1. At its seventy-seventh session, the General Assembly adopted resolution 77/90, entitled “Report of the Disarmament Commission”, which reads as follows:

The General Assembly,

Having considered the report of the Disarmament Commission,¹

Considering the role that the Disarmament Commission has been called upon to play and the contribution that it should make in examining and submitting recommendations on various problems in the field of disarmament and in promoting the implementation of the relevant decisions adopted by the General Assembly at its tenth special session,

Recalling in particular General Assembly resolution 45/62 B of 4 December 1990, in which it noted with satisfaction the adoption by consensus of a set of “Ways and means to enhance the functioning of the Disarmament Commission”,² Assembly decision 52/492 of 8 September 1998 concerning the efficient functioning of the Commission and Assembly resolution 61/98, which contains additional measures for improving the effectiveness of the methods of work of the Commission,

Reaffirming the mandate of the Disarmament Commission as the specialized, deliberative subsidiary body of the General Assembly that allows for in-depth deliberations on specific disarmament issues, leading to the submission of concrete recommendations on those issues, and recalling that the Commission shall make every effort to ensure that, insofar as possible, decisions on substantive issues be adopted by consensus, as set forth in paragraph 118 of the Final Document of the Tenth Special Session of the General Assembly,³

5. Recalls the fact that, in accordance with General Assembly decision 52/492, at its 376th meeting, on 4 April 2022, the Disarmament Commission adopted the provisional agenda for its substantive session of 2022, and that the Commission decided that 2022 be considered a second year of the three-year cycle;

Recommendations to promote the practical implementation of transparency and confidence-building measures in outer space activities with the goal of preventing an arms race in outer space, in accordance with the recommendations set out in the report of the Group of Governmental Experts on Transparency and Confidence-Building Measures in Outer Space Activities

I. Introduction

1. At its 2018, 2022 and 2023 sessions, the Disarmament Commission considered the agenda item entitled “Preparation of recommendations to promote the practical implementation of transparency and confidence-building measures in outer space activities with the goal of preventing an arms race in outer space, in accordance with the recommendations set out in the report of the Group of Governmental Experts on Transparency and Confidence-Building Measures in Outer Space Activities” in its Working Group II.

2. On the basis of its deliberations, the Disarmament Commission agreed on the following conclusions and recommendations.

II. Conclusions

3. The Commission reaffirmed the will of all States that the exploration and use of outer space, including the Moon and other celestial bodies, shall be for peaceful purposes and shall be carried out for the benefit and in the interest of all countries, on a basis of equality and in accordance with international law, irrespective of their degree of economic or scientific development.

4. The Commission also reaffirmed that preventing an arms race in outer space was in the interest of maintaining international peace and security and was essential for international cooperation in the exploration and use of outer space for peaceful purposes. The Commission recalled that the Group of Governmental Experts on Transparency and Confidence-Building Measures in Outer Space Activities had endorsed efforts to pursue political commitments, for example declarations regarding the peaceful use of outer space, noting that such commitments could form the basis for the consideration of concepts and proposals for legally binding obligations.

5. The Commission recognized that negotiations for the conclusion of an international legally binding instrument or instruments to prevent an arms race in outer space in all its aspects remained a priority task of the Conference on Disarmament, and reiterated the need for an agreed, balanced and comprehensive programme of work of the Conference. The Commission recognized that concrete proposals on transparency and confidence-building measures could form an integral part of such an instrument.

6. The Commission noted the introduction by China and the Russian Federation at the Conference on Disarmament of the draft treaty in 2008\(^6\) and the submission of its updated version in 2014.\(^7\)

\(^6\) CD/1839.
\(^7\) CD/1985.
7. The Commission noted the discussions of the open-ended working group established by General Assembly resolution 76/231 of 24 December 2021, which met in 2022 and 2023.

8. The Commission recalled the work done in 2018 and 2019 by the Group of Governmental Experts established by General Assembly resolution 72/250 of 24 December 2017 and noted the establishment of a new Group of Governmental Experts by General Assembly resolution 77/250 of 30 December 2022, which will meet in 2023 and 2024.

9. The Commission recalled that transparency and confidence-building measures could augment the safety, sustainability and security of day-to-day space operations and could contribute to the development of mutual understanding, to the avoidance of miscommunication and to the strengthening of friendly relations between States and peoples.

10. The Commission stressed the importance of continuing and promoting the practical implementation, on a voluntary basis, of the recommendations set out in the 2013 report of the Group of Governmental Experts on Transparency and Confidence-building Measures in Outer Space Activities.

11. The Commission recalled that a proposed transparency and confidence-building measure should: (a) be clear, practical and proven, meaning that both the application and the efficacy of the proposed measure have been demonstrated by one or more actors; (b) be able to be effectively confirmed by other parties in its application, either independently or collectively; and (c) reduce or even eliminate the causes of mistrust, misunderstanding and miscalculation with regard to the activities and intentions of States.

12. Recalling paragraph 26 of the 2013 report, the Commission also recalled that transparency and confidence-building measures for outer space activities could also complement and contribute to, but not substitute for, an international legally binding instrument on the prevention of an arms race in outer space. Transparency and confidence-building measures should be aimed at increasing outer space safety, sustainability, security, and especially at the prevention of an arms race in outer space and the conclusion of an international legally binding instrument on the prevention of an arms race in outer space. Transparency and confidence-building measures for outer space activities should complement, but not substitute for, the verification measures in legally binding instruments. Voluntary transparency and confidence-building measures, considered as complementary measures, could contribute to the consideration of concepts and proposals for legally binding measures for the prevention of an arms race in outer space as well as verification protocols included in legally binding international instruments.

13. The Commission stressed the importance of universal participation in, implementation of and full adherence to the existing legal framework relating to outer space activities, to which States are parties, or subscribe, in particular the Treaty on Principles Governing the Activities of States in the Exploration and Use of Outer Space, including the Moon and Other Celestial Bodies.

14. The Commission noted that some transparency and confidence-building measures for outer space activities had already been implemented at the multilateral and/or the national level, as reflected in General Assembly resolution 77/251 of 30 December 2022. The Commission noted that fact without prejudice to that resolution.

8 See preambular paragraphs 9 and 10.
III. Recommendations

15. The Commission recommends the following measures, on a voluntary basis and subject to national security considerations, to promote the practical implementation of transparency and confidence-building measures in outer space activities with the goal of preventing an arms race in outer space, building upon the 2013 report of the Group of Governmental Experts on Transparency and Confidence-Building Measures in Outer Space Activities:

(a) Recalling paragraphs 37 and 39 of the 2013 report, to publish or maintain, as appropriate, access to information in the areas mentioned in these paragraphs;

(b) Recalling paragraphs 37 to 40 of the 2013 report, to engage in regular dialogues about national space policies and activities. These dialogues could be supported by the United Nations;

(c) Recalling paragraph 39 and 40 of the 2013 report, bearing in mind the disparities in capabilities and resources of States, space situation awareness cooperation should be open, transparent, non-discriminatory and voluntary:

(i) To share space situational awareness data and information, to the extent practicable;

(ii) In this connection, for Member States to engage and to intensify discussions in the Committee on the Peaceful Uses of Outer Space on international cooperation on global space situational awareness capabilities;

(d) Recalling paragraph 42 to 45 of the 2013 report, to consider designating points of contact to facilitate the notification, in a timely manner and to the greatest extent practicable, of potentially affected States of scheduled manoeuvres that may result in risks to the flight safety of space objects of other States;

(e) Recalling paragraphs 30 to 33 and 36 to 48 of the 2013 report, to implement practically transparency and confidence-building measures in outer space activities in accordance with the purposes reflected in paragraphs 20 to 23 of the 2013 report;

(f) Recalling paragraphs 49 to 56 of the 2013 report:

(i) To recognize the growing scope and significance of international cooperation, both between and among spacefaring and non-spacefaring States and between States and international organizations and private sector actors in the exploration and use of outer space for peaceful purposes;

(ii) Taking into account the needs of developing countries in particular, to underline the necessity and the significance of further strengthening international cooperation to reach broad and efficient collaboration in this field for the mutual benefit and in the interest of all parties, including with regard to the legitimate rights and interests of the parties concerned;

(iii) In this connection, for States with significant space technologies to consider international cooperation such as providing assistance and training and transferring technology, data and material to requesting States for the equitable and mutual benefit of, and taking into account the legitimate rights and interest of, all parties concerned, in particular the needs of developing countries, noting that the disparity in the space capabilities of States, the inability of most States to participate in space activities without the assistance of others, uncertainty concerning sufficient transfer of space technologies between States and the inability of many States to acquire significant space-based information are factors contributing to a lack of confidence among States;\(^9\)

(g) Recalling paragraph 71 of the 2013 report:

(i) To participate in, implement and fully adhere to the existing legal framework relating to outer space activities, including the United Nations Charter and the treaties, specified in paragraph 71 of the 2013 report, to which they are parties; for States that have not yet become parties to the international treaties governing the use of outer space to consider ratifying or acceding to those treaties;

(ii) To strengthen supervision of private sector actors under their jurisdiction, in accordance with article VI of the Treaty on Principles Governing the Activities of States in the Exploration and Use of Outer Space, including the Moon and Other Celestial Bodies, so as to reduce the potential for activities of such actors to increase the risk of misunderstanding, misperception or miscalculation between States or increase the risk of conflict in outer space, with a view to preventing an arms race in outer space;

(h) Recalling paragraph 72 of the 2013 report, to further advance and regularly review transparency and confidence-building measures in outer space activities with the goal of preventing an arms race in outer space, as appropriate, in relevant standing United Nations bodies reflected in paragraph 72 of the 2013 report.
