FIFTH COMMITTEE
Agenda item 123

PROPOSED PROGRAMME BUDGET FOR THE BIENNIUM 1994-1995

Revised estimates under section 3. Political Affairs subsection 3B. Department of Political Affairs I

Report of the Secretary-General

1. In section 3B of the proposed programme budget for the biennium 1994-1995, 1/ additional provision has been proposed, inter alia, for the servicing of subsidiary bodies established under Security Council resolutions 421 (1977), 661 (1990), 724 (1991), 748 (1992) and 751 (1992), adopted under Chapter VII of the Charter of the United Nations, by the Security Council and the mandatory sanctions pertaining thereto. Mandatory sanctions are measures under Chapter VII of the Charter decided upon by the Security Council on the basis of a determination by that organ that circumstances are such that those measures are warranted for the maintenance of international peace and security. The related additional requirements for substantive services of the Security Council sanctions committees under subsection 3B, Department of Political Affairs I, of section 3, Political Affairs, of the proposed programme budget for 1994-1995 include provision for the continuation in 1994-1995 of the current structure of the Subsidiary Organs Secretariat Services Branch and provision for the establishment of additional posts (1 P-5, 1 P-3, 1 General Service/Principal level and 2 General Service/Other level) in the area of substantive servicing of the Security Council sanctions committees for the biennium 1994-1995.

2. It should be noted, however, that since the time that the relevant budget proposals for the next biennium were formulated, the Security Council has taken further decisions, some of which have significantly affected the work of the sanctions committees and the substantive support that they require. Since April 1993, two new sanctions committees have been established by the Security Council acting under Chapter VII of the Charter, in respect of Haiti (resolution 841 (1993)) and in respect of Angola (resolution 864 (1993)). The Security Council has also increased, since April 1993, the scope of the existing sanctions against the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia (Serbia and Montenegro), as well as the procedures for their implementation (resolution 820 (1993) and the new consolidated guidelines of the Committee established by resolution 724 (1991)). On 11 November 1993, the Security Council also increased the scope of the sanctions against the Libyan Arab Jamahiriya. That increase will similarly require additional services to be provided by the secretariat for the Committee established by resolution 748 (1992). With the breakdown of the United Nations-sponsored programme for the restoration of democracy in Haiti, the sanctions against Haiti could be further tightened by the Security Council. Also in order to speed up the issuance of letters of acknowledgement and authorization for goods destined for, or in transit through, the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia (Serbia and Montenegro), the Committee established by resolution 724 (1991) has recently decided to entrust to the Committee's secretariat the task of examining, analysing and deciding on the merits of all such notifications and requests, and preparing letters for the Committee Chairman's signature. This task will involve an additional burden on the secretariat to undertake and complete an assignment that had hitherto been performed by the committee members themselves. The annex to the present report contains statistics on the number of meetings of the sanctions committees and documentation processed by the Subsidiary Organs Secretariat Services Branch of the Department of Political Affairs.

3. While the statistics show an increasing trend in the number of meetings - doubled during the 1992-1993 biennium - they do not reveal the numerous informal consultations, group or caucus meetings or bilateral meetings by the Chairmen, all of which must be attended by the respective secretariat members for preparing substantive analytical reports and the implementation of the decisions thereon. In that connection, the secretariat members are often assigned to participate in international meetings on the implementation of sanctions on behalf of the Committees and they have to prepare and submit reports to the Committees afterwards.

4. In view of this increase in the tasks to be performed, far beyond the level anticipated at the time of the preparation of the proposed programme budget for the biennium 1994-1995, it is estimated that it will be necessary to strengthen, at least temporarily, the secretariat most concerned. Estimated additional requirements of $419,000 would arise in this connection in 1994 under section 3B of the proposed programme budget for the biennium 1994-1995 as follows:

(Thousands of dollars)

Salary and common staff costs: one temporary
P-5 and one temporary P-4 post and four temporary General Service (Other level) posts	419.0

In addition, it is estimated that an amount of $114,400 would be required under section 28 (Staff assessment) to be offset by the same amount under Income section 1 (Income from staff assessment). Requirements relating to substantive services for the Security Council sanctions committees in 1995 will be reviewed during 1994 in the light of the evolving workload and, if necessary, a further report would be submitted for consideration by the General Assembly at its forty-ninth session.

Contingency fund

5. It will be recalled that, under the procedure established by the General Assembly in its resolution 41/213 of 19 December 1986, additional expenditures proposed over and above those in the programme budget should be accommodated within a contingency fund established at 0.75 per cent of the preliminary estimate of resources for the biennium 1994-1995, recosted at 1994-1995 rates (General Assembly resolution 47/213). Paragraph 11 of annex I to resolution 41/213, however, provides, inter alia, that revised estimates:

"arising from the impact of extraordinary expenses, including those relating to the maintenance of peace and security, as well as fluctuations in rates of exchange and inflation, shall not be covered by the contingency fund and shall continue to be treated in accordance with established procedures and under the relevant provisions of the Financial Regulations and Rules."

6. In the Secretary-General's view, implementation of the Security Council resolutions on sanctions relates to the maintenance of peace and security. Accordingly, it is also his view that the related requirements of $419,000 that would arise are of an extraordinary nature, relating to the maintenance of peace and security, and should be treated outside the procedures related to the contingency fund.

Summary

7. It is estimated that an additional appropriation of $419,000 would be required under section 3B of the proposed programme budget for the biennium 1994-1995 for the servicing in 1994 of the sanctions committees established by the Security Council. Furthermore an amount of $114,400 would be required under section 28 (Staff assessment) to be offset by the same amount under Income section 1 (Income from staff assessment).

8. The Secretary-General believes that these requirements should be dealt with under the provisions of paragraph 11 of annex I to General Assembly resolution 41/213 and should thus be treated outside the procedures related to the contingency fund.
