Seventy-eighth session

Item 78 of the provisional agenda*

Criminal accountability of United Nations officials and experts on mission

Criminal accountability of United Nations officials and experts on mission

Report of the Secretary-General

Summary

The present report has been prepared pursuant to paragraphs 31 and 32 of General Assembly resolution 77/98. Section II contains a summary of information received from Governments on the extent to which jurisdiction over their nationals while serving as United Nations officials or experts on mission is established under their national laws. Section III provides a summary of the information received from Governments on the handling of credible allegations that reveal that a crime may have been committed by United Nations officials or experts on mission by States against whose nationals such allegations are made, and matters relating thereto. Section IV provides a summary of the information on cooperation among States and with the United Nations in the exchange of information and the facilitation of investigations and prosecutions of such individuals, as well as the protection of victims and witnesses in this process. Section V contains a summary of information on vetting by Member States contributing personnel to the United Nations. Section VI provides a summary of the comments received from Governments on the report of the Group of Legal Experts on ensuring the accountability of United Nations staff and experts on mission with respect to criminal acts committed in peacekeeping operations (A/60/980), including on the question of future action. Sections VII and VIII relate to information on activities within the Secretariat.

* A/78/150.

I. Introduction

1. The present report has been prepared pursuant to General Assembly resolution 77/98, in which the Assembly requested the Secretary-General to report on the implementation of the resolution, in particular with respect to paragraphs 10, 12, 13, 15, 18, 20 and 30 thereof, as well as any practical problems in its implementation, on the basis of information received from Governments and the Secretariat. The present report contains summaries of the information received. The full texts of the information received from Governments will be made available on the website of the Sixth Committee (www.un.org/en/ga/sixth/).
2. Information was received from the following States: Bahrain, Malaysia, Oman and United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland.
3. Section II concerns information received relating to the criminal accountability of United Nations officials and experts on mission, pursuant to paragraph 10 of resolution 77/98. Section III concerns information received pursuant to paragraphs 18 to 20 of the resolution, while section IV covers information received under paragraph 12. Section V provides information relating to paragraph 13 of the resolution and section VI relates to information regarding paragraph 15.
4. Sections VII and VIII relate to activities undertaken within the Secretariat in the implementation of paragraphs 6, 13, 14, 18 to 24 and 32 of the resolution.
5. The present report should be read together with previous reports of the Secretary-General under the item on criminal accountability of United Nations officials and experts on mission.¹ As noted in previous reports of the Secretary General, the report, coupled with the work of the Sixth Committee, is but one aspect of the work of the Organization to address issues of accountability within the United Nations. Different reporting mechanisms apply with respect to questions of accountability within the Organization which might bear on questions of criminal accountability of United Nations officials and experts on mission. As noted in previous reports (see, for example, A/77/225), other reports prepared pursuant to other mandates may be relevant to the present item.²

II. Establishment of jurisdiction over crimes of a serious nature

Bahrain

6. Bahrain reported that legislative measures relating to the criminal jurisdiction of its courts had been taken in accordance with Decree-Law No. 15 (1975), as amended. Articles 5 to 9 thereof specified the territorial jurisdiction of the courts of Bahrain, as follows:

Article 5

The provisions of this Law shall apply to all offences committed in the State of Bahrain. An offence shall be deemed to have been committed within its jurisdiction if one of the constituent acts thereof takes place therein or if the effects thereof are realized or intended to be realized therein. In all cases, the Law shall apply to any person who participated in the offence, even if such participation took place abroad and regardless of whether said person was a perpetrator or an accomplice.

² See, for instance, A/77/606, A/77/692 and A/77/748.

Article 6

The provisions of this Law shall apply to any citizen or foreigner who commits an act outside the State of Bahrain that renders said person a perpetrator of or accomplice to a felony affecting the external or internal security of the State, as set out in chapters 1 and 2 of part 1 of section 2, or the felonies of forging public seals and signs or counterfeiting currency and banknotes, as stipulated in articles 257, 262 and 263.

Article 7

This Law shall apply to crimes committed abroad by employees of the State or public servants in the course of or as a result of the performance of their duties.

Article 8

Any citizen who, while abroad, commits an act that renders such citizen a perpetrator of or accomplice to an offence under this Law shall be punished in accordance with its provisions if present in the State of Bahrain and if the act is punishable under the law of the country in which it occurred. This provision shall apply even if a citizen acquires or loses citizenship after the commission of the offence.

7. Bahrain also noted that Decree-Law No. 44 (2017) on international crimes had recently been issued.

Malaysia

8. Malaysia recalled its Armed Forces Act 1972 (see A/75/217 and A/77/225) and reported that Malaysian Armed Forces personnel deployed on United Nations missions could be subjected to criminal proceedings under the jurisdiction of Malaysia pursuant to its Armed Forces Act 1972, its Penal Code or any relevant laws in force. In the event of non-existence of any specific sections dealing with the crime committed, the individual(s) in question could alternatively be charged under section 87 of the Armed Forces Act 1972 and be tried by court martial.

Oman

9. Oman reported that its law provided for jurisdiction over its citizens serving as United Nations officials or experts on mission. Article 18 of its Penal Law promulgated by Royal Decree No. 7/2018 stipulated that:

The provisions of the Law shall apply to every Omani citizen who commits outside Oman an act that is considered a felony or a misdemeanour in accordance with the Law, if such person returns to Oman, and the act is punishable in the State in which the crime was committed by imprisonment for a period of no less than a year, even if such person loses or obtains Omani citizenship after such person committed the crime, unless it is proven that such person was tried abroad, and found innocent or guilty, and served the sentence or the sentence was nullified or the proceedings have expired.

III. Handling of credible allegations that reveal that a crime may have been committed by United Nations officials or experts on mission by States against whose nationals such allegations are made, and matters relating thereto

10. Malaysia reported that any official information obtained from the Secretary-General of the United Nations would be provided to the Malaysian Armed Forces authorities in order for them to verify the authenticity and credibility of such allegations. Findings or results of the investigation would be brought to the attention of the relevant authorities for appropriate action. Any such results, findings or actions taken against the wrongdoer, may be disclosed to the Secretary-General.

11. Malaysia further indicated that, in the event of criminal proceedings, a proper internal investigation would be conducted, and a board of inquiry would be established by the Malaysian Armed Forces authorities in response to the allegations or report of misconduct.

IV. Cooperation between States and with the United Nations in the exchange of information and the facilitation of investigations and prosecutions, and protection of victims and witnesses in this process

United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland

12. The United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland reported that it continued to conduct a sexual and gender-based violence investigations course for police deploying to United Nations and African Union peacekeeping missions (see A/77/225). The course focused on trauma-informed, victim-centred investigation, delivering specialist knowledge and skills for dealing with complex and traumatic investigations, enabling police officers to support the most vulnerable victims and bring more perpetrators to justice. Such training was held in Ghana, Sierra Leone and Zambia, with the support of the United Kingdom, and training in Liberia was planned for early 2024.

13. The United Kingdom recalled information previously provided relating to its Domestic Abuse Act 2021 and the assistance it had provided in developing similar legal measures (see A/76/208 and A/77/225). It also reported that its Ministry of Defence had introduced a new policy in 2022 to direct efforts to prevent and address sexual exploitation or abuse by service personnel and civilian employees conducting defence activities. The assistance and redress available to victims was outlined in the policy, which included a prohibition on transactional sex at all times when conducting defence activity outside the United Kingdom.

V. Vetting by Member States contributing personnel to the United Nations

United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland

14. The United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland reiterated information previously provided relating to Project Soteria (see A/77/225) and reported that the project had been operational since 2022. It added that Project Soteria would create a framework for global collaboration across all countries.

VI. Report of the Group of Legal Experts, including on the question of future action

Oman

15. With reference to the obligation of United Nations officials and experts on mission to respect the national law of the host country and the right of the host country to exercise its criminal jurisdiction in accordance with the relevant rules of international law and the agreements governing the operations of United Nations missions, Oman indicated its support for the right of the host country to exercise its jurisdiction, in particular over serious crimes, and to work in coordination with the country of nationality to try the official or expert in question upon his or her return to that country.

Malaysia

16. Malaysia (see also A/75/217) stated that it remained committed to working together with other Member States on the issue and to explore appropriate mechanisms for addressing the criminal accountability of United Nations officials and experts on mission. It recalled that many issues had previously been raised regarding the practical aspects of establishing extraterritorial criminal jurisdiction and obtaining evidence of such crimes when committed in receiving States. Concerns had also been raised about the information- and evidence-sharing mechanisms required if the investigations are conducted by the United Nations. Malaysia was further of the view that such practical and operational issues merit in-depth consideration.

VII. Bringing credible allegations that reveal that a crime may have been committed by United Nations officials or experts on mission to the attention of the States against whose nationals such allegations are made, and matters relating thereto

17. In paragraphs 18 to 24 and 28 to 32 of resolution 77/98, the General Assembly urged Member States to provide information to the Secretary-General, requested the Secretary-General to provide certain information to the Assembly and requested the United Nations to take certain measures concerning the issue of the criminal accountability of officials and experts on mission.

Criminal conduct of personnel deployed on field missions

18. The Secretary-General continues to refer credible allegations of criminal conduct by United Nations officials and experts on mission to the respective States of nationality of those individuals, as mandated by the General Assembly and reiterated most recently in paragraph 18 of its resolution 77/98. In addition, and in accordance with guidance issued in 2018, field missions continue to be expected to cooperate with host States in investigations and prosecutions that may be initiated by host States in such instances. For military contingent personnel deployed in United Nations field missions and immune from prosecution in host States, the Secretariat continues to follow up with troop-contributing countries on accountability measures taken for substantiated allegations of misconduct, which are expected to include criminal prosecutions when such misconduct amounts to criminal conduct.

19. During the reporting period, the Office of Legal Affairs referred two cases of credible allegations of criminal conduct involving field personnel to the States of nationality of the individuals concerned (see annex I to the present report).

Referrals in relation to officials or experts on mission during the period from 1 July 2022 to 30 June 2023

20. The request in paragraph 18 of resolution 77/98 is similar to those made by the General Assembly in paragraph 18 of resolutions 76/106 (see A/77/225 covering the 2021/22 period), 75/132 (see A/76/208 covering the 2020/21 period), 74/181 (see A/75/217 covering the 2019/20 period), 73/196 (see A/74/145 covering the 2018/19 period) and 72/112 (see A/73/129 covering the 2017/18 period), paragraph 17 of resolution 71/134 (see A/72/205 covering the 2016/17 period), paragraph 15 of resolution 70/114 (see A/71/167, covering the 2015/16 period), and paragraph 9 of resolutions 69/114 (see A/70/208, covering the 2014/15 period), 68/105 (see A/69/210, covering the 2013/14 period), 67/88 (see A/68/173, covering the 2012/13 period), 66/93 (see A/67/213, covering the 2011/12 period), 65/20 (see A/66/174, covering the 2010/11 period), 64/110 (see A/65/185, covering the 2009/10 period), 63/119 (see A/64/183, covering the 2008/09 period) and 62/63 (see A/63/260, covering the 2007/08 period).

21. During the period from 1 July 2022 to 30 June 2023, the Office of Legal Affairs referred to States of nationality, through the permanent missions concerned, 11 cases involving 11 United Nations officials and experts on mission for investigation and possible prosecution. Of those cases, 1 concerned allegations of corruption and fraud; 5 concerned allegations of fraud; 3 concerned allegations of entitlement fraud; and 2 concerned allegations of sexual assault and harassment. Additional details regarding those cases, as requested in paragraph 32 of resolution 77/98, are contained in annex I to the present report.

Updates from States on the status of their efforts to investigate and, as appropriate, prosecute cases, as well as assistance requested from the Secretariat

22. In accordance with paragraph 20 of resolution 77/98, the Secretariat requested the States to which cases were referred to keep the United Nations informed of any action taken by national authorities in relation to such cases, and followed up on cases for which it did not receive a response from the Member State concerned. As of the date of preparation of the present report, the Secretariat has been informed in one case of action taken in relation to referrals made during the reporting period. Annex I also reflects the responses received from States during the reporting period in relation to referrals made in previous reporting periods.

Information on the nature of the allegations and information received from States on all referrals since 1 July 2007

23. Annex I to the present report contains information on referrals of credible allegations to States of nationality pursuant to resolution 62/63 and subsequent resolutions on the criminal accountability of United Nations officials and experts on mission. It also contains information and updates received from States in response to such referrals since 1 July 2007, and specific categories of information relating to the credible allegations referred. In addition, annex I contains the dates of follow-up requests sent by the Secretariat to such States, as requested by the General Assembly in paragraph 32 of resolution 77/98.

Notifications received from States with respect to investigations or prosecutions of crimes allegedly committed by United Nations officials or experts on mission

24. In paragraph 19 of resolution 77/98, the General Assembly requested the Secretary-General to seek, from all States that had notified the United Nations with respect to investigations or prosecutions of crimes allegedly committed by United Nations officials or experts on mission, updates on the status of their investigations or prosecutions, provided that such updates would not prejudice national investigations or national proceedings. In accordance with paragraphs 19 and 32 of resolution 77/98, annex II to the present report provides information on investigations or prosecutions concerning United Nations officials or experts on mission of which the Organization was notified during the reporting period, and as to which the State concerned did not object to their inclusion in the present report.

Possible use by States exercising jurisdiction of information from United Nations investigations

25. In paragraph 22 of resolution 77/98, the General Assembly requested the United Nations, when its investigations into allegations suggested that crimes of a serious nature may have been committed by United Nations officials or experts on mission, to consider any appropriate measures that may facilitate the possible use of information and material for purposes of criminal proceedings initiated by States, bearing in mind due process considerations. In the same vein, in paragraph 24 of resolution 77/98, the Assembly urged the United Nations to continue to cooperate with States exercising jurisdiction in order to provide them, within the framework of the relevant rules of international law and agreements governing activities of the United Nations, with information and material for purposes of criminal proceedings initiated by States.

26. In that regard, it is important to recall that the legal framework within which the referrals are made by the United Nations and the role of the Secretary-General have been outlined in a previous report of the Secretary-General on criminal accountability of United Nations officials and experts on mission (see A/63/260, sect. IV).

27. The United Nations cooperates with law enforcement and judicial authorities of relevant Member States in accordance with its rights and obligations under the Charter of the United Nations and the Convention on the Privileges and Immunities of the United Nations, adopted by the General Assembly on 13 February 1946, as well as other relevant international agreements and applicable legal principles. Accordingly, the Organization will disclose documents and/or information and waive immunity on a case-by-case basis where, in the opinion of the Secretary-General, immunity would impede the course of justice and can be waived without prejudice to the interests of the United Nations. Consequently, information obtained by the United Nations may be provided to the relevant authorities and documents may be shared, subject to considerations of confidentiality and privileges and immunities. Documents may be redacted where necessary. It should be noted that, since the United Nations does not have any criminal investigative or prosecutorial jurisdiction, the use of any documents of information provided by the United Nations, including their admissibility in any legal proceedings, is a matter for determination by the relevant judicial authorities to whom such documents or information have been provided.

Protection of United Nations officials and experts on mission from retaliation

28. For information responding to paragraphs 23 and 25 of resolution 77/98, the situation remains the same as reported in previous reports of the Secretary-General (see, for example, A/70/208, paras. 34–35). In addition, a revised Secretary-General's bulletin on protection against retaliation for reporting misconduct and for cooperating with duly authorized audits or investigations (ST/SGB/2017/2/Rev.1) was issued on 28 November 2017.

VIII. Practical measures to strengthen existing predeployment training and vetting measures

29. In accordance with the Charter of the United Nations, the Secretary-General continues to demand that all United Nations personnel, including uniformed personnel deployed in peacekeeping and special political missions, maintain the highest standards of integrity. To that effect, the Secretariat continues to ensure that staff members joining the United Nations and police and military personnel being deployed in field missions are made fully aware of the requirement to abide by the United Nations standards of conduct, including the obligation to respect the law of the host country. Through training, including mandatory training on specific conduct-related aspects, and awareness-raising activities, such as the annual Leadership Dialogue, staff members are informed about the United Nations standards of conduct, the obligation to report misconduct and how to do so, as well as about protection from retaliation associated with such reporting. The same topics are also covered during the predeployment training of police and military personnel by contributing countries. During the reporting period, a revised mandatory e-learning course on sexual exploitation and abuse was launched. The revised course is offered in all six official languages of the United Nations and is available in three versions: for all United Nations personnel; for all uniformed personnel with supervisory or command responsibilities; and for all civilian personnel with supervisory or managerial responsibilities. Furthermore, a reinforcement training package was developed, as part of the learning programme entitled “Pipeline to peacekeeping command”, and is now being finalized after initial piloting. The course provides military and police commanders with the desired attitudes, knowledge and skills to prevent all forms of misconduct, including sexual exploitation and abuse, report allegations of misconduct and cooperate effectively with investigations. It provides for deeper consideration of the roles and responsibilities of those in command under the framework for accountability in preventing and addressing misconduct. Field missions also continue to deliver induction training to arriving civilian, police and military personnel, as well as refresher training, and otherwise to raise the awareness of personnel, through various communication methods, about the United Nations standards of conduct.

30. To ensure the highest standards of integrity, it is essential to start with selecting who joins or who remains at the United Nations. In this respect, the Secretariat requires external applicants for staff member positions to provide information, in their application, on any criminal record, while current staff members are required to inform the Organization when convicted of a criminal offence. Failure to comply with these requirements may result in termination. For uniformed personnel, the United Nations continues to request that Member States providing personnel for field missions certify that such personnel have no criminal record or record of misconduct. Upon being selected for a position or for deployment with the United Nations, both staff members and uniformed personnel are vetted against the Organization’s own records for instances of misconduct during prior assignments with the United Nations. All personnel, whether civilian, military or police, are subject to this vetting, following technical enhancements that have been completed to expand the capabilities to conduct this vetting for all personnel across the Secretariat. For staff member positions, verifications are also made against records of substantiated allegations of sexual exploitation and abuse, as well as sexual harassment, that have been entered in the ClearCheck database, which includes records shared by other participating United Nations entities. These vetting processes form part of the preventive aspect of managing risks of misconduct, in field missions and across the Secretariat.
