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development.

286. The basic aims of the Group of Experts are:

(a) To emphasize the importance of the standardization of geographical names at the national and international levels and to demonstrate the benefits to be derived from such standardization;

(b) To collect the results of the work of national and international bodies dealing with the standardization of geographical names and to facilitate the dissemination of these results to States Members of the United Nations;

(c) To study and propose principles, policies and methods suitable for resolving problems of national and international standardization;

(d) To play an active role, by facilitating the supply of scientific and technical help, in particular to developing countries, in creating mechanisms for the national and international standardization of geographical names;

(e) To provide a vehicle for liaison and coordination among Member States, and between Member States and international organizations, on work associated with the standardization of geographical names.
287. To further the aims stated above, the functions of the Group of Experts are:

(a) To develop procedures and establish mechanisms for standardization in response to national requirements and particular requests;

(b) To encourage the discussion and study of practical and theoretical steps directed towards standardization;

(c) To coordinate the activities of linguistic/geographical divisions formed to further the work at the national level, to encourage the active participation of countries and divisions, and to promote a degree of uniformity in the work undertaken;

(d) To create any necessary structure to supplement the work of divisions and to deal with issues beyond the scope of a division;

(e) To develop appropriate programmes to assist individual countries and groups of countries to achieve standardization where it is lacking;

(f) To make mapping organizations aware of the importance of using standardized geographical names;

(g) To maintain liaison with international organizations dealing with related subjects and encourage group divisions to participate in the United Nations regional or other cartographic conferences;

(h) To work at the highest possible national, international and United Nations level to interrelate toponymy and cartography;

(i) To make standardization principles and standardized geographical names available as practical information for as wide a user community as possible, through all appropriate media.

Membership and composition

288. The United Nations Group of Experts on Geographical Names as established by Council resolution 2018/2, is composed of representatives of States Members of the United Nations, including experts appointed by Governments.

Reporting procedure

289. In its resolution 2018/2, the Council decided that the rules of procedure would be drafted by the Bureau, in close consultation with the States Members of the United Nations, and be presented to the Economic and Social Council for adoption. Website: http://ggim.un.org/

292. The Council established the United Nations Committee of Experts on Global Geospatial Information Management in its resolution 2011/24 on 27 July 2011. This followed an extensive three-year consultative process with geospatial information experts from Member States and relevant stakeholders that recognized the urgent need to take concrete action to strengthen international cooperation in the area of global geospatial information management (see E/2011/89).

293. The Committee of Experts is a formal intergovernmental mechanism of government experts from Member States and experts from relevant international organizations who participate as observers. The Committee is served by a secretariat comprising the Statistics Division of the Department of Economic and Social Affairs and the Geospatial Information Section (formerly the Cartographic Section), Information and Communications Technology Division of the Department of Field Support.

In July 2016, the Council recognized that the Committee was well placed to contribute more to the work of the United Nations, especially in the context of efforts to assist Member States in implementing the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development. In its resolution 2016/27, the Council, inter alia:

(a) Stressed the need to strengthen the coordination and coherence of global geospatial information management, in capacity-building, norm-setting, data collection, data dissemination and data-sharing, among others, through appropriate coordination mechanisms, including in the broader United Nations system;

(b) Decided that the substantive mandates and obligations of the United Nations Regional Cartographic Conferences for Asia and the Pacific and for the Americas would be assumed by the Committee of Experts at the global level, and their technical and substantive activities at the regional and national levels assumed by the Regional Committee of United Nations Global Geospatial Information Management for Asia and the Pacific and the Regional Committee of United Nations Global Geospatial Information Management for the Americas, respectively;

(c) Requested that the regional commissions provide relevant support, upon request and as appropriate, to the work of the regional bodies of the United Nations Initiative on Global Geospatial Information Management and that the outcomes and benefits of the activities of those bodies be equally disseminated to all Member States in each region;

308. The architecture was completed during the fifth session of the Committee, held from 5 to 7 August 2015, when the regional committee for Africa was formally established. The five regional committees, in Africa, the Americas, the Arab States, Asia and the Pacific, and Europe, provide the anchor and mechanism to promote, discuss and enhance coordination among Member States in the regions on issues of importance to Member States and the Committee and to liaise with the Secretariat and regional commissions in the intervening periods between annual sessions of the Committee of Experts.

309. Regional committees of the Committee of Experts meet annually, usually between two to four days, depending on the region.

19 At the 1st meeting of its fourth session, held on 6 August 2014, the Committee of Experts adopted its rules of procedure as contained in document E/C.20/2014/2, following revision for the selection of the Co-Chairs (E/2014/46-E/C.20/2014/15, chap. V.F).
Programme of work

310. The resolution entitled “A global geodetic reference frame for sustainable development”\(^20\) called for greater cooperation on geodesy, including the open sharing of relevant geodetic data, and outlined the value of ground-based observations and remote satellite sensing when tracking changes in populations, ice caps, land use, oceans and the atmosphere over time to support sustainable development policymaking, climate science, natural disaster management, peace and security. Such measurements also have a wide range of applications for construction, transport including autonomous vehicles, and other areas of national economies.

311. The synthesis report of the Secretary-General on the post-2015 sustainable development agenda (\textit{A/69/700}) called for an evidence-based course for realizing sustainable development that is grounded in the data revolution. As indicated in the report of the Secretary-General’s Independent Expert Advisory Group on a Data Revolution for Sustainable Development, that course of action must be inclusive of the need to “accelerate the development and adoption of legal, technical, geospatial and statistical standards”.\(^21\) The Committee recognized the clear need for and value of standards and the linking of geospatial information and statistics to improve the relevance of the evidence on which decisions are made, to deal with new, richer and multidimensional data, and to provide multi-sourced, multi-scaled evidence-based data and information for decision-making and policymaking.

312. Recognizing that data are fundamental to measuring and monitoring the targets and goals of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, and recognizing the science-policy-information nexus, the 2030 Agenda specifically demands new approaches to data acquisition and integration to improve the accessibility, availability, quality and timeliness of data disaggregated by geographic location to support the implementation of the Sustainable Development Goals at all levels. Further, the 2030 Agenda refers to the need to exploit the contribution to be made by a wide range of data, including earth observations and geospatial information (General Assembly resolution 70/1). While addressing these challenges relating to data availability and implementation directly in its work programme, the Committee further acknowledged the need for greater coordination and collaboration to develop an overarching geospatial information management framework that went beyond technical matters and that countries could reference when implementing integrated evidence-based decision-making solutions that maximized and leveraged national systems tailored to their own situations. The Committee is developing such a geospatial information framework in collaboration with the World Bank.

313. The Committee of Experts agreed that its 2017–2021 strategic framework\(^22\) provided a reference for prioritizing the work of the Committee and a tangible means to communicate its work. The work programmes of the Committee are organized and reviewed annually by the Committee with the overarching goal of strengthening national geospatial information management.

General discussion in the work programme

314. The Committee holds a general discussion on each item of its agenda.

\(^{22}\) See decision 7/101 on strengthening geospatial information management (\textit{E/2017/46-E/C.20/2017/18}).
Modalities for taking action and format for recommendation

315. The Committee endeavours to take action by consensus, although there is provision for decisions of the session to be made by a majority of the representatives present and through voting if necessary.

316. The Committee takes action through the adoption of decisions and, on occasion, action-oriented resolutions with recommendations to the Economic and Social Council.23

Utilization of informal consultations

317. The practice of the Committee is to hold informal consultations on all draft proposals, reports and outcomes of reviews.

318. The Committee, in accordance with Council resolution 2011/24, holds regular high-level, multi-stakeholder discussions on global geospatial information, including through the convening of global forums, with a view to promoting a comprehensive dialogue with all relevant actors and bodies. This includes high-level forums on United Nations global geospatial information management (of which five have been convened since 2011) and a United Nations World Geospatial Information Congress, which will be convened for the first time in November 2018.

319. In accordance with Council resolutions 2011/24 and 2016/27, the Committee organizes ministerial segments, high-level panels and expert sessions in its global forums to promote interactive dialogue and knowledge- and experience-sharing, as well as coordination and coherence in global geospatial information management.
